INSURANCE SWINDLERS.

The Case Against Holmes Becomes More Puzzling.

NO PROOFS OF MURDER AS YET.

The Prisoner's Willingness to be Taken to Philadelphia Seems to Verify the Statement That He Substituted Another Body for That of Pitzell.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—The Holmea-Pitzell conspiracy plot thickened yester-day by the arrest of Lawyer Jefferson D. Howe in St. Louis and the arrest of Mrs. Pitzell in Burlington, Vt. Howe was the counsellor who came on here with powers of attorney from Mrs. Pitzell to collect the $10,000 insurance money, and he carried a letter of indorsement with him from the Chicago agent of the Fidelity Mutual Life association, which completely disarmed any suspicions that might have ex-isted in the minds of the Philadelphia officials. The money was paid, and Howe left town, and his arrest is regarded as being probably the most important incident in the present business. President Fouse, of the Fidelity Life Insurance company, went before the quar-ter sessions grand jury and related the cir-cumstances that led to the arrest of H. H. Holmes in Boston. An hour later a telegram was received from St. Louis that Howe was in custody, and that the arrest had been made by the chief of police in Very meager details have been received in Philadelphia regarding the arrest of Mrs. Pitzell in Boston, but First Vice President McKnight says it was the logical outcome of Holmes' arrest and confession.

"I have not yet been informed," said Mr. McKnight, "of the nature of Mrs. Pitzell's confession. My information is simply to the effect that she has been arrested and has confessed. Whether this will throw any light upon the murder theory or whether it will simply be a substantiation of Holmes' story I am not in a position to say, but I suspect it will be the latter."

Vice President McKnight does not insist that Pitzell was murdered, and President Fouse's appearance before the grand jury did not so charge, but they and other official of the company think that the prosecution and developments of the conspiracy case will develop that blood was spilled and that Pitzell was the victim.

The question that remains unsettled is whether the body found at 1316 Callowhill street was or was not Pitzell's. While the insurance company people are inclined to believe that it was, there is no proof to that effect. The police officials are of the same mind as the company's. It is, how-ever, agreed by others that if Holmes was a guilty party to murder he would hardly elect to come to Philadelphia in preference to going to Texas, where he is under indictment for horse stealing.

Holmes' willingness to come here would seem to indicate that he is in a position to establish his innocence of any capital crime in Pennsylvania and that he prefers a term of imprisonment for conspiracy rather than a more serious punishment for any other offense committed elsewhere. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—City Detective Crawford and Supervisor Porry, of the Fidelity Mutual, arrived yesterday with two of the accused life insurance swindlers, Mudgett, alias Holmes, and Mrs. Pitezel, wife or widow of the missing man n whose policy $10,000 was collected and studied in the schools there until he was 15 years old. He taught school for a time, and afterwards attended the local college, working in summer time to pay his fees. Graduating in Burlington he went to a Michigan college, and there made the acquaintance, as a student, of the physician who, he alleges, agreed to supply the body used in this last fraud from New York. The two young men worked during vacations, as Holmes had done in the cast. About twelve years ago, one summer, they were short of funds, and Holmes' friend thought of an insurance swindle, in which a bogus body was to be used. The friend, now a physician, had his life insured for $12,500; the body was procured in Chicago; the identification with the insured doctor was made, and Holmes collected the money.

The scheme was repeated several times. On one occasion Holmes insured his own life for $20,000. Then he went to a hotel in Rhode Island, wearing a beard. He got a body, took it two miles from the hotel, cut the head off, and burled the rest. He shaved, went to the hotel, registered under a new name, and asked for Holmes. They said he had gone out, but was staying at the hotel. The swindler took the head, charred it in the hotel furnace and tried to identify it as his own. This particular scheme fell through.

An account is given of the mysterious disappearance of a young woman who was intimate with Holmes. The story was confirmed by the criminal himself in his conversation with Crawford. In Chicago, he said, where he was living with his second wife, he became intimate with a young girl, a typewriter. He furnished apartments for her, where she was visited by her sister, older than she. The young girl, infatuated with Holmes, became jealous of her sister, and one day, in his absence, brained her with a stool.

"When I came back," continued the swindler, "I found the dead body in the rooms. I took the corpse, put it in a trunk and sank it in the lake. This was a year and a half ago. The younger sister, in danger of arrest for murder, was anxious to escape. She owned some prop-erty at Fort Worth amounting to $40,000 Pitezel and I took this property off her hands and gave her money to fly the country. "We then bought horses, getting credit on the strength of the Fort Worth property. But the deeds weren't straight, and we needed money to keep the thing going. So the two of us agreed to work the insurance scheme again, and that's how this trouble began."
