ECHOES OF THE STORM.

It Created Great Havoc Along the New Jersey Coast.

SEVERAL PLACES INUNDATED.

Not Only Have New Bays Been Formed Along the Coast, but Old Shoals and Bars Have in Many Places Been Pounded Away-Property Less Incalculable.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The great storm of '96 has not been relegated to the annals of the past, and the story has not half been No one has so far been able to estimate the damage wrought by the wind and the waves, nor to say how far reaching was the fury of the gale. But as far as the eye can see from any point along the shores of Long Island, along the Jersey coast, in over the lowlands, and in some instances over the highlands, wherever one may turn, there are the evidences that a hurricane has been passing through this section of the country.

For two days and a night the gale blew with ever increasing fully, and yesterday there was a steady downpour of rain to complete the miserable devastation already well done. Thousands spent the day at the beaches, not to enjoy the sunshine and the merry places at the seaside, but to view the work of destruction and to look upon the piles of twisted rafters, broken spiles, upturned pavilions, overthrown cottages and the ruins of resorts of amusement that in former days were the pride and the joy of those who have made the beach their summer home. Handsome lawns that have beautified the grounds of the hotels at the beaches have been torn up like plowed fields, and on Monday, when the storm was at its height, the huge structures themselves in many places were threatened by the waves.

At Brighton Beach and at Manhattan, at Edgemere, at Far Rockaway, and at a dozen other points along the sea line, the fast incoming waters swept under the very foundations of the buildings, and more than once they shook and shivered under the terrific pounding of the seas. One hotel did go down, unable to stand the forces turned against it. That was the Brunswick, at Sea Isle City, the finest structure of its kind in that section. How many smaller buildings were caught up by the wind and wrecked, or inundated, is up to the present moment an unknown

Nor was it along the coast alone that the fury of the gale manifested itself. Jersey City was in places practically inundated. Boats were a valuable acquisition, both for purposes of removal and for purposes of locomotion. The railroads in that section of New Jersey were sufferers to the extent of suspending business for a period, and many of the smaller towns in that state had to be content with a lonesome existence, for all traffic in and out of those places was stopped.

The wires of Sandy Hook were down for many hours, and when communication was again established it was only to learn that never before had such a hurricane been experienced. Fortunately people and dwellings alike at the old Hook were built for storms, and the damage there was slight, if the scare was great. Householders at Asbury Park and Long Branch, for the summer visitors had long since taken their departure, gathered to watch while the watchers at Asbury were gazing the famous boardwalk, the New Era monument and a thousand and one beauties and attractions of the magnificent watering place were swept away.

But Coney Island was the greatest sufferer. One may not now stroll through the well remembered walks fronting on the beach, but he may climb wearily over the masses of ruins that mark the old paths or stand afar and view the wrecked pavilions and water chutes and ice slides. The light and airy beer gardens that stood upon the shore, and the bathing bouses and floats, from the farthermost corner of Manhattan to way beyond the end of the Bowery at West Brighton. It is believed that several hundred thousand dollars would not cover the value of the places thus destroyed.

On Monday the tide was higher than anybody remembered it to be before, but yesterday morning it was still higher than at the previous flood. It only needed this to complete the devastation along the beaches. The seas simply swept over the adjoining districts, hundreds of feet beyond what long ago had been fixed as the ine of safety. As a result dwellings were flooded, and some of them are not yet safe from collapse. If the authorities at Washington would make a survey of the coast from Sandy Hook to Cape May, as it is at present, they would find many errors in the carefully marked maps they now pos-Not only have new bays been formed, but the old shoals and bars in many places have been pounded away.

The old landmarks are buried under tons of

At Anglesea and other places a great deal of damage was done. Several buildings,including caroussels and dancing pavilions, were wrecked. Several adjoining villages suffered greatly from the ravages Vessel and Crew Given Up for Lost, Boston, Oct. 14 .- The owners of the barkentine Thomas J. Stewart, bound from Weehawken to this port, have given the vessel up for lost. The Stewart left New York Sept. 8 via Sandy Hook. The vessel was loaded deep with over 1,400 tons The presumption is that she was caught in the hurricane on Sept. 8 and 9 and capsized. The Stewart was commanded by Captain L. C. Blake, of Brewer, Me., and her first mate was Joseph Connors, of North Castine, Me. The cook was Charles W. Gray, of Orland, Me. The crew were Dutchmen. Philip Boynton, of Bangor, who was learning navigation, was also on board, making the entire ship's crew eleven men.

THE POPULISTS' PLANS.

Their National Committee Issues a Manifesto to the Voters.

AN INDIRECT REBUKE TO WATSON.

the Committee Warns the Voters Against Yielding to the Demands for Straightout Populist Electoral Tickets, and Urges the Advantages of Fusion.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 .- A meeting of the executive committee of the People's party was held at the Sherman House yesterday. All members were present with the excep tion of John S. Dore, of California. After hearing reports from members present and especially from H. W. Reed, of Georgia, who spent several days with Thomas E. Watson, the committee decided to issue a manifesto to the Populist voters of the nation.

The members of the committee admitted after the meeting that this statement is in the nature of a rebuke to Thomas Watson, who has been calling on all Populists to keep in the middle of the road, without paying attention to either of the other parties. Senator Marion Butler said that Mr. Watson would remain on the ticket, and that his removal had not been discussed. Later, however, it was given out that Mr. Watson had been the chief subject under discussion during the day.

The manifesto is in substance as follows: Your national committee indulged the hope that the patriotic action of the People's party in national convention in subordinating the interests of party to the success of the vital issues involved in this campaign would be met by equally unselfish devotion to a common interest on the part of the Democratic party, and that all the friends of silver could present a solid front against the minions of greed by supporting one ticket-the truly corporative ticket-Bryan and Watson. But this hope being disappointed, there were but two courses left, one of which must be adopted.

First, to run a straight Bryan and Watson electoral ticket in every state, which, on account of the failure of the Democratic party to support this ticket, would have affected the same result in this campaign that would have followed the nomination of a straight Populist ticket at St. Louis, namely, the election of McKinley and the triumph of the gold standard.

It is true that the Democratic party would be responsible even to a greater extent than ourselves for such a result, but to permit evil to triumph on such grounds would convict us as well as them of a lack of patriotism and narrow partisanship that would deserve the forfeit to us of the confidence of the American people. Remember that two wrongs never make a

When our devotion to the welfare of the people falters because of any failure on the part of the Democratic or any other party, then indeed will we have lowered our standard and proved ourselves false to our own teachings and repudiated our own motto, of country first, and men and parties second. The brave, enlightened voters who constitute the rank and file of the People's party are incapable of such base betrayal of their country as would result from a division in the ranks of ose opposing the machinations of the nfederated money power of the two continents against the homes and liberties of the American people and would repudiate any action on the part of their leaders opposed to united effort at this time, as they diated the old parties for tree their interests.

The other course left open to your com mittee, consistent with the action of the convention in nominating Mr. Bryan, was to do everything in its power to unite the voters of the country against McKinley and to overcome the obstacles and embarrassments which, if the Democratic party had put the cause first and party second, we would not have encountered.

This could be accomplished only by ar ranging for a division of the electoral vote in every state possible, securing so many electors for Bryan and Watson and conceding so many to Bryan and Sewall. At the opening of the campaign this, under the circumstances, seemed the wisest course for your committee, and it is clearer today than ever that it was the only safe and wise course if our votes were to be cast and made effective for the relief of an oppressed and outraged people. Following this line of policy your committee has arranged electoral tickets in three-fourths of the states and will do all in its power to make the same arrangement in all of the states.

By perfecting this arrangement every sincere opponent of the gold standard giving loyal support to these joint electoral tickets the People's party will not only secure in the electoral college for Bryan and Watson several times as many votes as we could have possibly secured by making a straight fight, but we will secure the defeat of the gold standard.

By this arrangement we can unite a large majority of the voters of America on our joint electoral tickets. Therefore the only hope of the money power and trusts is to divide and conquer us. The Republican managers and their gold Democratic allies realize this, and are putting forth every effort to accomplish this end. They have had their emissaries on hand everywhere trying to prevent joint electoral tickets from being arranged. Failing in this they try to find Populists and silver Democrats who can be induced on one pretext or another, to rebel against the joint electoral tickets.

Some of the Democrats of the revenue stripe who are nominally supporting Mr. Bryan, while secretly and in every underhanded way trying to accomplish his defeat, are advising against the joint elec-toral tickets, and failing in this they advise Democrats to scratch People's party electors, and already a few so called Populist leaders are advising the rank and file of our party to strike back by refusing to support the Democratic electors on the joint electoral tickets.

This is a trap set by the goldbugs, who are rejoicing that a few honest men have fallen into it. These reports today are the only ones that buoy up the hopes of the Republican managers, and the Democrats and Populists who are thus engaged are doing just what the gold men most desire. Therefore we appeal to every Populist who may have been misled by such mistaken or false pleas of pretended loyalty to the People's party into refusing sup-port to such joint electoral tickets to stop and consider the results of such conduc and refuse to be influenced by either misguided or corrupt men. The address concludes with an argument urging the necessity of united action on the part of the wealth producers against the allied hosts of monopolists, and declares that the People's party will be the party of the future. be the party of the future.
