SULTAN'S "DIPLOMACY."

Has Not Yet Yielded to the Demand of Austria.

MERSINA MAY BE BOMBARDED.

But the Turkish Ruler, Whose Head Has Been Turned by the Victory Over the Greeks, Will Probably Yield at the Last Moment.

London, Nov. 17 .- It now appears that the statement made in a special dispatch from Vienna that the Turkish government, in reply to the demands of Baron De Calice, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the porte, had agreed to salute the Austrian flag after dismissing the vali of Adana and the mutessaril of Mersina, for indignities offered to the Austrian merchant, Brazzafolli, was premature. The porte has not yet yielded to the Austrian demands.

Dispatches from Vienna announce that up to midnight no intimation had been received of the intention of the married Warren Beckwith, of Mount been received of the intention of the Turkish government to dismiss the offending officials, or to salute the flag. If, however, the Austrian demands are

BERING SEA MEETING.

English Speaking Nations.

Washington, Nov. 17 .- The Bering sea meeting, in which representatives of Great Britain, Canada and the United States have participated, came to a close last night, the seal experts making a unanimous report concerning the condition of the seal herds and the diplomatic representatives of the respective governments having an understanding by which they hope at a later date to effect final adjustment, not only of the Bering sea question. but of other pending border controversies. For the present, however, no final action was taken as to the suspension of pelagic sealing. The Canadians urged that other questions be embraced in any plan of settlement, and suggested an international commission to accomplish this end. The wheelbarrow is generally constructed of oak, at a cost of about 16 shillings. Its weight is 120 pounds; extreme length, 6 feet 6 inches (including shafts); extreme breadth, 3 feet 2 inches, and height, 3 feet 6 inches. The wheel is 3 More than two-thirds of the mem- feet in diameter and has an iron tire bers of the senate are said to favor 11/4 inches wide by a quarter inch thick.

To aid in steadying and propelling the vehicle the wheelbarrow man wears a strap across his shoulders, which is attached to the shafts on each side. Boxes, bales of goods, or whatever the loads may consist of, are secured to the wheelbarrow by ropes. The charge for carrying an average load is about 1s. 5d. per mile, but varies according to Pullman and Miss Felicite Ogelsby, the load and the state of the road to be seating accommodation for four people, John C. Passenger fares are lower than those for merchandise on account of the avoidance of labor in loading and unloading. A cushioned seat is provided for the passenger, who generally sits with one leg resting on the front of the barrow and the other hanging over the side in a rope loop, which serves as a foot rest. Thus a native is wheeled for miles over the rough roads of the country, with severe jolting, accompanied by a peculmountains near Bellwood, Pa., was iar squeak of the axle in the case of most barrows. Immediately behind the wheelbarrow, between the shafts, there is a long, oblong shaped basket, in which the wheelbarrow man keeps his few belongings. On the Great plain wheelbarrows are occasionally seen with a sail set, when a fair wind proves a great help to the trundling of the barrow over a

The width of the packages must not exceed four feet -that is, two feet on each side of the barrow-and no wheelbarrow is allowed under any circumstances to carry more than 600 pounds of dead weight.

These regulations are, however, not strictly adhered to. Sometimes in the streets of the foreign settlements at Shanghai about 50 wheelbarrows may each carrying two barrels of English portland cement and pushed by one man. Very frequently, however, a load is carried on one side of the barrow only, so that the edge of the 134 inch tire cuts into the macadam roadway like a knife. The bales sometimes project three feet on each side, the man pushing the barrow being almost invisible from the front. The municipal roads are chiefly of macadam, and the damage they sustain from this traffic is very great. It has been found, after repeated experiments, that granite broken to pass through a three-quarter inch ring and rolled in the usual manner is the only kind of macadam roadway that will stand this severe traffic. It is extraordinary to see a Chinaman skillfully balancing and propelling a heavy load on one side of a barrow, and, considering that there are about 4,000 of these vehicles traveling through the streets of the settlements, in addition to a large traffic of other kinds, the upsets and accidents are remarkably few .--Iron Age.

The short life of Franz Schubert probably contained as much artistic labor as any man has ever been able to crowd in the same number of years. He was born in 1797 and died in 1828. His artistic career extended over about 26 years, during which time he produced more than 1,200 songs, to say nothing of symphonies, pianoforte sonatas and concerted music.

INQUISITIVE SPARROWS.

USED EXTENSIVELY IN CHINA AS A. They May Have Been Hostile, but They Didn't Dare Attack the Cockator,

There was trouble and to spare one day last week in a back yard on Brooklyn Heights. The cause of it was an innocent cockatoo which had flown away from home and found its way to the top of a tree near State street, between Henry street and Garden place. Where the strange bird came from there is no-

It was first discovered by the large and noisy colony of English sparrows which inhabits that vicinity. The first sparrow to see the foreigner lost no time in communicating the news of its discovery to its mates, and in three minutes no less than 50 sparrows had assembled to examine the strange visitor and exchange views about him. They took places on all sides of the cockatoo and began a chattering which soon attracted attention from all the neighboring windows. They hopped about from branch to branch, but never approached nearer than a yard to the puzzled stranger. For a time the cockatoo viewed the conclave about him with serenity, but the strain became too much for him, and finally found expression in a series of the most penetrating screeches, accompanied by the elevation of his light green plume, which had previously been partly concealed in his fluffy, snow white feathers. This demonstration added threefold to the wonderment and fright of the sparrows and increased the volume of their chattering in like proportion. But the unwelcome foreigner soon found that the chattering was harmless, and that the saucy sparrows lacked the courage to make an attack. Finding himself surrounded on all sides by the little nuisances, he gradually worked his way through one side of the circle and out on the end of a branch, where he perched contentedly and viewed his tormentors with the calmest indifference. Having found that the intruder would neither take nor give offense, the sparrows one by one flew away, leaving the cockatoo to take a Tuition free: Board and other expenses very nap in peace and quiet.

Meanwhile the cat colony of the back yards had been aroused by the unusual activity of the feathered tribe, and there had been a gradual concentration 2 of the feline forces near the base of the 4 tree which formed the cockatoo's perch. This meant a cat fight as sure as preaching, and it was not long before the hostilities broke out. Then the dogs had 6 their turn, and the cats disappeared, but to the last the cockatoo sat unruffled in his feathers in the tree top. - New York Sun.

THE SHREW MOUSE.

less Little Animal.

The shrew, or shrew mouse, as it is commonly called, is found in nearly all parts of the world. It is distinguished by an elongated, pointed muzzle, small eyes, plantigrade, six toed feet and glands that secrete a musky fluid. Altogether it closely resembles a mouse,

When at home, it is either under a pile of rubbish or in a hole which it has burrowed in the earth. It is nocturnal in its habits, but perfectly harmless, yet at one time it was much disliked and persecuted because it was thought to be a dangerous, mischievous animal. Among the Italians the notion was prevalent that the bite of a shrew was extremely poisonous. The French and the English believed that if a shrew ran over an animal's foot the animal felt great pain and eventually became paralyzed. Hence if a horse, a cow or a goat became a little stiff in its limbs the foolish people at once declared it 'shrew struck,' and the poor shrews had to suffer in consequence.

Of course the "shrew struck" animal had to have something to cure it, so an ash tree was selected and a deep hole was bored into its trunk. Then a shrew was captured, put alive into the hole, the hole was securely plugged and the innocent little animal was left to die of starvation.

The ignorant believed that, after such an act, the ash tree had power to cure "shrew struck" animals, and whenever an animal became inactive or a little numb in its limbs its owner hurried to the "shrew ash," cut a switch from it and switched the "shrew struck" beast. The smarting caused by the switching naturally made the helpless animal move about as much as it possibly could, and in a short time it was pronounced cured.-Philadelphia Times.

Some Odd Wills,

One of the oddest documents of the will kind known was that of Queen Austrigilda, consort of King Goutram of Burgundy. The dying princess enjoined upon her husband to slay and bury in the same grave with her the physicians who had attended her. Another will was that of a husband who forbade his wife's marrying on pain of his returning to haunt her. This is quite different from that of a woman who instructed her executors, to seek out "some nice, good, pretty girl," who would make an affectionate second wife to her spouse. It is a fact interesting in this connection that the first Napoleon actually bequeathed 10,000 francs to a fellow named Cantillon, who had been tried for attempting the assassination of the Duke of Wellington.-Pittsburg Dispatch.
