It ordinary channels of trade, which previously was paid out to laboring men, who in turn gave it to our merchants for their necessaries of life, and that is what made Bellefonte one of the liveliest, busiest towns in Central Pennsylvania, and gave it a most enviable reputation abroad. The relapse during the last two years was decidedly noticeable, and many predicted that Belleits future destiny was sealed.

May they act wisely. near by, the fine agricultural districts surrounding us on all sides, with plenty of capital and shrewd business men to handle the same, there was no occasion for growing despondent-a change was bound to come-it has come.

The Centre Iron Co. was reorganized into the Valentine Furnace Company and they have had their large furnace in successful operation and giving employment to five or six hundred men for some time past. Then the establishment of the Standard Scale Works was another important addition to our community, and it has been prospering and enlraging its capacity right along. The chain works of Linn & McCoy, recently established and giving employment to a large force of skilled mechanics, was another valuable and successful enterprise which started as an experiment, has been gradually growing until they were unable to fill orders for their superior product, and now are erecting new buildings, adding new machinery and will largely increase their force of workmen so that their capacity will be more than doubled.

the Bellefonte Furnace Company, operated by the Collins Brothers, will start at once and the two men whom he last Monday morning at 7:30 o'cloick, when Miss Helen, daughter of Mr. and will give their first assembly in the Mrs. Joseph Cedars, applied the torch loaf of bread which they claim was er, of Benner township, the prosecutor Bush Arcade. This means employment to miners, laboring men, furnace men and skilled mechanics to the the number of at least three or four hundred. This means an immense pay roll that will monthly put several thousand dollars

A Fatal Accident.

On the 8th of this month Mrs. Maize Winkleman, wife of Horace Winkleman, of Nittany, met with a fatal accident. She had gone to the barn for the purpose of gathering the eggs and climbed to the hay mow. By a misstep she fell through a hole in the mow to the floor some distance below, and was seriously injured. Being alone she got to the house with difficulty and her children informed neighbors of the accident, who soon arrived and rendered all the assistance they could. She lingered until the following Monday when death relieved her from her great suffering, caused by internal injuries.

She was 30 years of age and leaves a husband and three small children. The interment occurred on Tuesday in the Cedar Springs cemetery.

A Farmer's View of the Crops,

A farmer from Nittany Valley, who has been a close observer of the crops for years past, reports that there will only be a two-thirds wheat crop this year. The wheat lying in exposed places, such as on the hills, has been destroyed by the snow blown off during the past winter. Owing to the bad weather the sowing of the oats has been greatly retarded, as very little, if any, has been sown in that section. Heretofore farmers had nearly all their oats in the ground by the middle of April.

Grand Jury Report.

The grand jury made its report on Tuesday afternoon, its work being then the town. Well, they need it bad completed it was discharged. Their report, omitting legal phraseology, is in substance: Six true bills were found and three ignored. "We find the jail very clean," however it needs repairs. Wooden partition needs lining, ceiling should be repaired, and outside jail wall should be plastered. Court room is in good condition. New linoleum and refurnishing are needed in the Prothonotary's office. The Register's and Recorder's office vault should be refloored and the old racks and files should be replaced with metalic furniture like in the Prothonotary's office. Front yard of the court house should be put in better shape.

Bitten dy a Horse,

Last week Jack Riley, a teamster employed by Thos. Shoemaker, was at work at Hunters Park, along the Bellefonte Central railroad, doing some hauling. At dinner time he fed his team at Hunter's stable. He had an ill tempered animal in his team that required close watching and when he would curry the animal its head was usually tied up so that it could not bite. Mr. Riley was in the act of putting feed in the trough and reached in to clean it when the animal viciously caught his hand in its mouth and began biting him terribly. He was unable to release himself until he got hold of a club and beat the horse over the head. His hand was frightfully mangled and lacerated, and his coat was torn before be could get away. His hand is in had shape.
