LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Miss Victorine Lyon left on Monday for Philadelphia, where she will remain this winter.

Another lot of large 12 inch water mains arrived this week and the work of laying them has begun.

Wm. G. Hoffer is engaged at present in publishing a paper at Larned, Kansas, the Western Kansas Voice.

The new instruments for the Undine band arrived on Wednesday and are pronounced first class instruments.

Miss Grace Furey, who is well known here, was married on Wednesday at Altoona, to David McMurtie, of that city.

Democrats if you want to see the roosters crow next week, get out the vote. A few days only remain for effective work.

Mr. C. C. Shuey, the groceryman, recently purchased the Guggenheimer property on High street, now occupied by Ed. C. Rowe, and family.

On Tuesday five bear were brought to Bellefonte and Frank Stover bought two of them. They were shot in the vicinity of Pine Glenn.

A dime concert will be given in the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium on Friday evening for the benefit of the junior department. The admission will naturally be ten cents.

State College foot ball team will play at the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, on November 3, Princeton, November 17, and Franklin and Marshall, November, 24.

The democratic meeting, in the Court House, on Tuesday evening was very largely attended. Chairman Strachan made a forcible address. Mr. Savage of Clearfield also spoke.

The ladies of St. Johns Catholic church will open a fair and festival in the new Temple Court, Brockerhoff's new building, on Monday evening. It will continue during the entire week.

Mr. E. P. Campbell, a superintendent on the New York and Erie railroad, spent last week among friends at this place. He is a former Bellefonte boy who has made his mark. Some years ago he was ticket agent in the Snow Shoe railroad office at this place.

Mr. Joseph Sankey, after an absence of twenty-four years, returned recently to visit relatives. He is a son of ex-com. Thomas Sankey, dec'd., of Pennsylvania, and is a brother of Mrs. Wm. Bell, of Bellefonte. He is living at Vacouver, Washington, where he is engaged in raising fruit and has prospered.

Mr. M. Fauble, the clothier, took the train, on Tuesday night, for New York city, where he goes to attend a large bankrupt sale of clothing. It is more than likely that Centre county clothing buyers will profit largely by this trip. They never can expect too much from this firm of hustlers who seem to take pleasure in looking after their customers interests.

DON'T LIKE IT.

CRITICISED AS BEING TOO SEVERE.

Hastings People Don't Like the Course of The "Democrat"--The Singery Party Subject to Censure.

During the past week rumors of dissatisfaction reached this office that came in the form of a compliment. Certain republicans, and warm personal friends of General Hastings, are censuring the CENTRE DEMOCRAT for its course in the past few weeks for being too severe upon our aspiring townsman. We did fire several broadsides upon the General and the appeal from his friends for mercy shows how well the aim was directed and that it was quite effective. With their own political organs in this county to make a defence and return the charges, if untrue or unfair, why should the Hastings crowd complain? Can't they stand the test? Is their hero sinking in public estimation in the very morning of his effervescent glory? Is he like the foaming, sparkling spray that crowns the delicious draught of soda in all its splendor for a moment--then drops flat, seeks its own level, before the public gaze? Can't your hero stand his ground before the searchlight of intelligence and reason? Don't you like to have a few brief epochs of his career reviewed? Probably that is what is most objectionable. If you censure us for what we have said, you should be exceedingly thankful for what has been left unsaid.

It is proper to say that the CENTRE DEMOCRAT is a full-fledged democratic paper, and as long as it is under the present direction it will not waver in its loyalty to those principles at its masthead--no matter what the rumors to the contrary may be. Our reasons for opposing General Hastings are many. In the first place he belongs to a party that came into power by our accidental division and was a minority party in 1890. The impending crisis and the civil war that followed furnished the opportunity for it to accomplish a great purpose and grow into public favor, which brought to it continued prestige and power. The war being over its real mission was ended, but unscrupulous politicians, the money powers of the land and the hungry office seekers rallied about its standard. The founders of that party, men like Horace Greely, Chase, Sumner, Trumbull, Fessenden, Curtin, McClure, all abandoned it years ago for it had outlived its usefulness. It advocates a pernicious doctrine that antagonizes the very foundation of constitutional liberty--the right of the government to lay a tax on one class for the purpose of advancing and increasing the investments and private business enterprises of favored individuals. He belongs to the party which largely controls the wealth of the country and by this policy enables the rich to grow richer and the poor to grow poorer. He belongs to the party that seeks to perpetuate itself and control future elections by the use of forced contributions of its beneficiaries, to maintain its power.

Gen. Hastings preaches these doctrines and these are the primary reasons why this paper and every defender of constitutional liberty, every person who believes that taxation should be imposed only for public purposes instead of to advance private enterprises, should oppose his election. As a citizen we respect him. As a personal friend we have always had a kindly feeling for him. As an exponent of a vicious principle we can only be true to conscience, country and humanity by opposing his election. We congratulate him upon his individual advancement, but when that is to be made at the expense of a people, endangering their constitutional rights, our sacred duty demands a heroic stand against his triumph.

Another reason why we look upon Gen. Hastings election with alarm. He is a typical politician. For years he has been aspiring for gubernatorial honors. To attain the end it was necessary to court the favor of the political bosses of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Now, under obligations to them, he would be surrounded by a ring of political beetles demanding favored legislation, subsidies which would encroach upon the public finances and the rights of the people. Only those in the inner circles at Harrisburg know of the methods and opportunities for unscrupulous men to gain great advantages through an executive. As Gen. Hastings is aspiring still higher, could he afford to turn his benefactors down? He is too politic to do that. There is where the great danger lies in his election. In proof of this charge, Gen. Hastings upon every occasion, has avoided State issues. He will not commit himself. The public has no assurance that he will sacredly guard their rights. And in this respect he stands in striking contrast with honest Rob't E. Pattison, who had the courage to veto over 180 bills passed by the last legislature, many of which were infamous jobs and steals. Can Gen. Hastings, with his life-long political associations, be trusted? That remains for the people to decide, on next Tuesday.

Gen. Hastings campaign from beginning to end, as has repeatedly been shown, is a high carnival of misrepresentations and misstatements; broad, startling sweeping assertions; a continual trade of abuse upon the South and its people, that at this time requires no courage or particular force of character or mental acumen to put forth, and indicates weakness of the man who uses such weapons; his continual abuse and ridicule of the democratic party and its leaders; his repeated declarations of their unfitness to control and manage the government; his trade about their want of patriotism and love of country; his continual effort to discourage reviving business industries that he would prostrate the industries of the country in order to prejudice the minds of the people and thereby hope to accomplish his own political advancements--and for that reason is so fittingly styled the great "Calamity Howler." Is such a man large enough, noble enough, patriotic enough to fill the executive chair? It remains for the people to decide.

These are the reasons why the CENTRE DEMOCRAT, calls upon all well thinking people to consider well how they vote. If our course is deserving of censure, it is because we have followed the dictations of honest convictions. We have no apologies to offer under these circumstances, and make a final appeal to all lovers of good government to rally by the standard of Philadelphia's foremost citizen, upon whose escutcheon there is no stain, the laboring-man's friend, the philanthropist and public benefactor, the man who is not seeking office but whom a people have summoned forth--W. M. SINGERLY.

Last Saturday the Bellefonte boys who compose a foot ball team went to Altoona for an afternoon game with the local team at Lakemont Park. The teams were well matched and at the end of the first half the score stood 4 to 0 in favor of the Altoona team. In the last half the Altoona boys played a spirited game and succeeded in rolling up the score 16 to 0. The Altoona papers speak of it being a fine exhibition throughout. The following men lined up in the two teams.

Couldn't Make Out a Case. Thomas C. Lucas, the young stenographer who was arrested in Scranton on October 19, and taken to Valparaiso, Ind., on the charge of having swindled the grandmother of a former sweetheart out of $2,750, has returned to his home in this county last Saturday. The commonwealth failed to establish a case against Lucas, as he was able to show that the money had been legitimately invested along with a sum of his own and lost. Lucas will probably return to Scranton where he has a profitable engagement in the school of mines and engineering.

Moore--Spencer. On Tuesday, Oct. 23rd, 1894, Mr. Chas. Moore, of Bellefonte, was married to Miss Margaret A. Spencer, at the home of her step-father, John Foster, at Du Bois, Pa. The wedding was a private affair, none but the near relatives being present. There was quite a number of valuable presents received by the young couple among which was a piece of valuable real estate in that town, to the bride. Mr. Moore is an artistic photographer and superintends H. B. Shaeffer's studio at Bellefonte in the near future.

Death of Wm. Musser, Sr. Pine Grove has lost one of its oldest and most esteemed citizens in the death of Mr. Wm. Musser, Sr., at his home at Pine Grove, on Wednesday of last week Oct. 24, which was due to a complication of diseases not now fully known. He was aged about 70 years, and was the father of six children, five of whom survive him.

Little Girl Dead. Louisa Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Hoffman, of East Logan street, died Sunday night at 12 o'clock; her age being 2 years, 9 months and 1 day. Funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, interment in Union cemetery.

Tissos Living Pictures. at the opera house on Saturday evening.

On Monday evening John Hazle, George Hazle, Norman Wood and Anthony Wood, musicians of Williamsport, arrived in town. They had been on a hunting expedition at Snow Shoe where Johnny Hazle the famous cornetist, shot a fine deer--in John Uzzie's deer park. While in Bellefonte they played some choice selections.

The prohibition people held a large meeting in the Court house last Thursday evening. Mr. Cushing delivered an able address that was highly appreciated by all present. The Milesburg band furnished excellent music for the occasion. Hon. H. T. Aimes, of Williamsport, candidate for Judge in that district, also made a good address.

SHOULD WITHDRAW.

CALDWELL CAN ONLY ELECT A REPUBLICAN.

Situation of the Senatorial Middle--Democrats should support Mr. Savage for State Senator.

On Tuesday, the Dauphin county courts decreed that the name of Matt Savage, the democratic nominee in this district for Senator, should be printed on the official ballot under the title of the "Citizens Ticket." The dispute between J. Woods Caldwell, of Lock Haven, who bolted the Tyrone conference, where Savage was nominated by Clearfield and Centre counties, resulted in no name appearing on the official ballot in the democratic column for State Senator. Caldwell filed nomination papers and his name is on the "Independent" ticket.

Matt Savage, of Clearfield, is the democratic nominee of this district, but by a technicality his name appears on the official ballot under the heading "Citizens." The trouble in this district is due to the fact that Cameron is anxious to have McQuown, a republican of Clearfield, elected this year so that he, Cameron, can be returned to the U. S. Senate, Caldwell's opposition and interference is considered due to that source. With two democratic candidates in the field, they only can hope to elect McQuown.

To make a long story short, we would say that we consider it the duty of every democrat to cast his ballot for Savage, the choice of two of the three counties in this district. The writer is personally acquainted with Mr. Savage and can most heartily recommend him to every democratic voter in Centre county. He is a man of ability, integrity, good character and one who would represent this district in the State Senator with credit and marked distinction.

Time is now too short for him to make a canvass, and every democrat should see that he casts his vote for Mr. Savage. To do this mark an (X) in the circles on the "Democratic" and "Citizens" columns.

If S. Woods Caldwell would not ruin his political future entirely and ignominiously, he should at once notify his friends to turn in for Matt Savage and thus save the district from the Cameron and Quay man. As a democrat he ought to do so, and since matters are in the conditions they are in he is the man to save the district and if he does take this reasonable and necessary course he would place both Clearfield and Centre democrats of all factions under such strong obligations that four years hence there would scarcely be a candidate against him in either of the two counties named. He has made his fight and has pursued his chances to the bitter end and since the court of Dauphin county has defeated his purpose he should do the manly thing and quit. He should not be spiteful or strong headed, and from our personal acquaintance with him we do not believe he will be. He has had all the glory he started out to get and any further fighting on his part would be regarded as a persecution and unfair. In the first place he defeated the Orvis rule in the courts, and this made Savage a victim when he was not responsible for the new rule. Then he attacked and defeated the nomination papers of Savage because of the technical use of the word "Democratic," and then when Mr. Savage amended his nomination papers to read "Citizens Democratic" he attacked the papers again with the view of knocking Savage clear off the ticket. Notwithstanding he had two counties behind him and although Mr. Savage was placed at great expense and untold trouble and worry the court decided only Tuesday of this week that Savage's papers were perfect and regular and that his name should go on the ticket. Surely Mr. Caldwell ought to have enough revenge. He ought not to persecute Mr. Savage for what others have done. We hope his good sense will assert itself at once and that he will come out boldly and request all his friends to vote for Savage. By this course he can win later, but by any other course he can not hope to succeed himself and can only serve to turn over the district to Cameron and Quay.

THE TICKET.

The democratic state and county ticket will commend itself to any democrat. From top to bottom, Singery to the last man on the local ticket, is genuine democracy and should be heartily endorsed. If you are in sympathy with the teachings of the democratic party stand by your convictions by endorsing the regular nominees. Dont cut; dont split; dont break your ticket for the sake of giving a complimentary vote. Vote your ticket entire this year.

Change in Ballot.

Owing to the decision of the Dauphin county court, the name of Matt Savage, our democratic nominee for senate, will have his name on the official ballot under a special column headed "Citizens." This will make the official ballot one column wider than it appears on the sheriffs proclamation. His name comes next to the last column.

SINGERLY'S RECEPTION.

At an early hour on Saturday morning there was a stir on our streets. Many people came to town by private conveyances and by early trains, most of them being sturdy democrats who came for the purpose of welcoming Wm. M. Singery and party who arrived by special train at 8:20 that morning from Tyrone. At least a thousand people assembled at the depot when the train pulled in. Several loud discharges of dynamite, that reverberated over the mountain peaks, announced the arrival of the democratic standard bearer. The party were escorted to carriages and with the Bellefonte band in front the procession then proceeded up High street to the court house. In line were several hundred democrats representing the "Wm. M. Singery Club, of Bellefonte." The Junior Singery Club, about one hundred in line, with drum corps concluded the procession.

The court house was filled to overflowing in an instant. Hammond Sechler, president of the club, called the meeting to order with a few well chosen introductory remarks and then introduced Mr. Singery, the democratic nominee for governor. He received a great ovation which impressed him so much that he referred to the demonstration, so early in the morning, as an unusual thing and further proof that the party was not dead, but more vigorous than ever. He styled Centre county as the "Sunrise of Democracy." Mr. Singery's remarks were brief and to the point. Hon. W. U. Hensel, of Lancaster, followed in an eloquent effort. He pointed out Gen. Hastings' reckless course upon the stump, and at the same time showed the untruthfulness of his calamity song. He also styled Hastings' course in evading state issues as cowardly. He challenged him to define his course. Candidate Magee and Hon. John M. Garman made the closing remarks which were listened to with marked attention.

The meeting adjourned at half-past nine when the party were escorted to the train and continued on their journey to Lock Haven.

The meeting was a decided and surprising success and indicates that the democratic party of Centre county is not discouraged or even afraid. On the other hand they are decidedly awake and enthusiastic and will rally by the same old democratic standard on next Tuesday.

Accidental Death.

The Potter Enterprise in reference to the death of Theodore Sturdevant who was at first supposed to have been murdered, says: The facts in the case are hard to obtain. It seems that the man was found lying on his back between the rails, and upon examination it was found that he had received a bad scalp wound, several ribs on his left side were crushed in and there was also a dark spot at the lower part of the spine. It was first thought there had been foul play, but later and after careful examination it was decided that the unfortunate man had fallen from the rear end of a car.

Coroner Ashcroft held an inquest, the jury, we believe, bringing a verdict of accidental death. Mr. Sturdevant was a brother-in-law of Mr. Alois Koblebecker, of Milesburg, Pa.

Of Interest to Firemen.

One of the many pictures that are shown in Tisso's European Novelties, is one dedicated to the firemen of America. It was taken from the original painting which was destroyed in the Metropolitan Opera House fire, New York city, and illustrates a fireman rescuing a child from a burning building. Real water and smoke and electrical effects makes the tableau one of the most interesting pictures in the series. At Garman's opera house Saturday evening, November 3.

A freight wreck occurred near Peale Monday night on the Beech Creek railroad. Several cars were badly broken up. Four tramps were riding on the train at the time. Three of them were killed and one was badly injured. The tramps are supposed to have been burglars, as a kit of burglars' tools and several revolvers were found near their dead bodies. Their names could not be learned. Traffic was delayed about two hours before the track was cleared.

Are you a democrat? If you are, it is your positive duty, barring all forms of business and other engagements, to go to the polls, on next Tuesday, and cast your vote. See that your neighbor goes also.

FAUBLES'

THAT AXEMAN SPEECH.

The following appears in the republican papers this week:

E. T. TUTEN, Editor Bellefonte Republican.

DEAR SIR: The Centre Democrat of Oct. 26th contains an article entitled "A Famous Speech Delivered at Axe Mann Sixteen years ago." I had the honor of being present at said meeting and I am willing to take oath that Gen. Hastings used no such language as described. The editor's informer is off his base or not well versed in the history of lies as that identical and same lie was circulated in 1890 on one of our Honored Peas.

Yours Respt. S. HARVEY GRIFITH. Axe Mann, Pa. Oct. 26th, 1894.

To the above we make the following reply:

Editor CENTRE DEMOCRAT:

In reply to the above statement which appears in the republican papers this week, we hereby attest, over our signatures, that Gen. Hastings did address a political meeting at Axeman, sixteen years ago at which we were present; and we did hear him speak of the democrats of Pennsylvania in the discursive language as published in the last issue of the CENTRE DEMOCRAT, Oct. 24, 1894, calling them "double-skulled," and other remarks reflecting upon their intelligence and morals. We are positive of our declarations in this matter. John Brown, Samuel Hazle, Frank Hazle and all those names in the former articles are willing to make oath to these facts as well as we,

J. A. HAZEL, ELI BREON.

Axeman, Nov 1, 1894.

This morning we overheard two laboringmen discussing the merits of the several judicial candidates, when one of them said, "Well, Bower never went back on a poor man;" The other replied, "No, indeed, he did not, and never will. He is not built that way; I know that by experience."
