CORBETT IN ARKANSAS

The Champion Pugilist Expects to be Arrested.

AND THUS GET THE CASE IN COURT

Meantime Governor Clarke and General Taylor Insist That the Fight Shall Not Take Place, Even with Soft Gloves, as Now Proposed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 16.-Governor Clarke's determination to stop the Corbett-Fitzsimmons contest at any cost was emphasized yesterday by the presence in this city of General Taylor, of Forrest City, brigadier general of the Arkansas state guard, who was summoned to the capital to confer with the governor in regard to the strength of the state militia. General Taylor was in conference with Governor Clarke for an hour, and when seen later by a reporter was preparing to take the afternoon train for Hot Springs.

General Taylor said positively that the fight would not occur. His purpose in going to Hot Springs, he said, was to warn the people there against the danger to which they would subject themselves should any attempt be made to bring the contest off. He could, he said, with a few hours' notice, land 850 well drilled and fully equipped men in Hot Springs.

Governor Clarke was not disposed to talk. He reiterated his former declaration that the fight would not be permitted to take place, and in this connection said he could make no distinction between a prize fight and a glove contest.

Suppose, Governor Clarke," suggested the reporter, "Corbett and Fitzsimmons should desire to give an exhibition of physical culture in Hot Springs on Oct. 31, in which large gloves were to be used, would that be stopped by military force?"
"Corbett and Fitzsimmons shall not meet in Hot Springs in any kind of a contest," said Governor Clarke emphatically. "If they ever meet they will fight, and they shall not fight in Arkansas. They shall not meet in Hot Springs, either in or out of a ring. They shall not even shake hands." When asked if Corbett would be arrested on his arrival at Hot Springs Governor Clarke said that a good general never disclosed his plans to the enemy.

Information comes from a private source that the Florida Athletic club is considering a plan by which they hope to overcome the obstacles placed before them by Governor Clarke. The scheme is to turn over the whole affair to the Hot Springs Athletic association, which was incorporated by the state of Arkansas in 1895. According to its charter the association was organized for the purpose of carrying on the business of and maintaining a park for amusement at or near the city of Hot Springs, where races, athletics and games may be practiced and exhibited, and other amusements and means of entertainment may be furnished.

Under this charter the people interested believe they can conduct a boxing match limited to a specified number of rounds with soft gloves without violating any state law. The matter has been submitted to two of the best lawyers in the state. and they declare that the contest cannot

In order to clinch the matter and prearranged for a glove contest to take place at once. It is therefore possible to have these contestants arrested and taken before Judge Duffie to determine the matter in the courts. If Judge Duffie agrees with the opinions given by the lawyers the fight cannot be stopped. If he decides against the athletic club officials an appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

When informed of this scheme Governor Clarke stated that the state chartered corporations and associations for legal purposes only and no violation of the law would be tolerated under the guise of

CORBETT ARRIVES IN ARKANSAS. His Probable Arrest Will Bring the Case Into Court.

Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 16 .- Manager Joe Vendig and President Dan Stuart have been in receipt of telegrams and letters by the score containing all sorts of propositions and guarantees of protection and immunity, but they are not disposed to swerve from the original intention with reference to Hot Springs, unless they are satisfied that under the present arrangements and change of contract the exhibition will be an infraction on the law. The contract as changed provides for a twentyfive found boxing contest under Marquis of Queensberry rules, with soft gloves, which shall not weigh less than five ounces.

Corbett arrived last evening, but stopped at Spring Lake, which he will make his training quarters. He will be in the city today, and will give a show in the Opera House in the evening. He fully expects to be placed under arrest, as promised by the governor, and the people here are anxious that the whole matter shall be brought into the courts, in order to settle what is really the law. By the decision of the courts the Florida Athletic club is willing to abide.

Fitzsimmons is still at Corpus Christi, Tex., Julian refusing to bring him here until a guarantee fund for legal expenses is raised.

Tired of Being a Fugitive.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16 .- Ross C. Vanbokkelen, charged by the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, of Chicago, with having made away with $45,000 of its money, left here last night for Chicago in charge of the United States Consul T. T. Crittenden, who had accompanied him from the City of Mexico. Vanbokkelen said he was glad to get back again. He had soon become tired of being a fugitive in Mexico. he said, and went to Consul Crittenden for advice. The latter told him it would be better for him to come back and stand trial. As Governor Crittenden was about to start for the states, the young man came along with him:

Curious Specimens Caught on a Hook in the Bowels of Indiana.

Thomas Mould and Editor E. L. Roys, of Goshen, are the heroes of a fishing story beside which the stories of ordipary fisherman sink into insignificance. Both are known as ardent devotees of Izaak Walton, and whenever their business permits they are usually found in pursuit of the gamey black bass or the voracious pickerel. On Saturday they visited Glenmere together. The fish were not biting with any enthusiasm and about 4 o'clock they started for

At Hewell's condensery they stopped to talk with some workmen who were repairing the pump at the artesian well. It will be remembered by readers of this paper that as the time this well was sunk an account was given of the striking of a subterranean scream at the depth of nearly 500 feet, the volume of which could not be ascertained except that soundings showed it to be of considerable depth. The stream and its probable size were the subjects of discussion among the little group at the well, and somebody wondered if it contained any

A bright idea occurred to Messrs. Mould and Roys. Each had in his basket a long trolling line, and by uniting them a line long enough to reach easily to the bottom of the well was formed. Amid the good natured "jollying" of the bystanders the lines were rigged and a hook attached. It was baited with a big "night walker" fishworm and lowered 298 feet through the six inch hole. The distance had been carefully measured off on the line, to which a heavy sinker had been attached, and the hook fastened a short distance above to a sioni piece of line. Everybody laughed except Mr. Roys as Mr. Mould carefully lowered the line and waited anxiously for the little tug at the bait which brings joy to the heart of the fisherman.

After a few minutes the expression on Tom's face became one of rapt attention. "I believe I've got a bite," he said. A moment later he began to pull in the line rapidly hand over hand. "I've got something," he said, and as everybody began to gather about the well he drew out a fish. It was about half a pound in weight and of the eyeless species which are sometimes found in the waters of caverns. The fish was nearly a foot long, shaped something like a perch, and its struggles as it lay upon the ground showed that it was game to the backbone. Unlike fish which dwell in waters on the earth's surface and which have

No. 644. Curtailed Decapitation. fish were caught altogether, the largest of which weighed a blump pound and a half. One fish was brought part of the largest to the top, but loosened itself from the largest to the top, but loosened itself from largest to the top. But loosened itself from largest larges the hook and escaped. Mr. Mould, who had hold of the line at the time, says it was the largest by far of any that fastened themselves on the hook, and he is positive that the reason he was unable to land the fish was that it was too big to pass through the well, which is only six inches in diameter. The singular appearance of these fish and the remarkable manner in which they were captured made them objects of curiosity to the persons to whom they were shown. Reference to the encyclopedia shows that these fish are remarkable, aside from their appearance, in that they are viviparous, bringing forth their young alive and not depositing eggs, after the manner of most other fish. They have rudiments of eyes, but no optic nerve, and are, therefore, incapable of being affected by the most intense light. Those who tasted them say they are of excellent flavor, but rather too plentifully supplied with bones .-Goshen Republican.

Perhaps a Sparrow Lynching.

A supposed evidence of judgment and punishment among birds or else an accident was supplied in a Philadeiphia English sparrow which hung suspended by a string from the cornice of the great north doorway of the main building of Girard College. The string was about a yard long and appeared, twisted about the neck of the bird. Just before the event came off a sort of sparrow convention was held, as any number of them swept and circled about the place, chats tering and acting very noisily. Thimay have been the session of the court, for the noise was succeeded by a deep silence, and then the unlucky subject of attention was swung over the line. Prefect George W. Price, who is very much of ascientist in his way, said the sparrow had been hanged for some high grime known only to birds, while Mr. Danenhour believes it was a plain suicide.

Time and Step.

"Sometimes," said an old soldier, "one sees the captain of a company marching proudly along, in time with the music but out of step; the company right, the captain wrong. Distressing. But then I have seen a musician marching out of step to the music of his own band, and there is now and then a soldier who never really learns to keep step. The familiar order is: 'Left, left, left, left; the left foot down at the heavy tap of the drum.'
