

A VERSATILE WOMAN.

Arrested for Robbing Her Mistress, Marchese Ruspoli.

SPEAKS SIX LANGUAGES FLUENTLY.

She Tells a Story at Police Court Involving One of the Most Famous Names in French History—Her Career as Given by the Police Officials.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Not for many a day has a woman of such versatility appeared in a police court as Kate Sheridan-Rickert, who was arraigned before Justice Grady at the Tombs court yesterday.

The stories she tells came out as a result of her arrest on the charge of larceny, and involves one of the most famous names in French history, the present Marquis de Talleyrand, and his son-in-law, Prince Ruspoli, who is attached to the Italian legation at Washington, in the shape of a family skeleton. The other is a sort of side light on the history of the remarkable little woman, and tells of a flirtation by letter which she carried on with three men in as many languages and under different nom de plumes.

Katie Sheridan has of late been employed in the family of the Prince Ruspoli, and lived with them in Washington and in this city during the winter, and at Lenox, Mass., during the summer and fall.

She was a pretty, modest appearing woman, with a taking way of casting downward her black eyes, and great was the surprise, it is said, when she disappeared from the Ruspoli home at Washington, and at the same time $2,000 worth of fine wearing apparel and jewels went along with her.

When caught on Saturday at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street the clothes the girl wore were the property of the Marchese Ruspoli, and in her possession were found other articles, as well as jewelry, that had been taken from her employers.

The young woman broke down and confessed under the pressure of the strong evidence against her.

But she not only told the story of the thefts to the detectives, but also went further and detailed something of the alleged history of the representative of the house of Talleyrand.

The story, which is somewhat scandalous, involves the name of a well known society woman of Washington with that of the gallant old marquis of historical name. She further said that the Prince Ruspoli and his father-in-law are said to be engaged in booming New Jersey real estate near Lakewood, where the former is ostensibly at least connected with the Italian legation. It is said that the young woman knows considerable of the private affairs of the Ruspolis, which knowledge gave her liberties not usually enjoyed by servants.

In court the young woman was dressed plainly in black. When she was brought before the bar to plead she seemed on the point of breaking down. Whether it was skillful acting or the display of real emotion it was very hard to decide.

The history of the prisoner, who was sent to Washington in charge of a deputy marshal and J. W. Mattingly, of the Metropolitan police of Washington, D. C., to answer the charge of larceny, has only in part been secured by the indefatigable work of the central office bureau. They have not by any means followed out all the ends of the story. They know nothing about her husband as yet, but it is denied that he was the professional crook of that name.

The police do not believe that she has ever done anything wrong before. Katie Sheridan-Rickert was a professional nurse. She has been employed by the wealthiest families, and has been able to secure the best recommendations from doctors in this city.

She is very highly accomplished. She speaks at least three languages. These include French, Italian and English. They say that she can talk a half dozen languages. At one time she was a professional nurse at the insane pavilion on Blackwell's Island, and it is said that at that place she made the intimate acquaintance of young doctors, who have since given her recommendations.

When the Rickert woman appeared before Commissioner Shields before she was sent to Washington she was in tears. She was asked if she was willing to go back to the capital, and she said she did not know what to do. She finally consented to go.

A Stupendous Mining Fraud.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—In 1889 William Whalen, who was the reported owner of a mine called the St. Peters, in the Antelope district, came to the city and by the aid of a smooth tongue, and apparently good references, succeeded in placing among some 107 persons nearly 7,500 shares of stock, in lots ranging from 500 shares downward. He scattered his favors without prejudice, and landed in his net men of all creeds and pursuits. To keep up appearances until he had sucked the town dry Whalen had paid out some $25,000 as dividends on the stock sold. At length suspicion was aroused, and one of the stockholders had Whalen arrested, but a compromise was reached and Whalen left town before others could get hold of him. The stockholders had left only the printed certificates. A day or two since Whalen returned to the city and was at once arrested. Now the victims will have their inning. It is generally understood that Whalen netted something like $500,000 in the deal.

The Homestead Poisoning.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—Twelve more informations were made yesterday against Homestead strikers and others for complicity in the alleged poisoning of the non-union men. The names of the accused could not be learned. Captain Breck, counsel for the Carnegies, stated last night that the arrests of Gilfoyle and Coleman in Cincinnati on a charge of poisoning was ill timed. It was not the intention to arrest the men, but to keep them under surveillance. No requisition papers will be taken out to bring them back, and nothing will be done to prevent their release.

The Seneca Oppose Annexation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A delegation of three Seneca Indians from the Indian Territory, in charge of J. J. PITTSBURG, Jan. 3.—River and coal men are anxiously watching the rivers. The ice in the first pool has broken, but the three Upper Monongahela pools are still frozen solid, and it is feared that a sudden break up will do great damage to craft from gorges.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—Two weeks ago Mary Catherine, a day or two later Albert M., and the day following Willie Albert, three children of Albert S. Henle and wife, were taken sick with a low fever. Mary died on Saturday last, Albert on Monday and Willie yesterday.

Dayenport has been made second vice president and Robert H. Sayre, Jr., assistant superintendent.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 4.—The schools of Freeburg borough have been closed on account of the prevalence of diphtheria. There have been two deaths inside of a week, and fifteen dangerous cases at present exist. The number of cases outside the borough limits, where no quarantine can be enforced, is greater than in town.

READING, Pa., Jan. 4.—Coroner Kaestner held an inquest upon the body of an unknown man who was found strangled in a cave near Klappertsha. A red handkerchief was tied around his neck and there was a gash in the left wrist, showing that an attempt had been made to sever the artery. A verdict of suicide was rendered.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Jan. 3.—Rollin H. Wilbur, who on Saturday afternoon was appointed general superintendent of the Lehigh Valley railroad, assumed the duties of his office yesterday. The appointment was made by President McCleod, of the Reading system. Mr. Wilbur is only 30 years old, but is an experienced railroad man.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—The long talked of caucus of Republican members of the house came off last evening. Representative Walton, of Philadelphia, whose defeat for speaker was a foregone conclusion, accepted the situation in the best of humor, and made the nominating speech for C. C. Thompson, of Warren, who was chosen unanimously.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—Supreme Justice F. D. Somyerby, of the collapsed Order of Iron Hall, was arrested on Saturday at the instance of State Banking Superintendent Krambhar on charges of "conspiring to cheat and defraud; with unlawfully using the money of the order, and with obstructing the administration of public justice. PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—The arrest in Cincinnati on Monday of Anthony Gullyfoyle and William Coleman, who are charged with being implicated in the alleged plot to poison the non-union men at Homestead, was wholly a surprise to the Pinkerton men in the employ of the Carnegie Steel company. They wanted to have the men arrested in Indiana or Kentucky, where the requirements of the extradition laws are much easier satisfied. George Champener, member of the Homestead advisory committee, was arrested yesterday and committed to jail on a bail piece. He was charged with conspiracy.

WARNER'S DEFENSE.

Said to be Incapable of Knowing What He Was Doing.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Jan. 4.—The defense in the Wesley Warner case yesterday produced a number of witnesses to prove that Warner was in such a state of intoxication at the time he murdered Lizzie Peak that he was incapable of knowing what he was doing. Dr. R. C. Barrington, the jail physician, also testified that he found Warner the day after the tragedy suffering considerably from alcoholism. Warner was next called to the stand and gave his testimony in a low voice, but without displaying the least emotion.

He said he got along well with Lizzie until the week of the fair. Prior to that they had lived as man and wife for a year or more. He said he had given her money during the fair, and there found her intoxicated, whereupon he began drinking himself, and did not know what occurred after that. Some events he could recall, but others he could not. He said he felt badly because she was keeping bad company.

Continuing the witness said: "I don't remember much what occurred on the night of the murder. I was sort of stupid. I remember taking the knife off the table and going out with it, but not with the intention of harming any one. I wanted it in case any one attacked me on the road. Then I laid down by the road until I heard some one hallo. I saw it was Lizzie, so I was very angry. She came face to face with me and struck me in the side. Then I must have struck her. I had no control of myself. I didn't want to strike her. I wanted to make a lady of her. If I could have seen her on the day she was buried I would have given my life for her. I never threatened to kill her."

This concluded the testimony. The case will probably go to the jury today.

A Farmer's Inhuman Cruelty.

LAKE HENTON, Minn., Jan. 4.—Christ Niggard, a farmer living at Dramen, secured an 8-year-old boy from the Chicago society which supplies homes for friendless children. Rumors of ill treatment of the boy were investigated and found true. The society was notified and their agent found him in a terrible condition. His feet were frozen until the toes were almost off, his hair was off in spots, leaving raw sores. He was beaten and bruised until he could hardly walk. In this condition he had been made to go out to do chores on the farm, and the agent found him hobbling around on his heels. The people of Elkton threatened to lynch Niggard.

Dr. Heisinger Found Guilty.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—The court of the Evangelical association, which tried Rev. S. Heisinger, of Elkhart, Ind., found him guilty under six specifications and he was charged not proven under the seventh. He is suspended from the ministry, but will be reinstated if he retracts his statements within two weeks. If he does not the case will go to the next Ohio conference of the church. Mr. Heisinger was accused of falsehood and slander for sending forth a circular severely scolding Bishop Esher and other church dignitaries for their action in an accusation he made against Rev. William Yost, treasurer of the missionary fund.

An Important Decision Rendered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The United States supreme court has decided that in Ohio the separate property of a married woman could not be charged, in equity, by contracts executed previous to the existence of that property. Mrs. Hanson, of Xenia, O., possessed a small amount of property and signed certain promissory notes. She afterwards became possessed of more property. The suit to recover the amount of the notes sought to enjoin her acquired separate estate, but the supreme court took the ground that the said separate estate could not be held accountable.

Senator Allison Denies a Rumor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Senator Allison, looking brighter from his recent European jaunt, said to a reporter that he did not care to express any opinion about financial matters at this time, and he denies positively that he had ever said that the Republicans would refuse to touch the silver law, but would leave it to a Pandora's box for the Democratic administration. He did not deny that such might be good policy, but he did deny that he had ever said so.

The Child Murderer Acquitted.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—Stewart Rodgers, aged 11 years, whose trial for the killing of his playmate, James H. Stinson, aged 12, occupied the attention of the criminal court yesterday, was acquitted by the jury. The boy, who was perhaps the youngest person ever arraigned in the criminal court for murder, was accompanied by his mother and father, and there was a pathetic scene when the verdict was announced.

The Trolley Scores a Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—The state supreme court yesterday reversed the judgment of the common pleas court, No. 4, in the case of Haines, Reeves and Watkins against the Twenty-second, Continental and West Philadelphia Passenger Railway companies, popularly known as the "trolley cases." The decision of the court as rendered by Justice Mitchell is a sweeping victory for the corporation.

Senator Kenna Very Low.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Senator Kenna's condition at midnight last night was about the same. No hope of his ultimate recovery is held out by his physicians. The senator himself, however, is said not to have lost all hope, and believes he will yet pull through, as he has done in times past.

An Enemy Hated.

There is an enemy with whom thousands are familiar all their lives, because they are born with a tendency to biliousness. With this enemy they are constantly battling with ineffectual weapons. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will battle it. Mere purgatives will not reform a disordered condition of the liver indicated, not by constipation alone, but also by sick headaches, yellowness of the skin and eye balls, nausea, furred tongue and uneasiness, more particularly upon pressure on the right side upon and below the short ribs. Avoid drastic purgatives which gripe and weaken the intestines, and substitute this world famous anti-bilious cordial, which likewise removes malarial, stomachic and kidney complaints, rheumatism and nervousness. As a laxative of the bowels, painless but effectual, it improves appetite, sleep and the ability to digest, and possesses the additional advantage of a standard tonic.
