RAIN.—Vegetation was refreshed very much by the heavy rain that passed through here on Saturday night.

Quite a number of this place were to the band festival, at Spring Mills, on Saturday evening, and reported a good time, with the exception of getting a good soaking.

A BIG BEAR.—Quite a bear story is being circulated. A lady and gentleman living in these whereabouts were making a very pleasant call one evening some time ago. When they were on their way home they were walking leisurely along never dreaming of trouble. All of a sudden their dog routed a bear, of prodigious size, and since his bearship refused the right of way, they thought discretion the better part of valor and retreated.

Then a trio of gentlemen returned to investigate, but the dog took the defensive instead of the offensive and the bear seemed inclined to hold its own ground and also some of the enemy's. The retreat this time was a little more rapid. The foot of one of the gentlemen caught in a projection and he reached terra-firma with more force than grace, and made part of the retreat on all fours before he could regain his equilibrium. They then secured the service of two neighbors, with Winchester rifles and returned to the scene of danger. The dog emboldened by so much aid dashed for his bearship and before the guns could be used a huge black cow, dashed into the road directly in front of them. Since then it is with the greatest of caution that they speak of guns or bears.

The man who wants to go as a delegate, to represent the people at the convention, and refuses to be instructed as to what the people want him to do or will purposely disobey those instructions when once given, represents only his own will and is therefore not a proper person to represent the people.
