

TO SEARCH FOR PEARY.

Professor Angelo Heilprin Starts on His Long Trip.

GOOD MEN ACCOMPANY HIM.

If Peary is Found Promptly Heilprin May Do a Little Exploring on His Own Account—Proposed Route of the Party—Continuous Daylight.

New York, June 28.—Prof. Angelo Heilprin, of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, and a party of seven associates sailed on the steamship Miranda of the Red Cross line for St. John's, N. F.

The party goes to aid and relieve Lieutenant Peary and his party, from whom nothing has been heard since they landed at McCormick Bay, July 25, 1891.

The Route.

At St. John's the steamship Kite, which carried Lieutenant Peary and party to the Arctic regions, will be commanded by Captain Pike, who accompanied the Greely expedition in 1881.

It is thought that the Peary party are in the vicinity of the Eighty-fourth parallel of latitude and the course of the vessel will be directed thither as the objective point.

Professor Heilprin has been extremely careful in the selection of those who will accompany him, and it is believed that the following, who will share the fate of the professor, are well fitted for the trip: Dr. Henry G. Bryant, S. I. Entrick, C. E. Hite, A. W. Morse, F. W. Stokes, Dr. J. M. Mills and William J. Meehan, all of Philadelphia.

The route of the Kite after leaving St. John's will not be an easy one, as it is very likely at this season of the year that dense fog will impede her way from Cape Farewell up, and, too, great difficulty will be experienced in steering clear of the ice floes and icebergs so numerous in Baffin's bay even in midsummer.

There will be one great advantage at this season of the year in having continuous daylight after passing Holsteinburg until about Sept. 1, which will greatly aid navigation. When Godhavn is reached it will be necessary to procure dogs and sledges, by means of which the vessel will endeavor to make her way through the ice to Upernivik, the most northern settlement in Greenland.

From Upernivik the course of the vessel will depend largely upon the amount of ice encountered, but it is thought she will go directly across Melville bay to Cape York, as it would be impossible to skirt the coast.

Should the Peary party be found well and hearty at McCormick bay, the relief party will probably return at once to St. John's, in order to avoid the ice.

May Explore a Little.

Ample provisions will be taken along to land at McCormick bay, provided the Peary party are not found at the latter place, and if it is found that Smith's sound is comparatively free from ice Professor Heilprin will not return at once, but will take time to make whatever explorations are found to be practicable on his own account, thus endeavoring to penetrate a little further into the mysteries of the Arctic regions.

The Peary expedition was undertaken in aid of scientific research, and with that spirit of adventure so conspicuous in Americans.

Lieutenant Peary was accompanied by his wife. Professor Heilprin hopes to find the explorer's wife at McCormick bay, where she doubtless remained while her husband went on his explorations.

Lieutenant Peary is due in McCormick bay on July 25, and unless something is heard from him soon afterward grave doubts will be entertained for his safety.

Borup's Recall Requested.

PARIS, June 28.—The American legation here has cabled to Washington asking the authorities to recall Captain Borup, the military attaché, who is accused of having procured plans and descriptions of French fortifications for illegal purposes from a clerk in the naval department. Captain Borup has apparently lost his head and has given several contradictory versions of the affair in interviews he has had with newspaper reporters. A French detective in citizen's clothes sits on a bench in the avenue Marceau watching the residence of Captain Borup and the doors of the American legation.

STREETS SUBMERGED.

Hundreds of Families Homeless Along the Upper Mississippi.

BURLINGTON, Ia., June 28.—The Mississippi river is coming up steadily at the rate of half an inch an hour. It has risen since last night nearly a foot, making the stage now but four inches less than that of the big rise of 1888, which was the highest known since 1851. Mills have been compelled to close and piles of lumber as well as buildings have had to be anchored. The river above the city is twenty miles wide, having spread out over the low lands of Iowa and Illinois to that extent.

A farmer named West came to town to secure a steamer to rescue his stock from drowning. He reported that a large quantity of stock and many families on the low lands in his neighborhood were in danger. The Pauline, with a crew of workers, left for the scene at once and will spend the night in transferring the unfortunate to higher ground. Trains have ceased to run on some of the lines, and on others the same thing is likely to occur at any moment.

ROCK ISLAND, Ills., June 28.—The flood of the last few days is the greatest ever known, a large portion of the city adjacent to the river having been inundated. It is estimated that fully 200 families have been driven from their homes by the rising waters. Rock river is still raging and the wagon and railroad bridges are in danger of being swept away.

This town of Milan is situated in the midst of a sea. The water rushes through the streets in small rivers, and in part of the town is communication possible other than by means of boats. James Post attempted to wade across the street near the river and was swept out into the rushing waters and was drowned. His body has not yet been recovered.

WARSAW, June 28.—The Mississippi is now four inches higher than during the rise of May. There are thousands of dollars in growing wheat in the levee district south of here, saved from the previous high water, threatened, with little hope of saving it. The levee situation is critical.

KEOKUK, June 28.—The Mississippi river at this place registers 18.4 feet above low water mark, the highest point of the season. The water is still rising. The lumber mills and railway machine shops have shut down. No trains south on St. Louis, Keokuk and Northwestern have arrived since Saturday. Many dwellers in the lowlands are permanently deserting their homes.

Captain Borup Recalled.

PARIS, June 28.—Mr. T. Jefferson Coolidge, the American minister, had an interview with M. Ribot, minister of foreign affairs, and informed him that in accordance with the French government the United States had recalled Captain Borup, the American military attaché, who is accused by the French of illegal practices in connection with the obtaining of plans of the French defenses.

Foa Will Fight De Mores. PARIS, June 28.—Captain Cremeux Foa, who a short time ago fought a duel with Edouard Drumont, editor of the Libre Parole, because of the attacks on the Hebrews that had appeared in that paper, and who wounded Drumont in the face, intends to fight a duel with the Marquis de Mores after the latter's trial for killing Captain Mayer in a duel a few days ago.

A Demon Reported Lynched.

CHATTANOOGA, June 28.—William Phillips, a farmer, living in Marshall county, assaulted his eleven-year-old sister. Phillips then beat and choked the child into insensibility and then fed. The news of the crime created wild excitement in the neighborhood, and a mob was organized and started in pursuit. It was reported that the man had been lynched.

Cashier Murray Still Missing.

GOSHEN, N. Y., June 28.—Nothing has been learned of the whereabouts of the cashier of the Goshen National bank. The shortage in the bank's accounts is estimated at from $45,000 to $75,000. The bank examiners are still at work. Several of the directors say that the bank will be able to pay the depositors in full.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

And Men of War Times.

By the Veteran Journalist, Col. A. K. McClure, LL. D., Editor-in-Chief of The Philadelphia Times.

Col. McClure needs no introduction to the public. He is well and widely known as a forceful and perspicuous writer, as a clear and sagacious student of men and events, as a writer of experiences, extraordinary alike in scope and interest. Of the many books that have been published relating to Abraham Lincoln and his administration, this is among the most interesting and valuable. It is not a biography of Lincoln, nor a history of the Civil War, but it presents a series of pictures of Lincoln in his relation to the great events of his time and to the distinguished men who surround him, from the point of view of an experienced observer who was closely associated with the political movement of the day, and was frequently called into the confidential councils of the President.

Mr. McClure records in this book only those things of which he had personal knowledge, or which came to his knowledge directly, and his personal recollections of Lincoln present a faithful and vivid portrait of that great man at many points of the critical periods of his career, as has not been presented before. The revelations of Lincoln's judgment and skill as a politician are particularly interesting, because this side of his character was known to comparatively few men living, although it formed an essential element in the public history of our times. The successive chapters describe the relations of Lincoln with the members of his cabinet, the leaders in Congress, the commanders of the armies and others of the prominent men about him, whose various and often conflicting efforts and ambitions he so wisely combined to the service of his country. The book is written with entire independence and freedom from partisanship or prejudice, in a spirit of just appreciation, and each chapter gives a clear, complete and considerate historical judgment of the subject to which it relates.

Perfectly Well. FILLMORE, Dubuque Co., Ia., Sept., 1890. Miss K. Furlong writes: My mother and sister used Paster Koehigs' Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tired of praising the tonic.

It was indeed a Miracle. 384 FIRST ST., BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 3, '90. I wish to state what a wonderful benefit Paster Koehigs' Nerve Tonic has been to my brother, who has suffered from rheumatism since childhood and has not been able to do work of any kind since that time. He has tried all kinds of patent medicines and different doctors of skill, but all without benefit, until he took the Tonic. He has continually improved since, and I will say, and hundreds besides me who have seen him thriving and healthy, that it was indeed a miracle to see him restored to health.
