A NIGHT OF TERROR.

Terrible Experience of a Wrecked Crew Off Atlantic City.

OLUNG TO A CAPSIZED VESSEL.

Heroic But Futile Efforts of Life Savers to Reach the Imperilled Men During the Storm-Rescued After the Storm Abated.

Atlantic City, Oct. 4 .- The crew of the schooner wrecked off Longport Saturday night were rescued yesterday and landed on the beach at Ocean City. The luckless craft was the Henry May, Captain W. O. Perry, from Portland, Me., with a cargo of railroad ties.

For nearly 24 hours the captain and his five men faced death. That they did not meet it is little less than a miracle. The story of their dread experience was told by Captain Perry, after food and warmth had restored him. The vessel ran into the violent northeast gale which raged along the coast Friday night when off Barnegat. She was headed for Delaware breakwater, but the storm grew in fury and she sprung a leak. All hands were called to the pumps, but they were feeble against the roaring waters. Head on the weakening vessel drove crazily before the storm, when a crash sounded above the screaming of wave and wind, and the panting mariners knew that the sails had gone. A momendous sea and capsized. This was matter. off Longport.

Meanwhile the schooner was sighted from shore, but the task of rescue then was hopeless. It was clear that no boat could brave the sea for more than a few minutes. The Ocean City life crew determined to try, and Peck's Beach crew turned in to help. The lifeboat was launched, and almost immediately a huge wave broke over her and flung her angrily back upon the sands. Again and again was the attempt made, only to meet with the same rebuff.

Eventually the futility of the work was recognized, and the would-be rescuers were despairingly compelled to abandon it. The news of the wreck had spread and the beach was thronged with persons, helplessly gazing at the tossing hull. She drifted slowly down the coast, her anchor chains dragging and wave after wave breaking over her. When she capsized a thrill of horror went over the onlookers, but a moment later the forms of the sailors were seen clinging to the plunging

Captain Perry tried to give some notion of what they felt as they watched the failing attempts at rescue. Death loomed before them, but they prayed that it might be balked. Night fell like a death pall. With the cold benumbing their faculties, and exhaustion creeping over them, they clung to the spars with the desperate love of life known only to those who have faced death. Thus the awful night passed. With the welcome sunlight came a lull in the storm, and they knew their prayers had been heard. At the first streak of light the weary watchers on shore put out a boat, safely reached the wreck, and carried the weakened seamen back to earth. There was a burst of joy that is akin to tears when the gallant boat crunched against the sands and the stormbound sailors were lifted out. Women hugged life savers, men danced madly about, and a cheer went up louder than the breaking waves.

Captain Perry, says this is his last sea trip. He thinks the hull of the schooner is worth saving. She was owned by the Berlin Mills company, of Halifax, N. S., Oct. 4.-The British barkentine St. Peter, before reported having passed at sea and making for Halifax in distress, arrived here yesterday. She was partially dismasted in a hurricane that struck her on the night of Sept. 8, compelling her to put about for Halifax in order to repair the damage. Captain Skaling brings the startling report that the storm through which his vessel passed was the cause of sending to the bottom a four masted iron sailing ship, which must have carried a crew of at least 45 or 50 men. After a night of unusual severity they passed the wreck of the big iron sailing ship, and her crew were undoubtedly

General Lee For Senator.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 6 .- Consul General Lee expects to return to Havana probably some time this month, but does not expect to be retained there through the administration. Although his consular office prevents his announcing himself a candidate for the United States senate, to succeed Mr. Martin, it is plainly inferred from incidental conversation that it is his intention to make the contest when the time comes. As he is a gold standard Democrat and Senator Martin a free silver man, the race will be one of national interest.

Ambassador Patenotre's Successor. Paris, Oct. 5 .- It is officially announce ed that the appointment of M. Jules Cambon, recent governor of Algeria, as French ambassador at Washington, has been accepted by the United States government.

THE WANAMAKER LIBEL CASE. Ex-Secretary Reeder and Associates to Stand Trial Next Month. Easton, Pa., Oct. 5.—The habeas corpus proceedings in the case of ex-Secretary of State Frank Reeder, Assemblyman Webster C. Weiss and Maurice C. Luckenbach, charged with conspiracy to defame the name of John Wanamaker, came up before Judge Scott in the Northampton county court yesterday. An affidavit was read from Charles Schobert, maker of the informations, declaring that he did not know when he signed them that they were against the present defendants. He had been informed they were against Detective Tilliard. Counsel for the prosecution offered to substitute the name of Fred A. Van Valkenburg for that of Charles Schobert as the prosecutor. The offer was placed on file, but no order was made regarding it.

The court then made an announcement in regard to the Shobert affidavit. Judge Scott said he had examined the affidavit to see if it really contained anything in which an indictment should be quashed, if this had been a case for such a motion, and he found that it did not-much more, that it did not warrant the discharge of the defendants in this case. The court directed the hearing to proceed, with the understanding that the prosecution only could present testimony.

Upon this announcement Congressman Kirkpatrick, after consultation with his colleagues of the defense, stated that the defendants, rather than not have an opportunity to present their side of the case, would enter bail for the November term of court. It ment later the ship swirled in a tre- was so ordered, and that ended the

Austin, Pa., Oct. 5.-Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in Weeds' livery barn, on Turner street, and in five hours time every building in the town but five was leveled to the ground. Turner street was the principal residence street of the town, and the loss is a sad blow. Probably 500 people are homeless. The fire was started by a load of hay being run into a gas jet. In all 75 houses were destroyed, only half a dozen being left standing. The loss is placed at $100,000. Coatesville, Pa., Oct. 5 .- The body of William J. Baldwin, manager of Charles D. Bailey's farm, at Thorndale, whose large barn was destroyed by fire on Friday last, and who was supposed to have perished in the flames, was found yesterday afternoon in a shock of corn about one-quarter mile from the house, with his throat cut. The ghastly weapon with which he ended his life was still imbedded in his throat when found. A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was rendered.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 5 .- Late yesterday afternoon State Senator Miller, of this district, and Daniel W. Reeser, Democratic nominee for recorder, were arrested, charged with bribery. The prosecutor is Albert M. Swoyer. The latter's brother, Eli Swoyer, was a candidate for recorder before the last Democratic convention, and alleges that he withdrew in favor of Reeser and sold him his delegates for a promise of $1,000. The accused were held in $1,000 bail each. They deny the charges. Norristown, Pa., Oct. 6 .- Death Monday night came to the relief of aged Isaac Alderfer, who was so brutally tortured a week before by three flends trying to force from him a revelation as to the hiding place of wealth which he did not have, but which his torturers supposed was secreted about the lonely abode in which he dwelt alone. An examination of Alderfer's person after his admission to the hospital disclosed the blisters on his legs and feet where the torturers had applied lighted candles and burning paper, and about his wrists were the furious cuts by the cruel cords with which the fiends had bound Philadelphia, Oct. 2.-Two men, unknown to each other, were found dead in adjoining hotels yesterday, both having committed suicide. One was Robert Jones Monaghan, a prominent lawyer of West Chester, Pa., and well known as a Democratic politician of Pennsylvania, who inhaled illuminating gas. Mr. Monaghan had been a candidate for congress, and was a friend of ex-Governor Pattison. Over work impaired his faculties some years ago, when he disappeared for six months, and was finally located in Australia. It is thought that a recurrence of the mental trouble led to his self destruction. The second was Joseph Daniels, of Woodstown, N. J., 45 years old, who 18 p.m. father: "I have been a disgrace to you and myself, and the sooner I am dend the better." took laudanum, leaving this note to his

STOCK AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

The Dullest Day For Many Weeks on Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 5.—Not for many weeks has Wall street seen so dull a day as this. It was offered as an explanation that the eve of the Jewish Day of Atone ment called many brokers and operators from the street. But there was apart from this a manifest disposition to frain from trading and to leave the mar-ket to lie failow for a time. Yesterday's sharp reaction apparently admonished the bulls that conditions are not yet ready for a resumption of the advance. The favorable factors which developed during the day, although they affected for a time the individual stocks to which they applied, were ineffective in causing a general advance and prices of most stocks closed lower tonight. PLAYERS TELL OF FUNNY EXPERI-ENCES THEY HAVE HAD.

Effect Upon Actors of Interruptions From the Audience-The Man Who Sneezed May 1rwin and "The Widow Jones." Wanted Burr McIntosh to "Soak Him."

Players are affected almost as deeply by happenings in the audience as is the audience by happenings on the stage. Sometimes they are moved to wrath, but more frequently to laughter. Occasionally they are frightened out of their lines.

A man sat in an aisle seat, three rows from the front, at a performance of "El Capitan" the other night. He was a fat man, and he gave a sneeze suddenly-a terrific sneeze. It was followed by another that shook the plumes on the big hats of the women around and made the lights flicker. The audience suspended attention and looked at the sneezer, and the players paused just as he snorted out a third sneeze that ended in a high Joseph Proctor, the veteran actor, is note such as seldom had been heard in those parts, though the Metropolitan Opera House is near by. El Capitan stretched out his long arms toward the man, rolled his big eyes heavenward Star Pointer, the famous pacer, covered the third mile heat of his race and said in a sepulchral voice:

"Heaven bless you, sir."

This brought the audience back to the stage with a roar, and in a second the performance was running on at high pressure, while the fat man chuckled over the fact that for a brief space be had been the star of the evening. A few minutes later a Sun reporter asked Mr. to yield for the year about 500,000 boxes. Hopper how he was affected by the funny things that happen in the audience. After getting a grip on El Capitan's nose and throwing down a cup of Near Schuyler, Neb., Mrs. Frank Da- hot coffee, as he does between acts, he answered:

"American audiences are not demonstrative, and as a rule things don't happen in front. Of course the man who sneezed tonight couldn't help it, but he made such a blasting success of it that it affected the whole house and therefore the players. If an actor is playing a part where he can say something, it is the best thing to do, for it makes them Samuel R. McMillan, ex-United all laugh and keeps them from noticing

May Irwin is an actress with whom even metropolitan andiences take liberties. "People have a habit of calling to me from the audience when they want me to sing a special song or to recite something," she said the other evening. "One night a man in the body of the house called out to me to recite 'Hiawatha.' He took me off my feet for a minute. I couldn't remember a line of it, but I called back: 'I will if you'll give me my cue. I've forgotten how it starts.' He gave me the first line, and I shouted it for him.

"When I was playing the Widow Jones one night, during the kissing scene between Rice and myself a man shouted, 'I'd like to be in your place, Mr. Rice. I would.' Rice and I were Senator Lodge says that the Ha- | both convulsed, and the audience roared. waiian annexation treaty cannot now When the piece is funny, it often adds to the humorous situation for some one in front to do something unusual.

'I never shall forget an experience I had while playing the Widow in Cincinnati, though of course it isn't art for an actor to see anything that goes on in front or to recognize anybody in the audience, and I never do-I don't think. One night, as I was saying, in the city of cinders and beer, I noticed the queerest looking old woman down in front. She looked like a farmer's wife, and she kept peering up at me over her glasses. She didn't laugh once, and in all my life I never saw a human being take a play so seriously. She was with another woman who was equally serious. Finally the old woman jumped up and, peering at me over her glasses and shaking her finger in my face, said, with a rasping, western twang:

'Well, you don't look one bit like

I stood up with 'em when they was hitched, and you don't look like her. She went off from these parts, and I heerd she was a widow and that Jones was dead, and then I heerd she was at Cloth Capes I heerd she was a widow and that Jones this the-ater, and I cum to see. "With that she flounced out, but the next day when I appeared at a rehearsal she was on hand to give me another blast. I explained to her how it was. She'd never seen a play before and had come 20 miles to see her old friend, the Widow Jones. There was a time when such things frightened the life out of me, but I've learned to turn them to good account.

Perhaps there is not another man on the stage so phlegmatic as Burr McIntosh during unusual occurrences in front. He lays his coolness all to the training he got on the football field when he was at Princeton. "I find more unexpected things happen on the stage than in the audience, said Mr. McIntosh. "However, the first night we opened in 'At Piney Ridge' I got a piece of advice from the front. I said to the villain, 'You lef' the colonel's baby up thar, an you brung yo' own down heah.' And his lines follow: 'You lie.' I instantly make a movement as if to strike him; but, remembering that ladies are present, my arm drops to my side. A man in front was so infuriated with the heartless villain that he called out to me: 'Soak him, Jack! Hit him a good one or hunk,' and then he hissed like a mad gander."—New York
