

GENERAL BANKS' DEATH

Evidence of Sorrow in His Native Town and State.

THE SAD ENDING OF A NOBLE LIFE.

The Once Brilliant Orator Had Shown Evidence of Mental Decay for Several Years—Remarkable Career of a Bobbin Boy Who Rose to Fame.

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 3.—General Nathaniel P. Banks, famous as a soldier, statesman and parliamentarian, died at his home in this city on Saturday. General Banks, as is generally known, had been growing mentally feeble for several years, and for at least two years had required the watchful care of his family. He lost his power to recognize his family and finally became so bad that last week he was placed in the McLean Asylum for the Insane. He only remained in the institution three days. He was taken Thursday night to his home in this city, where he died. Mrs. Banks and Miss Maud Banks were with him when he passed away.

On the announcement of General Banks' death the flags on all the public buildings in Boston were displayed at half mast, and on every side evidences of respect.

A REMARKABLE CAREER.

His Rise from Bobbin Boy to Political and Military Eminence.

A remarkable career indeed was that of Nathaniel Prentiss Banks. A statesman at two widely separated eras and a soldier between them, he twice entered in almost absolute retirement, and twice emerged therefrom to figure in exciting congressional debates, and finally, when most Americans had come to think of him as a historical character only, he astonished a generation which had not known him by appearing for a third time in congress.

The Banks family occupied a middle class position in Waltham, Mass., and there Nathaniel Prentiss was born Jan. 20, 1816. His father seems to have begun life as a laborer and to have thought he had done quite well in becoming superintendent in a cotton factory. At any rate he took it for granted that his son was to follow in a similar way, and at an early age put him to work in the factory. The son, as it often happens, took a different view of his future, devoted all his leisure hours to study, and assembling other youths of his own age as often as possible "practiced on them" to acquire the habit of public speaking.

Fact and fiction are somewhat mixed in the popular details of this part of his life, for soon after his appearance in public life came the case of a very interesting little work, entitled "The Bobbin Boy," which was for many years among the most popular boys' books in America.

The real Nat, like the one in the book, was a very progressive and aggressive boy, boldly called in question all the opinions of his time, and equally in politics, theology and social science. He embraced every opportunity to speak before a school, a club or even a public meeting of citizens.

Quite early in life he took rank as a lecturer before local lyceums, a little later became editor of the paper in Waltham, then studied law, was admitted to the bar, and in 1849 was elected to represent his native town in the legislature.

General Banks' began political life as a Democrat and a Free Soiler, and as such served his four terms in the legislature, being speaker of the assembly in 1851 and 1852. The next year he presided over the constitutional convention and immediately after took his seat in the Thirty-third congress, still nominally a Democrat. But new issues were up and in 1854 he made his canvass avowedly as a Know Nothing and carried his district by an overwhelming majority.

All readers know the facts connected with the struggle in electing a speaker in the Thirty-fourth congress. It gave Mr. Banks a world wide fame. On the 18th of August, after a contest lasting months, he was chosen by a plurality only, the house having agreed that the rule requiring a majority should be set aside. The vote stood: Banks, 103; Aiken, of South Carolina, 100; scattering, 11. He filled the office with dignity and ability, and was re-elected to the Thirty-fifth congress by an impressive majority, but resigned Dec. 4, 1857, to become governor of Massachusetts. That place he held three terms of one year each, and in 1860 accepted the presidency of the Illinois Central railway, which place he left to enter the Union army.

He began his military career as a major general, but it is not necessary to detail his services. To do so in fact would amount to writing at least half a history of the war, as he served in the Army of the Potomac and as an independent commander in the Valley of the Shenandoah and in the southwest. Relieved of his last command in May, 1864, he at once resigned his commission, returned to Massachusetts, and was re-elected to congress from his old district. He was re-elected continuously, save in 1873, when he joined the Greeley party, still including 1876, after which he served a year as United States marshal for Massachusetts, and in 1878 was elected to congress for the last time. When General Banks was a candidate in 1855 the painful confession was made by some of his friends that he "needed the salary." It was not a pleasant thing for Americans to read, and old friends and old opponents in congress joined in voting him a military pension of $100 per month.

TERMS OF STATE NEWS.

Matters of Interest from All Over the Commonwealth.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 3.—Jacob Coffman, 65 years old, was found dead near the stone quarries, two miles beyond the city. From the nature of the wounds upon his body the police believe he was murdered.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Jane Finley, aged 81 years, was shot three times last night on the street at Germantown by Matthew Dunlap, 80 years old, who rejected her. Miss Finley lies in a critical condition. Dunlap escaped.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Sept. 4.—Incendiaries set fire to the barn of H. M. Sanders, near here, while the family was at church Sunday night. The structure was consumed, entailing a loss of over $5,000, and the incendiaries will be arrested.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 3.—Christian B. Hupper, aged 18 years, was drowned while bathing yesterday in Conestoga creek. He attempted to swim against a strong current, and became exhausted. The boy's body was recovered an hour later.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 3.—George Knapp, aged 12 years, while walking with several companions on a railroad track over White's log basin, missed his footing and fell overboard. The other boys risked their lives to save him, but without avail.

READING, Pa., Sept. 3.—The Eastern club, of the state baseball league, was disbanded Saturday night. It was organized to take the place of the Allentowns when the latter joined the Eastern league. The Eastern club never won a game during its brief existence.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 1.—The proposed ship canal between Pittsburgh and Lake Erie was taken under consideration by the chamber of commerce here yesterday, and an appropriation was made to employ a committee of a preliminary corps of engineers and business men to overlook the route. The party will start at once.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 4.—Chauncey F. Black, president of the Democratic Society of Pennsylvania, has issued a call for a meeting of the executive committee of the society at the headquarters of the Democratic state committee in Harrisburg on Sept. 11 to fix a time for the annual general assembly at Altoona.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 4.—A settlement of the Window Glass scale for the present fire was effected at the conference between the workers and manufacturers yesterday. The compromise was made after a long discussion on practically the same terms proposed by the workers a week ago. It calls for a 2 1/2 per cent reduction all around.

FERNWOOD, Pa., Sept. 2.—A movement has been started here to raise a purse for the defense of Constable Day, who ten days ago, while attempting to arrest Henry Saxson, a negro bully, who had terrorized the entire section, was compelled to shoot him. The coroner's jury failed to acquit the constable, and the people have taken the matter in hand.

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 3.—Fifteen people were injured in a collision between trolley cars at Darby yesterday, the accident being caused by the gripman losing control of the brakes in going down hill. John Friday, of Philadelphia, had his arm injured, John Sweeney, of Pascallville, leg penetrated by a piece of wood, and Thomas Lattimer, of Philadelphia, both legs broken.

ASHLAND, Pa., Sept. 3.—An explosion occurred last night in the barrel house at the Anthracite Powder company's plant, near Locustdale, demolishing the building and damaging two other structures. The valuable timber in the neighborhood was ignited and is now burning freely. The building destroyed contained a hundred kegs of powder, and the cause of the explosion is a mystery.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—B. Frank Donohoe, aged 45 years, yardmaster of the Pennsylvania railroad in West Philadelphia, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the head. He had been in ill health, and just returned from a trip to Europe. His wife and daughter, whom he telegraphed to return from friends they were visiting in Boston, found the dead body in their deserted home.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—John Tutaska, a Pole, was placed under arrest here yesterday upon the charge of having murdered a fellow countryman named Anthony Bernick. It is alleged that the men had a fight Saturday night, during which Tutaska knocked Bernick senseless. The unconscious man was then laid across the tracks of an electric railway, and Tutaska stood by while the trolley cars crushed the man into a shapeless mass.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 3.—Director John Murphy, of the Allegheny City department of public safety, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by C. E. Gould, charging him with misdemeanor in office. The information charges Murphy with receiving bribes for the protection of brothels, gambling houses and illegal liquor sellers. The director denies that he received a dollar in bribes from anybody. He furnished bail for appearance at court.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 5.—Dela Green, former cashier of the defunct First National bank of Muncy, was placed on trial in the United States court here yesterday. There are fourteen counts in the indictment. Green was cashier of the bank for about two years before it suspended, and it is claimed that he reported the sum of $60,000 as being in a vault. When this was opened by the bank examiner, however, no money was found, and the suspension followed. The depositors were heavy losers.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 1.—The hearing of the charge against Postmaster Malone of violating the civil service laws by removing subordinates for partisan reasons, which it was thought would occupy First Assistant Postmaster Jones and Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt a month or more, was brought to an abrupt termination yesterday afternoon. The officials announced that the evidence is very conflicting in many cases. They therefore deem it best to take no further action, except to see that the law is rigidly observed hereafter.

MILFORD, Pa., Sept. 1.—The Democratic conference for the nomination of a candidate to succeed Howard Mutchler in congress ended its long struggle yesterday afternoon by selecting J. J. Hart, of Pike county, as the party candidate. The conference began on Wednesday morning and the first ballot developed a deadlock between Robert Kiots, Joseph H. Seidl, Howard Mutchler and Mr. Hart. The balloting continued without any result through all of Thursday, and at noon yesterday the result seemed as far away as ever. A recess was then taken until 5 o'clock, and several conferences were held in the interim. On reassembling Mr. Mutchler's name was withdrawn and Hart nominated. Mr. Mutchler was elected to succeed his father, who died a year ago, while in congress.

JONES A POPULIST.

The Nevada Statesman Denerts the Republican Party.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS A SENATOR.

His Change of Political Faith Makes the Nevada Congressional Delegation Solid for the Third Party—The Announcement Causes Great Surprise.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The Star says: Today unfolded a genuine sensation in political circles by the statement that Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, who has represented his state in the United States senate for over twenty-one years as a Republican, has formally renounced his allegiance to the party and cast his lot with the Populists.

Senator Jones has written a letter to his constituency, which will be published in Nevada this evening, and will be the first intimation to the people of that state that he has doffed the political garment which he has worn with such distinction for so many years and will don the garb of the third party. His intentions have been kept secret from all but his most intimate associates, and it was his intention to have the first public announcement of his action made in the letter which will be published in his political home. On learning that the fact had leaked out, however, he gave the letter to the Associated Press yesterday before his departure for New York. His letter is an elaborate defense of his action, declaring that "whatever changes have occurred in the relation between the Republican party and myself is not a change in me." His change of policy is based almost entirely upon the question of silver.

Senator Jones' bolt makes the Nevada congressional delegation solidly Populist, Senator Stewart having left the Republican party some time ago, and Representative Newlands having been elected as a silverite. The announcement that he has joined the Populists was a great surprise, as he has been regarded as one of the ablest men on the Republican side of the chamber, and as a man of solid parts and abilities. He has not been a frequent speaker in the senate. When he did take part in the debate he was always listened to with attention, and on the silver question his set speech usually kept his audience until he finished. He has been a straight party man hitherto, and enjoyed the distinction of representation on the finance committee, a place much sought after. His action in joining the Populists may result in a shake up for the minority representation on this committee.

Mr. Jones was first elected to the senate in 1875 and has been continuously elected each six years since then, his present term running until 1897. He is an Englishman by birth, well known in financial circles, both in the east and west, and generally reported to be one of the wealthiest men in the senate as a result of successful mining operations, in which he had a number of ups and downs. He was a member of the international monetary conference, being appointed by President Harrison, one of the delegates from the United States, and his speech at Brussels was conceded to be a great effort by the delegates to that conference, whether they were of silver faith or not.

Peary Relief Expedition Safe.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5.—The Danish vessel Tjalfie, commanded by Captain Brick, has arrived here from Greenland, and the captain reports that he met the members of the Peary relief expedition at Godhavn on July 17. All were well. The winter in the Arctic regions has been extraordinarily long and severe, and Captain Brick thinks that the chances of finding alive Bjorling and Kaltenstoss, the Swedish explorers, who started for the north in 1892, and the search for whom was one of the objects of the Peary relief expedition, are very remote.

Babies Engaged in Rapine and Murder.

TANGIER, Sept. 5.—The Kabyles around Deninat, a town northeast of Morocco City, are killing the Jews by wholesale, looting their shops and houses, selling their women and children by auction and defiling their synagogues. Similar outrages are reported at Kalba, Sadrahi, Tana and Tanlat. The Kabyles are also besieging Morocco City, and it is feared that the garrison may be unable to resist much longer, in which case terrible scenes may be witnessed when the Kabyles loot the city.

"This is the way I appear after Dr. Salm's operation." JOHN MORGANROTH, Altoona, Pa.

A Blind Eye made to see by Dr. Salm making a wonderful operation. For over ten years I have been badly cross-eyed. Dr. Salm operated upon me without giving me chloroform nor causing pain or loss of blood. My eyes are straight once more, and my friends tell me afterwards that they could not believe that I could see so splendidly with one eye.

Cancer cured by Dr. Salm. For some time I have suffered from an ugly looking cancerous growth on the chest. Doctors here pronounced it cancer, and said they could not do me any good. Dr. Salm has cured me in short order, without using the knife or caustics, and only an insignificant scar is all that is left of the heretofore ugly and painful growth.

Four of the best doctors in the county visit the 2002 apartment, but Dr. Salm made her well. For over 5 years I have been suffering with heart trouble and a bad case of dropsy. We went to four of the best doctors in the county for relief, but all of them said a cure was impossible. At times I felt so bad that I was certain I had to die. I fainted away very often and my friends told me afterwards that they thought every moment would be my last. And went from bad to worse continually. Tried I hereby affirm that had it not been for the splendid treatment received from Dr. Salm, I should have been long since dead. In fact my neighbors tell me that I look 15 years younger and I can assure you I feel that way. Thanks to the doctor's wonderful cure of my case.

Thanks to the doctor's wonderful cure of my case.

Applied to the face of the legs cured by Dr. Salm. For the last ten years our son had the most peculiar affection of both legs. They became swollen with scales and scales. They were a considerable obstruction, and the disease troubled him constantly, even interrupted his school studies on account of the terrible itching. We had lost almost the entire use of his legs, and the best doctors in our country and near it were of no use to us because very much alarmed and by without any results. Some of them understood about him, particularly as the legs were so swollen, until we brought him to Philadelphia.
