THE SAYWARD CASE
Arguments Regarding a Behring
Sea Seizure.

GOVERNMENTS BEFORE THE COURT.
A Case Where the Supreme Court of the United States Decided Against Our Government on the Question of Jurisdiction—To Be Concluded This Afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Interest in the Sayward, or Behring sea case, involving important points in the controversy between the United States and Great Britain concerning the right of jurisdiction in Behring sea, brought an unusual number of people to the chamber of the Federal supreme court to hear the arguments of the contending parties. Ex-Secretary Bayard and ex-Senator Edmunds sat within the bar, and gave close attention to what was said. A number of other distinguished lawyers were present, and every member of the court was in his seat. Attorney General Miller and Solicitor General Taft represented the United States, while Calderon Carlisle, of Washington, and Joseph H. Choate, of New York, appeared for the British government. The case in controversy is that of the schooner W. P. Sayward, a Canadian vessel seized by the United States in Behring sea for illegal sealing, supposedly fifty-nine miles from any shore.

The Sayward was libeled by the United States district court of Alaska for taking seal in violation of the statutes of the United States, and the case was carried to the supreme court upon a motion for a writ of prohibition against the Alaska court upon the grounds that the vessel was seized outside the jurisdiction of the United States over the waters of Behring sea. The government, when the case was called before the supreme court, denied the jurisdiction of the court to consider the application for a writ of prohibition, but the court held adversely. Briefs were filed by both parties, and the case came up for argument yesterday afternoon on its merits.

The Question of Jurisdiction.
Mr. Carlisle opened the case for the British government. He occupied just an hour. No decision of the court could, he said, interfere with the independence of congress. The court could, without expressing any opinion on the question of protecting seals, render a decision on the question of a fifty-nine mile limit. He claimed that an Alaska judge before he signed his decree in the case, placed upon evidence an opinion that warranted him in dismissing it. Mr. Carlisle contended that in the exercise of power conferred on the supreme court to issue writs of prohibition the court was directed to revise the position of the court below. The supreme court, he said, was a superior court calling to account an inferior court that had exceeded its authority. He made further argument that the United States supreme court had jurisdiction over all other courts. The supreme court, he said, could go deeper into the case than merely acting on the face of the papers presented to it, certifying the decision of the Alaska court. The court must not ignore the facts; it must not simply examine the records, and he quoted an opinion in support of this contention. He believed, he said, that the case depended upon the decision of a question of law as to whether the revised statutes forbade the killing of seal.

The limits of marine territory in Behring sea were not fixed, he said, by the Russian treaty, but by the law of nations, and it was an absolute provision of that law that this jurisdiction could not be changed except by a concurrence of nations. The attorney general had lost sight of a most important fact in the case. He claimed that the question was a political one, and did not involve international law. A question that involved the liberty and property of foreign people could never be a political question.

Mr. Taft's Argument.
Solicitor General Taft followed for the United States. He alleged that the seizure was made in the waters of Alaska, and in that portion of Behring sea belonging to the United States. The other side denied this, but the statute of March 3, 1889, settled that the United States had jurisdiction. Mr. Taft devoted considerable attention to the words, "face of the proceedings," contending that if there was want of jurisdiction by the Alaska court, a statement of it did not appear on the face of the proceedings, and the court was not called on to decide except on them. He cited decisions of English courts to prove that unless the point at issue was stated on the face of the proceedings prohibition could not issue, and he insisted that the Alaska court findings were conclusive. It could not be proven, he said, that the Sayward, when seized, was not within the three league limit. The government, he said, did not deny that the jurisdiction of the district court of Alaska and the venue of the offense were judicial questions, but it maintained that the question at issue was a political one. This afternoon Mr. Choate will close the argument for the British government and Attorney General Miller will close for the United States.

DEATH IN A MINE.
Twelve Killed and Several Injured by an Explosion of Gas.
NANTICOKE, Pa., Nov. 9.—A terrible explosion of gas occurred yesterday afternoon in No. 1 shaft of the Susquehanna Coal company's mine, causing the instant death of eight men and so badly burning and injuring four others that they have since died of their injuries. The killed are:
Town Clerk Henry R. Jones, fire boss, aged 32, married, two children. John Arnold, fire boss, 37, married, three children. William Jonathan, fire boss, 35, married, three children. Krabosky, laborer, 27, married, three children. Thomas Lloyd, runner, 25, single. David A. Smith, miner, 29, wife dead, one child. Thomas Powell, laborer, 55, married. Cash Gething, mason, 50, married, six children. William J. Williams, Jr., mason, 49, married, three children. Thomas Williams, Jr., Thomas R. Thomas, Edward D. Williams.

The accident was caused by the explosion of a safety lamp, the flames of which ignited a quantity of gas which had formed in the shaft. This exploded with fearful force, as shown by the mangled condition of the dead and injured. Little stock is taken in the injury that a lamp exploded the gas. The gas was undoubtedly ignited by a naked lamp in the hands of some one of the men. The damage to the mine will reach $20,000.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY'S VICTORY.
His Candidate Wins the Contest for Parnell's Seat.

CORK, Nov. 9.—Mr. Martin Flavin, the McCarthyite candidate for the seat in parliament for Cork city left vacant by the death of Parnell, has been elected by a plurality of 1,512 votes over the Parnellite candidate, Mr. John E. Redmond.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

The result of the count is as follows: Flavin (McCarthyite), 3,669; Redmond (Parnellite), 2,157; Sarsfield (Unionist), 1161. The defeat, say the Parnellites, will not prevent them from hanging together until the general election. The election was for a successor in parliament to the late Charles Stewart Parnell, who represented Cork city in the house of commons. Now that the McCarthyites have won it is claimed that there will be a union in the parliamentary forces before the general elections, with Justin McCarthy as the acknowledged leader of all factions.

The priests took a most active part in the canvass. They made a house to house canvass of the voters, following immediately after the Parnellite canvassers, and it is claimed, threatening the voters with all sorts of horrible things if they voted for Mr. Redmond or failed to vote for Mr. Flavin. Many priests were stationed about the booths, mingling with the voters and giving their final instructions or admonitions, or making final appeals before they entered the polling places.

DEATH BY FLAME.
Cincinnati and Denver Report Fatal
Conflagrations.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—A fire broke out yesterday in Oscar Okens' picture frame manufactory at 134 West Second street. During the progress of the fire a ladder put up by the firemen fell and instantly killed Fireman Bocklage. Edward Anderson, of the same company, was fatally injured. Joseph Conway and Beebe, of the same company, were slightly injured, as was also Captain Hurley, of another company.

The fire was caused by an explosion of fine varnish in the cellar. William Mayors, who was at work in the cellar, was fearfully burned, and was imprisoned there until the flames were subdued so that he could be brought out. He then appeared to be a raving maniac. His hair was burned off, and the whole scalp had the appearance of being burned to a crisp. He was taken to the hospital, where his injuries were pronounced not fatal.

There were eight men on the ladder when it fell. The break was caused by the yielding of the cornice upon which the top of it rested. Lieutenant William Bocklage and Pipeman Edward Anderson, who were hurt by the falling ladder, each had a fracture of the skull, and both were dead shortly after reaching the hospital.

Alfred Doherty, hurt on arms and neck by falling cornice. Captain Hurley and William Dewese were injured, but not dangerously.
DENVER, Nov. 10.—The Mansion livery stables, Eighteenth and Lawrence streets, were almost completely destroyed by fire. Four men, probably five, rooming in the upper portion of the building were suffocated, and between twenty and thirty horses met death in the same way. There were several narrow escapes, as a portion of the building over the stables is occupied by roomers. When the police and firemen first arrived a number of roomers were hanging out of the windows, having been almost suffocated by the volumes of smoke inside. The dead are: Thomas Bowen, single, 22 years old, home in Peoria, Ill.; George Richards, single, 26 years old, home at Lincoln, Neb.; Otto Helbin, of St. Louis, and David Elmore.

Wales' Gold Cigar Box.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Yesterday was the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of his royal highness, the Prince of Wales. The occasion was celebrated in a quiet way at Sandrinham, in Norfolk. A large number of congratulatory messages and many expensive gifts were received by the prince. Among the gifts was a gold cigar box from the dramatic profession. The present is a superb specimen of the goldsmith's art. It weighs 100 ounces, and the full value of the metal alone is very great. The top of the box is surmounted by three ostrich feathers forming the coat of arms of the Prince of Wales, set with diamonds.

Secretary Sutton's Address.
LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 10.—Secretary Sutton, of the Irish National League, issues an address urging the friends of Ireland to more thorough organization for the purpose of aiding the suffering peasantry in their struggle for right. The address says: "We believe in the manhood of Ireland, and to it we appeal to force these parliamentarians to stop their quarrels or make way for other Irishmen to whom the interests of their country are of greater moment than personal ambition or personal animosities."

Chicago Wants the Convention.
CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A meeting of prominent Republicans was held at the Grand Pacific and a resolution unanimously adopted urging the Republicans of Chicago to use all reasonable efforts to secure the next Republican convention for this city. The local Democrats have not discussed the location for the national Democratic convention yet, but it is understood that the effort will be made soon to have the convention held here.

Death in His Own Trap.
BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Nov. 10.—A hunter and trapper named David Allen, residing in the Magenta Van District, started out to examine his trap about a month ago and never returned. Yesterday his body was found in a bear trap. The trap had closed upon his wrists and he had slowly starved to death.

Judge Allen, of Winona, Minn., rendered his decision in the case of the State vs. Susie B. Jones, the school teacher charged with assault on one of her pupils, Willie Fort, in the form of corporal punishment inflicted with a ruler. Judge Allen found Miss Jones not guilty. The corporal punishment was inflicted for a disobedience of reasonable orders, and no undue force or violence being used in its infliction the punishment was declared lawful. The case is interesting on account of its being the first of the kind ever tried in that state.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.
With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural or mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria, and those directly lavish in her gifts and abundant crops make the heart of the husbandman glad. With the advent of fall it will be well for all to take proper safeguards against disease. A pure stimulant, it tones up the enfeebled system. For this purpose use Klein's world-famed "Silver Age" or "Duquesne" rye. Both are warranted absolutely pure. They sell respectively at $1.50 and $1.25 per full quart. Major Klein also sells six-year-old Guckenheimer, Gibson, Overholt, Finch, and Bear Creek at $1 per quart, or six quarts for $5. Goods shipped anywhere. Send for catalogue, mentioning this paper, to Max Klein, 82 Federal St., Allegheny City, Pa.

Fall of the Leaf.
The bright, green foliage of summer which is now variegated with golden tints, and leafless trees will soon presage the coming of winter's chilly blasts. Nature has been more than usually lavish in her gifts and abundant crops make the heart of the husbandman glad. ESTRAY.
Came to the subscriber, in Curtin twp., on or about the first of September, a black and white spotted steer supposed to be about two years old. The owner is requested to come and prove property, pay charges and take it away or it will be disposed of according to law. (Nov. 13.) WM. C. MILLER.
