THAT HILL CONFERENCE

The Tinge of Mystery Round About It Sets the Politicians Guessing.

A SURPRISE TO BE SPRUNG.

It Will Not See the Light of Day, Though, Till the Convention at Chicago Is in Session—The Senator's Supporters Confident of His Nomination.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The eyes of the Democratic politicians at Washington are now turned in the direction of Chicago, and active preparations are going on for the movement toward that city, and by the latter part of the week but few of the Democratic leaders will answer a roll call at either end of the Capitol.

Senator Gorman is quite certain to be there, Senator Palmer does not at present expect to go, Senator Hill is uncertain, and Senator Brice is now at Columbus, O., within a convenient distance of the convention city. He, it is expected, will have Governor Campbell for a side partner; Senator Vilas, Vest and Mills are reported to be already actively working in Mr. Cleveland's interest. Senators Pugh, George, Walthall, Bate, Berry, Cockrell, Ransom and Gibson are put down as champions of Mr. Gorman in the issue of the force bill, in which Mr. Gorman figured so prominently as the opponent in the senate. Mr. Palmer is reported as saying that he expects Mr. Cleveland's nomination at Chicago.

Messrs. Fithian, Forman, Lane and Scott, of Illinois, are working hard for Mr. Morrison, and have succeeded in arousing quite a boom for him in some quarters and are reported to have attracted to his support a few of the anti-Cleveland forces who are anxious to hold the large vote of Illinois on the first ballot away from Cleveland, fearing its effect upon the uninstructed delegates.

A HILL SURPRISE IN STORE.

It Will Not Be Sprung Until the Convention Is in Session.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The mysterious conference held yesterday between Senator Hill and his lieutenants has been a matter for speculation among the politicians. The confident prediction of the senator's supporters that he will positively receive the nomination at Chicago is puzzling to a great many who are not on the "inside." It is believed that the Hill men have something of a surprise for the Cleveland advocates, which will not come to light until the convention is in session.

It is said that the Hill men are quietly at work perfecting a strong organization, and that they will go to Chicago prepared to make a deep impression upon the uninstructed delegates. It is asserted by the Hill supporters that they have won the Indiana delegates over by promising them the second place on the ticket for Gray.

The anti-Hill organization do not propose to be forgotten at Chicago. They are now actively at work preparing their programs, and they declare they are confident of Cleveland's success. The delegates appointed at the May convention, held in Syracuse, will start for Chicago Saturday. They have secured accommodations for 500 persons at the Grand Pacific hotel. It is expected that a thousand Cleveland sympathizers will go to the convention from this state.

Senator Hill has left the Hoffman House for Washington. He had but few callers before his departure and declined to be interviewed.

ALDRICH RE-ELECTED.

He Will Represent Rhode Island in the Senate for Another Term.

PROVIDENCE, June 15.—Hon. Nelson W. Aldrich was re-elected United States senator. The vote was Aldrich, 64; David S. Baker, Jr., 32.

Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was born at Foster, R. I., on the 6th of November, 1841. He received an academic education, and at present is engaged in mercantile pursuits. In 1873-3 he was president of the Providence common council, and in 1875-6 he was a member of the Rhode Island general assembly, serving the latter year as speaker of the house of representatives. He was elected to the Forty-sixth congress and was re-elected to the Forty-seventh congress. In 1880 he was elected to the United States senate as a Republican, to succeed Ambrose E. Burnside, Republican, and took his seat Dec. 5, 1881. He was re-elected in 1886.

Thurston Loyal to Harrison.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Nearly everybody in the local body politic was present at a monster meeting held in the Auditorium to ratify the nominations made by the Republican convention at Minneapolis. Judge Thurston, of Nebraska, and Governor McKinley were the principal speakers. Judge Thurston pronounced an eloquent eulogy on Blaine, but pledged himself to the support of the nominees. "Bear with us yet a little," he said, "if we cannot in an hour transfer the boundless enthusiasm for the name upon our hearts to the name upon our ticket."

Governor McKinley came late, and, as he said, had his convention vote with him. He said the convention at Minneapolis made no mistake. He then talked on protection a few moments and left. Harrison's name was heartily applauded every time it was mentioned, as was also Blaine's.

Bayard to Nominate Gray.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 15.—Ex-Secretary Bayard, it now seems assured, will present the name of United States Senator Gray, of this state, as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

KEYSTONE STATE NEWS.

YORK, Pa., July 15.—The thirty-eighth semi-annual reception of the Phi Sigma Literary society of the York Collegiate institute was held last night in Cassett library, at the college. The commencement will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

CORNSWAGO, Pa., June 14.—To escape injury by a collision of "dumpy" cars on a Pennsylvania railroad trestle work at this place, yesterday morning, Patrick Malla, aged 24 years, of Lambertville, N. J., a workman, jumped forty feet to the rock below and was badly cut about the head and internally hurt. He is at the Harrisburg hospital and is in a serious condition.

CHESTER, Pa., June 14.—The commissioners appointed by the governors of Pennsylvania and Delaware to examine into the advisability of removing the quarantine station from its present location at the Lazaretto visited Chester yesterday afternoon. The commissioners made an inspection of the section along the river in the vicinity of the quarantine station and at night attended a public meeting in the council chamber, where several speeches advocating the removal were made.

YORK, Pa., June 14.—William Henry Painton, who will be hanged here next Thursday between 10 and 11 a. m., for the murder of aged Mrs. Elizabeth Stroking, in Lewisburg, on the night of March 31, 1891, declares he is ready to meet his fate and professes to be penitent. Sheriff Finley, who has completed arrangements for the execution, has more requests for admission tickets than he can furnish. Only a limited number of persons will see the hanging.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 15.—William C. Blackburn, a country hotel keeper, has earned the champion hotel handler's medal. Since Jan. 1, 1892, he sold the Hartranft house, Norristown, for $35,000; bought the Farmers' hotel, same borough, for $27,000 and sold it for $28,000; bought the Montgomery house, also in Norristown, for $42,000 and sold it at an advance of $1,000; bought Isaac Kraut's hotel in North Wales for $12,000, and bought Samuel Godfrey's hotel in Ambler for about $32,000.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 14.—The commencement exercises of the Pennsylvania state college began with the preaching of the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. S. D. McConnell, of Philadelphia. This evening was devoted to the junior oratorical contest, in which the following strove for the prize: Hayes M. Small, Fred F. Weld, Roy B. Mastern and John G. Walsh. The judges have not yet announced their decisions. Today will be the big day. Hon. W. U. Hessel will deliver the annual address.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—The annual convention of the International Typographical union opened in the hall of the Drexel Institute this morning. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Major Veale as the representative of Governor Pattison, Mayor Stuart and George Chance, president of the local union, to which William B. Prescott, president of the international body, responded. George W. Childs, of The Public Ledger, who was on the platform, received an enthusiastic ovation, and in response to loud calls made a brief and feeling speech.

LEBANON, Pa., June 13.—While Harrison, the 8-year-old son of Constable John John, was playing near his home he was accosted by an unknown boy about 13 years of age, who threatened to blow his brains out. The assailant was masked and pointed a revolver at young John's head. The latter started to run, but before he had gone very far he was struck by a bullet from his assailant's revolver and seriously injured. It is feared that a portion of one limb must be amputated and he will at least be lame for life. The would be murderer is supposed to be a reader of dime novels. He contrived to make good his escape.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Another tragedy has transpired at the Eastern State penitentiary. Francesco Grandinette, an Italian convicted of murder in Lackawanna county, stabbed another prisoner and then cut his own throat, dying within a short time in the hospital. Yesterday Coroner Ashbridge held an inquest after a preliminary investigation. Grandinette was 36 years old. He was sentenced July 13 last to six years for killing a fellow workman in a mine in Lackawanna county. He was in good health and of robust frame. He was low spirited generally because of an impression that he had been sentenced to life imprisonment.

YARDLEY, Pa., June 13.—Yesterday Charles J. McCarthy, a boatman, and Isaac Robinson, a colored farmer, met at the Yardley bridge, which connects the Pennsylvania and New Jersey shores, and fell to quarrelling. McCarthy, it is said, took Robinson by the collar and the latter drew a sharp knife, plunging it into McCarthy's breast. The latter wandered about in quest of a doctor, and an hour later was found dead at the entrance to Odd Fellows' hall. The knife pierced his lungs. Robinson was arrested. A crowd of McCarthy's friends threatened to lynch him, and he had to be taken to a private residence before his removal to the Doylestown jail.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—Tomorrow, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 1 p. m., the iron wage committee of the Amalgamated association will meet the Pittsburgh manufacturers and present for signature the proposed scale for the season of 1892-93. In past conventions the iron and steel scales were never presented until the close of the session. The delegates favor an early conference in order that the position of the manufacturers might be made known, so that if necessary, action can be taken by the convention before adjournment. Neither officers or delegates will say a word about the provisions beyond the fact that the price for boiling iron remains unchanged at $5.50 per ton. The manufacturers will this year treat with the scale committee individually.

HARRISBURG, June 15.—The Democratic state committee met yesterday afternoon in the board of trade rooms, which was attended by forty-two members. J. Marshall Wright presided. After the roll call Raymond Shearer, of Carlisle, placed the name of S. B. Griffiths in nomination as a candidate for delegate to Chicago, to represent the congressional district of the counties of Butler, Lawrence, Mercer and Beaver. Mr. Robert Ritchie, of Beaver county, nominated Senator Dunlap, of Beaver county. After some discussion Senator Dunlap's name was withdrawn, leaving Mr. Griffiths alone in the field, who was unanimously elected as a delegate to the Chicago convention. Joseph A. Mellon, late editor of the Beaver Star, who was recently confined in Beaver jail for libeling Senator Quay, was nominated by Mr. Stranahan, but several members objected.

OBITUARY.

Died, Mrs. Sarah McClure, the wife of J. Harvey McClure, at their residence on Bishop St., Bellefonte, at 3 o'clock p. m., Tuesday the 13th inst., aged about 80 years. Tuesday the 13th inst., aged about 80 years. After one week's illness, Mrs. McClure, whose maiden name was Sarah Riddle; she was born in the County of Down, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents when she was only six years of age. They settled in Centre county and she has resided in the county all her life. She married J. Harvey McClure in the year 1845 and she was indeed a helpmate to him during her whole life. She leaves a husband, three sons, James and William, who reside in Bellefonte, and Charlie, who resides in Southern California, where he went some 12 years ago. Of all the losses which we are called to sustain, few are more sad than the decease of Mrs. McClure in the community. A mother's loss is irreparable, nothing can be substituted in her stead. Home without a mother, is a tree without leaves, a hearthstone without fire, a night without a moon. When one such departs, the tenderest feelings are stirred, and the deepest emotions of sorrow overflow the soul. The loss of such a mother we deplore to-day and the community feels her departure. Inexorable death has come into one of our families, and in a single week wrought a work which months and years cannot repair; made heart-wounds which no lapse of time can heal, and has taken an affectionate wife, and a devoted mother, down into the long, unbroken silence of the tomb. Her loss will be felt in the neighborhood; will be missed from the bed-side of the sick and the pillow of the dying. She was a ministering angel in the sick room. She would go night or day, at all hours, to nurse back to life the tenderest of our children, and her kind counsel and loving words will be missed. She was a Christian and a member of the Methodist church. She connected herself with the church some 40 years ago and gave evidence of pure Christianity by her good acts, deeds and labor; ever doing and laboring for suffering humanity. We will never forget her devotion, her kind and kind advice at her mother's bedside, her scarcely an hour sickness, until she was laid upon her death bed. There is indeed every source of hope in her death. Her kind, fallen angel and gone to him who gave her life.

Now when a good mother dies, all this dependence ceases. The thousand little acts and kind words, and judicious advice ends, and one of the truest friends ever given to man in his pilgrimage of sorrow, is lost. The hand that often placed the cordial to lips lies still in death; the lips which have uttered such kind words and shed so many prayers are motionless; the heart which has many weary years beat with such fearful intensity for the welfare of her children, is pulseless. The weary watch has ceased, and the last rush of maternal tenderness has had its flow. We cannot be surprised that the husband, when he wished to portray his deep and unfeigned sorrow at his repeated disasters, at the treachery of his friends and the hatred of his foes, at the deep and agonizing sorrows which were rolling over him, should declare "that he was bowed down as heavily as one who was sorrowing for a mother."

By her removal a husband is left to mourn over one who has been with him in joy and sorrow, with whom he has taken sweet counsel and whose life has been identified with his through a long series of years, and the children are deprived of a mother who has sacrificed her own comfort, ease and welfare for their good; who has employed herself in devising plans and executing purposes for their happiness. For such a wife and such a mother tears should be freely shed. A week, humble, quiet life of domestic experience has closed and the friend who has followed you with so much kindness through life, has ended her labor upon earth and entered upon her reward. The lonely home will no more echo with the tones of her voice. The heart will no more be cheered by her kind and comforting memory; review her life of unostentatious piety, consider her present fidelity, and when tempted to wish her back to toll and weep and suffer and die again, let her beautiful state and her heavenly content, still each murmuring thought and drive from the lips each contented expression.

When Mrs. P. G. Meek was visiting in California she met Charles McJure, he was looking well, Mrs. Meek kissed Charlie for his mother and got home in time to deliver the kiss to his mother which was a great source of consolation to her, in the hour of her death. She was much pleased and thankful to Mrs. Meek.

I Am So Tired.
Is a common exclamation at this season. There is a certain bracing effect in cold air, which is lost when the weather grows warmer; and when Nature is renewing her youth, her admirers feel dull, sluggish and tired. This condition is owing mainly to the impure condition of the blood, and its failure to supply healthy tissue to the various organs of the body. It is remediable, however, by the use of a system of the help to be derived from a good medicine at this season. Possessing just those purifying, building up qualities which the body craves, it is so easily and so speedily absorbed that tired feeling, restores the appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, imparts vigorous health. Its friends with one voice declare "It Makes the Weak Strong."
