

A Disgraced Legislature.

AN UNPARALLELED RECORD OF PARTISAN PATRONAGE AND UNBRIDLED EXTRAVAGANCE.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY NEEDLESSLY SQUANDERED.

A Few Lessons Learned from the Late Legislature which Furnish Striking Contrasts Between Republican Profligacy and Democratic Economy—Wanton Waste of the Public Funds so that Republican Politicians may be Held Fast in the Party Fold—A Republican Legislature that had Nothing in Common with the Will of the People.

The legislative session of 1895 in Pennsylvania will ever be remembered as the most profligate and grossly incompetent in the history of the State. It was essentially a Republican legislature. That party had a majority of 36 in the Senate, and 146 in the House, or a majority of 182 on joint ballot. So palpably corrupt and shameless were the transactions of that legislative body that the Philadelphia Ledger (Republican), of June 10, 1895, said the members composing it "return to their homes with a record which should ensure the defeat of the greater number of them whenever they may come up for re-election, for they have not been faithful servants of the people, but mere henchmen of Senator Quay and the corporations."

AN INCREASE OF 150 PER CENT.

In Two Years Salaries of State Officers Have Been Run Up at a Reckless Rate.

An examination of the general appropriation bill shows some startling figures as a result of the reckless increase of salaries and offices. The increase in the total amount of the appropriation carried in its round numbers, $1,400,000, and as the appropriation to the public schools is the same as two years ago, it can be seen where the money is going. In three sections of the bill alone the expenses of the State Department, Judiciary and the Legislature, the increase reaches the stupendous sum of $1,000,000.

The very first item in the general appropriation bill is an appropriation of $1,369,816.48 to pay the "salaries of the State officers, the clerks in the several departments of the State government and for incidental expenses of said departments."

NEW OFFICES AND HIGHER SALARIES.

Cases in Which an Extravagant Legislature Gave Itself Full Rein.

The cost of the Judiciary was increased $145,400, and the cost of the Legislature $57,512. Nor does the latter item include the expenses of a number of nice little legislative junkets which are provided in separate items and the sum of $32,000 which was to go to the Senate Elections Committee for the farcical contest by Dr. Heller for Senator Laubach's seat. This charge the Governor vetoed only because it was not itemized. It will be itemized at the next session and the members of the committee will then be given the authority to rob the State Treasury of the greater portion of this monstrous charge.

The third bill approved by the Governor was solely for the purpose of providing a fat berth for Republican State Chairman Gilkeson, and the people of the State will be asked to pay for the privilege of seeing Col. Gilkeson in the office of Commissioner of Banking for two years, as that is in round numbers the increased cost of maintaining the department under the new law.

In the same way an office was created for Major John C. Delaney by increasing the salary of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings, from $11,500 to $30,000, and providing a lot of new places in the department.

The creation of a Department of Agriculture was intended as a sop to the professional farmer politician, for which the people will have to pay the good round sum of $98,000, that sum being appropriated to it for two years. The Secretary is given a roving commission and can employ at his discretion experts for special examinations and investigations, the expenses to be paid out of the State Treasury, as is the case with the "game warden."

The head of the department is given the salary of $3,500, with a deputy at $3,000, an Economic Zoologist, whose main occupation, outside of drawing his salary, is the hiring of small boys to shoot sparrows and chipmunks, which he is supposed to study and to gaze upon with satisfaction. The general appropriation act also allows him a fee for mounting and repairing specimens, and in order that his laborious duties may not set too hard upon him, he is given a clerk at $1,500 a year in addition.

Then there is a Commissioner of Forestry, a Dairy and Food Commissioner and a State Veterinarian, each at a salary of $2,500, besides numerous clerks and a contingent fund for traveling and other expenses of these various officers of $50,000.

PARTISAN LEGISLATION.

Measures Intended to Provide Places for Republican Henchmen.

One of the most outrageous bills passed during the session provides for the appointment of inspectors of scales, weights and measures, and under its terms the people of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Allegheny are at the mercy of a few politicians. The old law, providing for scales and weights and measures which was one of the first things to fall before the reform wave of 1882, was respectable compared to the present measure. The new law places unlimited power in the hands of the County Commissioner which combined with a factional Governor, will be utilized to create a powerful political lever. The bill provides that the governor shall appoint such number of inspectors as may be designated by the County Commissioners in cities of the first and second class, who shall be paid monthly out of the County Treasury, any salary that the Commissioners may fix. The Commissioners have the absolute say as to the number of inspectors and the size of the salary.

A bill of almost equal possibilities in the way of politics at the expense of the taxpayers is the Free Compulsory Education Bill, which authorizes the employment of an unlimited number of "runners" at a salary of two dollars a day, a bonus for political henchmen as a day, a bonus for political henchmen as a hot campaign. Two similar bills had been handled without gloves by Governor Pattison in ringing veto messages. Governor Hastings signed the bill, not, however, without an apology for doing so.

Positions most sought after by the representatives of labor organizations are those of Factory Inspector and deputy inspectors. In order to better keep the labor organizations in the field, eight additional deputies were created at salaries of $1,200 a year, with $500 a year added to each for expenses.

STEWART'S ILLEGAL INCREASE.

An Instance Where the Constitution of the State was Clearly Violated—The Superior Court Job.

In increasing the salary of Adjutant General Stewart the Constitution of the State was openly defied. Section 13 of Article 3 states clearly:—

"No law shall extend the term of any public officer or increase or diminish his salary or emoluments after his election or appointment."

Col. Stewart was appointed Adjutant General immediately after Governor Hastings' inauguration in January. On March 4 Senator Baker introduced a bill increasing the salary of the Adjutant General from $2,500 to $4,000 and it passed both Houses and was signed by the Governor on May 30. As evidence that the increased salary was to be claimed by the present incumbent the appropriation for the next two years salary is $5,000.

The number of clerks in the various departments was very generously increased. Early in the session the State Treasurer was given an Assistant Cashier at a salary of $2,200. Following came the bill creating the office of Deputy Secretary of Internal Affairs at a salary of $3,000, and providing for two additional draughtsmen at salaries of $1,400 each. The Auditor General was also given a Deputy at $3,000 and the Superintendent of Public Instruction a stenographer at $1,000.

The appropriation of the Legislature is $601,871, an increase of $57,512.10. Of this the Senate gets $153,370 against $134,862 last session. The item of salary of the officers and the employes of the Senate except Librarian, watchmen and pages is given at $11,608, an increase of $10,848 over the amount appropriated for the same items three years ago.

The appropriation to the House is $448,501.05, an increase of $18,479.16 over the amount appropriated last session. Most of this increase probably goes to pay useless employes who were forced upon the House by the demand for places.

The Judiciary of the State was worked for all the nice political plums possible at an increased cost to the taxpayer of $145,400 for the two years. The most conspicuous figure in this increase was, of course, the new Superior Court of seven judges at $7,500 a year.

The provision in this bill that only one of the seven judges may be a Democrat brands it as a most partisan measure, and it is the first deliberate attempt of the Pennsylvania Legislature to create a partisan judiciary. The argument made to defend the creation of this Court upon the plea of relieving the overworked Judges of the Supreme Court, cannot be sustained.

THE STANDARD OIL MONOPOLY.

Governor Hastings Signs the Marshall Bill—Governor Pattison's Stand for the Interests of the People.

The effects of the iniquitous Marshall Pipe Line Bill, which was passed to enable the Standard Oil Company to gobble up all competing lines have already become too apparent to need further reference. The Governor signed the bill with an explanation and an apology. The people, however, are now paying the price of the greatly increased price of oil. Before it passed and was signed refined oil could be bought for five cents per gallon; it is now fifteen cents a gallon and likely to go higher.

When Governor Hastings says that under the act of 1883 the sale of a pipe line which competes with another is absolutely forbidden, and that said act controlled present non-paying and useless pipe-line companies or individuals from selling their stocks, their bonds, or their corporate franchises to any persons, or any corporation that may be willing to buy them, he evidently does not want to remember that Section 1 of the Act says distinctly that competing lines cannot buy each other out, but it does not prohibit the sale to parties not competitive. The act refers only to any corporation, association, partnership or individual and prohibits such from acquiring, purchasing, or leasing a competing pipe line or operating such competing line, or controlling the stock or bonds of such competing line.

The act applies only where there is competition and the Governor and his advisers knew it. In order that the people may judge of the difference between a Governor who served them and one who serves the corporations and the most gigantic monopoly known, we quote Governor Pattison's veto of this same pipe line bill:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Harrisburg, June 22, 1893.

I herewith file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, with my objections thereto, House bill No. 361, entitled "An Act to repeal an act entitled 'An Act to prevent the consolidation of competing pipe lines for the transportation of oil or to hold the controlling interest in the stock or bonds of competing pipe-lines or the acquisition of control either directly or indirectly by purchase or otherwise, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof,' approved the thirteenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three."

The act of June 13, 1883, which met the approval of the present Executive during his former term, was a wise measure intended and necessary at the time to prevent a monopoly of the oil-carrying interests. The long agitation for legislation which would authorize the incorporation of oil pipe lines and invest them with the rights and powers necessary to their successful construction, eventuated in what was known as the "Free Pipe Line Bill." To protect and preserve the rights it secured, the Act of June 13, 1883, was an essential supplementary measure, else all the advantages of the Free Pipe Line Bill would have been lost, by permitting monopolies to consolidate and to acquire controlling interest in the competing pipe lines to be created under the salutary legislation of that session.

It is now proposed to repeal this act. The inevitable effect would be to drive competing lines into consolidation or to put the shippers of this important product at the mercy of the great monopolies which might be able to secure and hold the controlling interest in the stock or bonds of competing lines. When the Commonwealth conferred upon these companies its high prerogative of eminent domain, enabling them to take private property for what is the contemplation of the law, were public uses, it was upon the implied contract that the public should have all the advantages of the of the Board of Pardons for which he receives $500 a year and shares in various other items of the contingent fund. The salary of the corporation clerk has been raised since that time from $1,600 to $2,200 and there is also allowed for enforcing the laws relative to foreign corporations the sum of $1,000 which is paid of the work which some one of the superintendents of the office is already paid $1,400 a year for performing.

For classifying, arranging and tabulating old papers stored in the loft of the building formerly occupied by the Executive Department and storing same in proper shelves, $2,000. These papers consist of old bonds of notaries long since dead or out of office, and old worthless letters, which for sanitary reasons, if for no other, had all better been consigned to the rubbish heap.

For expenses incurred under the ballot law $3,000. This is another steal as the clerk in the office can do this work in a few days without the least difficulty, and the extra amount necessary for postage could readily be obtained from the funds for contingent expenses.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT.—For the payment of the execution of the corporation laws, $2,000. Yet this department has a Deputy Auditor General who is about as much use as the fifth wheel to a wagon. The act appropriates $49,000 for clerk hire, and it will be remembered that this is the department where the corporation laws are supposed to be enforced and where the clerks are supposed under the heads of the departments to do the enforcing.

The enormous sum of $100,000 is appropriated to enable the Auditor General to collect information relative to taxation of persons and property, and to classify and tabulate the same in order that he may simply make a report to the Legislature as to how he thinks a tax bill should be drawn. This item is only a great big steal. The clerks could get all this information without costing the State a cent, and then not occupied all their time.

Then it costs the people $500 to store away the old papers of this department flowers are needed for the Governor's receptions they have to be bought.

Then comes the Secretary of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings at a salary of $300, which duties the clerk and bookkeeper should assume without extra pay.

Then we have $1,000 for renovating specimens for the museum of Natural History, which the Economic Zoologist at $2,500 a year will get, and so on through the list. At every point the effort is plain that the State is to be robbed at all hazards.

DEFEAT OF APPORTIONMENT.

With a Stupendous Majority the Republicans Failed to Comply with the Provisions of the Constitution.

Amid so many flagrant acts of omission of which the late Legislature was guilty, none will stand out more clearly, or bring more disgrace on the Republican party than its failure to obey the clear mandate of the Constitution, and pass Congressional, Senatorial and Legislative apportionment bills. For almost two decades, this duty has rested heavily upon the Legislature of this State, but never has it performed it as the Constitution directs. During Governor Pattison's term he returned bills without his approval giving constitutional and convincing reasons for his vetoes. At the last session with the phenomenal majority of 146 votes in the House and 36 majority in the Senate and an Executive elected by a tremendous plurality and of the same political faith, the Republicans were unable to perform this duty.

The bills as presented were of the most partisan character, disfranchising Democrats on every hand, gerrymandering the State, and failing to make the districts compact and contiguous as the law requires, and were for these and many other good reasons strenuously opposed by the Democrats, who had the Constitution back of them and whose love of fair play would not permit them to support competition thus created and promoted. To deprive them of this advantage by such legislation as is herein proposed would, in my judgment, be unfair, unwise and specially unwilling to approve it in the face of the earnest protest which has reached me from great numbers of citizens directly affected.

ROBT. E. PATTISON.

LOOTING THE TREASURY.

A Convincing Array of Facts which Prove that the Public Money is Being Needlessly Squandered.

While every official at the State Capitol is paid about twice as much money for his services as he really earns, and while the work could be far better done at less cost and by employees thoroughly competent, which political aptitudes, as a general thing are not, and while every department could easily dispense with at least one-third of its present force, it being remembered that the departments had a great many unnecessary employees even before the present act increasing the number were passed, yet the general appropriation act is full of items for extra compensation for work in the various departments for which the employes are more than well paid by their salaries.

Following are a few sample bricks of the way in which unnecessary offices have been created for needy politicians, and money drained from the Treasury on fictitious pretexts:

STATE DEPARTMENT.—Indexing the pamphlet laws and titles of corporations, $500. This work is usually done under the direction of the Chief and Corporation Clerks, by the clerks in the department. After the adoption of the Constitution $1,000 was allowed for the laws and the same amount for corporations, but since then the clerical force in the office has been largely increased. The salary of the chief clerk was raised from $1,500 to $2,200 a year and he is also the clerk from the basement of the executive building, which is $1,200 less than it cost the State Department for similar services. Both items are entirely unnecessary.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.—The clerks in the Treasury Department get $25,800, and yet $2,000 additional is appropriated for transferring and re-indexing accounts of corporations, $500 for moving papers, books, &c., and $500 for electric fixtures and fans.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS.—Here we have $5,000 for contingent expenses, $12,000 for traveling and other incidental expenses of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, and the sum of $10,000 for the collection of the tax statistics as required by the Act of May 9, 1889, P. L. 157. When the sum paid the clerical force of this department is remembered to be $61,000, the enormity of the above items is apparent.

Then it was discovered that the boundary line monuments between Pennsylvania and other States were out of repair, and $2,000 was appropriated for examining them and repairing them.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS.—Major J. C. Delaney gets $3,000 a year for acting as Superintendent of Capitol Grounds, etc. His bookkeeper gets $1,500 a year, but he has a hard time occupying his time; there is $200 a year for a mechanic, but no one knows what he does; a night watchman at $600 a year and a gardener at $1,000; an assistant gardener at $500 a year; five policemen at $100 a year each, and two elevator men at $500 a year each. In the above items $1,500 would have been a large salary for the work which the Superintendent does, and his predecessor got no more. Then follows the item of $12,500 to keep the grounds in order and repair the same, being a big chance for a steal. Then there is a contingent fund of $3,000 a year. Then rose propagating house at $1,800. There is scarcely ever a flower there which is worth anything and when such unjust measures. The Democrats, with a membership of only 29 in the House, while the Republicans had 175 are now charged by the latter with being responsible for the Republican failure to do their sworn duty in this matter and pass the bill through the House of Representatives. Their logical position is, that they cannot legislate or obey the Constitution, which they are sworn to support, unless they have every member in both branches of the Legislature.

The people will say, however: "Since you Republicans had 182 majority on joint ballot, you ought to have been able to legislate without the assistance or even against the opposition of the Democrats, and failure to do so can only be properly charged to your incompetency or to the disgraceful influences at work in your body."

NEEDED CHARITIES NEGLECTED.

Jobs and Jobs had to be Provided for and Humanitarian Efforts were Therefore Ignored.

An examination of the laws of 1895, and a comparison of them with those passed at the session of 1893, will show that the appropriations to charity hospitals and various benevolent institutions were largely cut down, and the acts which failed to pass or become laws and which were most needed for the public improvement were neglected altogether.

Almost every section of the State where such institutions exist will realize that the late Legislature, while phenomenal in its expenditures and waste, failed to do its plain duty, and appropriated the money to each respective section to which it was entitled. Space will not permit the giving at length the institutions thus neglected, or the places where the people's money could have been judiciously expended, but a casual examination of the acts of 1895 will convince anyone of the truth of the above statement.

CORRUPT AND SORDID. A TREASURY SCANDAL.

THE LAST LEGISLATURE CONDEMNED BY A REPUBLICAN AUTHORITY. REPUBLICAN OFFICIALS ARRAIGNED BY REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPERS.

MONOPOLIST JOBS PREVAILED

B. F. MEYERS' HONEST STAND

WHILE LEGITIMATE LEGISLATION WAS ALTOGETHER IGNORED—THE PHILADELPHIA LEDGER TELLS SOME GALLING TRUTHS REGARDING THE "TRICKS AND DEVICES" OF REPUBLICAN LEGISLATORS—A SCATHING CRITICISM.

WHILE REPUBLICAN STATE TREASURERS ARE PILORIED FOR FARMING OUT PUBLIC FUNDS, HE DECLARES THAT ALL INCREMENTS BELONG TO THE PEOPLE—HEYWOOD IS SILENT ON THE SUBJECT.

That the late State Legislature merited the condemnation of honest Republican opinion as well as of Democratic sentiment is amply evidenced by the adverse criticism of the 'intelligent Republican press. Every vote at the approaching election that is cast for the Republican candidates will be an endorsement of that reckless and disgraceful Legislature. Every vote cast for the Democratic ticket will be a rebuke, and a demand for honest State government.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, Republican, had this to say about the essentially Republican Legislative body in which the interests of the people of Pennsylvania were recently misplaced:

Whatever the majority of the Legislature of Pennsylvania did, either by acts of commission or omission, to make the adjustment of that body's character in evidence in much of the General Assembly has been received with such a profound sense of popular relief as that of the last.

There has been no recent Legislature of this Commonwealth of which there were not some members of Senate or House who were not either morally or intellectually incompetent, and no majority of which it can be truly said that its acts were inspired solely by public policy. Among the members of the Legislature, various General Assemblies there were some corrupt, sordid men, or reckless, unscrupulous partisans who were bent upon the promotion of their own venal, selfish interests or the assumed interests of their respective parties. Men of this class recently controlled legislation and exercised a powerful influence detrimental to the people. The Legislature which adjourned Saturday men of this character were in evidence in much of the legislation which was consummated. They did not represent the Commonwealth; they represented the Legislature or the State. They were influential class of the members of this Assembly was composed of the political henchmen of rival political bosses who have been recently contending for the control of the Republican "Machine" of the State and city. The men of this class, with a cynical disregard of and contempt for public policy, which has been seldom, if ever, so recklessly and unscrupulously exhibited, ranged themselves upon opposing lines, and in the measures of the first importance to the people of the Commonwealth, they did, or refused to do, as legislators of Pennsylvania, not as representatives of the Commonwealth. The consequence was that between these two classes of senators and representatives of the Commonwealth there was represented by an ineffective minority of honest, public-spirited men, who were unable to accomplish desirable legislation in order to prevent the consummation of a great deal which was mischievous and pernicious.

In a subsequent issue the Ledger said: Reviewing the work of the Legislature somewhat in detail, it appears that it is not so much condemned merely for its sins of omission, which were many and grievous, but for its sins of commission—the passage of laws intended to promote or create corporation monopolies. At the opening of the session there was a great demand for economy because of the falling off in revenues, and Governor Hastings vetoed a few bills to show the Legislature that he would not countenance extravagance. But just before the adjournment the State Treasurer reported that he had on deposit in various banks more than $1,000,000 of the State's money, all of which was lying absolutely idle so far as the State was concerned. Although the plea for economy had been made, and although it was used effectively to cut off some appropriations that should have been made. On the other hand, the Treasurer reported that he had expended in other directions, and unless Governor Hastings should again use his veto power, the money of the State will be squandered on unworthy objects.

Increased appropriations to the Executive Department of the Government more than $800,000. This increase amounts to more than 100 per cent., and was due in part to the increase of offices. The University of Pennsylvania had its appropriation cut down from $200,000 to $100,000, notwithstanding the liberal offer to double the aid given by the State. The Philadelphia School bill was defeated through the tricks and devices of small politicians. The Governor's veto of the bill which would have increased the salary of the Superior Court bill in such a form as to give the minority party only one out of seven judges, which measure was the only one which has been passed. But it was by sins of commission that this Legislature registered its character. It passed the Standard Oil monopoly bill, which enabled the Standard Oil monopoly to tighten its hold and make millions of dollars in a few weeks.

THE BOODLE BRIGADE.

Some of the Reasons why the Republican Party has a Grip on the State.

There were in the last House of Representatives a number of members who were known as the "Boodle Crowd." No bill could get their support unless the question, "How much is there in it?" was satisfactorily answered. Boss Magee, of Pittsburg, did as he pleased; got all the legislation he wanted and got the Governor to sign every bill he was interested in.

Certain representatives had their pockets stuffed with railroad passes all the time, and an office was opened at Harrisburg for the confessed purpose of advancing legislation desired by the Standard Oil Company.

Paid agents of railroad companies sat in the Senate and furnished to members in that and the adjoining House free passes as occasion required.

If the voter would stop for a moment to think, he would discover in these facts some of the main reasons why the Republican party has such a grip on this State. It is because of the cohesive power of plunder. The corporations recognize that the return of the Democratic party to power in Pennsylvania would mean exact justice to all and special favors to none, and they therefore prefer to stick by the party which is for them at all times, at all hazards and at the expense, in a large majority of cases, of the rights of the people.

A 10 PER CENT. INCREASE.

The Thomas Iron Co., of Allentown, Makes Its Employees Happy.

Evidences are forthcoming every day of the continued prosperity in industrial affairs, under the encouraging auspices of a Democratic administration. On the 16th inst. the Thomas Iron Company, of Allentown, announced another 10 per cent. increase in the wages of 330 of its employees at the works at Hokendauken. This is good news, and was received with a great deal of satisfaction by the employees. This is an eloquent argument for Democracy that the Pennsylvania voters should heed.

As between the Democratic and Republican candidates for State Treasurer the voters of Pennsylvania should have no difficulty in determining their preference. The position of the Democracy is set forth with emphatic distinctness in the address of Hon. B. F. Meyers in accepting the nomination for State Treasurer. He strikes at the root of the flagrant mismanagement that has characterized the office under its Republican incumbents. In his address Mr. Meyers said:

Gentlemen of the Committee: Although the nomination for the office of State Treasurer tendered me by the late Democratic State Convention was made contrary to my wishes and hopes, I feel to be a public duty to obey the behest of my party. Neither the honor conferred nor the responsibility imposed by this nomination is to be lightly regarded. Be assured that I appreciate both in their full and complete significance.

It will hardly be necessary that in accepting a nomination the nominee will enter upon an exposition of the principles and policies set forth in the platform of his party. It will be sufficient for him to say that he gives them his endorsement and support. I will, therefore, content myself with saying that I most cordially approve the platform of principles adopted by the late Democratic State Convention.

The duties of the State Treasurer are simply and purely ministerial, but as a member of the Board of Revenue Commissioners, and as the financial agent of the Commonwealth, the Treasurer should not hesitate to make such suggestions and present such plans from time to time for the consideration of that Board as he may believe to be calculated to benefit the revenues and at the same time alleviate the burdens of taxation. He should see to it that the regulations of the administration of the finances of the Commonwealth are implicitly obeyed. He should regard all increments of the funds in the Treasury from whatever source as accruing to the Commonwealth, and not as his personal perquisite or as the spoils of his party. To these views I have already publicly and officially control and direct the levying and disbursement of the revenues of the Commonwealth should, in their reports to the Governor, call attention to the importance of the abolition of all unnecessary and useless offices and the payment of all public officials by fixed salaries instead of fees. Not only is the abuse of the fee system a great hardship to the people, but if the fees now paid to the State and county officials were made a part of the revenues of the Commonwealth, the unnecessary offices and property and labor would be relieved in some degree from the burden of taxation which they are now obliged to bear.

I thank you most kindly for the courteous and have extended and warm words of hope that a brighter and a better day is about to dawn upon the politics of our beloved State.

Here's another Pieter.

Compare this still again with the declaration of principles which we greet and spoliation that have worked the administration of successive Republican State Treasurers for so many years. So brazen has been the cheat played upon the people that the most partisan of Republican newspapers have been compelled to cry "stop thief." The barefaced jobbery of the office is no more pronounced just now than it has ever been, but special attention is called to it by the failure of State Treasurer Jackson to turn over its share of the school fund to Philadelphia.

Even what Republican newspapers say of the policy and practices of Republican State Treasurers:

Philadelphia Press, October 9.

THE INTEREST ON PUBLIC MONIES.

The refusal or failure of State Treasurer Jackson to turn over to the balance of the school fund appropriation due at the end of last June is amazing. Naturally it is causing much adverse criticism of the State Treasurer in the absence of any explanation from that official.

It has been boldly asserted that the reason for this is that the balance of the school fund appropriation due at the end of last June is so large, and in spite of City Treasury Officers' repeated requests that it be paid, is that it could be kept in favored banks here and there in the State which were doubtless paying interest to somebody or other. Whether this is the reason or not, State Treasurer Jackson has certainly by his delay forced a renewed discussion of the familiar old question of interest on the State monies deposited in various banks. It has been talked over and done over many times without resulting in anything; but sooner or later something will be accomplished. Chairman Quay may put it in among his other proposed reforms and insist upon a change.

The City of Philadelphia, which carries a considerable balance in the banks all the time, adopted the policy some time ago of exacting interest on such deposits, and the interest was paid into the treasury, not into the pockets of individuals. Why should not the State have the same advantage from the money which it keeps in different banks? The public has no definite knowledge that interest is now paid by the banks on the State deposits, but when it is made known that such is the fact they are not denied. What is known, however, is that no interest on such deposits is paid to the State, while if there is any interest to be paid at all it clearly belongs to the State.

There is something of a scandal in Pittsburgh in this every day growth out of the payment of interest on public monies to private parties, or, rather, to officials who had no right to receive it. If such is the practice with the State monies—as has been often charged and never so far as we know, denied—sooner or later there must surely be scandal, if not worse. This is a era of reform, and all abuses of whatever nature must come under its influence. The State is carrying many millions in the shape of bank deposits all the time—interest on this, even at a low rate, would
