Day or Two Urge Upon the British Premier the Necessity for an Immediate Answer.

WASHINGTON, March 10 .- Owing to Lord Salisbury's refusal to renew the modus vivendi in Behring sea the matter is in the same condition as before the beginning of negotiations for arbitration. As the case stands now Great Britain will hold our government responsible for any seizures of Canadian poachers. In a communication sent to Lord Salisbury yesterday the president urges upon the premier the necessity for a renewal of the modus vivendi, and the reply is anxiously awaited. Meantime it is asserted in official circles that should Salisbury remain obstinate an increased naval force will be sent by our government to Behring' sea, and Canadian poachers severely dealt with. WASHINGTON, March 16.—The cabi-net yesterday had another discussion of the Behring sea question, but as Salis-bury has not replied there is no change in the situation. However, a large number of senators were among the presi-dent's callers during the morning, and by the time the cabinet assembled the president had a pretty fair view of the opinion of the senate on the question. The senatorial visitors were Senators Allison, Chandler, Wilson, Casey and Sanders.

The navy department, acting in conjunction with the treasury department, is preparing the revenue marine cutters for Behring sea service. It has always been the custom to send three of the service to Behring sea, and they were there last year, and this spring they are being put in preparation for the cruise. The cutters are the Bear, the Rush and the Corwin. The Wolcott is at Puget Sound and will remain there, but the others will go as soon as possible to Behring sea. The navy department is taking steps to charter more vessels to aid as receiving ships for prisoners captured should the United States have to protect the sea.

Last year one vessel was so chartered but this year more will be needed, and preparations are being made to this effect. Thus a good sized fleet will be in service to protect the seas should the modus vivendi not be renewed. The president sent to the senate this week a message in response to a resolution passed at a previous executive session, asking for information as to the effect of pelagic or open sea sealing.

It was the agreement signed by the four Behring sea commissioners, Messrs. Mendenhall and Merriam on the part of the United States and Sir George Dawson and Mr. Baden-Powell, to the effect that since Russia had transferred Alaska to the United States there has been a diminution in the number of seals by the hand of man.

This statement, so directly opposite to the position so tenaciously upheld by Lord Salisbury, naturally created considerable discussion in the senate. Before the communication was referred to the committee on foreign relations it was read.

The debate was nearly all of a conversational nature, although Senator White, of Louisiana, indulged in an argument to prove that the English commissioners, when they conceded the PARIS, March 16 .- Between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning a terrific explo-sion occurred at the Lobau Barracks, occupied by the Republican Guard, ad-joining the Hotel de Ville. In a moment a scene of the wildest excitement prevailed. The barracks are occupied by 800 guards, but they were not all in the building. There were, however, a large number of men asleep there. The streets in the vicinity were soon filled with an excited crowd.

The police investigated, and learned that a dynamite cartridge had been placed upon the ledge of a window of the mess room, which is situated on the Biggs of ground floor of the barracks. Pieces of the copper casing of the cartridge and bits of fuse were found. The guards es-caped without injury. The only harm done was to the barracks and the build-ing in the guards of min ings in the vicinity. Hundreds of win-dows were shattered, and the walls of the barracks and other buildings bear traces of the explosion.

Interviews have been had with two of the anarchist leaders who are known to their colleagues as companions X and Z. They made no attempt to disguise their sinister intentions. They said: "We have begun a war. We have long since abandoned hope of obtaining anything from socialism of legal action. action. The laws are made solely for the purpose of safeguarding capital and property. The final struggle is commencing. Yes, it is by terror that we will overcome the present state of things. We cannot upset it in any other way

"We are solidly organized. We have no papers as an organized society, but there is an invisible link which serves as an organization. Each man acts on his own account, without informing anybody of his plans, save two or three companions who assist him."

A cabinet council was held yesterday afternoon at which President Carnot signed a bill introducing a clause in the penal code, making the willful destruction of property by means of explosives punishable with death. This clause was subsequently introduced in the chamber of deputies, and will undoubtedly become a law.

Brutal Treatment of a Prisoner. TOLEDO, O., March 16 .- A story of brutality comes from Sylvania, a township a few miles from this city, growing out of a temperance fight. The starting of a saloon in the township raised considerable ire, and the man in charge, Peter Scheorder, was arrested charged with selling liquor on Sunday. Bail was refused and Schroeder was locked up in an old house and held without food or fuel from Saturday until Monday afternoon. He was discovered almost half frozen and famished and taken to his home at Erie, where be died from pneumonia thirty-six hours later. The father of the young man will sue the Sylvania authorities for $20,900 dam-

The Uniontown and Chester Springs schools will be kept open an-other year, and that at Harford, Susquehanna county, will be continued, pro-vided the commission can be satisfied of its necessity. The number of pupils in the several schools is 700. The soldiers orphans schools of Pennsylvania have cost the state since their establishment, over twenty-five years ago, about $11,-000,000, a lditional force of 300,000 men." The Altoona conference of the loyal Governors was originally proposed by Curtin to Lincoln and cordially approved by the Fresident before the call was issued. It was a supreme necessity to crystallize the loyal sentiment of the country in support of the coming and then clearly foreshadowed emancipation policy. Curtin telegraphed Governor Andrew, of Massachusetts : "In the present emergency would it not be well that the loyal Governors should meet at some point in the border States to take measures for the more active support of the government ?" The Governors of Massachusetts, Ohio and West Virginia responded promptly and the call was issued on the 14th of September and the Altoona conference met on the 24th, the day after the Emancipation Proclamation had been published to the world. The call was misinterpreted by some at the time as an unfriendly movement against the administration, but the action of the conference silenced all such criticism. There were seventeen Governors in attendance, and after a full interchange of views Curtin and Andrew were charged with the duty of preparing an address to the President and the country. That address, coming as the united voice of the loyal States through their Governors, was regarded by Lincoln as of inestimable service to the cause of the Union. It not only gave the keynote for every loyal man to support the Emancipation policy, but it suggested to the President to call out additional troops to keep a reserve of 100,000 men for any emergency of the war. I regard it as unfortunate that there never has yet been given to the public anything approaching a complete history of the Altoona conference. I believe that Governor Austin Blair, of Michigan, who is one of the few members yet living is now preparing a history of its proceedings. The one man who could not write it is Curtin, for, if truthfully written, it would be simply the story of his own great efforts to give fresh inspiration to the loyal cause when it was shadowed by disappointment and disa der. Thus, from the day that Curtin welcomed Lincoln in the Hall of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg when on his way to be inaugurated, until their last meeting in the same Hall when it was the chamber of death and sorrowing patriots passed silently through it to take their last look upon the face of the martyred President, he was side by side with Lincoln in every detail; and, backed by his great State, he was enabled to render a service to the President and to the country unapproached by any other governor of the Union. How gratefully his public record was tappreciated by the people of Pennsylvania of that day is clearly nown by reference to the journals of our Legislature of April 12, 1866, when a resolution was passed, by unanimous vote in both branches, thanking him, in the name of Pennsylvania, "for the fidelity with which, during the four years of war by which our country was ravaged and its free institutions threatened, he stood by the national government and cast into the scales of loyalty and the Union, the honor, the wealth and the strength of the State." These resolutions were offered in the House by Representative Ruddiman, the Republican leader of that body, and were passed by a vote of 97 ayes and no navs. being within 3 of the entire membership of the body. On the same day the resolutions were called up in the Senate by Senator Wallace, the Democratic leader of that body, and on the call of the ayes and nays, received the vote of every Senator. This record is entirely exceptional, not only in Pennsylvania, but no Governor of any State ever received such a tribute from all parties when about to retire from his high of-Republican state convention indorsed the administration of President Harri-son and made the following nomina-the most heated partisan and factional strife ever known in our political history. Again on the 6th of April, 1869, when he had been a private citizen for several years, the Legislature passed joint resolutions of thanks to President Grant for his appointment of Curtin as Minister to Russia, and they received the vote of every member present of both branches, and were approved by Governor Geary on the following day. In 1868 the Republican State Convention proclaimed Curtin with almost entire unanimity for the Vice Presidency of the United States on the ticket with Grant, who was then the accepted candidate of the party for President, and I went to Chicago as chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation to present his name and cast the vote of the State for
