AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Are Women to be Educated Sex? It Looks That Way.

About the time the programs of the commencement exercises of the city and borough high schools in this part of the state were being announced my attention was attracted to the greater number of girls than boys among the graduates.

In these towns thirty-one boys and ninety-six girls graduated, and the preponderance of the figures on the one side is sufficient to establish a rule and to lead to the conclusion that it holds good not only in other parts of Pennsylvania, but throughout the country generally.

ALTGELD'S POPULARITY

Shown in an Enthusiastic Manner by Illinois Democrats.

RENOMINATED BY ACOCLAMATION.

Despite Repeated Declinations, the State Democratic Party on Placing Him at the Head of the Party Ticket on a Strong Free Silver Platform.

PEORIA, Ill., June 24.—For Governor, P. Altgeld of Chicago; lieutenant-governor, Monroe C. Crawford of Union county; secretary of state, Finis E. Downing of Cass county; auditor, W. F. Beck of Richland county; treasurer, Edward C. Pace of Coles county; attorney general, George A. Trude of Chicago; University trustees, Julia Holmes Smith, R. B. Morgan and M. W. Graham; delegates-at-large, John P. Altgeld, S. P. McConnell, W. H. Hinrichsen and George W. Fithian; national committeeman, Thomas Gahan, of Chicago.

John P. Altgeld is the nominee of the Democratic party for governor of Illinois. He was unanimously placed at the head of the ticket yesterday afternoon. He had no opponent, and a few moments before the honor was thrust upon him he declared that he did not want it.

Judge W. H. Prentiss, of Chicago, placed Governor Altgeld in nomination for governor. He referred to the admirable administration of Illinois during the last four years, and compared Governor Altgeld to Thomas Jefferson. At the mention of the governor's name the audience cheered enthusiastically.

It was a strange convention, and will not soon be forgotten. It was in session only a little over five hours. Nearly all the candidates were nominated by acclamation. There was no strife.

The convention, as had been predicted, came out strongly for free silver, and so instructed its delegates-at-large to the national convention. The platform was almost diametrically opposite in all its parts to that of the Republican party, and the 1,000 delegates voted unanimously for its adoption.

A Clever Swindle.

A few days since a Butler county citizen named McPherson was buccooed out of $50 in Pittsburg with neatness and dispatch. He was walking along the street when he saw a stranger stop and pick up what looked like a roll of bills. The stranger caught McPherson's eye just as he picked the roll in his pocket and told him if he would say nothing about the find he would divide the stuff. The roll contained a $100 note and a $1 bill. McPherson handed over the stranger $50 in cold cash and pocketed the note. He found out later that the $100 was an old Confederate note.

A KISS: A THUNDERBOLT.

Lightning Kills a Man in His Sweetheart's Arms.

Upper New York usually gets a share of the weather whenever a tornado starts from Jersey up to the Hudson valley, and it got a plenty on Sunday, with a scourging wind, violent lightning and sheets of rain. One freak of the lightning was to strike a pair of newly reconciled lovers as they were kissing each other in an orchard in Tibbett's Brook lane, Kingsbridge. The man was instantly killed and the woman stunned and paralyzed.

The man was Charles Fennelly, a big, strapping fellow of 35. He met Louisa Costello about eighteen months ago and they immediately fell in love with each other. Louisa is a fine looking girl of 22, worked in an Owl cigar factory, in East Twenty-sixth street, and all her friends congratulated her when she announced her engagement to Fennelly, for he was sober and industrious, and he had a good job in the street cleaning department.

According to Miss Costello's story she and Fennelly attended mass in the same church Sunday morning, and through common friends they met again. Their affection for each other had not diminished, and in a short time they made up the quarrel and determined to celebrate the event with an outing. At 11 o'clock in the morning they went to Van Courtlandt park, and, after spending several hours they wandered over to Dash's orchard, in Tibbett's Brook lane, near Van Courtlandt avenue. They sat down under a cherry tree, and, having a great deal to say to each other, neither noticed the flight of time nor the dark bank of clouds which had gathered in the western sky.

Fennelly helped the girl to the top of the old stone wall that surrounds the orchard, and, jumping over, he held out his arms for her. With a frightened laugh Louisa jumped and Fennelly caught her and kissed her. At that instant there was a blinding flash of lightning and both fell to the ground. The bolt struck Fennelly on the left shoulder, tearing the sleeve of his shirt into ribbons and killing him instantly, after which it glanced off and struck the girl on the right shoulder. The sleeve of her light shirt waist was burned through and the lightning left its impress in the form of huge black mark upon her skin.

Fifteen minutes later, when the rain had abated, Policeman Volte, who lives in the neighborhood, crossed Tibbett's Brook on his way toward the road. As he drew near the stone wall he heard a moaning cry for help. When he ran to the spot he found the lovers lying on their backs side by side. The girl was conscious, but before she could tell him what had happened she relapsed into unconsciousness. She was taken to the hospital, and until 7:30 o'clock that night she was not aware of the fate of her lover. When they told her that he was dead she moaned and sobbed as though her heart would break, and no one was able to comfort her.

Bicycle Factory. An effort is being made to establish a bicycle factory at Phillipsburg. A number of capitalists have the project in consideration, and everything promises favorable action.

Editor W. M. Robinson, of the Lock Haven Democrat, was in town on Tuesday and was a caller. Sorry, did not get to see him.

Biliousness

THE Republican county ticket has been named, and no one has been impressed with its strength. There are a number of weak men on it, some who can barely carry their own party vote, and none whom we have any idea can be elected. Democrats are well pleased over the result.
