President McKinley and His Advisers at Washington.

O. N. BLISS FOR THE INTERIOR.

The Announcement of the Distinguished New Yorker's Acceptance of the Portfolio Expected Today-Major McKinley Dines with President and Mrs. Cleveland.

Washington, March 3.-The national capitol today shelters the outgoing and incoming presidents and vice presidents, and preparations for the grand ceremonies marking the change of administrations go on with feverish haste and bustle. Major McKinley and Mr. Hobart were welcomed to their future home by one of those glorious bright days such as Washington takes pride in, when in the mood. The entry of the two was made with little ceremony and comparatively slight public demonstration.

A large crowd had assembled at the Pennsylvania station long before the train bearing Major McKinley arrived, and it required the efforts of a force of police to keep clear the approaches. There was a good deal of disappointment expressed among these people over the absence of military in the escort, but it was by special request of the president-elect that such formalities were dispensed with on this occasion. The crowd had to be content with the sight of the magnificently attired staff of Governor Bushnell, of Ohio, in place of the expected military

The great crowd assembled outside the Ebbitt House was avoided by a clever coup. All the preparations indicated that the entrance would be made on the Fourteenth street side of the hotel. There was a guard of policemen at the door, and the corridor leading in from that point was kept osten-tatiously clear. The ladies' entrance from F street was left comparatively unnoticed, save for a policeman or two to keep back the street crowd. When the carriage carrying the presidentelect arrived it was driven quickly to the F street front, and before the crowd realized the fact Mr. and Mrs. McKinley were safe in the hotel.

Mark Hanna, General Alger, Colonel McCook and Stewart Woodford, of New York, had been given a hint of the movement and greeted the new president before any one else. Mr. Mc-Kinley, once inside the hotel, entered an elevator and was at once carried up to his apartments, which were guarded against intrusion. Here Major McKinley received a few friends, but there was no semblance of a public reception.

Last night President and Mrs. Cleveland entertained the president-elect at dinner. The invitation was extended through Secretary Porter several days ago, but up to a late hour yesterday afternoon it was doubtful whether or not it could be carried out, owing to the indisposition of President Cleveland. Word came to Mr. Porter at the Ebbitt, however, about 5 o'clock that the president had so far recovered from his rheumatic attack as to be able to carry out the engagement. which was renewed in pressing form.

Therefore a handsome brougham, the same that had conveyed the president-elect from the station tel, stood at the doorway of the Ebbitt about 7 o'clock. Half an hour later president-elect emerged from the hotel, and was greeted with cheers by the crowd which formed on either side of a lane on the sidewalk. He took his seat in the carriage, in company with Secretary Porter, and was driven in a few minutes to the White House. It was expected that Mrs. McKinley would acompany her husband to the dinner, but owing to the exhaustion that followed the exciting events of the journey from Canton and the day in Washington, she was unable to do

At the White House Mr. Porter left the president-elect at the inner doorway, and the latter entered at once the Red parlor, where he was greeted cordially by President Cleveland, who had been in waiting with Mrs. Cleveland for the purpose. Without delay dinner was announced, and the party retired to the private dining room. where a suitable repast had been prepared. Freed from the restraining influence of others, the retiring and incoming presidents and Mrs. Cleveland chatted without formality.

While President Cleveland was extending this courtesy to his successor the vice president-elect was entertaining Secretary Porter and some chosen friends at dinner at the Arlington Secretary Olney also provided a bounteous dinner, and invited some friends to meet two members of the new cabinet, Messrs. Gary and Gage.

Major McKinley left the White House about 10 o'clock, and immediately returned to the Ebbitt. There being nothing definite known as to the time of his return, no crowd had collected about the hotel doors. The major quickly alighted from his carriage, hurried though the corridor and took the elevator for his apartments, where he remained the rest of the evening.

Senator-elect Platt had a conference with the president-elect afternoon, which lasted for half an hour and was devoted entirely to a discussion of ways and means to secure the representation of New York in the cabinet. Mr. Platt said last night that Mr. McKinley is determined to have a New Yorker in his official family, and will relax no effort to that end. In his talk with Mr. Platt he said he had not abandoned hope of inducing Mr. Bliss to accept the vacant place. The place is the secretaryship of the interior. Mr. Bliss has the offer under consideration, and it is generally believed that he will accept the portfolio before night.

With Mr. Bliss in the cabinet the full list of President McKinley's advisors will be as follows: Secretary of state, John Sherman; treasury, Lyman J. Gage; war, Russell A. Alger; navy, John D. Long; interior, Cornelius N. Bliss; agriculture, James Wilson; attorney general, Joseph McKenna; postmaster general, James A. Gary. Entally Assaulted with an Ax. PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE

Leading Topics of Discussion Among the State's Lawmakers. Harrisburg, Feb. 26.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Vaughn reported from the committee on congressional apportionment a bill to reapportion the congressional districts of the state. The bill apportions the state into 30 districts, doing away with the two offices of congressmen-at-large. By the provisions of the bill Philadelphia and Alllegheny each gains a congressman.

Mr. Sproul introduced a bill to make a reduction of 40 per cent, more or less, in the Philadelphia telephone service charges, and to establish the maximum charges of the whole state. It makes the maximum charges, within a radius of two miles from the exchange, $6 a month in all cities with a population of 100,000, and $4 in all other cities, towns and villages. An additional charge of $1 per month for each mile beyond the two mile limit is allowed, and where two telephones are subscribed for by one person the maximums within the two mile radius are to be $5 and $3.50, according to which side of the 100,000 line the population is on. The penalty for violation of the act is a fine of $500.

In the house the bill repealing the local option law in the borough of Vernona was killed by a vote of 66 to 73, less than a constitutional majority voting. The same fate befell the bill repealing the prohibitory law in Fayette county. Both houses adjourned until Monday evening.

Harrisburg, March 2.-The governor sent to the house last night a communication giving notice of his disapproval of a resolution that all materials of every kind and character used in the construction of the proposed capitol building shall be of Pennsylvania product, whether natural or manufactured, and that all architects. contractors and laborers employed, whether skilled or unskilled, in and about the capitol shall be citizens of Pennsylvania. He declares that the resolution is un-American and sec-

Hazleton, Pa., March 1.-During a Hungarian wedding celebration Saturday night at Jeddo Michael Loskey shot and fatally injured Simon Zelosky. The ball entered his breast, coming out at the back. It was purely accidental.

Easton, Pa., Feb. 27 .- Mary Hubbell, aged 40 years, of Upper Mount Bethel, this county, committed suicide yesterday after giving birth to twins. The woman and her three small children deserted about four years ago by her husband, since which time she has had much trouble in supporting them. Of late her condition has become pitiable. This, together with the fact that starvation stared her and her little ones in the face, is supposed to have led her to end her life.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27 .- In the United States district court yesterday Judge Butler sentenced Harry M. Kline, the former teller of the Farmers' National bank of Lebanon, Pa., who pleaded guilty to embezzling moneys from the bank and making false entries in its books, to five years in the Eastern penitentiary. Kline confessed to the embezzlement of between $5,000 and $6,000. One of the bank's officers said that the amount was really about Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 2 .- An extensive mine cavein occurred in the town of Wyoming last night, in the main workings of the Schooley mine. operated by Simpson & Watkins, which are 600 feet underneath the town. A loud report was heard, and houses shook on their foundations. The earth's surface caved in some places a distance of 25 feet. The area affected is about 150 yards long and 200 yards wide. Williamsport, Pa., March 1 .- James B. Denworth, the pension attorney, who was serving a three months' term in jail here as a United States prisoner, under conviction as a pension fee extortioner, walked out of jail on Saturday. Two Grand Army comrades visited Denworth in his cell. The turnkey and sheriff were temporarily absent, and the sheriff's wife let them in and out. When the visitors passed out through the corridor gate Mr. Denworth stepped out too, remarking, "I'm going to break jail." The woman thought one of the men was an officer, and permitted the prisoner to walk out. He has not yet been recaptured. Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 27.—Calvin Denlinger, who was released from the Eastern penitentiary a few days ago, after serving a twelve year sentence for killing his wife, was locked up yesterday on the charge of threatening to kill his first wife, whom he deserted for the woman he murdered. Denlinger attempted te enter the woman's home, but was refused admittance. when he proceeded to kick in the door. He then wrote her a letter in which he demanded that she meet him after dark in some lonely place, and unat-

The President Refuses to Sign the Immigration Bill.

DECLARES IT TO BE UN-AMERICAN.

The Clause Demanding an Educational Qualification for Immigrants, He Says. Is Contrary to Our Natural Policy-Our Duty to Our Northern Neighbors.

Washington, March 3 .- The president last night sent to the house of representatives a message vetoing the immigration bill. The principal points of the message are as follows:

"A radical departure from our natural policy relating to immigration is here presented. Heretofore we have welcomed all who came to us from other lands, except those whose moral or physical condition or history threatened danger to our national welfare and safety. A century's stupendous growth largely due to the assimilation and that of millions of sturdy and patriotic adopted citizens, attests the success of this generous and free handed

"It is said that the quality of recent immigration is undesirable. The time is quite within recent memory when the same thing was said of immigrants who, with their descendants, are now numbered among our best citizens.

"It is said that too many immigrants settle in our cities, thus dangerously increasing their idle and vicious population. This is certainly a disadvantage. It cannot be shown, however, that it affects all our cities, nor that it is permanent; nor does it appear that this condition, where it exists, demands as its remedy the reversal of our present immigration policy.

"The claim is also made that the influx of foreign laborers deprives of the opportunity to work those who are better entitled than they to the privilege of earning their livelihood by daily toil. So far as this condition now exists among our people, it must be conceded to be a result of phenomenal business depression. With the advent of settled and wholesome financial and economic governmental policies, and a consequent encouragement to the activity of capital, the misfortunes of unemployed labor should to a great extent at least be remedied. In the meantime those most willing and best entitled ought to be able to secure the advantages of such work as there is to

"I cannot believe that we would be protected against these evils by limiting immigration to those who can read and write in any language twenty-five words of our constitution. In my opin ion it is infinitely more safe to admit a hundred thousand immigrants who, though unable to read and write, seek among us only a home and opportunity to work, than to admit one of those unruly agitators and enemies of govern mental control who can not only read and write, but delights in arousing by inflammatory speech the illiterate and peacefully inclined to discontent and tumult. "Violence and disorder do not prigi nate with illiterate laborers. They are the victims of the educated agitator. The ability to read and write affords, in my opinion, a misleading test of contented industry and supplies unsatship or a proper appreciation of the benefits of our institutions.

The prohibition against the employment of aliens upon any public works of the United States is in line with other legislation of a like character. It is quite a different thing, however, to declare it a crime for an alien to come regularly and habitually into the United States for the purpose of obtaining work from private parties, if such alien returns from time to time to a foreign country, and to constitute any employment of such alien a crimi-

When we consider these provisions of the bill in connection with our long northern frontier, and recall the friendly intercourse between the peo ple who are neighbors on the other side, the provisions of this bill affecting them must be regarded as illiberal. narrow and un-American. Such unfriendly legislation could hardly fail to provoke retaliatory measures, to the injury of many of our citizens who now find employment on adjoining for-

Tillman on Armor Plate.

Washington, March 2.-There was an acrimonious discussion in the senate vesterday on the naval bill. In discussing armor plate Senator Tillman intimated that the manufacturers had their paid agents in the senate. Senator Hawley declared that the insinuation was "unworthy of a gentleman, but Tillman went on to denounce the methods by which the government paid excessive prices, and denounced the president for remitting the fine imposed on the Carnegies for defective armor plate.

No Statue in Butler's Memory. Boston, March 3.-The proposition to erect a $50,000 equestrian statue of General B. F. Butler, to be placed on the state house grounds, was the subject of a lively hearing before the committee on military affairs and the state house committee yesterday. Ex-Representative Thurston, of North Bridge made a stirring speech in remonstrance He said the statue would educate the youth to the idea that smartness, and not character, is honored. "A statue will not honor Butler; it may dishonor ourselves," he said.

Reduced Wages for Mine Workers, Hazleton, Pa., March 3 .- A cut in wages, to go into immediate effect, was announced by the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company yesterday. The bosses bear the heaviest reduction. Those receiving $100 a month are reduced to $75, and all other employes down to laborers are cut in proportion, the latter from 90 to 80 cents a day. It is announced that the Lehigh Valley Coal company will make a similar re-

Expenditures Exceed Receipts.

Since July 1, 1896, the aggregate deficit is $48,135,441.
