PEOPLE WHO MARK MONEY.

the Queer Things That Result tome of From This Mania.

A mania for advertising and putting strange communications on the back of the paper money of the government has broken out. As a general thing torn bills tinue for two weeks : are used, as that gives the man with the mania an excuse for his work, for he uses the slip with which the pieces are put together for this purpose. On a bill that came into the hands of one man on and Observe Worthy of Note-The Local Dearborn street was a slip on which was man, whose quick eye caught it, asked,

"Did you bring the bottle with you?" On a $5 bill handed over a bar on Monroe street was a slip on which was this:

The Conversational Capper.

The Conversational Capper. The "conversational capper" is an unpleasant but by no means uncommon specimen. He's very apt to also be a "conversational usurper," being one of those who find nothing so inspiring as the cackle of their own tongues. But if he gives you a chance to talk at all in your turn don't deceive yourself by fancying that it's because he has any personal interest in what you have to say. He has an interest, to be sure, but it's purely impersonal, concerning itself altogether with how far he can overreach you in his next remark.

Just as soon as he gets a chance he breaks in, "Going you one better." If you have had a fall, he has had two falls. If you contemplate going to Eutope, he is thinking of "doing" both Europe and Asia and if you are going to build a house he's going to build a ed to be an alligator which had escaped mansion. Yours is to have a stable? So is his, only it will be twice as big as yours and much more completely furnished and equipped and altogether incomparable. All this is entertaining, but not endearing. Nowhere is the "vaulting ambition that o'erleaps it's selle" so manifest as in the conversational capper. -New York Sun.
