The Little Caravel Starts From the Port of Palos.

A cablegram from Palos, Spain, says: On the four hundredth anniversary of the day on which Columbus set sail from Palos westward on his voyage of discovery the festivities arranged here for celebrating the day were carried out with great eclat.

The view from the town, however, was obscured by a thick mist which hung over the river and rendered it impossible to see more than a dim outline of the hulls of the vessels lying at anchor.

At 6 o'clock, the hour at which Columbus began his voyage, the caravel Santa Maria, constructed in imitation of the vessel of that name belonging to the Columbus expedi-tion, which had been lying off shore all night, set her sails for her passage through the lines of warships anchored outside the bar, but owing to the dead calm a line was run to her from a gunboat, and she was towed down stream, followed by the Spanish flotilla in single file. Minister of Marine Montigo was on board the warship Legespi.

The voyage down the river past the Mon-astery of La Rabida, on which the flags of all the American States were flying, to the bar occupied about an hour. Outside the bar were moored the vessels of the foreign squadrons which had come to take part in the celebration. These vessels were formed in lines, between which the caravel passed amid the thundering salutes and deafening cheers. The mist and the smoke from the guns made it impossible to watch the manœuvres of the caravel, which followed for some distance the route taken by Columbus 400 years ago. At 9 o'clock the little vessel returned nd re-entered the river.

The town of Huelva is crowdel with visitors, and all the buildings, both private and public, are gayly decorated.

Fifteen of the Spanish flotilla conveyed the Santa Maria several miles to sea, and when the signal was given by the Spanish Minister of Marine for the vessel to return the caravel was given a farewell salute.

The caravel returned with the flotilla to Huelva. These manœuvres were part of a ceremonial in celebration of the departure of Columbus.

A dispatch from Washington says: The following cable messages were exchanged on the anniversary day: The President. day four hundred years ago Columbus sailed from Palos, discovering America. The United States flag is being hoisted this moment in front of Convent La Rabida along with banners of all American States. Batteries and ships saluting, accompanied by enthusiastic acciamations of the people, army and navy. God bless America. PRIETO, Alcalde of Palos.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, August 3, 1892. Senor Prieto, Alcaide de Palos, La Rabida, Spain: The President of the United States directs me to cordially acknowledge your message of greeting. Upon this memorable day, thus fittingly celebrated, the people of the new Western world, in grateful reverence to the name and fame of Columbus, join hands with the sons of the brave sailors of Palos and Huelva who manned the discoverer's FOSTER, Secretary of State.

The fatally injured were: Philip Strosber and five-year-old son, August Adams, Frederick Kreiger, Paul Keuk, Henry Lui-

John Willich The accident was the result of the late heavy rains. Upon the hilistide above Page street was a deep gully, the natural outlet of the water from the country above. A year ago Page street had been filled up across this ully, leaving a small culvert to carry off he ordinary water. This culvert had long ago been choked up, and the recent storm had filled the deep basin to the brim, making a lake two acres in extent and forty-five feet deep.

A crack three inches wide appeared on the any danger. Suddenly the fill let go, and the body of water swept down upon the low land below. In ten minutes the whole thing was over. A general alarm of fire was sounded, and all the ambulance and tartic wascent in the minutes. ance and patrol wagons in the city were on the scene. Men, women and children were on the scene. Men, women and children were fished out of the debris for nearly half a mile. To add to the horror of the scene the water had carried away the gas pipes and left everything in darkness. The loss to property will amount to $60,000.

A BABY THE PREY.

Two Eagles Fight for Possession of a Child.

Two eagles had a duel to the death for the possession of the six-months-old baby of Pete Shaw, who lives four miles north of Allis, in Presque Isle County, Mich., a few days

Mrs. Shaw had laid the baby down in the grass and returned to the house for a few noments when an enormous eagle swooped the little one's flesh and clothing.

The mother heard her baby's cry, but came too late to save it. The mother's shrieks brought the father, who quickly mounted a horse and armed with a rifl's rode to the shore of a nearby lake, where he knew was an eagle eyrie in the cliffs.

Shaw arrived just in time to witness a terrible sight. Two eagles were hovering above a crag of rock, filling the air with their cries and battling for possession of the baby that lay high upon the cliff.

Before the father reached the summit one of the eagles had fallen to the ground while the other had again taken up the child for another flight. The father fired, and the bird and baby fell into the water. The frantic father plunged into the lake, caught up the body, but the little one was dead. He took home the body, a mg with those of the two eagles, one of which had been kiked in the fight over the prey.

TRAIN ROBBERS' RICH HAUL.

Dynamite Used to Splinter the Express Car.

Two Masked Men With Shotguns Do the Work Quickly.

The fifth train robbery in the San Joaquin Valley in three years occurred early a few mornings ago near the small station of Collis, fifteen miles from Fresno, Cal. Thera were two robbers, and their methods of procedure were precisely the same as in previous cases, except that they were not molested by any passenger.

After rapidly splintering the express car with dynamite they cleaned up about $30,-000, jumped into a wagon and struck off across the plains. They selected one of the loneliest spots on the line, and showed such knowledge of the coverter, that there is knowledge of the country that there is no doubt they belong near Fresno.

As the train was pulling out of Collis just after midnight the engineer and fireman were startled by the appearance of two men on the tender. The strangers were armed with shotguns, and quickly covered the trainmen, at the same time telling them to obey orders.

When the train passed Rolendo station the engineer was ordered to stop and the fireman was ordered to touch off with a lighted cigar the fuse of a dynamite cartridge which the robbers placed on the piston of the driving-wheel on the left side of the locomotive. The fireman hesitated, but under the persuasion of a shotgun toucked the fuse. The explosion was terrific, breaking the piston rod and disabling the

The engineer was ordered to get off and walk up the track while they proceeded to bombard the door of the express car with dynamite cartridges. About eight car-tridges were used and the door was torn to splinters. Big holes were knocked in the sides of the car and the floor smashed into kindling wood. Then the pair, masked and completely disguised, entered the express car covering Louis Roberts, the messenger, with shot guns and ordered him to open the Wells Fargo safe.

Roberts set about doing this, but he was so excited and nervous that he forgot the combination. He so informed his captors. and one of them struck him a heavy on the head with a gun and threatened to kill him if he did not immediately open the safe. This action strengthened the messenger's memory, and with trembling hands he opened the strong box and they took out all the sacks of coin.

When the desperadoes exploded the first cartridge on the engine the passengers poked their heads out of the windows to see what was up. Their curiosity was amply satisfied when one of the robbers fired a pistol twice along the row of windows. There was a panic, and the passengers made a wild scramble under the seats.

The explosions of the bombs against the express car rocked and shook the train with the violence of an earthquake. A window in front of the passenger coach immediately behind the express car was shattered to For twenty-five minutes the train was held, but only one passenger attempted to interiere with the robbers, and as he was armed only with a small revolver he soon

The safe contained three bags of coin, each holding $5000. These the robbers compelled the engineer and fireman to carry to a wagon which they had hitched by the side of the track. When the coin was thrown under the seat the masked men jumped in

RIOT IN DUQUESNE.

Carnegie Strikers Attacked Deserters With Stones and Clubs,

Strikers took to clubs and stones to pre vent or delay a stampede at Duquesne, Penn. As a result several persons were beaten, and the military was placed in charge of the steel works there.

It became evident the day before that a break was imminent. A large number of the strikers had become coavince! where the that the fight was lost and went to the mill office, where they inscribed their names in the application book. There were a number of departments out of order by reason of the sudden shut-down, and Superintendent Morrison ordered William Mileslagel, foreman of the mechanical department, to report with thirty men in the morning for work. Notices was given in the night, and this spread until about sixty men, who had led the strike, hearing of it, determined to stop the Twenty Homestead men started for Duquesne also about daylight to assist the ringeaders in preventing any persons entering the works. They were in charge of two brothers named Harris.

About 6 o'clock twelve deputy sheriffs, in the mill gate, and a crowd began to gather. By 7 o'clock it numbered 300. About this time members of the mechanical department, in obs-dience to the order of Foreman Mileslagel, arrived with lunch pails. They were halted the crowd, which was armed with clubs and boulders. Every man was ordered home with such threatening demonstra-tions that the majority fied in terror. The others determined to attempt an en-trance. When they did so some of the mob-set upon them with clubs, and, although the cooler heads tried to prevent trouble, several men were badly injured and many receive i slight cuts and bruises.

The nine deputy sheriffs in charge of the property were powerless to protect the work-men, and the latter hastily retreated. The deputies immediately telegraphed to Briga-dier-General Wylle, at Homestend, that they were unable to preserve order, and asked that troops be sent at once to assist them. General Wylle ordered the Sixteenth Regiment to proceed at once to the disorder, but, on learning that a regiment was not required, he sent two companies. aval of this detachment of the National Guard the crowds dispersed and no further iawiessness was attempted. During the fight Foreman Milesiagel and another workman were badly cut about the head and ing from mor injuries is very large.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON FOR AUGUST 14.

Lesson Text: "Ananias and Sapphira," Acts v., 1-11-Golden Text: Gal. vi., 7-Commentary.

1. "But a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possassion." We have been reading of two noble, faith-He might be glorified, but we have now a sad contrast in the story of these two while professing faithfulness to Jesus Christ were not sincere at heart, but while outwardly contrast in the story of these two while professing faithfulness to Jesus Christ were not sincere at heart, but while outwardly continue them were services the most sincere at heart, but while outwardly continue them were services as the services and the services are the services as the services as the services are serving Him were serving themselves also Many had sold their possessions and had honestly given all to God; their new hopes and joys had made earthly possessions seem valueless except as they might do good with them and thus lay up treasure in heaven (Math. vi., 20, 21; Luke xviii., 22; I Tim.

2. "And kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, and brought a certain part and laid it at the apostles' reet." There is an old command to this effect, Walk before Me, and be thou sincere (Gen. xvii., 1, margin). "Thou shalt be sincere with the Lord thy God" (Deut. xxviii., 13, margin). And it is also written, "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully" (Jer. xlviii., 19). Our Lord Jesus kept back nothing when he gave Himself for us; He completely emptied Himself and humbled Himself even unto death (Phil. fi., 5-8).

3. "But Peter said, Ananias, why hath satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and keep back part of the price of the land?" God desires truth even in the inward parts (Ps. li., 6) and He bas said, "He that worketh deceit shall not dwell within My house; he that telleth lies shall not tarry in My sight" (Ps. ci., 7). Contrast "filled with the Spirit" and "filled with satan," or "filled with indignation or envy" (chapter iv., 31; vi., 3, 17). The only way for a believer is to be filled with the spirit and then all else will be crowded out. This command (Eph. v., 18) is binding upon all, and to neglect it is to be guilty of disobedience.

4. "While it remained was it not thine own? And after it was sold was it not in thine own power? Why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? Thou hast not lied unto men but unto God." God does not need our possessions, for "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof" (Ps. xxiv., 1), but He is graciously pleased to accept that which we cheerfully and sincerely give unto him and use it for His glory. All that we have He has given to us, and what we give Him is only His own (I Chron. xxix., 14, 16). Observe in Peter's question. "Why hast thou conce ved?" that Ananias was responsible for allowing satan to intrude these thoughts upon him. There are two forces always working with us—satan and the Holy Spirit—one a fiar, the other the Spirit of Truth, but neither can fill us except we welcome

5. "And Ananias bearing these words fell down and gave up the ghost; and great fear came on all them that heard these things." If the hand of God were thus laid on all liars and deceivers in the church to-day there would surely come a great fear on many people. When we consider that we are not our own, but that these bodies even have been bought by His blood for His service (I Cor. vi., 19, 20), and then remember how we keep back hands and feet and eyes and ears and voice for our own pleasure, and that all this is simply lying unto God, why is it that we are not afraid?

6. "And the young men arose, wound him up and carried him out and turied him." Thus they disposed of his body, the house in which he had lived, and lied; but what of Ananias, the person who had oc-cupied that body? We know that there is such a thing as being barrely saved, saved as by fire (I Pet. iv., 18; I Cor. iii., 15). But when we read of the portion appointed to all liars (Rev. xxi., 8), we cannot have much if any ground for expecting to see either Ananias or Sapphira in the kingdom

7. "And it was about the space of three hours after when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in." Three hours a widow, but ignorant of the fact. How long they had journeyed together in these morta bodies we do not know, but his has ended and hers is about to, though she is all unseeking him, wondering why he delayed to return home. It is a sad story, and is written to teach us to be sincere with God. 'And Peter answered unto her, Teli me whether ye sold the land for so much? And she said, Yer for so much." How one she said, Yez for so much." How one wishes that Peter might have been led to encourage her to tell the truth, but perhaps it would have been in vain. The heart is so desperately wicked and deceitful above all things (Jer. xvii., 9) that even in this en lightened age both men and women have been known to swear before God and man to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and then deliberately lie. in His long suffering has graciously allowed them to live on if perchance they might re-

9. "Then Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord?" Compare this werse with verses 3 and 4 and see the unity of the Trinity, but particularly a clear proof the Spirit is God, for lying to the Holy Spirit is called lying unto God. "Behold the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out," This is startling and awful. The announcement of her nusband's death is for the first time made known to her, and in the same breath she is told that she, too, shall instantly die, and she does. Sentence is pronounced and execution takes place in the same moment. It is the hand God. Compare chapters xii., 28, and Jer. xxviii., 16, 17.

10. 'Then fell she down straightway at his feet and yielded up the ghost; and the young men came in and found her dead, and carrying her forth buried her by her husband." In the morning they are in health, but are united in a lie to God, that they may appear before men to be very religious; but before night they are found out (Num. xxxii., 23) and are dead and bursed. Two liers in one grave, but their souis-11. "And great lear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things." Such manifestation of God's hatred of sin must have been necessary at this, the beginning of the formation of His church on earth. We do well to remember tout al-though He seems to keep silence now in reterence to tae corruptions an i abominations in His professing church, He is the same sinner loving but sin bating God, and that soon now ju igment, will begin at the house of God (I Pet. iv., 17; Rev. iii., 10.— Lesson Helper.

The routen national pank of the city of New York has issued a neat pamphlet giving the most prominent facts connected with the production and use of gold and silver in the last four hundred years, a digest of the United States coinage act of 1792, and statistics of coinage, exports and imports, and circulation in this country since then. Also tables showing; the commercial ratios of values of gold and silver. The pamphlet contains no arguments, either pro or con, but presents the material from which may be drawn the foundation of much reasoning in regard to the morits of the free coinage question.
