"A Thoroughbred."

The piece is a high class comedy-drama, such have as been presented by Augustus Daly, Frohman, and The Kendals. It is in three acts, which are laid in New York, London and Paris.

The principal character is Willie Green, a young Californian millionaire, of unsophisticated looks and actions, whom every one takes for a fool, but who in reality is shrewd, good natured, perfect gentleman, and thoroughbred.

The companion part to him is Mrs. Strongmind, a meddlesome elderly lady of the "new woman" type, and to whom Green renders great service in a foolish love affair, and "thereby hangs a tale" which only seeing this delightful performance will unravel. Garman Opera House Wednesday, April 22nd.

STATE COLLEGE NOTES.

Mr. L. W. Musser has been home for the past few days, and he looks hale and hearty.

There was a good crowd at Mrs. Martz's sale, and things sold at good prices. Mr. Harrison has repaired, and otherwise greatly improved the looks of the corner bakery, since he took charge.

Mr. William Foster, of Lewisburg, was in town a couple of days last week, looking after his interests here.

Miss Nannie Musser returned a few days ago from a very pleasant visit, to relatives in Philadelphia.

We are greatly pleased to see the college force busily engaged erecting poles on Main street for the long-looked for electric lights.

Mr. Jno. F. Gray, who is just back from a western business trip, spent Tuesday at the county seat.

The State College baseball team opened the season here on Tuesday, by a well played game with the team of the Washington and Jefferson College, in which they defeated the visitors by a score of 10 to 6.

Mr. Jno. B. Hench, of Northumberland, was about town on Tuesday.

T. Wilson Way purchased the Slagle property, and we understand will improve the place at once.

Mr. Geo. Meek of the Watchman office, was up to see the ball game on Tuesday.

Mrs. Emanuel Musser sustained quite a severe injury from a fall, down stairs, on Monday.

Merchant Jno. Krumrine has pleased the boys by re-opening his large soda fountain. And then Ira is just the boy to please the customers. Z. X. X.

REBERSBURG RUMBLINGS.

Our landlord is doing a big business. Some nights he does not have room enough for all the lodgers.

The horse sale, on Thursday, was well attended and horses brought a fair price, considering the stock.

T. W. Walker is now in style since he traded the "Spanish Jack." "Something to drive to town!"

DEATH: Mrs. Thos. Ziegler died on Saturday morning after a lingering illness. Funeral took place Monday.

Reuben Gramley is confined to the house with rheumatism.

Some of Centre Hall's sports were in town on Saturday evening. There seems to be some attraction.

The Wolfe boys, who ran off a week ago, have not been heard from as yet.

Prof. Hosterman opened his school with a fair attendance, on Monday.

Quite a number of our town people and neighboring farmers sold their cows to the drover, last week.

Calvin Weaver's team of colts ran away on Saturday, but fortunately no one was hurt.

Miss Mary Gilmore, of Bloomsburg, is visiting at Sid. Krumrine's.

Rev. Brown took his mother and two of the boys on to Allentown, until they move.

Burke McMullen moved to J. K. Moyer's mill, on Tuesday, April 7.

Manasses Gilbert lost a valuable Jersey heifer calf last week.

George Musser sold his horse to Clayton Brumgart.

ZION ITEMS.

The wheat crop, nearly everywhere through this section, is looking very badly, with the exception of a few fields, here and there.

The farmers are busy at work; quite a number are plowing, others are thinking of starting soon.

The Christian Endeavor Society, which has been organized but a short time, is in a flourishing condition. They now number some forty members, all told. May the good work go on and many more be added to the list of and be known as Endeavor workers.

Robert Homan is preparing to erect a new barn on his property, at the west end of Zion.

The house and lot known as the Hockman property, in Zion, has been purchased by Squire S. H. Shaffer.

Milton Wise, who left for Altoona a short time ago, reports work plenty and everything booming in that city.

John Bridge, formerly of this place, is at home on a two weeks vacation. He is at present engaged on the Beech Creek railroad as fireman. The writer failed seeing the officer over Sunday, but we think some one across the mountains saw him all right. That's right, John, don't forget your best girl.

The Zion Normal opened on 1st Monday with a goodly number in attendance and Prof. Bushong as teacher. Prof. B. is an able instructor and just the man for the place. TOSV.

Get a Prize.

Father Kumerant, of the Phillipsburg Catholic church, has been awarded one of the Pittsburg Times $1,000 prizes for securing a given number of subscribers for that paper. The money will go to his church.

PLEASANT GAP.

Rev. Bruce Hewes, our newly appointed minister, preached his first sermon here the other Sunday, and made a favorable impression. He is a very pleasant gentleman, and we bespeak our new minister success.

Mr. Scott Tate, moved his family to Lewistown, last week, where he expects to make his future home.

NORMAL:—The Normal opened here, Monday morning, with a large attendance. Prof. Stoyer is the instructor; and is a young man of remarkable ability, and experience in teaching.

Frank Bowersox, democratic candidate for treasurer, stopped in town last week. Mr. Bowersox is a jovial good natured fellow, and made many friends while here.

Mr. J. C. Mulfinger, one of spring township's efficient school directors, attended a meeting of the board last Saturday, in Bellefonte.

Mr. Joseph Neff was another of the democratic vivacious candidates, who was looking up his interest, here, last week.

Chas. Bilger has accepted a position, with Gettig Bros. as assayer.

POLITICS:—Mr. Mulfinger has fixed up very nicely, at his hotel here, the cards of all the republican and democratic candidates. It is hardly necessary for us to mention, that should more announcements follow, he will build an addition to the board.

Jasper Brooks has resumed operation in his planing mill, which gives employment to a large number of men.

Mr. Wm. Bilger is at present engaged in erecting a new barn, on his farm, that he purchased here a short time ago.

David Keller has been seriously ill for some weeks back, with rheumatism.

A couple young men from Lemont came down the other Saturday evening, to see their best girls, who do not live far from here, but the young men, to their perplexity and disgust found the young ladies in bed. The young men soon retraced their steps homeward.

Among the callers last week were: Boyd Noll, of Zion; Miss Clara Gentzel; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Zeigler, of Madisonburg; Robert Cooke, of Howard; Mrs. Grove, of Spring Mills, and others.

OAK HALL NEWS.

The woolen mill, which has been idle for some time, will resume operations under the firm of Fortney & Coxey.

Miss Nellie and Nannia Herman and Roxy Lucas, of Lemont, were visiting at Wm. Bohn's last week.

Mr. F. C. Stoughton, of Lewisburg, supervisor of the R. R. was in town last week.

John E. Murray, of Lemont, was in this place last week.

Mr. Geo. Kline, wife and son, of State College were visiting at the home of Geo. Kline last Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Kline, while engaged in her household duties, fell down stairs and was seriously injured. We hope she may soon recover.

Walked off With Greece.

The news of the American victories in the Olympic games at Athens this week, was enough to make patriotic athletes shriek for joy. We beat the English yachting, all right, and now to go to Athens, the home, the birthplace of athletic sports, and scoop the glory from the Greeks, is proof that America leads the world. Some of these fine days we'll just annex Europe, root and branch, and turn their royal families out to hunt for their living like the rest of us.

Wedding Gifts for the Groom.

In choosing wedding presents, it is customary to consult the taste of the bride to whom they are sent. The following list of presents received at a Dakota wedding is evidently intended for the sole use and behoof of the groom: "A bull pup, a yellow dog, a water spaniel, a meerschmump and tobacco pouch, a shot gun, a bowie knife, a rifle, three dogs, a game rooster, a fiddle, a banjo, a spotted pup, an English mastiff and a pair of silver mounted pistols.

Improving Streets.

During the past week the principal streets of Lebanon have been much improved by cleaning off the dirt and refuse of the past winter. In other places broken stone are being put in to repair. While this is going on, all property owners should clean up their front walks and gutters. The time has come for a general cleaning up.

Fine Raft.

A log raft arrived in Lock Haven the other day containing 72 sticks or 78,498 feet board measure. It was a beauty and attracted many lumbermen and others to the shores of the Susquehanna. In these days of the waning of the timber interest of Pennsylvania a fine raft of splendid logs is almost a curiosity.

DON'T AGREE WITH RECORDS.

McKinley's Statements, Concerning the Treasury Condition in 1893.

The inaccuracies which Governor McKinley indulged in in his recent Hartford speech continue to excite comment and criticism. Among the very glaring misstatements was that which alleged that the Harrison administration at the close of its term of office "turned over to Mr. Cleveland's administration $124,000,000 surplus."

It is well known that on the 20th of February, 1893, just 13 days before the expiration of President Harrison's term, the then secretary of the treasury, Mr. Charles Foster, instructed the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing to prepare plates for the issue of bonds to supply an impending treasury deficiency. The fact was first brought to notice by the Kansas City Times and has since been widely published by the leading newspapers of the country.

But that is not the only evidence in contradiction of Governor McKinley's misstatement of facts. On the 25th of February, 1893, only a week before the expiration of Harrison's term of office, Secretary of the Treasury Foster appeared before a committee of congress and stated that "while there is no fear of a bankrupt treasury the situation is one demanding serious consideration," and added that he thought "there would be a surplus of $17,000,000 on July 1, 1893."

There is an ancient but not commendable code of morals which holds that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth," but that was at a time when records were inaccessible. Governor McKinley, who is a last century statesman, seems still to adhere to that idea, but he is not likely to convince the public in the face of the facts.—Kansas City Times.

DEFICIENCY OF REVENUE.

The McKinley Tariff Act Wholly Responsible—Repeat of the Sugar Duty.

The deficiency of the last two years has often been attributed to a lack of revenue under the present tariff. There is no ground for that statement. The deficiency of revenue as compared to expenditures may be absolutely and wholly attributed to the tariff act of 1890, commonly known as the McKinley bill, and to the increase of expenditure incurred by the same congress which passed that act. For many years prior to the tariff of 1890 the sugar duties had yielded a revenue to the government equal to 91 cents per head of the population. Had that almost wholly revenue tax continued to the present date it would have yielded a revenue in the period which has elapsed since its repeal of about $300,000,000.

The country would also have saved the payment out of a deficient revenue of an unlawful bounty to sugar planters of about $30,000,000. It is true that the panic which was brought on by the silver craze, coupled with the uncertainty which always ensues from deficient import duties, pending a change of tariff, especially when the measure is long delayed in congress, might have reduced the consuming power of the people in respect to liquors and tobacco, thereby again diminishing revenue. That reduction would, however, have been small, and in any event, except for the repeal of the revenue tax on sugar in 1890, the treasury would have received a revenue from it at least double the amount of the subsequent deficiency.—Edward Atkinson.

Facts About Apples.

The market for American apples is something the high protection advocates declared would be ruined by the new tariff bill, but Consul General De Kay, at Berlin, sends word that American shippers have found a fine demand in January that augurs well for the future. Since last September 1,443,592 barrels of apples have been sent to Europe, as against 168,706 barrels in the winter of 1893-4. This means a permanent market in the future, with handsome profits. The demand in France and England for American apples is growing, and Germany presents an opportunity that traders find of the most attractive character under the new tariff schedule. Of course the harvest will be just what the growers make it.—Philadelphia Times.

An Object Lesson in Republican Parity.

"Those innocent people who imagine that the Democratic party is all bad and the Republican party all good," says the Boston Herald (Ind.), "have only to turn their eyes to New York to obtain an object lesson on this point amply sufficient to correct such a delusion. The Republican party cannot even be used to promote a reform there, when in the narrowest party sense it is for its interest to do so. So inherently corrupt is it in the man who controls it that he is ready to sacrifice his party itself rather than lose opportunities for himself to continue in corruption."

He Does It Well.

Governor Matthews of Indiana thinks it will be ex-President Harrison, says the Philadelphia Record. "Recd," he says, "does not know where to jump on the financial question, and McKinley is closely connected with another subject, which will not cut much figure in the next campaign." If it should come to jumping, Mr. Harrison might display unrivaled agility. At present he doesn't jump; he simply straddles and does the trick beautifully.

FRENCH NERVOUSNESS.

Increase of a Disease Known as Neurasthenic Anxiety.

French doctors say that the increase of the neurasthenic condition threatens to become the great scourge of society, and they are bound to admit that some of the phenomena arising from it are such as science can throw but little light upon. Moreover, it is often impossible to say where mere nervous disorder ends and downright insanity begins. The case of Mile. Amelat, who shot the Abbe de Broglie, is one in point. She has been pronounced insane by a committee of medical men, but had she not committed a criminal act they could not possibly have come to any such conclusion from her conversation and general conduct. A doctor has made the consoling statement that we brush shoulders with such people almost every hour, but that so long as they refrain from doing mischief their state of mind cannot be characterized as dementia.

There is a later case, respecting which the Parisian mind is still much exercised. It is that of the youth of 20 who indulged a propensity for stabbing young women with a penknife as they passed him in the street. In doing so he used some prudence and reflection, for he stabbed them all in the same place—one where such an injury was not likely to be dangerous. After his arrest he declared that he could not account for the impulse under which he had acted. Dr. Gilles de la Tourette, who is taking the position occupied by the late Dr. Charcot, places this young man in the Jack the Ripper category of modern maniacs—those whose ruling propensity is to do mischief to women. He declares that such desequilibres are by no means rare, but that in a general way it is impossible to treat them as maniacs. They know quite well that they are evil doers, for when arrested they invariably deny with much energy the charge brought against them until the evidence of their guilt becomes too strong. Dr. Gilles de la Tourette maintains that they should be dealt with as criminals, for there is nothing like the dread of punishment to rescue them from the "fascination of their vice." There is some conflict of ideas here, for if such people are truly maniacs they ought not to be punished to cure them of the "vice," but in their case it is so difficult to distinguish madness from madness that to spend compassion on them would be probably to waste it.

The fact to be faced is that, whether from causes of the physical or the moral order, or of both, the bizzareries of the human mind are becoming more perplexing every day in France and they are beginning to interfere very seriously with the normal course of life. We hear of dragons who are seized with an unaccountable terror when they mount a horse, so that they fall from sheer panic; of consulting doctors—yes, even doctors—who are ready to tear the hair from their heads when the patient has gone for fear that they have made some terrible blunder in the prescription; of railway employees who are troubled in a similar manner by an appalling dread of having done something wrong; of preachers who dare not put their foot on the first step leading to the pulpit; of persons who are terror stricken while crossing a bridge, although they may have perfect command over their will in all other respects, and of nervous conditions still more distressing. Such a state is described as one of "neurasthenic anxiety," and excessive concentration of the mind on certain points is generally supposed to be the cause of it. But, whatever may be the explanation, the nerves of modern society appear to be getting seriously out of repair.—Paris Cor. St. James Gazette.

The Value of Lord Nelson's Regalia. The government of England paid no less than $2,500 to Lord Bridport for the medals and orders worn by Lord Nelson on the fatal morning of Trafalgar. The medals and orders that have thus become the property of the nation are: The service gold medal of the victory of St. Vincent. The service gold medal of the victory of the Nile. The jewel of the Order of the Bath. The jewel of the Sardinian Order of San Joachim. The grand cross of the Order of San Joachim. The jewel of the Neapolitan Order of San Ferdinando. The grand cross of the Order of San Ferdinando. The gold star of the Turkish Order of the Crescent. Two badges of the Turkish Order of the Crescent. And lastly the gold medal struck to commemorate the victory of Trafalgar, which was presented to Nelson's family after that hero's death.—Notes and Expensive Rivalry.

Two fellows, each determined to outdo the other, ran a buffalo robe up to $500 at a public sale at Carversville, Burks County, recently. The fellow that got it thinks he won a great victory, but when the time comes for him to go down in his pocket for the cost he will likely be limbered up a little, and the other fellow will do the laughing. In the meantime the proprietor of the sale chuckles in his sleeve.
