ORUSHED TO DEATH BY A CAVE IN.

As a Result of the Disaster There Are Eleven Widows and Thirty-six Children Robbed of Their Main Support-Pitiable Scenes When Hope Was Abandoned.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 14 .- The mining town of Plymouth is in mourning over a terrible accident that occurred in the Gaylord colliery yesterday. Thirteen men, all of them citizens of that town, lost their lives while in the discharge of their duties. Their names are: Mine Foreman Thomas Picton, Thomas Jones, Richard Davis, John Morris, James Kingdom, Thomas Merriman, Thomas Cole, Joseph Olds, Daniel Morgan, John Hammer, Peter McLaughlin, Michael Walsh and Thomas Leyshon.

All the victims with the exception of of two leave families. One of these lost his wife only a mouth ago and four little children survive them. Consequently the disaster throws eleven widows and thirtysix children on the world's charity.

The Gaylord mine in which the accident occurred is owned by Daniel Edwards, one of the wealthiest operators in the anthracite region, and is operated by the Kingston Coal company, of which Mr. Edwards is the president. The best coal in the mine was taken out years ago. Then it was abandoned because it could not be operated with profit. Three weeks ago the company decided to resume operations, and a party of expert miners was sent into the mine to make an examination. They found matters in bad shape. The last men at work in the colliery had "robbed" the pillars supporting the roof until they were very thin. A great many falls had taken place, the passages were blocked by the debris and the air current was poor. Mining experts gave it as their opinion, however, that the mine could be put in good condition again with a small outlay of capital.

Monday morning a large number of expert miners, carrying safety lamps, entered the mine and began the work of clearing up the old gangways and propping the roof. They had not been at work long until a "squeeze" came which compelled the men to retrace their steps. Foreman Picton, with twelve picked miners, volunteered to go down the shaft and see what could be done. The descent was made at 10 o'clock Monday night. Picton's object was to get as near as possible to the most dangerous part, or where the "squeeze" was the greatest, in order to stay its progress by beaming the roof with heavy timber.

It seems that in this instance the efforts of Picton and his men did not prove a success, as the cave in extended far beyond the danger limit and a much greater distance than where the men expected to be safe, even though they retreated at the first indication of a heavy fall.

This is shown by the vast area of the cave in. As no one is left to tell the story the supposition is that the men were busily at work "t'mbering" when the rocky roof came tumbling down about their heads, crushing them out of semblance to humanity and putting a wall of debris between them and the mouth of the shaft 400 feet in thickness.

At first there was some hope that if the men could be reached in a reasonable time they could be saved. This was a false hope, however. The rescuing party had been in the mine only a short time when they were obliged to retreat on account of further caving. A second rescuing party under Superintendent James W. Davis went down the shaft last evening, but soon came back, thoroughly disheartened, and all hope of rescuing the men alive was given up.

The news of abandoned hope soon spread, and the wives and children of the men in the mine who had assembled at the mouth of the shaft, expecting every moment to see their loved ones brought up alive, set up a most pitiful cry of distress. Mothers wrung their hands and tore their hair, and little children wept bitterly. Two of the women fainted and had to be carried away by friends. Even stout hearted men who had gathered at the entrance to the mine wept almost as bitterly as the fatherless

This disaster is the worst that has occurred in the anthracite region since 1885, when twenty-two men perished by a cave in in No. 1 slope of the Susquehanna Coal company at Nauticoke. Their bodies were never recovered, and a monument marks the spot where the men met their death. The mine is now believed to be a total

She Kissed a Murderer.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Feb. 14 .- Mrs. May Fanning, a widow employed in the sheriff's office, was dismissed for publicly kissing a murderer. The object of her affections was Hugh Robbard, indicted with Haley and Kent for murdering Policemen Fritz and Talcott. Robbard was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was brought here to testify for Haley. As he was passing from the court room to the jail Mrs. Fauning handed him a bank note and a basket of fruit and tenderly kissed him. In the bottom of the basket was found a note to "Dear Hugh," telling him that he had a friend who would never forsake him, and signed "Your Loving May."

The Annie Pixley Sensation. NEW YORK, Feb. 12.-Mr. Robert Fulford, husband of the late Annie Pix!ey, the actress, returned from Europe yester day. He was amazed when informed of the indirect allegations of his wife's mother and brother that he (Fulford) had been responsible for her death. The Pixleys allege that Mr. Fulford has illegal control of the dead actress' estate, and will make a legal fight. Fulford says he is willing to provide liberally for his mother-in-law, but will contest any proposition for a division of the estate.

> At Luckenwalde, in Brandenburg, a factory chimney was blown down by the gale and crashed through a portion of the buildings, killing ten persons and injuring many others. A factory chimney was also blown down at Rinteln, in Cassel, and caused the death of two persons and the injury of several.

The storm at Cuxhaven was the most violent experienced in years. The Danish schooner Ellida was driven ashore at that place and a boy was drowned. The remainder of the crew were rescued. The English bark Lake Simcoe is also ashore. Her crew was saved.

The new church tower at New Brandenburg collapsed during the storm, and partly wrecked the church. Much damage was done by the storm in Shot His Wife and Child.

St. Louis, Feb. 14.-Dr. Duerstow walked into a police station last evening and surrendered himself, stating that he had accidently shot his wife. He refused to make any further statement. It was learned later that the doctor had shot both his wife and 5-year-old boy. The child was killed, but the wife is still alive. Dr. Duerstow is a son of the late Louis Duerstow, the Granite mountain millionaire. It is surmised that young Duestrow, who had been separated from his wife, entered the house with the intention of taking away the child, and, meeting with opposition, shot both mother and child. Mrs. Duestrow cannot recover.
