

MURDERED BY STRIKERS

They Fired on Colored Dock Laborers Who Supplanted Them.

SEVEN MEN DEAD, NINE INJURED.

The Disorder the Culmination of a Series of Difficulties Between Stevedores and Their Employes—The Shooting of a Briton May Cause International Complications.

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—The thick fog in the early morning was the veil behind which desperate white levee laborers gathered, and which they penetrated with Winchester rifle balls aimed at the colored non-union men at work on the ships. The attack was made at points several miles apart just before the arrival of the police, and as a result there are half a dozen corpses and a dozen or so wounded men.

The police saw the attack, but no arrests followed, they claiming they were too few to cope with the unexpected outbreak. The day before the mayor said all was quiet, and the governor saw no grounds for interference, but today the business men are denouncing both. The militia is in readiness to move, an appeal to the federal government has virtually been made, and even the foreign consuls have decided to join in the movement for peace at any price.

The causes which led to the troubles have been of long standing, and grew out of the attempts of ship agents and others interested to reduce rates. The white stevedores claim that the colored men who were given a share of the work under an agreement, made secret cuts and violated the agreement in order to obtain more work and gradually crowd the white men off. The white associations then severed all ties with the blacks and refused to work with them or for the men who employed them. The white longshoremen joined the stevedores in this. Since then the steamship lines have been gradually going over to the negroes.

Recently the white stevedores quit work on the lines still loyal to them, and stated that they would not work until the whole affair was straightened out. Several more lines then took on negro labor from necessity. The whites finally determined to retaliate on the stevedores by offering to reduce rates and deal with the ships direct. Ships in haste accepted the offer, but the agents stood by the stevedores.

The latter offered to pay more than the stevedores asked, but the stevedores refused to deal with them. The agents offered to pay the stevedores their wages and pay the stevedores over them as superintendents, but the stevedores again declined. Then the stevedores began importing colored stevedores from Galveston, and the whites, growing desperate, broke loose in riot.

The dead are: William Campbell (colored), stevedore, shot at Philip street; Jules Calice Carabe, shoemaker, shot in front of the Lyons clothing store; unknown, shot in the vicinity of Cromwell line; Leonard Mallard (colored), scalesman, shot over right eye.

The injured: James A. Bane (white) pursuer, of the British steamer Engineer, shot in the head twice, dangerous; Henry Brown (colored), stevedore, shot five times; Tim Persten (colored), coal wheeler, shot seven times; Louis Cast (colored), employe sugar refinery, shot in hip; Billy Williams (colored), stevedore, shot in leg; Frank Lighthall (colored), driver for cement firm; Robert Brooks (white), longshoreman, shot in right leg; two unknown negroes jumped into the river and it is believed were drowned.

It is feared that the shooting of Bane will lead to a demand for indemnity from Great Britain.

General John Glynn, commanding the state troops, was seen by an Associated Press representative and asked what action the militia would take in case of further trouble. He stated that he was engaged in keeping Governor Foster well informed upon what was taking place here. Orders received by him from Governor Foster would not be disclosed, but orders issued by himself he could make public, and he had no given any awaiting the commands of the chief executive.

A visit was paid to the British consulate on Carondelet street between Canal and Common streets. The consul stated that Captain Woods, of the British steamship Engineer, had called on him shortly after Purser Bane was shot and made a statement of the fact of the shooting. The consul declined to make any statement as to what action would be taken.

The police thus far made but two arrests in connection with the riot. Robert Brooks and Mike Fitzpatrick, both white stevedores, were taken into custody early last night. Both men were wounded—Brooks in the groin and Fitzpatrick in the wrist—and are said to have been shot by their comrades during the promiscuous firing. The prisoners were charged with inciting a riot and remanded to await a hearing.

Wants His Boy to be a Soldier.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Some time during the next four years Colonel Frederick D. Grant will go to Washington to ask the then president to appoint his son, U. S. Grant, to a cadetship in West Point, from which he and his father, the late U. S. Grant, graduated. Colonel Grant will take with him a letter which was written by his father in 1865. It requests that the president who occupies the executive mansion when the ex-president's grandson is 17 years old will appoint the young man to a West Point cadetship. General Grant had frequently requested Colonel Grant to send young Ulysses to West Point. Young Grant was born July 4, 1882, in Chicago.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

The Bill Prohibiting Religious Garbs in Public Schools Passed Finally.

HARRISBURG, March 9.—The calendar of first reading bills was cleared at yesterday's session of the house. There was a slim attendance, and the work was hurried through in order that the members might get away in the morning trains. A special order was made for the Clergy amendment to the banking act so as to relieve building and loan associations from making semi-annual reports to the department, to be published in the newspapers of the county in which the principal office of the association is located. The bill will be read the second time next Wednesday, and will be taken up on third reading the following Tuesday.

Mr. Carothers, of Philadelphia, tried to secure a special order for the Hewitt pure food bill, which passed the legislature of 1893 and was vetoed by Governor Pattison, but his motion was defeated. A joint resolution was offered by Mr. Millard, of Susquehanna, for an investigation by the state board of charities of the Keely cure treatment. The board is to make a report to the next legislature as to the efficiency of the treatment and as to whether it is feasible to apply any of the existing methods of treatment or some modification in connection with the penal, charitable and reformatory institutions of the state. The resolution was adopted.

It was introduced making it unlawful in the manufacture of brooms and brushes to employ more than 5 per cent. of the labor from the convict labor of any penal institutions; providing that teachers' institutes be held in July and August, and that the teachers be paid while in attendance.

HARRISBURG, March 12.—The house held a short session last evening. A number of bills were placed on first and second reading. Mr. Moore, of Bradford, presented a bill amending the act relative to state weather service, providing that the secretary of agriculture shall discharge the duties pertaining to the bureau, heretofore imposed upon the secretary of internal affairs. A bill was introduced by Mr. Fredericks, of Clinton, appropriating $18,000 for the erection of an equestrian statue of General Hartranft in Capitol park.

In the senate bills were introduced: For the creation of the office of fire marshal in cities of the third class. To allow clubs with at least fifty adult members to sell liquor to its members after obtaining a license from the proper court. The license fee to be fixed at $100 for the first hundred members or a fraction thereof, and $50 for each additional hundred members, the maximum not to exceed $1,000 a year.

HARRISBURG, March 13.—Mr. West, of Berks, put in a bill in the house yesterday providing that it shall be unlawful for any corporation, firm or person doing business in the state to compel any of its employes to take out policies of insurance in any accident, casualty, or liability company in which the firm or persons are interested, the cost of the policy being deducted from the wages of the employe. Penalties for violation are provided.

Mr. Burrill, of Mercer, presented a bill requiring the publication of sheriffs' proclamations in three newspapers in each county, two of which shall represent the majority party and the third the minority party.

The house went into consideration of the special order on third reading of the Smith religious garb bill. Mr. Long, of York, opposed it as un-American, and intimated that back of it was the American Protective association. Such legislation, he said, was unwise and unjust.

In defending the bill Mr. Spangler, of Cumberland, made a speech denouncing the Roman Catholic church and its head, to whom he referred as "that man, Pope Leo the Twelfth." He said of National Chairman Harrity, "Follow this man up along the Allegheny mountains, and we hear that he was in consultation with three Roman Catholic priests, who said to these men: 'Denounce these orders and we will give you the votes of our church.'"

At the close of his speech Mr. O'Malley, of Lackawanna, took the member from Cumberland to task for his intimation that Mr. Harrity had made a deal with three priests. "I am a member of the Roman Catholic church," said Mr. O'Malley, "and I have never known one of its clergymen to make a political bargain. If what the gentleman had said is true I think it is only fair to the house for him to give the names of these three priests."

Mr. Spangler replied that he had read this in a newspaper. He had no personal knowledge that such a bargain had been made.

The bill passed finally by a vote of 151 to 96. The house decided to discontinue night sessions and add an hour to day sessions in order to give more time to the various committees.

Among the bills passed finally in the senate: Extending the county bridge act relating to bridges joining cities and boroughs to townships; to establish a superior court of five judges at an annual salary of $7,500 each.

ITEMS OF STATE NEWS.

HARRISBURG, March 11.—The locomotive of the Pacific express was partially wrecked by the explosion of the boiler a mile west of Cove Station on Saturday. John A. Funk and John H. Peelly, the engineer and fireman, were thrown into the air. Peelly died in five minutes, and Funk is at the city hospital. The cause of the explosion is at present unknown.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., March 12.—Associate Judge Charles M. Stearns made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide yesterday forenoon at his residence by cutting his throat. He was overpowered. Last night he made a second attempt by swallowing a quantity of Paris green. Physicians succeeded in saving his life with the aid of a stomach pump. It is thought he is temporarily insane from a severe attack of grip.

PITTSBURG, March 11.—John Sweeney, was literally roasted alive at his home early yesterday morning. His wife was so badly burned in her efforts to rescue him that she had to be removed to the hospital, where she is lying in a very serious condition. Sweeney had been drinking heavily last week and was under the doctors' care. He was recovering and on Saturday night, was sleeping alone. An exploding lamp was the cause of the fire.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 11.—The violation of the road law by Supervisor Thomas Mason, Township Clerk John Tray and Auditors James Conner and John Hagan, of East Norwegian township, led to their conviction and sentence. Mason goes to prison for six months and pays a fine of $50. The others are each fined $50. These men had drawn orders for supplies and work done on the township roads, when the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company had the contract to keep the roads in repair in accordance with the Lehigh road law.

Comfort For Smokers.

There is comfort for the smokers in the announcement from Paris that Massinari, a distinguished scientist, has been experimenting with the smoke of tobacco against the terrible and ever-present bacilli, and finds it one of the most perfect germicides and disinfectants ever used. While his experiments have not been what can be called conclusive, yet he has established the claim that smoke from a cigar, when blown against a strip of linen impregnated with living microbes, causes the death of these germs with almost miraculous rapidity. After the cigar smoke had been blown upon the linen it was placed in a bowl of beef broth, supposed to be a very perfect food for microbes of all kinds, as they breed and multiply very rapidly in it, and to the surprise of the observers it was found that the growth of the germs was completely checked, and that the majority of them were dead. The microbes that managed to escape never fully developed nor increased in number. This opens a new field of usefulness for the fragrant toby for, of course, the effectiveness of tobacco smoke will depend on its strength.
