

REBELS' WEAK DEFENSE

Six Hundred More Killed in Battle With Wheaton's Forces.

AGUINALDO'S BRUTAL RULE.

He Executes a General Who Urges a Cessation of Hostilities and Sentences to Death Twelve More Who Have Written Him Favoring Peace.

Manila, March 20.—Some of the rebels recently expelled from Cavite and the small towns in the vicinity of Pasig combined forces, and on Saturday night attacked a company of the Washington volunteers, a detached post at Taguig, about a mile and a half southeast of Pasig. General Wheaton immediately reinforced the Americans with two companies each of the Washington and the Oregon regiments. The post had held the enemy in check, and the fire of the reinforcing companies repulsed them, driving them across to an island formed by the estuary. They were thus in front of the Twenty-second regulars.

On discovering that they were entrapped the rebels fought desperately, aided materially by the jungle and the darkness, but they were completely routed, with heavy loss, after two hours' fighting. The Americans lost two killed and 20 wounded, among the latter Lieutenant Frank Jones.

General Wheaton determined to punish the natives, and at daybreak yesterday his brigade started in the following order: The Sixth artillery, holding the extreme right; the Oregon volunteers holding the center, the Washington regiment keeping to the edge of the lake and the Twenty-second regulars occupying the right of the line, which swept the whole country along the lake, in a southeasterly direction, toward General Overhine's position. The line thus extended over two miles of country, rough and covered with thick jungle, advanced 11 miles. The enemy fled, the last of them being seen at 3:30 in the afternoon. At scarcely any time did the Americans get within 1,200 yards of them.

The troops returned to Pasig last night, exhausted by the hard work under a hot sun. The Oregon regiment had one man killed and four wounded, and the Twenty-second regulars one killed.

General Otis says the American army and gunboats now command the lake. He estimates that property of the insurgents valued at $500,000 has been destroyed, while quantities of rice and sugar and 400 tons of coal, which is very valuable here, have been captured.

Many of the prisoners represent that the Filipino soldiers are weakening. The generous treatment that the American administrator to the native prisoners and wounded seems to influence the insurgent army powerfully.

The armed tug Laguna de Bay and Oeste have returned to San Pedro Macati and reported the results of their tour of the lake. On Friday morning last they shelled the town of Moreng, the rebels fleeing without making any response to the fire. The Americans landed a party, which destroyed a quantity of stores and all the stone buildings except the church. The expedition then proceeded to Majajay, where a sugar mill and sawmill were destroyed.

On arriving at Santa Cruz, a town of 1,200 inhabitants, it was found that the enemy was strongly entrenched and prepared to defend the position, assisted by two gunboats and several launches. Moreover, the mouth of the river was blocked with rocks and bamboo. A few shells caused an exodus of the citizens, but not of the enemy's troops. The Americans did not attempt a landing.

The advances of the United States troops under General Wheaton continue from day to day. Last Thursday the strongly fortified town of Caniay was captured. On Wednesday Pasig was captured, after several hours' fighting. In the first three days' fighting the American loss was only six killed and 25 wounded, while the insurgent loss was 400 killed and 150 captured. The Filipino force was 2,000.

The United States Philippines commission today held its first business meeting and decided to issue a proclamation to the inhabitants of the islands. President Schurman will prepare it. The document will explain the spirit in which the United States intends to fulfill the trust imposed and will call upon the people of the islands to lay down their arms and co-operate in the interest of good government.

It is reported on hitherto reliable authority that Aguinaldo is taking extreme measures to suppress signs calculated to cause a cessation of hostilities. Twelve adherents of the plan of independence, residents of Manila, have been condemned to death because they wrote advising surrender, and all loyal Filipinos have been called upon to perform the national service of dispatching them.

On Friday last General Lagarda visited Malolos for the purpose of advising Aguinaldo to quit. He argued with the insurgent leader and attempted to convince him of the folly of his persistence in the face of overwhelming odds. Aguinaldo was furious at the advice and ordered General Lagarda to be executed immediately. The unfortunate general was promptly decapitated.

The Pope's Health.

Rome, March 22.—The pope's physicians, Dr. Lippini and Professor Mazzoni, visited his holiness at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and found his general health good and the seat of the recent operation in excellent condition. While conversing with them the pope expressed deep grief at the false stories circulated as to his health, especially the reports about a second operation, which had so disturbed Catholics deeply interested in his welfare. After the visit the physicians declared that his condition of health, all things considered, could not be better.

MRS. PLACE ELECTROCUTED.

She Went to the Chair Calmly and Died Easily.

New York, March 21.—Mrs. Martha Place was executed at Sing Sing prison yesterday. She was the first woman to die in the electric chair in the state of New York, and she went to her death quietly. Her death was instantaneous, but two shocks being given. It was the most successful electrocution in Sing Sing prison. It was an easy death.

Mrs. Place murdered her stepdaughter, Ida M. Place, a mere girl, on Feb. 7, 1898. She first threw acid in the girl's eyes and then smothered her. This was early in the morning in their home in Brooklyn. She waited the entire day for her husband to return, and then attacked him with an ax, fracturing his skull and otherwise seriously injuring him. Place, however, recovered.

Mrs. Place was informed on Thursday last by Warden Sage that she must die on Monday. Again on Sunday the warden visited her and told her she must be ready at 11 o'clock Monday morning. She was ready at that hour, and no one who watched her could understand what change must have taken place in the woman's nature to so dull her senses that she could go to her death so calmly and impassively as Mrs. Place did. The last woman condemned to die in this state went to the gallows shrieking and fighting, but Mrs. Place hardly uttered a sound.

KIDNAPED BOY RESCUED.

Was Stolen From His Chicago Home Ten Months Ago.

Painesville, O., March 22.—A startling sequel to the abduction of Gerald Lapiher, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lapiner, which occurred in Chicago May 20, 1898, developed here yesterday in the recovery and restoration of the child to his mother and the arrest of Mrs. Ann Ingersoll and John O. Collins, who live about a mile west of Painesville, at whose place the child was found and where he had been kept since last June. The boy was abducted by a mysterious woman from in front of his parents' home in Chicago. The woman and child were traced for a short time and then all track of them was lost. A large reward was offered for the recovery of the child, and although the Chicago police made every effort to bring the kidnapers to justice nothing further could be learned.

A newspaper account of the abduction and the reward offered came under the notice of Mr. F. E. Ferris and his sister, Miss O. C. Ferris, neighbors of the Ingersolls, and they entered into correspondence with the Chicago police. Mrs. Lapiner was notified, and she arrived here yesterday to identify the little one. She was taken in a closed carriage to the Ingersoll place, while Sheriff St. John went on ahead to prevent the escape of the abductors. Access to the house was gained through the rear door, and there, in a high chair, half dressed, the boy was found. Both Mrs. Ingersoll and Collins were placed under arrest. Mrs. Ingersoll denies the charge of abduction.

SAWMILL BOILER EXPLODES.

Three Men Instantly Killed and Three Others Seriously Injured.

Cumberland, Md., March 22.—Word was received here yesterday of the explosion of the sawmill boiler at the plant of Hudson Shuss, near Mattie, 15 miles north of Cumberland, killing Philletus Wink, Daniel Snyder, Jr., engineer, and a man named Shuss, who was sawyer, and wounding John Snyder, Harry Sieg and Anthony Whitfield. The boiler had been used for many years. The fly-wheel, weighing about a ton, was thrown a great distance. The big steel saw was broken into bits. Snyder was horribly crushed and blown about 100 feet, and Wink's head was blown off.

When found his feet were entangled in the carriage, with his shoulders hanging down in the creek. A pin was driven clear through Whitfield's neck from the back. John Snyder's condition is serious. The mill was almost entirely obliterated. Single, who was within ten feet of the boiler, escaped with a broken leg.

Tried to Murder a Millionaire.

Chicago, March 22.—John T. Shayne, a wealthy furrier and a prominent Democratic politician, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded yesterday afternoon by Harry H. Hammond, a tailor. The shooting occurred in the cafe of the Auditorium annex, where Shayne was sitting at lunch with Mrs. Hammond, the divorced wife of Hammond, and two other ladies. Hammond was quickly placed under arrest. Shayne, who is a widower, had been in company with Mrs. Hammond a great deal since her divorce, and there was talk of an approaching marriage between them.

America a Serious Trade Rival.

Vienna, March 22.—The Deutsche Zeitung publishes a long article showing how the United States are slowly but surely obtaining a commercial footing in Turkey and the east generally. The writer warns Austria and other European states of the danger with which they are threatened. America is described as a "serious trade rival."

Battle For the Senate.

Houston, Tex., March 22.—The Post today prints an authoritative announcement that Congressman Joseph W. Bailey will be a candidate for United States senator to succeed Mr. Chilton, whose term expires March 4, 1901. Mr. Chilton will stand for re-election.

NEW YORK'S HOTEL FIRE

Windsor Hotel Destroyed and Many Lives Sacrificed.

FIFTEEN BODIES NOW RECOVERED

Five of These Were Taken From the Ruins Dis-membered and Unrecognizable—The Family of Abner McKinley Escaped Without Injury.

New York, March 22.—The Windsor hotel, at Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, was totally destroyed by fire on Friday afternoon last. The fire was discovered while the St. Patrick's day parade was passing, and the windows of the hotel were crowded with people viewing the parade. The fire was started, it is said, by the carelessness of a guest, who lit a cigarette and threw the match, still blazing, into the folds of a lace curtain. The discovery of the fire, which spread with frightful rapidity, caused a terrible panic, and a number of women jumped from fifth and sixth story windows. Most of these were killed at once or died soon after. There were many heroic rescues by the firemen, who were cheered by the thousands who witnessed the conflagration from beyond the fire lines.

Evidence has been discovered that while the patrons of the hotel were fleeing in panic to places of safety, leaving everything behind them, thieves entered the building and looted apartments, regardless of the fact that women and children were perishing for lack of assistance. The loss of guests will reach nearly $1,000,000. Proprietor Leland is insured for $100,000 and Elbridge T. Gerry, owner of the hotel, carries $305,000 insurance.

The work of digging in the ruins for bodies was begun Saturday morning, gangs of 400 men working eight hours each. Thus far five bodies have been recovered, which makes the list of recovered dead now number 15. Among the dead are the wife and daughter of Proprietor Leland. The large number of injured at the hospitals are doing well. The list of missing now numbers 48.

The unknown bodies are as follows: Body No. 1, recovered Monday; male; legs, arms and head missing. Body No. 2, recovered Monday; woman, supposed to be young, unrecognizable; supposed to be employe of hotel. Body No. 3, recovered Tuesday; female, supposed to be about 60; small stature; arms and legs missing; identified as Mrs. Margaret Aune. Body No. 4, recovered Tuesday; fragments of what appears to be a woman's body. Body No. 5, wholly unrecognizable; legs are gone, and what remains of the arms are folded over the breast; body charred and shriveled to about half natural size; the teeth are in excellent condition, not a tooth being missing and none filled; they are sharp pointed and apparently those of a woman; they are the only possible mark of identification.

Although the work of clearing away the debris is progressing as rapidly as possible, it seemed when the shift of 400 men was made at midnight that but a small part of the ruins had been removed.

The remnants of the hotel were for the most part on the top floor on the Forty-seventh street side, and the workmen have unearthed many charred articles of cheap clothing in this vicinity, and cheap jewelry as well, which evidently belonged to the domestics.

It was estimated that with the speed with which the work is progressing at present it will be at least a week before the pile will have been gone over, and it may be longer. All during the night articles of more or less value were brought to the surface by the workmen's shovels and turned over to the policemen, who were stationed about to receive, number them and take them to the station house to await some one to come and identify them. All of the most valuable of the articles are turned over to the coroner's office. Many of the things found are of no value to anybody, but are taken just as much care of by the police as if they were worth their weight in gold.

The articles found included jewelry, watches, clocks, canes, articles of clothing, letters, keys, photographs, field and opera glasses, silverware and toilet articles. A necklace was found on the Forty-sixth street side, near where the baths were. It was set with diamonds and opals, and estimated to be worth about $10,000. A gold and diamond bracelet valued at $2,500 was found nearby. According to the lists of missing property prepared by the police both belonged to Mrs. James R. Stokes, who is missing. One of Thomas P. Ochiltree's trunks was found, the contents quite uninjured.

To Demolish Hotel Firetraps.

New York, March 22.—The following resolution was passed unanimously yesterday by the board of aldermen: "The legislature is hereby respectfully requested to pass, and the governor to sign, a bill which will give the commissioner of buildings in the city of New York full power and authority to investigate, and if necessary demolish all hotel buildings in said city not absolutely fire proof."

Pennsylvania's Senatorial Deadlock. Harrisburg, March 22.—Senator Quay lost a vote at yesterday's joint ballot for United States senator by the absence of three of his friends without a pair. One of the anti-Quay Republicans, Representative Edmiston, was also absent and unpaired. The vote was: Quay, 88; Jenks, 75; Dalzell, 17; Stewart, 6; Irvin, 4; Stone, 4; Tubbs, 2; Huff, 6; Rice, 2; Grow, 1; Wildner, 3; Ritter, 1; Smith, 2.

And Now an Oyster Combine.

Jersey City, March 22.—An organization was formed today under the laws of New Jersey which will control the oyster grounds on both sides of Long Island, the New York and New Jersey beds where oysters are grown and the oyster grounds of Narragansett bay, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The new combination, it is said, has over $5,000,000 capital.

Conceded an Advance in Wages.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 22.—General Manager Hibbard of the Wheeling Iron and Steel company, conferred with the employes in the steel mills yesterday and conceded an advance in wages averaging about 15 per cent, in no instance less than 10 per cent. The men asked for a larger increase, but will probably accept the scale offered by the company.

SURSUM CORDA!

The ceremonies were over, the flowers were fading, and Decoration Day was drawing to a close. The crowd who had thronged the paths of the National Cemetery were fast disappearing, and the train just leaving the little station was filled to its utmost capacity.

In one of the cars an elderly man of imposing presence, wearing the uniform and badge of the Grand Army, and a young army officer, whose face was a youthful counterpart of the other's, sat side by side.

Just before the train pulled out a woman passed down the aisle. The worn face gave pathetic evidence of past beauty, and the rusty garments of bygone elegance, while the tiny empty basket she carried proclaimed her accomplished errand. She glanced wistfully from side to side, but every seat was occupied. The young officer rose, and with a bow proffered his own.

She gave him a grateful glance and a gentle "Thank you," as she slipped into the desired haven.

The elder man glanced at her casually, then more intently, and finally, leaning toward her, said in a low tone, "Laura!"

The woman started and half rose from her seat. "John, is it really you?" she gasped. They gazed at each other in silence, shocked at the changes time had wrought.

"I thought you were dead—at Wilson's Creek. They told me—"

"I left part there," replied the man, glancing down at his empty sleeve. She shrank back a little, noticing it for the first time, and her eyes grew wide and dark.

"It seems but yesterday," she said; "the longing and suspense and pain—"

"And yet you could send me away!"

"Ah, I was angry! You were on the wrong side—"

"The other side," he corrected her, with a faint smile. She acknowledged the correction with a smile still fainter.

"The winning side—and my heart was sore; but I thought it would break, afterwards."

"Yes, yes, I know!" he sighed.

"I have scattered my roses every year, thinking that some might fall on your resting place. In those old days when life was hard to bear it eased the pain to think so."

"And now?"

"And now," she continued, with a tremulous smile on the faded face that unconsciously belied her words—"now the pain and anger are gone, with the love that gave them birth. There remains only ashes."

Suddenly she leaned forward with tense features and parted lips. The young officer was coming down the aisle. Something in the swinging step, the carriage of the shoulders, and the handsome boyish face, stirred her heart.

"Almost home, father," he called cheerfully.

There was a trace of awkwardness and embarrassment in the elder man's manner as he turned to his companion. "Allow me to introduce my son, Lieutenant Keith." He drew himself up and squared his shoulders, all embarrassment lost in fatherly pride.

"Jack, Miss Hollywood is a very old friend."

She looked up into the smiling face bending over her, and her words came slowly: "I used to know your father when he was about your age. You are very like him—very like."

The lights of the city were all around them, the train was slowing up, and people were gathering up their wraps and bundles. Turning to the elder man with sudden resolution, "I am going back to my old home tomorrow," she said, lingering on the words with tender longing. "It is not likely that we shall meet again. Let me wish you good by now, and God bless you—and yours."

For a moment their hands were clasped; then she flitted through the crowd and was lost to sight.

"Who is the old party, father?" inquired the young officer carelessly.

"Old!" He roused himself with a deep sigh. "Well, I suppose she is old; but when I knew and—in Kentucky she was the toast of two counties!"

Through the crowded station a woman made her way. "It is wrong, wicked," she murmured and her eyes grew dim; "but I wish—yes, I almost wish that he had died instead!"

Life of a Panama Hat.

"The life of a Panama hat, that is, if it is a good one to start with," explained a hat dealer to a reporter, "compares somewhat with the owner of it. One can run through either in a hurry or hang on for a long time if it is desired. If carefully kept, a Panama hat should last all the way from ten to forty years. I know a gentleman who resides in East Washington who has owned and steadily worn during the summer months a Panama hat for nearly forty years. It has been bleached every couple of years since and re-trimmed and relined, and it is to-day to all intents and purposes as good as when I first saw it thirty years ago. I know of another Panama now worn by a physician of this city, which has had almost as long a life. Long before he got it his father wore it. I know dozens of them which have been in use from ten to twenty years. The lining wears out, but the body of the hat keeps good. Of course, care has to be used to keep them such a long time, but the Panama itself is almost indestructible. The original cost of the hats that I refer to was not exorbitant, none of them costing over $14.
