

The New Racket.

No. 9 AND 11, COOPER EX. BELLEFONTE, PA.

"The Only Way"

To prevent what's past," said Mrs. Partington, hoarsely, as she sat with her feet in hot mustard water and drank boneset tea is to put a stop to it before it happens. Almost every day some person comes into the store and after looking around a little and prying a few articles says: "I wish I had have come here first," and our answer is, take Mrs. Partington's advice and "put a stop to it before it happens," again.

JUST IN

2604 yards table oil cloth, and when it was piled up in front of the store, we were nearly arrested for blocking up the sidewalk—It's a big lot, but it won't last more than 30 days. Patterns are choice, quality the finest, and the price, well that's The Racket, U know.

After spending about 4 months at the Hot Springs, Arkansas, Captain J. M. Kepler arrived home on Tuesday looking quite well.

STONE CRUSHER.—As the election is over and the political discussion has somewhat subsided, it is earnestly hoped that those elected will fill the offices to which they have been elected with credit, and we have reason to believe they will, as they are all intelligent and influential citizens. Aside from a few factional differences, politics was laid aside and those men elected who would work to the best interests of the community. There seemed to be an unusual amount of interest taken in the subject of road supervisor, as the issue was stone crusher or no stone crusher. The men who came out boldly in favor of a crusher, with an earnest desire for improvement of our roads, were elected. We do not wish to cast any reflection of discredit on our present supervisors, for they were in favor of a crusher, but on account of financial embarrassment caused by the opening of the roads last spring, they found it best to postpone the purchase of a crusher until this spring. Now as the supervisors elect were elected on a stone crusher platform, we earnestly hope they will be loyal to the trust to which they have been elected. Their election does not simply mean the purchase of a crusher, but using it to the best advantage, and making improvements were they are most needed.

The death messenger came into our midst again last Saturday, and called to her eternal reward Miss Gill, an aged lady and a sister of Mrs. Joseph Ward, with whom she made her home. Miss Gill had been an invalid for several years, but no particular occasion for alarm was noticeable as she ate a hearty meal just a few hours before her death. She was a consistent member of the M. E. church for 63 years, and every one who knew her could not help but be convinced of the fact that she was in every respect a christian lady. Her age was 79 years. Interment was made at this place on Tuesday forenoon, conducted by Rev. Guyer, of the M. E. church, assisted by Rev. Hepler, of Lemont.

The Chime Whistle.

Not many people are aware of the difficulty encountered in making a perfect chime whistle for a locomotive. The Columbus Dispatch describes the method of making such whistles at the Panhandle shops as follows: To make one of the whistles it requires 21 separate castings. The most difficult one to make properly is the bell, or whistle part of it. It is 12 inches in height and divided into three chambers with partitions between each 3.32 of an inch in thickness. To make one of these it requires a great deal of care on the part of the workmen, and six of them is a good day's work.

New Use for Corncobs.

Frank Shafer took to Dacon, Ill., recently, a sample of syrup which a number of experts pronounced genuine maple syrup. It was nothing more or less than corncob, made as follows: Twelve clean corncobs were put in a gallon of water and boiled until soft. Then the juice was strained off and a gallon of dark brown sugar solution added. This is boiled a little while, resulting in a fine quality of syrup, hardly distinguishable from the maple product.

Going Back to the Old Route.

The new short cut of the P. R. R. from Portage to Lilly runs in a bee line to the hill west of Benscreek, where the hill will be cut, then crosses the old route and follows the old Portage road all the way to Lilly. This will throw the bed of the P. R. B. tracks 30 feet higher than the old tracks were. It is a striking vindication of the survey of the engineers who laid out the old Portage that the P. R. R. is going back to the old route they laid out.
