A LARGE LIST OF PETTY CASES.

Special Instructions to Constables in relation to Canada Thistle.—The Grand Jury and its work.

The August term of court began on Monday morning of this week with an average attendance, in which the participants in the commonwealth cases were largely in the majority. The docket this term is burdened with an unusually large number of trifling cases such as assault and battery, nuisances, and plenty of f. and b. complaints, of which this county seems to be having more than its share.

Hon. A. O. Furst, with associates Riley and Faulkner are present. The grand jury was organized by the appointment of Geo. M. Boal, of Potter twp., as foreman and then were given the usual instructions.

After the constables had made their returns the court then called their attention to the act of assembly relating to the Canada thistle. They were instructed to go over the highways and see that this troublesome weed is removed by them wherever found. They were also to notify all property owners, where the weed was found, to have the same attended to and in case it was not promptly done the constable should have them removed at their expense. This is an important direction, and every land owner should act in accordance.

When court convened in the afternoon the first case taken up was that of the Commonwealth against Margaret Sullivan, of Powelton, for assault and battery. The evidence was very flimsy and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Hugh O'Donnell, the prosecutor, sentenced to pay two-thirds the cost and Mrs. Sullivan the other one-third.

Com. vs O. Mason, assault and battery. Ira C. Mitchell, Esq., conducted the defense. The verdict of the jury was guilty and the sentence was $25 fine and costs of prosecution.

Com. vs E. F. Barner, of Huston township, assault and battery. J. C. Meyer conducted the defense. Found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 costs of prosecution and stand committed until the sentence was complied with.

Com. vs Charles H. Yunker, assault and battery, John M. Dale, Esq., for the defense. Found guilty and sentenced to $20 fine and costs of prosecution.

Com. vs Louis Lose, assault and battery, Ed. Foster, prosecutor. Both men are hack drivers; this case grew out of an altercation that occurred at the P. R. R. passenger depot on Aug. 10th, in regard to hack position at the depot platform. Lose struck Foster with a whip. On Tuesday morning the case was finished. The jury found Lose guilty. Sentence, $1 fine and costs.

Com. vs L. H. Crystal, f. and b., guilty and the usual sentence imposed.

Com. vs Aaron Mallory, adultery, Mrs. Dougherty prosecutrix. After hearing part of the evidence the court quashed the proceedings and instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty and county to pay costs.

Com. vs Wm. Mayhew, f. and b., defendant failed to appear and his recognizance was forfeited.

Com. vs John Klingler, horse stealing. The defendant's attorney asked that the indictment be quashed as the crime was committed in 1891, and was therefore cut out by statute of limitation, a verdict of not guilty rendered.

Com. vs Jacob Test, of Phillipsburg, maintaining a nuisance in the borough of Phillipsburg. Verdict of guilty.

Harvey Heaton, f. and b., plead guilty and the usual sentence imposed.

Thomas Toner, f. and b., plead guilty and the usual sentence imposed.

Com. vs John Bowers, T. F. Farmer and Jene Hoover, assault and battery. Farmer plead guilty: $25 fine and costs. Hoover plead not guilty and the case went to trial on Wednesday. Verdict, guilty.

Com. vs A. M. Garver and Alice Garver, assault and battery with intent to kill. Prosecutor, Josiah Dale. Verdict, not guilty and prosecutor pay costs.

Patent Sold.

About a year ago Mr. Wm. R. Jenkins invented an improved piece of machinery for manufacturing garden rakes, shovels, etc. It was a drop forge that at one operation did the work completely and perfectly. J. Fearon Mann was associated with Mr. Jenkins in the invention and a complete machine was equipped and put in operation out at the axeworks, at Axemann, and the tests made proved all that was expected. Last week the invention was sold to a syndicate of Pittsburg implement manufacturers who paid a handsome sum for the same. Mr. Jenkins is out of town at present and nothing further could be learned of the transaction.

It is a misfortune that the invention was not kept in Bellefonte and a thriving manufacturing establishment started here.

New Grain House.

In addition to the large dwelling and stables erected by Mr. Colyer, at the Centre Hall station he is about to erect a grain house in the rear of his lot, near the picnic ground, and will have a siding put down, and build coal sheds, to open business this fall which is to be conducted by D. B. Brisbin. Mr. Colyer expects to lay the foundation for still another enterprise later on.

Jersey Shore Man Killed.

J. Clyde Blair, of Jersey Shore, a brakeman on the Beech Creek road was killed at Gorton. He was walking over the train when he fell between the cars and was run over by four cars, killing him instantly. His remains were taken to Jersey Shore Saturday morning and his funeral took place Monday morning. He was 22 years old.

Residence Burned.

On Sunday the residence of Winfield S. Love, in Sinking Valley, three miles from Tyrone, was destroyed by fire. The fire started from a defective flue and when discovered the entire attic was in flames. Very little of the household effects were saved. Mr. Love is a brother of our townsman John G. Love, Esq.

No Foreigners Employed.

When the Valentine furnace started on Monday all the positions about the plant were given to American laboring men. Heretofore a large number of foreigners worked about the furnace. That is a proper course and approved by our people.

The income tax compels those who have plenty to pay, their just portion for the support of the government.

Many business firms whose advertisements appear on it are disgusted. The unsightly thing bears no imprint but seems to be the product of some local print shop that is excusable for having done the best it could. The band wanted a cheap job, and they got it. —The last opportunity for persons desiring to visit the sea shore this season at the low rate of $5.75, will be given by the Pennsylvania railroad on Thursday, September 6th.

THE VALENTINE FURNACE RESUMES.

The Fires Started on Monday—A Large Demand for Iron from all Sections—Workmen Delighted.

Since last May the large furnace of the Valentine Furnace Company, at this place, stood idle on account of the scarcity of fuel caused by the strike among the coal and coke operations in this state. That matter having been adjusted it was decided to begin operations as soon as possible. During the past few weeks the bins and sheds have been filled with ore, limestone, large quantities of coal, coke and other materials. On Monday morning everything was ready for applying the torch. At 9 a. m. this was done in due form. Miss Lydia Valentine Bond, the three year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bond, of Baltimore, and grand-daughter of Mr. Robert Valentine, the secretary and treasurer of the company had the honor of applying the torch to the priming at the mouth of the huge furnace filled with highly inflammable materials, layers of wood, coke, limestone and native ore. In a short time the interior was a seething, roaring mass of fire, and as the dark clouds of smoke rose from the stack it announced to the community that the busy hum industry had come, and that it was the advance signal of a more prosperous era upon which the country was about to enter. The company have no iron in stock at present and manufacturers have placed large orders with them, all anxious even clamoring for the first output. There is a strong demand from all sections for iron. The market price for first quality being between $13 and $14 at which price they claim they can operate the plant at a fair profit, providing a market can be found for the output. The supply of ore on hand is quite large as the banks were kept in operation after the furnace had closed down. When this plant is in full operation it gives employment to several hundred workmen in the community and that means very much. The directors of the Valentine Furnace Company evidently do not take much stock in the continual shriekings of republican calamity howlers. The new tariff went into effect on Tuesday on the same day the furnace began pouring out a large cast of the famous native "Nittany Pig" metal. Millhelm Notes. Everybody asks, are you going to Hecla picnic on the 30th? It seems every horse and buggy in this town is engaged for that day. Some of our flour mills cannot run full time on account of low water. The North street roller mill is about the only one that can run steady. Snyder Tobias is on the sick list, being quite helpless with dropsy. J. R. Fredeticks' stove and single mill is about ready to run again. It was burned down some few weeks ago.—Auman Bros. are busy on their bark and lumber job near Weaver's roller mill.—W. H. Weaver is squeezing out thousands of gallons of cider daily on his hydraulic press. Weaver knows how to make the juice fly, and claims his press nets him each season about $500.—The bridge across Elk creek, on North street, is put up again and is quite an improvement.—Wm. Catherman is hauling bark for Oscar Auman. —John Noll, of the North street mill, was to Bellefonte on Saturday to attend the funeral of his uncle, George Noll. John springs quite nobly when on the high spring seat of his delivery wagon and a pipe in his mouth.—A. H. Schreckengast is kept busy nursing his baby; he thinks these are good times.—W. H. Weaver offers his first class roller mill property for sale at a low price. It is a desirable property and a chance for the right man to make money. DUSTY.

Glass Works News.

Some weeks ago, cashier John P. Harris of the First National Bank who has an interest in the Bellefonte Glass Works placed an advertisement in one of the publications of the glass trade. In it he gave a complete description of the plant at this place, its equipment and favorable location and offered it either for sale or rent. The advertisement has attracted the attention of a number of prominent capitalists and manufacturers who have been in correspondence with him. He thinks he may be able to affect a sale or lease. At present their is a misunderstanding between the glassworkers union and the manufacturers in regard to the wage scale under the new tariff schedule. After that becomes settled something definite may be accomplished. He Didn't go away with a Woman. Friends of Cashier Harry Gardner, who have made an investigation regarding the woman who was said to have gone away with him have located her in Philadelphia. She is now lying quite ill and has not been away from home for several weeks.

Bought Horns.

The instruments of the defunct Centre Hall brass band have been purchased by the newly organized Potters Mills band, and will thus be brought into active tooting again.

Killed at Mill Hall.

Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock the work train on the Beech Creek road was going through Mill Hall. Fearing that the train had parted Fireman Kirk leaned out in the passageway between the cab and tender to see whether such was the case. The locomotive reached the bridge above Mill Hall just then and the fireman was struck on the head, knocked off, and fell to the ground. His head was badly smashed and his arm was broken. He was killed instantly. His body was taken to his home in Clearfield.

New Plant.

Mr. Crider has arranged to locate an independent steam heat plant at the rear of the Crider block to furnish steam heat for his tenants in the exchange building and the stone block. Heretofore they received their steam from the company mains along the street. He thinks that his individual plant will be cheaper and more satisfactory than the former supply.
