SHALLOW TRICKS.

ABSURD ARGUMENTS OF THE ENE-MIES OF THE TARIFF.

Contradictory Assertions of the Calamity Howlers Put Them In Ludicrous Positions-Reckless Agitation About Wool. It Has Come to Stay.

In their eager search for arguments against the new tariff the calamity howling organs fall into the most contradictory and ludicrous positions, says the Philadelphia Record. In one and the same breath they assert that the tariff is ruining the woolen industries of the country and that the enormous importation of wool is death to sheep growing on the Rocky mountain ranges. They next assert that the enormous increase in importations of "shoddy" (which they estimate at 1,000 per cent!) is destroying the production of woolen fabrics -a statement which may be left to the slandered manufacturers themselves. As the importation of shoddy was practically prohibited by the McKinley tariff, this percentage trick is as shallow as it is dishonest.

But the organs do not mention that the imports of rags, waste, noils and other materials of shoddy do not amount to more than 71% per cent of the free imports of wool under the new tariff. This fact would completely destroy the trick of percentages. Nor do they mention that the imported materials of shoddy cost American manufacturers by the pound 33 per cent more than most of the wool imported under the McKinley law. Nor yet do they even mention that the importations of wool now consist for the most part of the finest foreign fleeces, which formerly seldom reached the mills of this country.

As for the poor woolgrowers, the enormous annual slaughter of sheep for the American consumers of mutton is attributed by the calamity organs to the destructive influence of the new tariff. If no domestic wool should be used by American manufacturers, sheep growing would still be profitable in this country for its meat. With most American farmers who raise sheep the wool is the least consideration. But with the enormous destruction of domestic sheep, and with the enormous importations of wool, what has become of all the wool if the woolen industries have been as ruthlessly destroyed as the calamity howlers assert? The manufacturers must have eaten the wool along with the mutton in order to engage exclusively in the production of shoddy fabrics! In their eagerness to misrepresent the new tariff its enemies are incapable of perceiving the absurdities in which they are involving themselves.

But what do the calamity organs expect to accomplish by their reckless agitation against the wool schedule of the new tariff? Do they imagine that the consumers or the manufacturers of this A SAFE PREDICTION.

New England Will Oppose Any Further Tariff Tinkering. Judge Lawrence, the head of the wool growing triumvirate, has written to The Wool and Cotton Reporter to say once more that "the people of New England may as well understand that OBLIGED TO KILL DOGS FOR FOOD. the people of the country will not tolerate the infamous swindle of free wool and protected woolen goods." It seems to us more likely that the people of this country will never again tolerate a wool growing triumvirate that starts the ball rolling for a new tariff when nobody else wants it, and by adding to the duties on wool brings on changes in two or three thousand articles, and ends by driving the Republican party from power and knocking off the wool duties altogether. Perhaps Judge Lawrence can see some faint suggestion of his own image in this picture. If he cannot, a great many other people can. After the foregoing outburst he simmers down and makes an appeal to his former allies, saying :

"The time has come when New Eng land should aid in securing protective legislation and not give aid and comfort to its enemies and to the enemies of our country and of our industries in foreign lands. Once more I make my appeal for equal and exact justice, for protection equally, fully, for all."

This is a clear implication that New England gave aid and comfort to the Wilson bill in the last congress, which is not true, but it is a safe prediction that she will oppose any tariff tinkering for a few years, at all event, being instructed by the consequences of the tariff tinkering of Lawrence, Delano and Harpster and the McKinley experiment of 1890.-New York Post.

ever, that Judge Denman will ask the full supreme bench to sit with him, and hand ry will over consent to a restoration of the McKinley duties on woolens or to the removal of wool from the free list? If they entertain such a foolish notion, let them go ask the manufacturers themselves. It is possible that a woolen manufacturer here and there, in consulting prejudice or party spirit, may express a desire to return to McKinleyism. But the great body of the manufacturers will set their faces like flint against a restoration of the wool duties, even though it should be attended by the lure of a revival of McKinley rates on woolens. They have seen and felt the effects of McKinleyism in its temptations to fraudulent valuations and smuggling.

It is not conceivable that these wide awake captains of American industry would give up the advantage which the new tariff has secured them in opening, for the first time, the markets of the world for their raw materials. In the recent London wool sales the appearance of American merchants in the front rank of bidders for the best qualities was a new feature in the trade. This shows once more the promptness of American manufacturers to avail themselves of every opportunity. Is it likely that after enjoying the benefits of free wool they would consent to be shut out of the world's markets and driven back to the coarse grades of wool, as formerly, after their rivals of England, France and Germany shall have picked out the finest fleeces? Not at all. Free wool has come to stay, and none is so well satisfied with this dispensation as the American manufacturer of woolens.

Harmony In the Empire State.

The "Cleveland Democrats" and the "Hill Democrats," who have for so long a time been making war against one another in New York, have put aside their banners and rallied around the party of "plain Democracy" regardless of individuals. Old wounds are healing rapidly; the organization of the party is steadily being perfected, and the Democrats of the Empire State, which is by right and tradition thoroughly Democratic, are making ready for a united and successful campaign against the common enemy at the polls in November next.

Speaker Crisp was surprised to learn that the speaker of the British house of commons is nonpartisan. When Tom Reed hears it, he will be astounded.

Wages In the Woolen Industries.

The predictions of the tariff reformers that the removal of the duty on wool would not only add to the value of fleeces, but increase the trade of the manufacturers by broadening the lines of business, are amply justified by recent events. Wages in the woolen and worsted industry of Rhode Island were increased 71% to 12 per cent this month, the second advance in that state within three months, and these advances were voluntary. Equal improvement in wages was experienced by all other New England woolen, worsted and cotton operatives, notably those at Lawrence, Lowell, Nashua and Manchester, along the Merrimac. These signs indicate anything but ruin to the woolgrowers and manufacturers. - Philadelphia Times.

Another Prediction That Failed.

The New York Times, in a survey of the commerce of the United States with foreign nations, brings out the remarkable fact that the imports of dutiable goods into the country were more by 15 per cent in the last 11 months of 1893. when the McKinley tariff was in operation, than they have been in the latest 11 months under the present tariff of which we have had official returns. Here is another prediction of injury from reduced duties exploded. Instead of being flooded with foreign goods, we are actually receiving less of these than under high protection.-Boston Herald.

Campaign Boodle For Harrison.

Mr. Benjamin Harrison will probably not lack for a fat campaign fund next year if he gets the Republican nomination. but food for the dogs was likewise unob-tainable, and it speedily became a case of the survival of the fittest. The weaker dogs were slaughtered that the others might live and help their master along. As the stores were consumed and dogs decreased the sledges were abandoned. Then Lee had again to take his place in a sledge and the others to drag his weakened form along. Soon it became a struggle for very existance. Every ounce of impediments was discarded. The sledges dwindled to two, the dogs to fifteen.

The rifles were next abandoned, then the scientific instruments, wind gauges, etc., which could be dispensed with, until at by the coroner. last only one sledge, a few pounds of food and five dogs remained. As home grew nearer, while food was vanishing, they abandoned their last sledge, and with one solltary dog, the lone survivor of the pack, faced the last twenty miles of this awful journey. It occupied them thirty-six hours, during which time not one morsel of food touched their lips. When they entered their comfortable lodge, doubly dear after what they had come through, Lee fainted from sheer joy and was four hours unconscious. To show how desperate was their condition Peary abandoned even their nautical almanac, tearing out the three leaves of declinations in reaching headquarters.
