

A DESPERATE ROBBER

His Attempt to "Crack" an Express Train Checkmated.

STOLE AN ENGINE IN HIS FLIGHT

Pursued by Another Engine, the Robber and His Pursuers Engage in a Flying Duel—Finally Surrounded and Captured by a Quartet of Officers.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Daniel T. McNery, a messenger in the employ of the American Express company, lies at his home on Waverly Place, in this city, with three bullet wounds on his person, the result of an encounter with a most desperate train robber. The American express train, which reached this city at 7:15 on the New York Central railroad, left Syracuse yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, very nearly on time, in charge of Conductor Emil Laas and Engineer Caleb Cherry. About half an hour after the train left Syracuse Messenger McNery was startled by the sound of breaking glass. Before he could discover its cause a masked man sprang through the broken window and confronted him with a revolver. McNery drew his weapon, and both men fired at the same time. McNery missed his mark, but the robber did not. His bullet penetrated McNery's left hand, and it was followed by two others, one of which entered his leg and the other grazed his forehead. The robber knocked him senseless with the butt of his revolver and went at the packages in the car, while the messenger lay unconscious.

Between Weedsport and Jordan Conductor Laas' suspicions were aroused by hearing the air signal sound. Taking a brakeman with him he went to the express car and peered through the opening that the bell rope ran through. He saw nothing of McNery, but instead saw a strange man standing in the car, over whose head was thrown a red hood, which covered all of his face except the nose and eyes. The conductor signaled for the train to stop.

When the trainmen looked over the side the red hood appeared, a bullet whizzed by them and they were ordered to go ahead. When the train stopped at Port Byron the conductor was explaining that the robber had escaped when he saw the man before him, who seemed to be an interested listener. An attempt was made to capture him, but the man covered the crowd with revolvers, backed to a freight engine, uncoupled it, drove the crew out as started away. The conductor and a switchman followed on another engine, but soon gave up the chase, after having several bullets whiz over their heads.

Meantime officers were in pursuit. They went to Blue Cut, where the robber had deserted the engine and where he had "persuaded" a farmer at the point of a revolver to furnish him with a horse and sleigh. This he "exchanged," again aided by revolvers, with another farmer for a fresh team. He soon deserted the latter team, however, took to the woods, and was captured. He has been identified as Perry, who robbed a train on the road some months ago.

The conductor's promptness saved a big loss to the express company, as there was a large sum of money in the car. When captured he had two revolvers and a belt containing a large quantity of ammunition on his person.

LYONS, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Oliver H. Perry, the notorious express robber, was arraigned in court and held in $5,000 bail for the action of the grand jury.

SENATOR HILL'S VICTORY.

New York's Delegates Instructed to Support Him for President.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—The Democratic convention yesterday was enthusiastic for Hill. General Daniel E. Sickles presided, and made a strong Hill speech. The national delegates and alternates chosen at large were: Roswell P. Flower, Edward Murphy, Jr., General Daniel E. Sickles and General Henry W. Slocum. The alternates were: Manton Marble, John Bigelow, Sidney Webster and Alfred C. Chapin.

The plank of the platform naming Senator Hill for president reads:

The Democrats of New York, with proud hope, yet with perfect deference to their brethren of other states, and cordial estimation of their renowned leaders as worthy standard bearers of a people's cause, point to the nominating of David B. Hill to the office of president as its expression of the whole Democratic faith and tradition, and of our settled purpose to rescue this perverted government from the clutch of autocrats and plutocrats, from spendthrift administrations, odious taxes and debased money. In obedience to the mandate of the Democratic voters of New York the delegates selected by this convention are instructed to present to the national Democratic convention the name of David B. Hill as their candidate for president of the United States, a Democrat who has led his party from victory to victory for seven successive years, and who has never known defeat.

Senator Hill was called before the convention and delivered a lengthy address. He was introduced as "Young Hickory, the next president of the United States."

The conference of objectors to the midwinter convention held a meeting and decided to hold an opposition convention May 20.

Cleveland's Detroit Reception.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 24.—Grover Cleveland's reception last night was a success in every particular. An hour before the time set for the public reception at the Hotel Cadillac the streets in the neighborhood of the place were crowded for two squares in every direction with people anxious to get a glimpse of Mr. Cleveland and shake his hand. Fully 7,000 people shook hands with Mr. Cleveland before 11 o'clock, when the doors were closed and the receiving party withdrew to Don M. Dickinson's home. The reception was entirely informal. There was no speaking. Mr. Dickinson thinks that his visit has made Michigan solid for Cleveland.

A Pleasure Party Run Down.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 24.—The west bound St. Louis express on the Pennsylvania road ran down a pleasure party at Hawkins station, near here, about 2 o'clock in the morning, killing one instantly and fatally injuring two others. They were: Alice Gaskill, aged 29 years, of Swetsville, Pa., killed instantly; William Dewar, aged 22 years, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., died at the hospital a few hours after the accident; Milton Ziegler, aged 22 years, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., still living, but will likely die. The party were returning from a dance at Braddock.

DUEL WITH BURGLARS.

Exciting Conflict on the Street at Beaver Falls, Pa.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 24.—A desperate fight between police officials and three toughs, supposed to be burglars, took place here last night. As a result two men are dying and two others are badly wounded.

At about 8 o'clock Officers Cornell and Greene noticed three men trying to dispose of some razors on Fifth street. The two policemen approached the men and told them to consider themselves under arrest. The desperadoes answered by pulling out self-cocking revolvers, which they began firing at the policemen. Officer Cornell fell on the pavement with a bullet through his groin, but returned fire at the then retreating men.

In the meantime Officer Green opened fire, and at least a dozen shots were exchanged. One of the desperadoes ran into a restaurant, where one of his companions had already sought safety. Officer Green followed and demanded that he surrender. Both burglars again opened fire on the officer, and in some manner the lights were extinguished. Green managed to dodge three shots, and succeeded in shooting one man through the mouth and the other through the right breast. The men ran out of the restaurant and disappeared.

By this time a large crowd gathered on the street and one of the burglars who began the shooting was captured. Twenty minutes later the police were notified that a man was found dying on a doorstep on Eighth avenue. The dying man was found to be one of the men who opened fire on the officer in the restaurant. He was taken to the engine house, but refused to divulge his name. The doctor says he cannot recover. The man arrested was shot through the arm and wrist.

The man who was shot through the mouth, and who is no doubt the worst injured, has not been found, and is supposed to have hidden somewhere near the scene of the shooting. It is expected that his dead body will be found.

Officer Cornell, who was slain in the groin, is not dangerously injured, and will probably recover. The town is wild with excitement.

The three men came here a day or two ago, and are supposed to hail from Pittsburgh, but it is believed they are the same gang that have been robbing stores at nights in Ohio. All were heavily armed, and just before the attempt to arrest them they sent word to the police that the first man who tried it would be shot down. How well they carried out their threat is shown by their subsequent "bravery" shown by the two officers is unparalleled in the police history of this town.

MANY MARINE DISASTERS.

Wholesale Loss of Life Feared on Great Britain's Coast.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The Fishing mail boat went ashore off Queensborough, Kent, in the thick weather. The Scout, of the British navy, put to sea to her assistance in answer to her signals, but on arriving at the place where they were last seen found that the mail boat had disappeared. It is feared she sank with all on board.

It is now believed that the steamer wrecked off Penzance was the Fratello Fabris, as some wreckage with that name upon it has been washed ashore. It is thought probable that the entire crew of twenty-six men were drowned. The bark Dronning Sophie, during the worst of the gale, was driven ashore on Galley Head, county Cork. She became a helpless wreck and was rapidly going to pieces when her crew of eleven men were all saved by lifeboats.

A large steamer, name not yet reported, is stranded off Morris Castle, county Wexford. Lines were thrown to the wreck, the breeches buoy rigged up, and with it and the aid of the lifeboat all on board have been rescued.

The yacht Surprise has been wrecked near Belfast. The schooner Jane and Alice sank off Dungaroon. All hands were saved.

During the night a French steamer, name unknown, sunk off the Scilly islands. Her crew, consisting of twenty persons, were all saved except three, who went down with the ship.

A Prospector's Rich Find.

CREED, Colo., Feb. 23.—Prospector Henry Brandt has discovered a mine which in a moment raises him from comparative poverty to opulence. His find was a cavern, the roof of which, vaulted and hanging with stalactites, showed droppings of pure silver ore running $10 to the ton. Besides the silver ore there contains utensils, skeletons and remains, evidently those of cliff dwellers, but the antiquarian discovery is lost in interest in the phenomenal silver find. Brandt reported the find here and the people went wild. Hundreds went to the Cliff Dweller claim, as it is called, at once. Brandt offered $100,000 cash for the claim by a syndicate of California capitalists, but he refused it.

Killed on the Eve of His Wedding.

NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 22.—The Long Island milk train on the Housatonic road crashed into the rear of a local freight train near Wilton Saturday night. An engine and fifteen freight cars were knocked into kindling wood. The telegraph and telephone poles were destroyed and tracks were torn up for a distance of 300 feet. John Ford, engineer of the milk train, was found lying dead under the debris. William Luckey, fireman, and James Keating, conductor, were badly scalded, the latter fatally. Ford was to have been married yesterday to Miss Rose Flynn, of South Norwalk.

Tramps Crushed to Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 22.—The Big Four Chicago express ran into an open switch five miles east of here about midnight and collided with empty freight cars. A man and a woman, both tramps, riding on the front end of the mail car, were crushed to death between the tender and mail car. The front end of the latter was telescoped, but all the clerks escaped without injury. The engineer and fireman were but little hurt and the engine, though disabled, was not greatly damaged.

Three Her Child from the Window.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 23.—The building No. 845 Fulton street caught fire and was damaged to the extent of $5,000. All the tenants escaped, but Mrs. John Goodman became panic stricken, and wrapping her child in the bed clothing, threw it out of the window. The little one was caught by a fireman, but is mortally hurt. John Michelson received severe burns about the hands and face, and was taken to the Long Island hospital.

Wool-Growers for Free Wool.
The Stock Grower, a farmers' newspaper printed at Las Vegas, New Mexico, and representing the interests of wool growers, is in favor of free wool. In speaking of the Springer bill it says: The manufacturers ought to be in favor of the passage of such a law; nor ought the wool-growers to utter a word of disapproval. The admission duty free of the different varieties of wool not grown in the United States, but which the manufacturer must use for mixing purposes if he is to compete with foreign manufacturers in turning out all kinds of goods, would add to the demand for domestic wool and would enhance its price.

The manufacturer, having free access to all the wools he needed, would not be driven, as he is now, to the excessive use of cotton and shoddy. At present the so-called woolen goods which people buy are, to a great extent, a mixture of wool, shoddy and cotton. Free wool would give them the genuine article at the price they pay now for a short-lived imitation.

—The Philad. Branch, in order to dispose of their winter stock, will sell goods at cost.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. A Boston lady, whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:
"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. M. A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

To Get
People will have themselves largely to blame if the horrid grip secures a foothold here this winter. The Board of Health sounded a note of warning a few days ago. Physicians all agree that with proper precautions the disease may be prevented. Aged and enfeebled persons, in fact any one whose system is run down, require a healthful stimulant just now. The medical faculty are a unit upon this point. Klein's Silver Age and Duquesne rye whiskeys which sell respectively at $1.50 and $1.25 per full quart are the purest and best stimulants known. The most skilled practitioners in the country endorse and prescribe these brands and leading hospitals use them exclusively. Major Klein also sells Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson, Overholt and Bear Creek at $1 per quart or six quarts for $5. His establishment is headquarters for everything in the liquor line. Goods expressed everywhere. Send for catalogue, mentioning this paper, to
