THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUN DAY SERMON

Subject: "Sinking to the Level of Brutes."

TEXT: "All this came upon the King buchadnezzur."—Daniel iv., 28.

Colonel Rawlinson, the oriental traveler, says that the exhumed bricks, not only of Babylon, but of a hundred towns in an area Babylon, but of a hundred towns in an area of one hundred miles in length and thirty in breadth, are inscribed with the name of Nebuchadnezzar. He was a great warrior and at the glance of his sword nations prostrated themselves. He was a great king and built a city reservoir ninety miles in circumference and one hundred and twenty fact does not constructed a baryer metal of the said constructed a baryer miles in circumference. feet deep, and constructed a hanging garden four hundred feet square and seventy-five feet high, some say to please Amuhia, his wife, who had been born among the hills, and others say to get a pleasure ground free from the mosquitoes, which afflict the levels.

I think from his character the latter reason may have impelled him as much as the former. When he conquered King Zed-ekiah, so as to have no more trouble with him, he put his eyes out—a most barbarous way of incapacitating an enemy. But Babylon was a great place, the houses surrounded by gardens and the housetops were connected with each other by bridges, and one day Nebuchadnezzar walked out on those suspension bridges and showed, perhaps to a royal visitor, the vastness of his realm as the sun kindies the domes with glistenings almost insufferable and the great streats thunder up their pomp into the ear of the monarch, and armed towers stand around adorned with spoils of conquered empires. adorned with spoils of conquered empires.

stupendous scene and exclaims, "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power and for the honor of my majesty?" In other words: "What a great man I am. Babylon was not anything until I adorned to See those garit. See those water works; see those gardens; see those forts. I did all this. I shall never be forgotten. Why, my name is on every brick in all those walls. Just look at me. I am more than a man."

every brick in all those walls. Just look at me. I am more than a man."

But in an instant all that splendor is gone from his vision, for a voice falls from heaven, saying, "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken: the kingdom is departed from thee, and they shall drive thee from men and toy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the falls. of the fields; they shall make thee to eat grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men and giveth it to whomsoever He will."

One hour from the time he had made the boast he is on his way to the fields boast he is on his way to the fields a maniac, and rushing into the forests he becomes as one of the beasts, and is after awhile covered with eagles' feathers for protection from the cold, and his nails grow to look like birds' claws, in order that he may dig the earth for roots and climb the trees for nuts.

The mental disaster that seried himself.

The mental disaster that seized him was what the Greeks called lycanthropy, by which a man imagines himself a beast and prefers to go out and mingle with brutes. He who had been eating pomegranates and apricots off of plates of gold inlaid with amethyst and diamond, and drinking the ametayst and diamond, and drinking the richest wines from the royal vats, now browsing on grass, and struck by the horn of the ox as he contends for a better tuft of the pasturage, and instead of an orchestra on benches of ivory playing the national airs, now listening to the moan and bellow and grunt of the beasts. This is not hard for me to believe, for the forms of dementia are innumerable. numerable.

A few years ago, arriving in a city on a summer afternoon, while waiting for my engagement in the evening I sauntered forta into what seemed to be a park in front of a large public building, the use of which I knew not. I met a gentleman, with whom I fell into delightful conversation, and he seemed intel-ligent on all subjects. After awhile I said, "Let us sit down on this bench and rest awhile and enjoy the scene of verdure and fountains." "No," said he. "You sit down, but I cannot. I am made of glass, and if I should sit down I would break to piecas. Then I saw that he was insane and belonged to the large building just behind us.

After such an interview as that I can easily believe this account of my text. Here is Nebuchadnezzar on all iours. He once prided himself on being more than a man, and now he turns out less than a man. The courtiers look out of the windows upon Lim as he moves among the royal herds and cry, "A beast!" Seven years pass when suddenly his reason returns and he comes back to Babylon a humble worshiper of the Go1

What must have been the excitement in what must have been the excitement in in the royal court as this restored maniac emperor walks into the palace. What a time they had in cutting his nails and his hair, which had grown for seven years without being interfered with by any shears. What a scrubbing down must have taken place in the imperial baths. What a transformation necessary in order that he who had been herding with camels and goats and swins. herding with camels and goats and swine may be made fit to associate with princes.

bat a change from sty to throne room! While walking from his Babylenian palace down to the pasture field, and from the pas-ture field back to the palace, the first thing that impresses me is what an incongruous thing it is for a king to be eating grass. It is good for cattle, but not fit for man. And then for one to prefer it to a royal table to ward whose bounty the orchards and pad docks and streams and vineyards in all the earth might contribute—what an amazament! And yet the scene is as common as the daylight.

When I see a man of regal nature, made to rule in realms of thought, capable of all moral elevation, bestowing his faculties, at-tempting out of low sensualities to satisfy his importal his immortal energies, coming down off of his throne of power into brutalities, sacrificing his higher nature to his lower nature, stooping and stooping, coming down and coming down until all his influence for good is gone, I cry out, "There is a king eating grass like an ox."

And there are tens of thousands of such Nebuchadnezzars. So there are queens who dedicate themselves to the same humiliation. What power for good God gave that woman. Magnetism of personal presence. Influence more than imperial. By her intelligence, by her tenderness, by her charm of smile and manner, capable of soothing so much sorrow, and reforming so much waywardness, and wielding so much elevated power; yet and wielding so much elevated power; yet at the call of worldliness, coming out of the throne room of good influence where God would have her reign, coming down over the ivory stairs of mortal power, coming down and coming down until she has no more soul than the dead bird transfixed in r millinery or the chinchilla that was furnished her the glove, and finding her only delight in flatteries of brainless mon and midnight schottische and debauched novelettes. I say, "There is one who might have been a cusen and God forever and have been a queen unto God forever, yet eating straw like an ox."

I look over the pasture fields of folly and sin and find many groveling who ought to be erect. Oh, men and women, go back to your thrones! A young man ran away from home and broke his widowed mether's heart. Fourteen years passed, and he returned and came to the window at which his old mother was sitting. She looked up and immediately recognized him and said: "Oh, Robert Robert! Come in?" "No." said he. "Mother, I shall never come in till I hear you say you forgive me." Her answer was: "Robert, I have forgiven you long ago. There is nothing to forgive now except that you you forgive me." Her answer was: "Rober!, I have forgiven you long ago. There is nothing to forgive now except that you stayed away so long."

My hearers, forgiveness has been ready for you a good while. With more than a mother's tenderuess God will take you back. They are waiting for you up in the palace. Nebuchadnezzar was the son of Nabopolassar, who ruled before him, and you are the child of a King!

dent is that conviction is not conversion. Who is this monarch that makes the boast about Babylon? The very man who, under the revelation of dreams that Daniel made from heaven, deeply humbled himself, while he confessed that God is a God of Gods and a Lord of Lords, yet behold that that humbling and arousing which he before felt did not result in a radical change.

There is no mistake more frequent than of

There is no mistake more frequent than of supposing conviction a synonym for conversion. Conviction is merely a sight of sin; conversion is a view of pardon. Conviction is merely alarm; conversion is confiviction is merely alarm; conversion is confidence. Conviction is dissatisfaction with depravity; conversion is a turning away from it. Conviction is a sword wound; conversion is the healing. Conviction is the fever of thirst; conversion is the slaking of that thirst. Conviction is the pain; conversion is the medicine that cures it. Thousands have experienced the former and never experienced the latter.

There are multitudes who think that as soon as a man is serious he is fit for profes-soon as a man is serious he is fit for profession of religion. What if a man should only think seriously of being a merchant; would that make him a merchant? What if a man should only think seriously of being a lawyer; would that make him a lawyer? What if a man should only think seriously of being a Christian; would that make him a Chris tian? Felix was convicted but not converted. The jailer was convicted before he got out of bed, but not converted till at the advice of Paul he believed in Christ. Are you convicted but not converted?

I tell you what you make me think of. You have made up your mind for proper consideration to deed away a property. You have drawn the deed. The seal is affixed opposite where you are to write your name. The commissioner of deeds is present to witness. You have your pen in hand. There is ink in the pen. There is only one thing for you to do, and that is to sign your name. Suppose you stop now without signing your name, what does it all amount. name. Suppose you stop now without signing your name, what does it all amount

So you have resolved to give yourself up to God. You propose to sigh off to Him your body, your mind, your soul. You have all things necessary for the transfer. The angels of God are here to witness the eternal transfer. Why do you not now with your will complete the work? Halt where you are and all goes for nothing. Sign your name to this spiritual transfer.

Professor Arago, the mathematician, got woefully discouraged in his work and was woefully discouraged in his work and was about to give it up, when he saw some words on the paper which had been used to stiffen the cover of his book, and the words being indistinct he dampened the cover until he could take it off and see the words plainly and he found they were words of advice given by D'Alembert to a student, and the words were, "Go on, sir; go on!" Oye who are convicted, "Go on!" You must take one more step or all the steps you have taken will amount to nothing. Go on!

Again learn from the misfortune of the king of Babylon what a terrible thing is the king of Babylon what a terrible thing is the loss of reason. There is no calamity that can possibly befall us in this world so great as the derangement of intellect—to have the body of a man and yet to fall even below the instinct of a brute. In this world of sad sights the saddest is the idiot's stare. In this world of awful sounds the most awful is the maniac's laugh. A vessel on the rocks, when hundreds go down never to rise, and other hundreds drag their mangled and shivering bodies up the wintry beach, is nothing compared to the foundering of intellects full of vast hopes and attainments and capacities. Christ's heart went out to those who were epileptic, falling into the fire, or maniacs cutting themselves among the

We are accustomed to be more grateful for physical health than for the proper working of our mind. We are apt to take it for granted that the intellect which has served us so well will always be faithful.
We forget that an engine with such tremendous power, when the wheels have such vasiness of circle and such swiftness of motion and the least impediment might put it out of gear, could only be kept in proper balance by a divine hand. No human power could engineer this train of immortal faculties.

How strange it is that our memory, on whose shoulders all the successes and mis-fortunes and occurrences of a lifetime are placed, should not oftener break down, and that the scales of judgment, which have been weighing so much and so long, should not lose their adjustment, and that fancy, which holds a dangerous wand, should not sometimes maliciously wave it, bringing into the heart forebodings and hallucinations the most appalling. It is not strange that the expectations of this intellect should not be dashed to pieces on its disappointments?

Though so delicately attuned, this instrument of untold harmonies, plans, at the content of untold harmonies, plans, and the content of untold harmonies, plans, at the content of untold harmonies, plans, and the content of untold harmonies, plans, and the content of untold harmonies, plans, and the content of the content of nent of untold harmonies plays on, though fear shocks it, and vexations rack it, and sorrow and joy and loss and gain in quick succession beat out of it their dirgs or draw succession beat out of it their dirgs or draw fronf it their anthem. At morning and at night, when in your prayer you rehearse the objects of your thanksglving, next to your salvation by Jesus Christ, praise the Lord for the preservation of your reason.

How many fine intellects are being destroyed by anodynes and anæsthetics, which were given by Providence for occasional use in alieviation of pain or insomnia, but by being employed continuously after awhile capture and destroy. Chloral, cocoaine, bromide of potassium, opium and whole shelves of seductive etceteras that help turn Nebuchadnezzars into imbecility into madness. Do not trifle with opiates that benumb the brain. If you cannot live without the perpetual and ensiaving use of them, you had better die. Better die a sane man than live a fool. What right have you to kill your brain and put in wild jangle your nervous system? But rum is the cause of more insanity than anything else. There is nothing like rum to put a man, like in alleviation of pain or insomnia, but by be nothing like rum to put a man, Nebuchadnezzar, down on all fours. Again, learn how quickly turns the wheel of fortune, from how high up to how far down went Nebuchadnezzar. Those now in places of position and power, even though they should live, will in a few years be disregarded, while some, who this day are observed and poverty stricken will ride up on scure and poverty stricken, will ride up on the shoulders of the people to take their turn at admiration and the spoils of office. Oh, how quickly the wheel turns! Ballot boxes are the steps on which men come down as often as they go up. Of those who were a few years ago successful in the accumulation of property how few have not met with reverses of fortune, while many of those who old the bonds and the bank keys of the nation and win the most bows on the exchange.

Of all fickle people in the world Fortune is the most fickle. Every day she changes her mind, and woe to that man who puts any confidence in what she promises or proposes. She cheers when you go up and laughs when you come down. Oh, trust not a moment your hear's affections to this changeable world. Anchor your soul in God. From Christ's love gather your joy. Then come sorrow or gladness, success or defeat, riches or poverty, honor or disgrace, health or sickness, lite or death, time or eternity, all are yours and we are Christ's and Christ is God's.

Learn also from my subject the comforting truth that afflictions are arrested as soon as they have accomplished their mission. For seven years did Nebuchadnezzar dwell among the beasts of the field, but at the expiration of that time his reason returned, and as soon as with proper humility he acknowledged the God of heaven he was brought back to his palace and reinstated in his former affluence and power. Now it does seem that was heavy trials come upon brought back to his palace and reinstated in his former affluence and power. Now it does seem that was heavy trials come upon us it is as though they had no limit. We exclaim, "All thy waves and thy billows have gone over me," but forget that the depth of that sea and the power of that billow are definitely determined.

God sees how much our pride is and He sends just enough adversity to humble it. He sees just how worldly minded we are and pulls us just hard enough to detach us from our follies. He sees how hard our heart it and smites just hard enough to break it. He sees how our eyes have been blinded and He cuts only just enough to remove the scales from our spiritual vision. As soon as Abraham's faith is sufficiently tried the lamb is provided. As soon as Pharaoh consents to let the children of Israel depart the plague pauses. As soon as the Israelites have been sufficiently disciplined by their wanderings they find their way into Canaan. But to some the limit is not set in this life. Their whole pligrimage is through the wilderness and the world is to them a valley of tears.

But perhaps God has a special throne in

But perhaps God has a special throne in heaven that no ordinary saint can occupy, and by extraordinary trials He has prepared that Christian soul for extraordinary glory. God will not keep you in the furnace one moment too long. Just as soon as Paul had met with enough imprisonment and scourgings he reached up and plucked his eternal crown. God will keep us no longer under the hammer and on the stocks than is necessary to fit us for entraced in the hammer and on the stocks than is necessary to fit us for entraced in the hammer and on the stocks than is necessary to fit us for entraced in the stocks. sary to fit us for entrance into the haven of eternal rest. Glory be to the divine grace that, as soon as our afflictions have accom-plished their mission, they are arrested.

plished their mission, they are arrested.

The defeats and sorrows of life have sometimes been the greatest advantage. It was because Dante failed as a statesman that he gave up politics and wrote his immortal "Divinia Commedia." It was a violent thunderstorm that first set Martin Luther seriously thinking, and the thunder of this world's disaster has started a reformation. James Y. Simpson went from a surgeon's world's disaster has started a reformation.

James Y. Simpson went from a surgeon's operating table to experiment and see if he could not find something that would alleviate human pain, and he kept on until he had discovered chloroform as an anasthetic, and the story of distress has almost always been followed by the story of rescue.

For many years after Shakespeare's death his work was so little appreciated that in 1663 there was only one egition of his works, 1063 there was only one edition of his works, and that of only three hundred copies, in existence, and that edition was nearly all burned in the great London fire. But fortyeight copies had been sold out of the city, and those forty-eight copies saved Shakespeare for all nations and all time. Your suppression on a smaller scale may last a good while, but for all you are worth you will yet shine out on earth or in heaven.

Again, learn from my subject that con-ected with the most distressing judgments of God there are displays of divine mercy. God might justly have left Nebuchadnezzar in the field, but infinite compassion brought him back to the palace. No sooner was Eden him back to the palace. No sooner was Eden blasted than a blessing followed on the heels of the curse promising the coming of One who would destroy sin and make the whole world a paradise. The deinge descends, but not until Noah had invited the people into the ark. The destroying angel comes upon Egypt for the smiting of the first born, but left namolested every house whose door was sprinkled with the blood of sacrifice.

Fiery tempests bear down upon Sodom, but not until two angels have warned Lot and his family to flee from the destruction. Jerusalem was utterly destroyed, but not until Jeremiah had sounded an alarm, idding them turn from their abominations. On the darkest cloud of wrath their is a rainbow of mercy. Zechariah in his pro-phetic vision beheld four chariots, symbolcal of God's government.

The first chariot was drawn by red horses. They indicated the wars that were coming. The second chariot was drawn by black horses. They indicated the coming of a famine and pestilence. The third chariot was drawn by white horses. They indicated the spotless purity of His conquests. But, mark well that the fourth chariot was drawn by horses, "traited and hay" decoration. drawn by horses "grisled and bay," that mercy was mixed with all the deso lating judgments of God. Sinai cannot thunder so loud as to drown the invitations of Caivary. The Lord utters the admonition, "The wages of sin is death," but exhaustless mercy responds, "Deliver him from going down to the pit, for I have found a ransom."

Hide Thee quick in the rock, Christ Jesus.
Let not this insignificant "Now" absorb Thee more than the great hereafter. The path leading to this wide of the grave is only a few furlongs, but the path which com-mences at the other side of it is without end. The powers of darkness gather about your soul, and the temptations of an evil heart and the allurements of the world I know are trying to drown the voice of the preacher, but taking hold of the silver trumpet of the Gospel which made Folix tremble, and at the Pentecost brought three thousand souls out of their sepuicher, I would blow one long, loud blast, crying, "Whoseever will,

Take this goodly religion which has done so much for me that I can commend it to all. Without it I should have gone the whole downward career. Stolid and phlegmatic natures going astray do not go so far, but natures like mine, sanguine, intense, emo-tional, optimistic, social to the last degree and echoing to all the heights and depths of mirth, if they get off the track they go with one wiid leap to hell. As to the restraining power of this religion upon a mercurial temperament, I testify. This is not abstraction or something gotten from books. I speak of what I know. Go out and ask all who have tried this religion and ask them how it

Three young men in a factory came out Three young men in a factory came out on the Lord's side, but two of them, over-come by the jeers of their comrades, went back and joined the scoffers. The one held on to his Christian hope, and one day when they pressed him hard and were telling how much infidelity had done for the world, and that Cristianity had done nothing, the per-secuted Christian turned upon them, and pointing to Henry and George, who had for a little while followed Christ and then turned

You have tried your principles on them and know what they have done for them. When they tried to serve Christ, they were civi', good tempered, kind husbands fathers. They were cheerful, industrious and ready to oblige. What have you made them? Look and see. They are cast down and cross; their mouths are full of cursing and filthiness; they are drunk every week; their children half clothed, their wives broken hearted, their homes wretched. That is what your principles have done. Now I have tried Christ and His religion and what have tried Christ and His religion and what I has it done for me? You know well what I used to be. There was none of you that could drink so much, swear so desperately and fight so masterly. I had no money and nobody would trust me. My wife was ill used, I was ill humored, hateful and hating. What has religion done for me? Thank God, I am not atraid to put it to you have become man than I it to you. Am I not a happier man than I was? Am I not a better workman and a kinder companion? Would I once have put up with what I now bear from you? I could beat any of you as easily now as ever. Why don't I? Do you ever hear a foul word from my mouth? Do you ever hear a foul word from my mouth? Do you ever hear a foul word from my mouth? Do you ever hear a foul word. from my mouth? Do you catch me at a public house? Has anybody a score against me? Go and ask my neighbors if I am not altered for the better. Go and ask my wife, Let my house bear witness. God be praised, here is what Christianity has done for me; there is what infidelity has done for Manya and Carera."

for me; there is what infidelity has done for Henry and George."

Out of this audience I could gather a thousand men and women who could tell you as thrilling a story as that as to what religion has done for them. Yea, if times of persecution should come as of old, and they may come, they are a thousand here who would for Christ's sake as cheer/ully walk into the furnace of fire as though it were an arbor of thyme and honeysuckle, and face the lions as though they were lambs of frisking of the hillside, and wade down into the deep waters which are to submerge them as happily as ever at Narragansett beach they took the surf at a summer bathing.

Come up and join those on the way to a palace. What an absurd thing for a king to be eating grass. Instead of living on the poor fodder that the world affords come and sit among the princes of God at the royal bunquet and hear the bands play: "Eat, O Friends! Drink, O Beloved!" Here is a crown, wear it. Here is a scepter, sway it. Here is a throne, mount it, This is your hour,

INTERNATIONAL LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 14.

Lesson Text: "The New Covenant," Jeremiah xxxi., 27-37-Golden Text: Jeremiah xxxi., 34 -Commentary.

27. "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will sow the house of Israel, and the house of Judah, with the seed of man, and with the seed of beast." Jeremiah prophesied during the last forty years of Judah's history ere the two tribes were carof Josiah's reign and the twenty-two years of Josiah's reign and the twenty-two years of the four kings following. He was simply God's messenger speaking God's message. Chapter i., 7, 9, 17, chapters xxx. and xxxi. have been called "a book within a book," like Rom, ix, xi., and any kind of a careful reading shows its psculiar reference to Israel's future. Compare this verse with chapter xxx., 1-3, and take Israel and Judah to mean only Israel and Judah the ten tribes and the two of all Israel. The Spirit's own commentary upon this verse is found in Ezek xxxvi 9-11

Ezek. xxxvi., 9-11. 28. "And it shall come to pass, that like as I have watched over them to pluck up, so will I watch over them to build and to plant, saith the Lord." No one can question the plucking up and scattering, and no more should any one question the gathering and rebuilding. Put verse 10 with this and say how anything can be more clearly or emphatically stated with a "Fhus saith the Lord," and His "will" and "shall."

"In those days they shall say no more, The fathers have eaten a sour grape and the children's teeth are set on edge." They considered themselves as suffering for their father's sins and therefore used this proverb.

See Lam. v., 7; Ezek. xviii., 2, 3.
30. "But every one shall die for his own iniquity; every man that eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge." Compare Deut. xxiv., 16; Gal. vi., 5, 7. Personal responsibility is taught everywhere in Scripture. "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God." (Rom. xiv., 12.)

31. "Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah." Remember that He is reserved. dah." Remember that He is speaking not of the church, nor of the days in which we live, but of literal Judah and Israel in the days of the restoration, yet future, but now days of the restoration, yet future, but now very near.

32. "Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers, which My covenant they brake." He refers now to the Horeb covenant of Deut. v., 2, 3, to make them a kingdom of priests and a peculiar people above all people, upon conditions of their obedience (Ex. xix., 5, 6). This was different from the covenant with Abraham, Isnac and Jacob, which was unconditional and shall yet be fulfilled to the letter; a covenant made with an oath, and therefore eternal made with an oath, and therefore eternal and unchangeable (Mic. vii., 20).

33. "After those days, saith the Lord, I will put My law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be My people." "Those days" probably refer to the days of tribulation which will precede Israel's national conversion (chapter xxx., 7; Dan. xii., 1, Math. xxiv., 21), for it is immediately after the tribulation of those days that He shall come in power and glory for Israel's deliverance (Math. xxiv., 29-31; Luke xxi., 25-29). Observe how the work is entirely the Lord's from first to last; I will put, I will write, I will be; and compare Jer. xxiv., 6, 7; Ezek. xxivi., 24-30.

34. "They shall all know Me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord; for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sins no more." This verse is often quoted as if it referred to a people on the whole earth, and would be a result of the Gospel as now preached; a result of the Gospel as now preached; whereas it refers clearly to israel and Judah, the twelve tribes, which shall be all right-sous, and the central nation upon earth in millennial days (Isa. Ix., 21; Ixvi., 8), who shall make known the name of the Lord to all the world that so the earth may be filled with His glory (Num. xiv., 21; Isa. xi. 9; Heb.ii., 14). But until the new earth all the world shall not be righteous, for even in world shall not be righteous, for even in millennial days many shall yield only a feigned obedience (Ps. lxvi., 3 margin).

35, "Thus saith the Lord, which giveth the sun for a light by day. The Lord of Hosts is His name." However great a promise may be, it is of no weight unless the promiser is able to fulfill it. The Lord of Hosts is the creator of all things and "He is able."

36, "If those ordinances depart from be-36. "If those ordinances depart from before Me, saith the Lord, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before Me forever." Read the parallel passage in chapter xxxiii., 19-26. Israel is not now and has not been for over 1800 years a nation in the eyes of other nations; but Israel has never ceased to be a nation before God, for "The Lord seeth not as man seeth." and soon she will be a nation before all naand soon she will be a nation before all nations, admired, honored and sought unto, because of Jehovab, her King.

37. "Thus saith the Lord, if heaven above can be measured, * * 1 will also cast off all the seed of Israel, for all that they have done, saith the Lord," It is often said when we speak of Israel's future glory, "But consider all that they have done, they have for eited everything." Yes, truly, they have forfeited all that was conditioned upon their obedience, but the unconditional promises of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, God will keep and fulfill for His own great name's sake (Isa. Xilii., 25; Ezek. XXXVI., 22, 32). Note carefully that when Jerusalem shall be rebuilt in the restoration it shall never be thrown down again (verses 38-40; Ps. cii., 16). If you would see and enjoy those days of Israel's glory you must now by redeemed by Israel's Kinz. Then being redeemed, remember that you are redeemed not simply to go to heaven when you die, but to live here as long as the Lord sees fit, to do your part in making Christ known in all the world, that so the church, His body, may be gathered out of the nations. Being ignorant of the mystery that "Blindness in part is happened unto Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in," and that then all Israel shall be saved (Rom. xi., 25, 29), the church has bedown again (verses 38-40; Ps. cii., 16). savel (Rom, xi., 25, 26), the church has be-come conceited and vainly imagines that her come conceited and vainly imagines that her mission is to convert the whole world. Let no preacher, pastor or missionary think that he is commissioned to convert all within his reach, but rather to be a faithful witness in the power of the Spirit, "that he may by almeans save some" (I Cor. ix., 22; Rom. xl., 14). And let every preacher lay to heart what the writer received through Dr. A. T. Pierson, that our parish is not our field, but a portion of the field, which is the world, from which we are to gather and instruct a from which we are to gather and instruct a force with which we may do our part in working the field so as to gather out the church and hasten the day of Israel.—Lesson tleiper.

Washington had many admirable traits worthy of imitation, and one of them was rigid punctuality. This was well illustrated by an incident during his visit to Boston, Mass., one hundred years ago. Having appointed eight o'clock in the morning as the hour at which he should set out for Salem, he mounted his horse just as the Old South clock was striking that hour. The company of cavalry which was to escort him did not arrive till after his departure, and did not overtake him till he reached Charles River Bridge .- New York Observer.

Catarrh-Remove the Cause.

I was afflicted from infancy with Catarrh, and for ten years with eruptions on my face. I was attended by the best physicians, and used a number of Blood remedies with no permanent relief. MY LIFE BECAME A BURDEN TO ME, for my case was declared incureble. I saw S. S. S. advertised, and took eight bottles, which cured me entirely, and I feel like a new person.—Miss Josie Owen, Montpelier, Ohio.

I was the victim of the worst case of Catarrh that I ever heard of. I was entirely deaf in one ear, and all the inside of my nose, including part of the bone, sloughed off. No sort of treatment benefited me, and physicians said "I would never be any better." As a last resort I took Swift's Specific, and it entirely cured me and restored my hearing. I have been well for years, with no sign of return of the disease.-Mrs. Josephine Polhill, Due West, S. C. S. S. cures Catarrh, like it does other Blood diseases, by climinating the poison which causes it. Treatise on Blood and Skin mailed free.
