Beyond Doubt Murderer "Almy" Is the Ex-Convict.

THE MISCREANT'S MIDNIGHT VISIT

To the Home of Professor Pattee, Where He Had Expected to Find Miss Warden-He Exacted a Pledge of Secrecy at the Point of a Revolver.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 21.-Frank C. Almy, who murdered the young woman, Christie Warden, some time ago, was yesterday discovered in Mr. Warden's barn.

Charles F. Stewart, a student at the state college, lo-and fired at least FRANK C. ALMY. fifteen shots at the searchers, driving them from the barn. Azio Turner, of Norwich, Vt., was slightly wounded by one of the shots.

Almy then wanted a conference, and Jonn Fuller and ex-Sheriff Bridgman went up in the hay loft. The fugtive agreed to surrender if guaranteed a fair trial, but when the pledge was given he refused to come out. Then officers at-tacked the barn with Winchester's, Almy returning the fire from his revolver. Finally, by a flank movement, he was overpowered and disarmed. It needed the combined efforts of a body of armed officers to protect him from the fury of the mob. In the fusiliade the miscreant was shot twice, and his leg is broken.

The murderer acknowledged the killing, but at his preliminary hearing this morning pleaded not guilty. He has been concealed in the barn of Mr. Almy, his victim's father, ever since the murder on the night of July 17.

HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 24.-Frank C. Almy is George H. Abbott, the Vermont highwayman, who is wanted for an unfinished term of fifteen years in the Vermont state prison and who escaped about six years ago. Warden Oakes and two superintendents from Windsor have just identified him positively as the man sentenced.

More Fully Identified. HANOVER, N. H., Aug. 25.-The iden-tity of Almy as George H. Abbott has been satisfactorily and finally establisbed. The position in which the murderer's broken leg has forced him to lie has prevented an examination of his back for the scare of buckshot wounds received in the battle with the officers the Thetford mountain in 1880. While his cot was being freshened up he was turned over so far on his side as to reveal his back, whereon were plainly revealed the unmistakable traces of gunshot wounds.

Soon afterward Mrs. Wiemot, the aunt of George H. Abbott, called to see the criminal and identified him as her nephew. Mr. Warden and his young also called upon him. They said "Good morning" to him, and he replied in kind. There was no further conver-

THE HISTORY OF A WEEK PENNSYLVANIA'S STORM

Echoes from the Path of the Heavy Rainfall.

READING, Pa., Aug. 25 .- During Sunday night's storm there were many usr-row escapes from lightning. Valentine row escapes from lightning. Valentine Grieb and Solomon Shear, watch men at the Reading Fertilizer company's works, were knocked down by a stroke of light-ning and lay stunned for several minutes. About midnight, while Superin-tendent Bouzano and other officials of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad were seated in the trainmaster's office there was a terrific clap of thunder. Lightning struck the building and knocked off a large piece of coping on the northeast corner of the office. Nearly every person in the office was affected by the shock.

The Bernhart valley, north of this city, and the Antietam valley, south of Mount Penn, was deluged. The water was half way up to the first stories of many houses, and the people fearing that the large storage reservoirs of this city, citated in these values would least situated in these valleys, would burst, abandoned their homes and fied to the high ground.

MOHRSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 25. - The Bowmanite Evangelical camp meeting near this place was wreeked by Sunday night's storm. Lightning struck a number of trees, and some of them in falling came dangerously near crushing upon tents. A regular stream of water rushed through the woods and carried away bedding and furniture. Tents were blown down and the people were thoroughly drenched. Those who were on their way to the Mohrsville station had a sorry time. Several thousand people were on the grounds. Bishops Bowman and Esher said they never exexperienced such a time at camp meet-SHILLINGTON, Pa., Aug. 25.—The race course of the Three Mile House at this place was washed out to the depth of three feet by the storm of Sunday night. The stables adjoining the track were flooded, and thirty-eight trotting horses kept there in training for fall races had to be removed to places of safety. Nearly 100 people returning from camp meet-ing had to remain here all night, as they could not cross the Wyomissing creek, which was twelve feet high. A number of farmers lost cows, hogs and other valuable live stock.

ROBESONIA, Pa., Aug. 25 .- The reservoir at the Robesonia furnace, which furnished that large industry, and also the village with water, broke Sunday night, owing to heavy rains. The flood caused great destruction. Gardens, fences and public roads were all washed out, and trees were uprooted in the course of the flood. Over 300 feet of Philadelphia and Reading tracks near the station were carried away. TREMONT, Pa., Aug. 25.-The Blackwood Coal breaker was struck by hight-ning and badly damaged. The Phila-delphia and Beading Coal and Iron com-pany's store was destroyed by fire. There was no other storm damage in the western end of Schuvlkill.

SHOEMAKESVILLE, Pa., Aug. 25, -Seve-ral breaks occurred in the Schuylkill canal caused by the heavy rain, and the low lands have been flooded for a dis-tance of some miles. Many farms were entirely submerged, and great damage was done to property.

Attacked a Little Girl.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 24.—Little Mary Stitzer, aged 7, who disappeared from Washington park, has returned home, and her story of her treatment has caused considerable excitement. She left the park to take a walk. She had left the park to take a walk. She had not gone far when a man, apparently 20 years old, drove up to her and asked her to take a ride. She accepted, and they drove off in the direction of the fair grounds. When he reached a lonely spot in the road she jumped from the buggy. He followed and assaulted her. He then drove off. The child was found and brought to her home where the is

The Parent of Insomnia

The parent of insomnia or wakefulness is in nine cases out ten a dyspeptic stomach. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion interferes with it. The brain and stomach sympathizes. One of the prominent symptoms of a weak state of the gastric organs is a dis-turbance of the great nerve entrepot, the brain. Invigorate the stomach and you re-store equilibrium to the great centre. A most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostet-ter's Stomach Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and powerful narcotics which, though they may for a time exert a soparific influence upon the brain. soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters, on the contrary, re-store activity to the operations of that all important organ, and their benificent influ-ence is reflected in sound sleep and a tranquil state to the nervous system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given to the action of the liver and boweis by its use. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion

One of Abbott's Exploits.

Miss Jeannette Thomas, a relative of Professor Pattee, whose connection with the Almy case has often been referred to, tells a story of a midnight visit re-ceived from the murderer July 15, two days before the murder of Christie Warden.

Warden. This night Miss Thomas slept in the room usually occupied by Christie War-den when she stayed at the house of Professor Pattee. She was aroused in her sleep by a noise in her room. She sat up and asked who was there. Her throat was instantly grasped by a hand, and a voice whispered: "Keep still; I'll not injure you." The intruder then asked if this was not Christie Warden's room and where Christie was. Miss Thomas told him Christie had left the house in the afternoon. He demanded to know Miss Thomas' identity, and then said to her: "I am the lover of Christie Warden. Her parents and sisters oppose my suit, and I cannot see her at her home." He then said to her: "Don't you mention this night's work to her or to anybody. You see how it is. If it were known that anybody had entered her chamber at night her reputation would be blasted forever. You would not want to have that occur, now would you?" he asked, with a sarcastic laugh.

Pledged Her to Secrecy.

He then pressed a pistol against her breast and made her take a solemn oath never to betray him. He then said he had been in the room before and asked if the door had been fastened. Miss Thomas knew by this time that he was lying, as the door has no fastening on it. He then forced an object into her on it. He then forced an object into her hand, which proved to be a 44-caliber revolver cartridge. He told her to guard it carefully, and let it always be a re-minder of her oath, for if she ever breathed a syllable of this affair he would kill her. The intruder then de-parted. Miss Thomas' story confirms a theory that had long obtained among those interested in the case, but which has been withheld from the public. Almy was wildly jealous of Professor Pattee, and of this jealousy most cruel and unjust suspicion was born, involv-

Pattee, and of this jealousy most cruel and unjust suspicion was born, involv-ing the Professor and Miss Warden. This undoubtedly accounts for the mid-night visit to Pattee's house, where the murderer hoped to find substantiation for his suspicion, and where he went armed with his two revolvers prepared to kill both suspected persons. The opinion is expressed by Governor Tuttle that Mrs. Warden, the mother of Christie Warden, is entitled to the $2,-500 reward offered by the governor in the name of the state for the murder-er's apprehension, she having given the information leading to his arrest.
