

BATTLE OF NICTHEROY.

Real Fighting Between Brazilian Insurgents and Loyalists.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS VICTORIOUS.

The Rebels, However, Yielded Only to Overwhelming Numbers, and Made a Splendid Retreat—Government Troops Suffer Greatest Loss—Da Gama Wounded

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 13.—Dispatches just received here bring details of the battle on Friday last between the rebels and the government forces at Rio de Janeiro. A general engagement was fought close to Nicthero, the rebels landing at Armaco and engaging the government troops at close quarters. The engagement was so severe that Armaco, adjoining Nicthero, was almost ruined. The rebels, however, were eventually compelled to retire.

Launched conveying the landing parties left the island of Conceicao at 3:30 a. m. and succeeded in reaching the main land without discovery. Then in half an hour,

ADMIRAL SALDANHA DA GAMA, after heavy firing on both sides, the government troops retired, leaving five officers and forty men prisoners and six officers and fifty men killed.

At 5 o'clock, reinforcements of over a thousand men arriving, the government troops again advanced under a heavy fire of rifles and machine guns, the Krupp battery, stationed on the island of Caju, opposite Ponta da Areia, also being engaged.

Admiral da Gama attempted to check the advance of the troops by calling for reinforcements of 100 men from the island of Conceicao, and by sending armed launches from the cruiser Liberdade close to the shore of the main land. These efforts stopped the advance and caused heavy losses to the government forces. Then the insurgents' ammunition fell short, their fire slackened and the government troops slowly gained ground.

After three hours fighting the troops were within half a mile of Armaco, and then Admiral da Gama decided to withdraw his sailors, finding it impossible to remain there on account of the overwhelming number of the enemy. The Liberdade's armed launches continued to hold the government troops in check while the insurgents embarked at Armaco, the Aquidaban covering their retreat. The Liberdade's launches were close to Ponta da Areia, and received the brunt of the enemy's fire.

At 11 o'clock before the last of the insurgents embarked, after spiking the government battery of heavy guns at Armaco. The insurgents' loss was five officers and thirty men killed, and twenty officers and forty men wounded.

It is impossible to obtain correct returns, but the government is supposed to have lost fifteen officers and 150 men killed and many wounded. Admiral da Gama has bullet wounds in his neck and arm.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 14.—Admiral Saldanha da Gama, the rebel commander who was wounded in the neck and arm during the battle of Armaco on Friday last, is in a critical condition. It was at first supposed that the admiral's wounds were insignificant, but now it is said that he is seriously injured that he may die. Every effort is being made to save the admiral's life.

The Wreck of the Kearsarge.

COLON, Feb. 14.—The United States steamer Kearsarge, Commander Oscar F. Heyerman commanding, foundered on the night of Feb. 2 off Bonaville reef. Everyone on board was saved. The Kearsarge was ordered on Jan. 27 to proceed from San Domingo to Bluefields, Nicaragua, to protect American interests that were alleged to be endangered by the troubles between Honduras and Nicaragua. The steamer City of Para left this port on Friday and brought the wrecked steamer to this port, whence they sailed for New York today.

Assaulted at the Altar.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 12.—Rev. Father Hill, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, was assaulted at the altar yesterday by Father McDonald, his assistant, who was acting as deacon. Father Hill was twice knocked down, and severely bruised, and Father McDonald was prevented from doing him further violence only by the untiring efforts of several men who jumped over the altar rail. Father McDonald is undoubtedly insane.

Three Firemen Injured.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 14.—Fire at 3 a. m. destroyed the St. Leonard and Central hotels, together with all their furniture and furnishings. The guests escaped, but mainly in their night attire and without baggage. The loss is placed at $100,000. Firemen Zanziger, Hargrave and Sebastian were buried beneath falling debris, and perhaps fatally injured.

The Landlord Not Responsible.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14.—In a suit by William E. Callahan, administrator of Jesse J. Callahan, for damages against the proprietor of a hotel for the death of Callahan by apoplexy from blowing out the gas, Judge Sarge ruled that a landlord is who jumped over the altar rail. Father McDonald is undoubtedly insane.

Met Death on a Bridge.

EUFALA, Ala., Feb. 14.—A Georgia Central train while crossing the Chattahoochee river bridge, near here, caught a party of men thereon. John Davis was killed and William Green had both legs broken and will die. The others escaped by swinging to the cross-ties.

Subvengula Reported Dead.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A dispatch from Cape Town to the news agency in this city states that Lebengula, king of the Metabeles, who was defeated and driven toward the Zambezi river by the British South Africa company's forces, is dead.

ITEMS OF STATE NEWS.

Matters of Interest from All Over the Commonwealth.

READING, Pa., Feb. 13.—Slater C. Yocum, a somnambulist, 32 years old, fell down the steps at his residence here early in the morning and was killed.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 12.—Miss Alda Robinson, the victim of Professor Hartshorn's alleged crime, has been taken to the Dixmont Hospital for the Insane. Dr. Linnville, who was attending her, says that in his opinion Miss Robinson will never leave the asylum alive.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—Miss Flora Wagman was found dead in her room at the county almshouse yesterday, having hung herself with a rope made of carpet rags which she was sewing. She had long been an inmate, and was at one time addicted to opium.

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 12.—Two boilers exploded at No. 10 Eckley colliery with terrible force. There were four men at work in the building at the time, and they had remarkable escapes from death. The concussion shook the village and caused a great excitement.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—John P. Eberhardt, president, and William Springer, secretary, of the National Glass Workers' association, are on trial charged with malfeasance in office. It is claimed by the friends of President Eberhardt that the charges are inspired for political reasons.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—An explosion of terrific force occurred at the power house of the Philadelphia Traction company at Thirteenth and Mt. Vernon streets, caused by the bursting of the main steam valve. Five of the employees were severely injured, one of whom may lose a leg.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—Three burglars entered the residence of James Blyie, a tollgate keeper, during the night and compelled him to give them $100, all the money he had in the house. The millinery store of J. Harvey was also robbed during the night. Harvey's loss will reach $300.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 14.—Five highwaymen attacked Peter Major, a butcher of Duquesne, and after beating him into insensibility, robbed him and then placed his body across the railroad tracks. He was discovered a few minutes before a train was due at that point. Five men are under arrest.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Feb. 12.—A farmers' institute and general farmers' convention will be held under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture in the court house on Thursday and Friday next. It promises to be the largest and most interesting convention yet held in Bucks county.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 14.—Rev. J. C. Krause, for fourteen years a member of the Evangelical association, and for the past three years pastor of the First Evangelical church of this place, has announced that he will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday. Mr. Krause may become a Presbyterian minister.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 12.—A mystery which has been agitating the people of Northampton, about eight miles above this city, was cleared up when the body of Peter Smith, aged 31 years, was found in the Lehigh river near Coplay. Smith had been missing from home since Dec. 17. It was undoubtedly a case of suicide.

YORK, Pa., Feb. 12.—The 8-year-old daughter of George Householder, of North York, was fatally burned while left alone in the house. Playing with matches was the cause of the accident. Mrs. Householder, who returned while the child's clothes were afire, was badly burned about the hands and arms in trying to extinguish the flames.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—The Phillips Glass company, which owns a window glass factory at South Nineteenth and Josephine streets, estimated worth $250,000, has made a proposition to run its establishment in co-operation with its skilled employees until Sept. 1, 1894. The employees interested have signed the papers in the case, and are awaiting the action of their union on the matter.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 13.—Special Officer May, of the Pennsylvania railroad, arrested and sent to jail Peter Matron, John Oystercamp, Henry Matron, John Herman, Al Garland, Alex. Lutz, Frank Yerman and T. S. Kelley, eight of the gang of car robbers who have been robbing cars and the farmers in this vicinity for the past several months. They are all tough characters, and have been a terror to the community for a long time.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—A desperate attempt was made by thieves to blow open a safe in the Green Street Methodist church, on Green street above Tenth. Had they succeeded in their efforts they would have been poorly rewarded, as the safe contained little of value. For want of sufficient powder the door remained on its hinges, but the explosion set fire to the church and caused a damage of nearly $500. The thieves escaped.

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 12.—Jacob Bannman, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Lancaster county, died here yesterday after a brief illness, aged 83 years. He was one of the founders of the Lancaster cotton mills, and was formerly interested in coal operations in the Shamokin region. For twenty years he was president of the Farmers' National bank. He was a trustee of Franklin and Marshall college and of the Millville State Normal school.

TUSKAMANOKE, Pa., Feb. 14.—Deputy Coroner Dennison went to Beaumont and exhumed the body of Jennie Tyler, the young lady who died a week ago from an alleged criminal operation performed by a prominent Wilkesbarre physician, said to have been at the instance of Arthur Fisher. The deputy coroner says it is a rare case against the parties. The crime was committed in Luzerne county, but the young lady died in this county. Fisher has left for parts unknown.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 13.—Ed Lansdale, the young man who was connected with the Downingtown burglary gang, has turned state's evidence. Lansdale fears the wrath of Ed Patterson, the leader of the gang, who is still at liberty. His story implicated the men now in jail in the robbery, being Henry Hilton, Hittenshaw Henry, Seymour Johnson, Elliot Brown and D. Goldman. Lansdale says that the coach was by the men was to the effect that any one who "gave the thing away" should expect death.

NOBISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 14.—During the snowstorm yesterday Mary Brown, 18 years of age, and William Moore, 24 years old, were arrested on a coal train at Royersford for stealing a ride. Magistrate Ureer committed the man for ten days and the woman for five. Moore's home is in Philadelphia. The girl lives in Keyport, N. J., and says she was induced to leave home on Wednesday by Moore. They have been travelling since that time on freight cars and sleeping in sheds. Mary is good looking, and is dressed well.

VAILLANT'S AVENGER.

Brutal and Cowardly Act of a Paris Anarchist.

THE NEW A BOMB IN A CROWDED CAFE.

Fifteen People Injured by the Force of the Explosion—Then the Misanthrope Shot at His Pursuers, Killing Two and Wounding Several Others.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—A young man, who acted from motives of revenge, exploded a bomb of 9 o'clock last night in a cafe beneath the Terminus hotel, which is situated opposite the St. Lazare railroad station. The cafe was full of people at the time, a band was playing and those present were enjoying the contentment which follows the consumption of a good dinner. All this was changed in a second. A man who had dined in the cafe was seen to raise his arm and throw something into the middle of the room. A terrific explosion followed, and the occupants of the room were paralyzed with terror. No one dared to move for some moments, fearing a repetition of the explosion, but as none came their courage returned.

Then they investigated the dreadful work that had been done. Lying on the floor were numbers of persons, wounded, moaning and bleeding. The bomb had landed upon a table, around which a party had been sitting, and this article of furniture had been reduced to splinters. The persons grouped at this table suffered the most. The injured numbered fifteen. Nearly all of them were wounded in the legs. Some, grievously hurt, were removed to a chemist's shop near by, where they were cared for.

In the meantime the man responsible for this cowardly act ran out of the place, and darted away. The alarm was given by persons outside who heard the explosion, and chase was at once given to the fleeing figure, a number of policemen joining in. The fugitive drew a revolver when he saw that his pursuers were getting too close, and turning fired several shots, killing a workman and a woman who was passing and wounding a number of persons, among whom was a policeman, whose wound may prove fatal.

The man was captured when 150 yards from the cafe. He proved to be an undersized, pale faced and beardless man of 30 years, named Leon Breton. He had been employed in the cafe as a waiter, and had recently been dismissed for misconduct. He admits that he is an anarchist.

Among the persons injured by the explosion was M. Beck, the architect of the chamber of deputies. He was wounded in the legs and arms. A man named Van Heer received eight bullets in his leg. He is in a precarious condition. Another of the wounded is a man named Michel. A piece of the shell of the bomb struck him in the arm and made a deep wound. The sufferers from the explosion and from Breton's revolver shots number twenty-four.

Breton told the doctor who dressed the wound which he received from the policeman's saber that his main object was to avenge Vaillant. His hatred of the proprietor of the cafe was but a minor consideration. He said there were others who would follow his example. His object and the object of his associates was to destroy the Bourgeois society. Breton speaks English and French fluently. He declines to reveal his identity, but is probably a native of the Island of Jersey, where the name of Breton is common.

Today Breton was subjected to an examination by Minister of the Interior Raynal, Minister of Justice Dubost, Chief of Detectives Coron and others. He denied that he was the author of the crime, adding incoherently that the doctor who dressed the wound which he received from the policeman's saber that his main object was to avenge Vaillant. ### An Eminent Musician Dead.

CAIRO, Feb. 14.—Hans von Bulow, the distinguished German pianist, is dead. Von Bulow was born on Jan. 8, 1830, in Eresden. He studied under Richard Wagner and Liszt, and was in 1850 musical chief of theatres of St. Gall and Zurich. In 1854 Von Bulow settled in Berlin and was named, in 1858, pianist of the prince royal. In 1864, at the invitation of Wagner, Von Bulow went to Munich where, in 1879, he became director of the new Royal School for Music and master of the chapel of the court. Hans von Bulow visited the United States in 1875, and afterwards became chapel master in Hanover, later in Meiningen and lastly in Berlin. The dead pianist married a daughter of Liszt.

Wounded Matabeles Massacred.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The Chronicle prints an interview with Captain Lloyd Francis, who was engaged in the Matabele campaign. It is stated that Captain Francis admitted that wounded Matabeles, many of them naked and helpless, were shot by the forces of the British South Africa company, their orders being to take no prisoners, but to shoot every native they came across.

Storm Wreck in Ohio.

BELLEVUE, O., Feb. 12.—Two freight trains collided on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad in the storm a two miles west of this place. Three men were killed. Both engineers and one fireman were the victims. The engines and all the above were mangled and their limbs broken.

Killed in the Cyclone.

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Feb. 14.—A severe cyclone is reported near Red Bird creek, in Harlan county, with great loss of life. Mrs. Skidmore and her 9-year-old son and another woman are reported to have perished, while live stock and property suffered severely.

To Abolish Treating by Law.

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—The liquor law committee gave a hearing on the bill to prevent treating. Representative Day, author of the bill, proposed that bars be so built so that only one person can stand before them at a time.
