"BEFORE BABY IS BORN."

A Valuable Little Book of Interest to all Women Sent Free.

Every woman looks forward with feelings of indescribable joy to the one momentous event in her life, compared with which all others pale into insignificance. How proud and happy she will be when her precious babe nestles on her breast—how sweet the name of "Mother!" And yet her happy anticipation of this event is clouded with misgivings of the pain and danger of the ordeal, so that it is impossible to avoid the feelings of constant dread which creeps over her. The danger and suffering attendant upon being a mother can be entirely prevented, so that the coming of the little stranger need not be looked forward to with fear and trembling, as is so often the case. Every woman who reads this paper can obtain absolutely free a valuable and attractive little book entitled "Before Baby is Born," by sending her name and address to the Bradford Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. This book contains priceless information to all women, and no one should fail to send for it.

THE SIDE-SADDLE.

Much Talk as to Whether Women Should Not Abandon It for the Cross-Saddle.

A fierce controversy is raging in California as to whether women should not abandon the old side-saddle, and use the cross-saddle, like men. Many have already adopted the innovation, which was suggested by the experience of cyclists. As usual in such matters, there has been a great deal of nonsense printed in the papers as to the difficulty of a suitable costume for riding cross-saddle. Of course there are familiar forms of dress that lend themselves admirably to riding in this way.

For a girl or woman to ride cross-saddle is, however, not an innovation, strictly speaking. Until the present century, riding in this way was not unusual. There are letters extant from the great Empress Maria Theresa to her daughter, Queen Marie Antoinette, written about 1775, advising her to give up riding, especially riding cross-saddle.

Queen Victoria was an excellent horsewoman in her younger days, and it is recorded as a beautiful sight when, shortly before the Crimean War, she reviewed the troops at the Chobham Camp, on horseback, wearing a scarlet jacket, made like a general officer's coat, and a hat with a general officer's plumes.

Glove-Fitting Ribbons.

Upon the fit and style of the corset will depend much of the smartness of the coming spring and summer gowns. The day of loose blouses has passed, and the molded bodice, not tight, but perfect, will be the required waist for elegant dressing upon and after Easter-tide.

Poking about in the marts for toilet accessories, I have come upon what the Parisian calls a "high novelty," writes Margery Daw: It is a taffeta ribbon corset, exquisite in cut, enticing in fabric.

The ribbon corset was first made in Paris, but it has been re-created in this country. Seven-inch ribbon is used, and each section has four lengths overlapping ingeniously, so that the stay, when worn, incloses the figure as a glove. Plaid ribbon, in garly contrasted lines, is seen oftener than solid colorings.

These luxuries are sold even to women of finer taste. To women who a few years ago would have expressed indignation if such pronounced colorings had been submitted to them. Twenty-five dollars is the price of a ribbon corset of this sort. It is out of question for those of us who are in moderate circumstances. But if one has seen the smartest things she has a guide for expenditures within her means.

To make a good mayonnaise dressing put a quarter of a teaspoonful of dry English mustard in a deep soup plate, add the yoke of a raw egg and with a wooden fork mix these ingredients to a paste. Take a bottle of olive oil in your left hand and with the fork in the right hand stir in the oil as you slowly drop it with the mixed mustard and egg. Keep dropping the oil and stirring the mixture briskly till it becomes thick and waxy, then thin it a little with a few drops of tarragon vinegar. Again resume dropping in the oil and stirring it till the mayonnaise gets stiff again, then again thin it with the vinegar. Repeat this process until you have the required amount of dressing. Be sure it is the proper thickness. Stand the dressing on the ice in the soup plate until ready to serve. Never put salt or pepper in a mayonnaise. These condiments make a different dressing which is not a true mayonnaise.

She Trains Race Horses. Miss Loretta Elliott of Orient, Maine, is the owner of many fast horses, which she raised and trained herself in her father's stables. She is a well-educated, cultivated young woman, and the fact that she recently won a race on the track at Pottsville, Me., has by no means taken from her popularity. She is an accomplished horsewoman, and at the same time as sweet and maidenly as she can be. The horses love her and follow her around like dogs.

A Dog Named "Susie." "Susie, Susie, come in this instant!" called the woman standing on the doorstep. And the passers-by, looking around the childless street, saw, after a moment, a small black-and-tan dog trotting up the steps of the house—perhaps the first one of her kind to be distinguished by the name of Susie.

A FAMILY FAILING. The Struggle with Heredity. The Right Side of the Color Line.

To heredity, to the transmission of may be some sadness, because it is untimely, and out of season. Gray hairs are a crown of honor to the aged, but to the young they are a stigma. There is no need to be gray in youth. Grayness comes from a deficiency of the coloring matter which gives the hair its natural tint. This coloring matter can be supplied artificially and is so supplied by Dr. J. C. Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is by supplying this lacking pigment that Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its original color. Beyond this, it makes the hair grow, gives it gloss and softness, stops it from falling, removes dandruff, and cleanses the scalp. Mrs. C. M. Ayres, Mount Airy, Ga., writes:

"About three years ago, my head became full of dandruff, which caused great annoyance; after a time the hair began falling out. The use of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the hair from falling out, and made the scalp clean and healthy."—Mrs. C. M. Ayres, Mount Airy, Ga.

Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor is noted as a dressing. It is used every day by thousands whose chief claim to beauty rests on beautiful hair. Send for Dr. Ayer's Cure, and make the scalp clean and healthy."—Mrs. C. M. Ayres, Mount Airy, Ga.

There is no shame in gray hair, but there

JOS. HORNE & Co. A Continuation

We told you a little story last week illustrative of confidence, and wound up by quoting a price on organdies that was really sensational. It had a wonderful effect and brought us hundreds of orders.
