MRS. NACK CONFESSES.

Her Story Will Condemn Martin Thorn to Electrocation.

LONG IMPRISONMENT FOR HER.

The Latest Sensation in Greater New York's Remarkable Murder Case. The Woman Betrays the Man Who Committed a Murder For Her Sake.

New York, Nov. 10 .- The Herald today says: "Emanuel Friend, counsel for Mrs. Augusta Nack, was at the Harlem Opera House last night. It was noticed when he came into the lobby that he appeared nervous and excited. His extreme nervousness caused some comment, and he remarked casually that he had just come from a long interview with his client, Mrs. Nack. He sat half the play through, and on coming out said:

"Mrs. Nack has confessed. That is all I can say. She has confessed, and will go on the stand against Thorn. I cannot speak about the matter any further. I have made a solemn promise of secrecy. There is no use of trying to see me later-there is no use trying to see anyone else. Even Mr. Howe does not know. The few others who do know are pledged to secrecy, as I am. I shall go home, disconnect my telephone and refuse to see anyone or answer a question. Mrs. Nack has made a full confession-that's all I can

The Herald's article continues: Mrs. Nack had until yesterday not uttered a single word that tended to incriminate her. She had withstood the efforts made by the police to extort from her an admission that she had killed William Guldensuppe or that she had planned his death and lured him to Woodside, L. I., where Martin Thorn actually did the shooting.

The woman had been subjected to the 33d degree by the police-to every known method of torment. She had been confronted with the horrid masses of flesh; she had been coaxed, wheedled and threatened. The promise of life had been held out to her as a reward for a few words that would surely result in Thorne's execution. She had discovered at Nazareth, but succeeded remained firm during her imprisonment in making good their escape by coverat police headquarters. At all hours ing their pursuers, who were unarmed, of the day and night she had been be- with revolvers and making them turn sieged, but she had kept her own counsel. Now she confesses, by what direct influence is not known.

The story that Mrs. Nack has told and that she will be called upon to repeat to the jury is full of dramatic interest. She has described at great length her life with Guldensuppe in the little flat on Ninth avenue, near Thirty-fourth street. She quarreled with him frequently after Thorn appeared upon the scene. Guldensuppe was violent and abusive, and to rid herself of him she and Thorn determined to kill him. She induced him to go to Woodside to inspect a cottage which she had hired, she told him, to conduct her business as midwife. He went upstairs alone, and when she heard shots she knew that Thorn had carried out his promise.

Mrs. Nack's confession, if accepted by the jury, will condemn Martin Thorn to electrocution, while she may escape with 20 years' imprisonment.

AID FOR THE WHALERS.

The Bear Will Carry Provisions to the Arctic Regions.

STARVATION IS NOT PROBABLE.

The Ice Imprisoned Whalers Can Manage to Subsist Until the Proposed Relief Can Reach Them-Opinions of Naval Officers.

Washington, Nov. 10 .- The information laid before the cabinet yesterday as a basis for its action in the matter of relieving the whalers was contained

The first is from Commandant Kirkland, at Mare Island, and is as follows: Captain Barker reports: Captain Devell, of the whaling steamer Baylies, arrived today from the Arctic and says the whaling steamers Oricha, Freeman, Belvidere and Rosario were at Point Barrowon Sept. 15 with about 160 men. These are now probably closeed by the ice near that place. The whaling steamers Newport, Fearless, Jeannie and Wanderer were at Hershell Island Aug. 26 with about 115 men. All the above eight vessels expected to re-Scranton, Pa., Nov. 8 .- A verdict that turn this fall and had only about three months' rations. Besides the above ships there were several vessels at Hershell provisioned for one, two and three years, prepared to stay in the Arctic and intending to sail soon for the vicinity of the mouth of Coppermine river to winter. Captain Devell says there are about 400 barrels of flour at Point Barrow, probably within reach of the closed in whalers. He does not think there will be any starving among the whalers this winter, though they may be on greatly reduced rations. Commandant Kirkland's second dispatch was as follows:

Stoney's plan seems advisable to send the Bear or steam whaler Thrasher. now at San Francisco, with provisions. medicines and clothing for 300 men for one year to Port Clarence or Norton sound, as found possible. Use Reindeer at Port Clarence to pack provisions to Point Barrow and for food supply, following shore line and keeping lookout for the whalers. This plan requires four officers, one being a surgeon, and four men of the navy. The chances of success are regarded as slight, and every day's delay will add to the difficulty. Any vessel going should sail at the earliest possible moment. San Francisco is the best point to secure the necessary outfits and to sail from. The whaler Thrasher, ready for sea and in good order, can be chartered The widest discretion must be given the commanding officer of the expedition for securing the outfit and crew, including dogs and reindeer.

Secretary Gage yesterday received the following telegram from Captain Tuttle, in command of the Bear, now at Seattle, Wash.

"Repairs to the Bear and docking the vessel will cost $1,500. Before the Bear can reach St. Michaels the bay will be frozen over. Vessel cannot winter at St. Michaels, as the ice would carry it away. There is no harbor north of Unalaska that does not remain frozen until late in june. Behring strait Is closed by ice in November and remains so until June. The whalers at Point Barrow are within six miles of the Point and 18 miles of the station. I understand from Captain McGregor, of the steam whaler Karluk. that Liebes' agent at the refuge station has about 200 barrels of flour. With this and the provisions of the vessels there should be no starvation.

These frozen at Demarkation Point have the supply station at Hershell Island to fall back upon. While it will probably be necessary to abandon the vessels I do not apprehend the crews will meet with anything worse than privations and hardships. The Bear can be ready to start in two weeks. There is plenty of coal at Unalaska. I can see no way of rendering assistance un-Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 9.-Victor Seneca, til the ice opens in July. No vessel until July.
