

The New Racket.

NO. 9 AND 11, CRIDER EX., BELLEFONTE, PA.

We are Frequently Asked

"Are U going to stay here?" The reply is, always, "Yes." Bellefonte is good enough for us, and if THE NEW RACKET is not the best store in Centre county we will be glad to know why.

During the Past Week

new goods for every department have been emptied into the store in a continual stream, and U have been busy as bees carrying it away. It's nip and tuck as to who comes out ahead.

Special

Acme curtain frames for drying lace curtains; are the best and cheapest. Sixty (60) more BUSHEL BASKETS, just in; price 13c. And thereby hangs a tale—U may have heard it.

Another big lot of Linen D'Oilies, Scarfs, Squares, Etc.—with the finest assortment of Art Silks in this city with which to finish 'em; and the half has not been told. KOM AND C.

SPRING MILLS.

Will Win—Welcome Visit—Large Cabbage—Communion Service.

Mrs. John Huss left a few days ago for Johnstown, where they expect to make their future home.

J. B. Rishel, from Coburn, was here on a business trip. Come again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith spent a few days with his parents H. R. Smith, at Pine Grove Mills.

WILL WIN.—Wm. Pealer says the democrats will make a clean sweep of Centre county this fall. Wm. has been a life-long democrat, and he ought to know.

WELCOME VISITOR.—Subscribe for the CENTRE DEMOCRAT and get the answers to your neighborhood towns. It will be a welcome visitor in the long winter evenings.

A BARGAIN.—C. P. Long has purchased the old engine house for seven dollars. It was a bargain but that is what C. P. looks after. He can give bargains if you come to his store.

Mrs. Charley Dillett is in a critical condition. She is not expected to live.

John Glass said his whole corn crop averaged one hundred bushels to the acre.

AHEAD.—W. M. Cain raised a head of cabbage, on democratic soil, that weighed twenty three pounds. Who can beat it.

Mr. Eddy and Miss Minnie Love, of Lamar, spent Sunday with Harry Allison.

COMMUNION.—Rev. Wolf will hold communion service next Sunday morning, in the Evangelical church.

NEW IDEA.—We thought it was customary for girls to go to see their beaux only in Leap Year, but some of our girls go at any time.

Mrs. Charles Dillett died Sunday night; will be buried on Thursday, at the Georges Valley cemetery. Bov.

STATE COLLEGE NOTES.

The Students want Self Government—Class Returns—Other Notes.

SELF GOVERNMENT.—Many of the students became tired of the boys' play that has been going on here for some time and the following committee from their number will present their ideas on self government to the faculty and have power to act in the matter, upon their approval: For the Seniors—Carter, Kuhn, McCaskey; Juniors—Hill; Sophs.—Walker; Fresh.—Carpenter; Sub. Fresh.—Perry.

RETURNED.—The electrical and mechanical engineering students, who went to Pittsburg on an observation trip returned on Monday. They were shown through many large manufacturing plants and gained much practical knowledge.

APPOINTMENT.—L. W. Mattern, formerly of the department of English, has received an appointment as chemist of the Cambria Iron Co., at Johnstown.

E. H. Hess, assistant in field experiments, has returned and can tell you about the immense crops of Lancaster county.

Rev. John W. Forrest, of Howard, former pastor of the M. E. church, was greeting friends here on Tuesday.

Mr. Pillsbury and bride have returned and occupy the Edmonson house, on College Ave. They were duly serenaded on Monday evening.

BOALSBURG NEWS ITEMS.

Mr. William Singer, the democratic nominee for the office of District Attorney, stopped one night with us, a week ago. Mr. Singer has quite a lot of friends in this section, and, if friends count anything, he will be elected Nov. next.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—Mr. J. T. Stuart has made quite an improvement on his store building, by giving it a coat of paint. Mr. Stuart is one of our leading merchants, and deserves credit for helping to beautify our little town.

NEW ROOM.—Mr. J. H. Weber expects to move his store this week from the old George Jack building, now owned by Thomas Allen, to the new one erected on the corner, across from J. T. Stuart. Mr. Weber will have one of the nicest rooms in Centre Co., outside of the larger towns.

NEW HALL.—The I. O. O. F. met for the first time on Saturday night, in their new hall. They have it elegantly furnished and spared no time or money in trying to make it comfortable. Officers for the winter term were installed by Mr. Brisbin, of Centre Hall. The lodge was visited by large delegations from Centre Hall, Pine Grove and State College; all present spent a very pleasant evening.

Mr. Jacob Weber, Sr., who has been on the sick list for some time past, is getting very much better. He is between eighty and ninety years old, but still holds on to the brittle thread of life.

Mr. Harry Stuart, who has been afflicted with rheumatism, is making his home with his father David Stuart. Mr. Stuart was visited by the hospital for several months and came home much better, but it seems this climate does not agree with him for he is feeling much worse.

LUMBAGO.—Mr. Henry Frederick has been laid up for the past week with lumbago in his back. We hope he will soon be around again.

Mrs. J. P. Harrison, Sr., of Pleasant Gap, is visiting at the home of her son R. B. Harrison.

STORMSTOWN CUTTINGS.

Dogs Killing Sheep—Cattle Killed and Meat Stolen—Early Snow.

KILLING SHEEP.—This vicinity is being troubled by dogs that are in the habit of attacking sheep at night. The owners of such dogs had better act wisely and keep them tied at night as they are known, and the possessor of such a dog is liable for the amount of damage done to sheep by his dog.

THIEVING.—Vandals are again at their nefarious practice of petty thieving, this time it is William Way who is the loser, and some one unknown the possessor of a fine lot of fresh beef. Mr. Way has been pasturing his young cattle in some mountain fields, and last week, one night some one went to the field and with a rifle or revolver shot one in the head, and dressing the animal the party took all the meat they could carry leaving the balance on the spot as food for crows and foxes, where it was found by parties out hunting chestnuts.

This is not the first crime of this nature that has been committed in this community, and farmers are getting vigilant, and should the guilty parties be apprehended they will undoubtedly see the inside walls of Allegheny prison which would be their just deserts.

PROSPEROUS LEAGUE.—Delegates were sent from here, and Centre Line Chapters of the Epworth League to the convention which convened at Huntingdon last week, and they come home reporting the "League" in a prosperous condition.

EARLY SNOW.—We were given an unmistakable sign of the approach of winter on Monday when the snow flakes were falling quite fast for a short time, accompanied by a cool wave from the west.

Mr. John Hunter, Jr., of State College, is home over Sunday on a visit to his parents. John is looking quite well and, to judge from appearances, college life must agree with him.

ROAD PETITIONS.—Petitions are being circulated, both pro and con, in regard to the closing of what is called the near way to Port Matilda. It is a road which is too steep to haul a load on but is much used by teamsters who haul over the mountain and utilize this road on their way back, with the empty wagon. Hence the objection to its being closed.

WOODWARD NEWS.

Mr. Thos. Hosterman, and his sister Adah, spent a short time last week visiting friends at Middleburg, Snyder Co.

NEW SCALES.—We are glad to notice the handsome counting scales in the stores of Messrs. Orndorf and Motz.

Mr. Willet Hosterman, who is engaged in baking at Scranton, is paying a visit to parents and friends of this place.

We were allowed to grasp his friendly hand. We were highly pleased to see a great improvement in the home of Mr. Adam Weaver, which was by exchanging his old cook stove for an improved new splendid range.

Mr. T. A. Auman, teacher of our school, and family were spending Saturday and Sunday at Rebersburg.

Corn crop is an extra one at this end of the valley.

Mr. J. S. James, of this place is engaged in canvassing for a book entitled "Sins and Goals." This volume contains the leading discussions by our leading politicians on the subject of hard money.

(NOTE.—Our correspondents should make an effort to get their communications mailed on Monday in order to have them reach us in time. This is important. Correspondents when in need of stationery and stamps should inform us at once and it will be promptly forwarded.)

WANTED.—THE CENTRE DEMOCRAT is anxious to have a correspondent from every section of the county. We request our subscribers, where there is no correspondent to kindly interest themselves in securing some live young person to furnish the happenings of their district for publication. (Recommend some one.)

Exploded.

The Huntingdon News says that when the boiler at the Juniata sand works exploded during the fire, a freight train was passing within about fifty feet of the burning building. The red hot fragments struck the cars and set one of them on fire, but the flames were extinguished. A brakeman was standing on the top of a car and was knocked down by the force of the explosion, but was uninjured.

Found Dead at Tyrone.

At Tyrone Monday, James F. Riddle, a prominent attorney of the Blair county bar, was found dead in bed. An affection of the kidneys is supposed to have been the cause of death. Attorney Riddle was a bachelor, and was a brother of Rev. F. B. Riddle, of Renovo, and of Nelson P. Riddle, of Howard. The deceased was born in Centre county in 1835.

It is a misfortune that our Judiciary must be selected by the politicians. It is an equally distressing condition to see these same high officials continually dabbling in politics. If our Judiciary is to be respected its conduct should be carefully. This general remark can be applied, where ever it may fit.

THE OUTLOOK IN NEW YORK.

Revolt in the Republican Ranks—Democrats Can Win if They Will.

In 1888 the Democratic vote for governor in New York state was 650,464 and the Republican vote 631,293. Governor Hill's plurality over Miller was 19,171.

In 1891 the Democratic vote for governor was 582,893 and the Republican vote 534,966. Flower's plurality over Fassett was 47,927, on a total vote 68,000 less on the Democratic side and 97,000 less on the Republican than in 1888.

In 1892 Cleveland's vote was 654,865 and Harrison's 609,350, a Democratic plurality of 45,518.

In 1893 the Democratic vote fell to 520,614 for secretary of state, a loss of 115,143 from the vote of 1888 for president, while the Republican vote fell to 545,098, a loss of 103,661.

Last year the vote for Hill was 517,710 and the vote for Morton 673,818, a Republican plurality of 156,108. The Democratic loss from 1892 was 137,155 and the Republican gain 44,468.

These figures are interesting not only as showing the extraordinary fluctuations of politics in this state, but as demonstrating the importance of a change of even 30,000 votes on a full poll.

There has not been an election in 20 years at which the result would not have been reversed by a change of that number on a full vote. The result of The World's inquiries among the German-Americans in the cities shows a deep and widespread revolt of Republican voters on the excise and blue law issue. There can be no doubt that this defection is sufficient to give the Democrats the state if they poll their full vote for an off year.

There is no reason this year why any Democrat should vote the Republican state ticket, but many reasons in the return of prosperity, in the bad Republican record in the legislature, and especially in the odious blue law issue, why many Republicans should vote the Democratic ticket, both being made up of men of equal character and ability.

The result therefore resolves itself into the question, Will the Democrats turn out and vote in full numbers? It is obvious from the cold figures that they can win if they do.—New York World.

STATESMEN HARD PUSHER.

Sherman and McKinley Want "Protection For Revenue."

What could be more tame and senseless than the demand of McKinley and Senator Sherman for a re-enactment of the tariff bill of 1890 on the plea of increasing the revenues?

The McKinley bill was not intended for revenue, but for protection. Nobody knows better than do the Ohio magnates that it was a complete failure as a revenue bill.

The assurance of these champions of a lost cause must be indeed great when they propose to supplant the Wilson bill by the McKinley bill on revenue grounds, knowing as they must that the last year the McKinley bill was in operation it did not furnish as much revenue as the Wilson bill has furnished during the past year.

The inevitable outcome of overprotection is to deplete the revenues through the unnatural stimulation which overloads the markets and clogs export at the same time. But for the McKinley bill the Wilson bill would be producing far more revenue than it now does.

Messrs. McKinley and Sherman and their newspaper backers must indeed be hard pushed for material when they propose on revenue grounds the re-enactment of a bill which facts and figures show to have been a complete failure.—Boston Globe.

New Tariff Marks an Era.

The tariff of 1894 is an imperfect measure. It is not fairly comparable with the tariff of 1846, but, like that tariff, it is the beginning of the movement toward unembarrassed trade. It marks the second time in the history of the country when the friends of the protective system have been fought to a standstill. It may be possible that the Republicans will nominate William McKinley and try if they cannot once more fool the people with the old cry, but it is doubtful. They hesitate, and they are more than likely to imitate the policy of the Whigs in 1852 and lay away "protection" among the broken china of politics.—Philadelphia Record.

Making the Most of It.

Among the unique tokens of business revival furnished by the telegraphic news is the announcement, from New Haven, that a company of that city has just received from its Chicago agency an order for 100,000 alarm clocks, from which it is plain that the whole west is preparing to wake up early in the morning to make the most of its day of Democratic prosperity.—Exchange.

McKinley's Dangerous Friend.

Foraker and McKinley appear to be friends, but the governor will do well to have Andy Carnegie make him a bit of steel plate for his fifth rib—a plate without any blowhole.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

No Show For the Howlers.

Calamity howling began going to blazes when the mills and factories fired up, and the long idle furnaces blowing in are also giving it a blast.—Philadelphia Times.

Irony of Fate.

McKinley can't help seeing in the prosperity of the iron interests of his state another instance of the irony of fate.—Philadelphia Record.

Right Age For a Candidate.

Hon. Levi P. Morton inclines to the opinion that Mr. Platt's presidential candidature is just about old enough.—Washington Post.

Pretty Small Potatoes.

The more Foraker's bloody shirt shrinks the better it fits him.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Hand Mutilated.

On Wednesday morning the venerable John McCoy, of Potters Mills, had his right hand badly mutilated by getting it in a corn husker. The thumb and two first fingers were broken off and the others mashed. This is the third accident in this family within three weeks. First, Alexander, the son of the above, had a hand caught by the same husker, causing a loss of two fingers. About a week later a son of Alexander fell from a wagon, and striking a pitchfork, one of the prongs went clean through the fleshy part of his thigh.

Burned to Death.

On Monday a distressing accident occurred at the home of Wallace Bierly, Rebersburg. Their two-year old daughter was in her grandmothers room where it took the oil can and poured some on the fire, an explosion resulted and when Mrs. Bierly rushed in, hearing the screams, everything was aflame, and especially the child. She carried it out and screamed for help. George Krumrine and Henry Brungart, came to the rescue but the clothes were burned from the little one, and Mrs. Bierly's clothes were in places burned away.

The little child lingered but a few hours. Mrs. Bierly is in a critical condition, and may not recover.

Henry Fry Lost.

On Tuesday of last week, Mr. Henry Fry, an old man who lives with his wife at Potters Mills, left home with his gun and since then has not been heard of. He left some money and papers on a shelf, where his wife would find them. This leads many to think that he was in a desperate frame of mind.

Last Sunday a large scouting party was out in the mountains in search of him, but were unsuccessful. Any information of Mr. Henry Fry would be gladly received.

Public Sale.

Will be sold at the residence of the undersigned, No. 16, Logan street, on Thursday, October 1st, '95, the following personal property: 2 bed room suits, bed clothes and bedding, 2 stoves, parlor suit, carpet, tables and all kinds of furniture. Sale at 1 p. m.

Jas. Deer, auct. MICHAEL WARD.

Nothing to Fear in This Proposition.

Senator Allison remarks that if three years of trial shall disclose that, with good wages paid to labor, any of our industries can successfully compete with like industries abroad on existing duties they will not be changed. Where it appears that they cannot, new and favorable adjustments will be made. Probably the friends of tariff reform will not object seriously to that programme honestly adhered to.—Boston Herald.

Republican Reform.

Now, isn't this a pretty plight for the grand old party! A boss on top in every state where "reformers" have had a turn! And a wicked boss at that. But then "reformers" don't count in select Republican circles. What is required is the politician of the "practical" kind.—Exchange.

Ought to Fetch the Buckeyes.

Campbell is telling the Ohioans that they can buy 22 per cent more now with a dollar than they could under the McKinley law. Twenty-two cents is very nearly a "quarter," and this certainly ought to appeal to the Buckeye understanding a little bit.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Talking at the Funeral.

McKinley, in Ohio, is embarrassing the campaign managers by talking about his tariff. Still it's not so much a case of talking it to death as after death.—Exchange.

Log Rolling in Maine.

Colonel Joe Manley is saving some rare old timber nowadays at his mill up in Maine, and the logs are running into the Tom Reed boom.—Philadelphia Times.

DOLL'S SHOE STORE

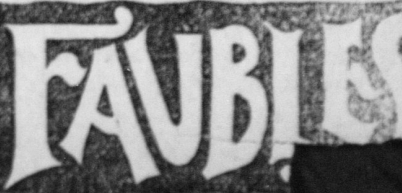

YOU WONDER

Why your friend is better dressed. You pay more for your clothes than he, but they never fit you so well—they never wear so long and never have the style, the chic, the certain something, that shows clothes are just what they should be. Do you know that your friend is a customer of ours? Ask him, you will be sure to find such is the case. We not only sell you different clothes, better clothes, but we also charge you less than others.

WE ARE SHOWING

A line of Mens' Suits, twenty styles, at $7.50, that will cost from $10 to $12 elsewhere. Our Ten line is the cracker-jack of the season. Not a style in the lot that you can duplicate in other stores for less than $15 and many of them will cost you as much as $17 and $18. We know this to be the truth and can convince you of the fact if you only make the comparison. See others, then see us, and you will be sure to save money.
