A LETTER FROM BLAINE.

He Will Not Be Able to Deliver Public Speeches.

HIS VIEWS ON SEVERAL QUESTIONS.

The Tariff, Reciprocity and the National Currency are the Three Most Prominent Questions That Should Be Discussed in the Present Campaign.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 7.—The follow-ing letter from Hon. James G. Blaine to Chairman Manley, of the Republican state committee, was made public last nigh

MY DEAR SIR-Not being able, for reasons which I have explained to you, to deliver public speeches in this present campaign I take the liberty of submitting my views on the issues, which I regard as being strongest for the Republi-cans to arge before the people. First—The issue of the greatest consequence is the tariff on imports, and it will continue to be until a settlement is effected by a majority so large that it will be tantamount to general acqui-The Republicans are aggressive on this subject. Two years ago they passed a general enactment known as the McKinley tariff, which for a time failed to meet with popular approval and was regarded with a certain degree of distrust by those who had always upheld the protective system But a powerful reaction has came in consequence of the vindication of McKinley tariff by experience. It is found to have worked ad-mirably, and within the last year has produced a greater volume of business. internal and external, export and import, than the United States ever transacted before. Notwithstanding the character and extent of the opposition to it, agri-culture is remunerative, manufactures are prosperous and commerce is more flourishing than at any previous time, thus vindicating the McKinley tariff by impressive and undeniable facts.

Against this tariff the Democratic party have taken a position almost with-out parallel in the history of the country. They reject entirely the doctrine of pro tection, pronounce it a fraud and anathe-matize it generally. A resolution to this effect was adopted by the Democratic convention against the representatives of the committee on resolutions by a twothirds vote, thus manifesting the intelligent participation of every intelligent man in the convention. Sometimes a resolution may be adopted in haste, or when a convention is adjourning, it may fail to receive the attention of members: but this resolution was debated, pro and con, adopted after a contest, and was perfectly understood by the members of the convention. It is contained in these words: "We denounce the Republican protection as a fraud upon the labor of the great majority of the American peo-ple for the benefit of the few. We de-clare it a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only. The Democrats are in the habit of naming Jefferson as the founder of their party, and yet, on the subject of tariff. they are in radical opposition to the prin-ciples laid down by Jefferson. Toward the close of his administration the revenue from the tariff on imports produced a considerable surplus, and the guestion was what should be done; should the tariff be reduced or should this sur-plus be maintained? Jefferson pointedly 'Shall we suppress the imports asked: and give that advantage to foreign over domestic manufacturers? For himself he recommended that the imposts be maintained and that the surplus created should be appropriated to the improvement of roads canals, rivers and education Second—When the principle of re-ciprocal trade was first proposed to be introduced into the tariff system the Democrats showed as much generous appreciation of the question and gave it their support as long as the Republicans refused to accept; but when the Republicans came to approve it the Democrats vanished, and instead of favoring, we find the Democratic national convention passing a resolution hostile to the sys-tem. But in spite of Democratic op-position we have attained, through reciprocity, a new and valuable trade and the system has demonstrated its many advantages. We were able to declare sugar, molasses, coffee and hides free of all duties in the McKinley bill, but in-stead we passed a bill by which we asked the several nations interested what they would give to have their articles free. We found the privileges which we were able to give without cost or charge would secure a large trade in Brazil and Cuba, in the Windward and Leeward islands. in British Guiana and Jamaica, San Domingo and the five Central Americas and a minor degree in Anstralia. France and Germany, all in exchange for articles which we intended to gratuitously admit. Third-With all its calamities the war brought us one great blessing-national currency. There are many who will say it was worth the cost of the war to bring about so auspicious a result to capital and labor. Prior to the war we had the worst currency system of any enlight ened nation in the world. The state banks, with some exceptions, were thor-oughly irresponsible. Wherever one of oughly irresponsible. Wherever one of them failed the result was a large loss and great distress among the people the state banks it was often and truly said their delts were the measure of the profits. Since the close of the war all this is different. Every paper dollar that cir culates among the people has the United States behind it as a guarantee. All the banks that exist are under the control of the national government, and if they fa as financial institutions the governmen has taken care that their bills shall is paid by securities deposited in govern ment vanits. Under these circumstances it's a matter for extraordinary surpris that the Democratic convention shoul deliberately pass resolutions for the re-vival of the state banks How the Democratic convention came to make such a declaration, who was its author, what intelligent purpose was in it, will remain a mystery. I have heard the argument adduced that we would keep the money at home if state banks were instituted, but we should keep it at home because so worthless that nobody would take it abroad. Were the system of state banks revived we would again have discounts at the state lines, large charges for drafts on financial centers and general suspicion of every bill offered in payment, with a liquidation every few years that would be a destructive loss to the innocent holders of bills and a corre-sponding profit to the parties owning the banks.

GEORGE WILLIAM. CURTIS. Death of the Brilliant Editor, Author and Reformer.

NEW YORR, Sept. 1.-George William Curtis is dead. His death took place at his residence near New Brighton, S. I., 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Curtis had been ailing for several months, his disease being, as was supposed, cancer of the stomach.

George William Curtis has long been known to the world as author, lecturer and journalist, reformer and politician. yet when his serious illness was an nounced the thinking public suddenly discovered that it had not really known

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS.

He was born in Providence Feb. 24, 1824, and after obtaining a common school education there passed four years at an academy at Jamaica Plains. Mass, His father decided on a mercantile career and placed him as clerk in a German importing house. We need say no more as to the judgment of the elder Curtis. His son's year in that office was decidedly the unhappiest period of the lad's life. He "cut the shop," as they said in those days, in sheer desperation, aud with an older' brother joined the Brook Farm community in West Roxbury, Mass.

After Brook Farm the Curtis brothers remained two years in Concord, Mass., and vicinity, working a farm, studying and writing, and at the end of that time George William had acquired a standing as a writer which enabled him to go abroad. He went in 1846 and re-turned in 1850. The result appears in his famous works on Syria and Egypt, which caused him to be known for many years as the "Howadji," or Pilgrim

In 1856 he married Miss Shaw, who is unknown in the literary world, but greatly loved in the social circle. That year also he gained a great reputation as an orator, speaking for Fremont in various states. In 1860 he was a delegate to the convention which nominated Abraham Lincoln, and by a clever stroke secured the insertion in the plat-form of the opening clauses of the Declaration of Independence after Joshua R. Giddings had been defeated in the same attempt. In 1863 he became the political editor of Harper's Weekly and soon made it the power it has ever since been.

Death was the result of nervous prostration, from which Mr. Dougherty had been suffering for some time Mr. Dougherty was born in this city Oct. 15, 1826, and received his education Berlin. at private schools. He was admitted to his native city on 1849, and had since gained a world famous reputation as an orator and humorist. He was a well known political speaker. He was one of the founders of the first Union League, and worked earnestly for President Lincoln's re-election in 1864, but subsequently acted with the Democratic party.

It was not an agreeable day by any means, for the rain came down in torrents at frequent intervals, but that trivial thing had very little effect on the enthusiasm of the visitors to the city or the residents thereof. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.-When Dixon and Skelly weighed in at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Skelly was under the limit of 117 1-2 pounds and Dixon was heavier. When the colored boy stepped on the scales the beam, which had been placed at the limit, refused to rise, and for a second or two it looked as though George was not down to weight. After a pause, when Dixon held his breath in hard, the beam wobbled and finally went up with an effort. He jumped off the scales quickly and was said to be at weight. It was a close call, as he probably scaled less than one oance under the limit. More than 5,000 persons were present at the Olympic club to view the fight. There were about 400 negroes in the au-dience. The fight was for the champion-ship and $12,500, and was easily won by Dixon in eight rounds. Skelly was no match for the colored boy, who won as liked, and gladdened the hearts of the colored contingent in the audience, who were present in large numbers.
