Rebersburg.

Mrs. Geo. Corman left for Union county on Saturday, where she expects to visit her parents.

Wm. Hockman and wife made a quick visit to Spring Mills on Saturday. William knows how to manage quick visits.

Mrs. Orpha Ocker, of Centre Hall, who had been visiting her parents at our burg during the last week, left for home on Sunday.

Emanuel Harter and wife, of near our burg, left the latter part of last week for Union county where they visited their daughter Sallie, over Sunday.

The supervisor, of Kreamerville, in the person of James Miller, is improving the roads in the vicinity of our burg. We hope that he will be able to give each rut a bit with the shovel.

The house of our postmaster, Snyder Miller, has been in the hands of the carpenters during the last week; thus far, it has already been very much improved. Snyder believes, evidently, in keeping things in a good and neat condition.

That wide-awake creamery man, of Spring Mills, in the person of Titus Granley, was among his friends and relatives of our burg over Sunday and before leaving he took a general look over his farm which he recently bought, a few miles west of our burg.

Our people should not forget the Memorial services on Sunday morning, which will be held in the Reformed church. The exercises will be conducted by Rev. Moses George. We all know that the Rev. has a patriotism which will always inflame those sitting under his voice.

On Sunday the Lutheran people of our burg were specially blessed with instructive and spiritually uplifting sermons, providing same will be put into practice. In the morning Rev. C. L. McConnell, the Lutheran pastor of Lewisburg, preached to a crowded house from the following text: "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teaches in all good things." Gal. 6: 6. He principally dwelt upon the relation of the congregation to the pastor which he treated in such a simple way that each one was able to understand it. And his discourse contained such material that was not foreign to anyone and yet at the same time very instructive to the people. In the evening Rev. E. J. Wolf, of Gettysburg, preached a very interesting sermon, after which Rev. Salem, the new Lutheran pastor of our burg, was installed by Rev. C. L. McConnell. The exercises were much enjoyed and no doubt each one was specially benefitted.

KIDNEY TROUBLE Is a deceptive disease—thousands have it and don't know it. If you want quick results you can make no mistake by using Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy. At druggists in fifty cent and dollar sizes. Sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney trouble. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Fiedler.

Ed. Gephart and son Elmer, of Zion, Sundayed at R. E. Hinds.

R. E. Musser and family, of Rebersburg, paid a visit to Chas. Wolf on last Saturday.

Last Sunday we had fine weather and a great many comers and goers took advantage of it and were out visiting and attending services.

Wm. Brandt, of Frogtown, is here crushing stone for the township roads. Breaking stone by hand has become too hard a work, and can be done cheaper by steam.

Miss Elsie Krape left for Patterson, Millin county, where she was sent as a delegate by the K. L. C. E. of Woodward.

The district convention of the United Evangelical church meets this week at the former place.

The skimming station, recently purchased by Wilson Bros., of Coburn, from the Goodwill Creamery Co., will be ready for business by next week. The building has been moved to the pike, in our town, on a piece of ground leased of Mrs. I. G. Meyer.

The grange store was robbed recently, by taking out a window, but the thieves did not find the money drawer, which contained a few dollars in change and a check of $15. They helped themselves to several pounds of tobacco, some ready made shirts, and a few pounds of candy. The grangers are anxiously watching to see who is wearing shirts of that description, whereby they can find the thieves.

Decoration Day will soon be here and we hope will be observed properly by every loyal American. In many a cemetery fair women will lay a wreath upon the graves of dead heroes, of our late war, and the memory of every soldier will be held sacred by those at home, where hopes and fears and prayers all blend in one pulsating heart-throb for the boys now in the front, on foreign shores.

A Women's Relief Corps should be organized to aid the G. A. R., which is growing weaker every year, to furnish flowers and to assist in the music and all Decoration services. There should be vocal music at each cemetery and the choicest flowers presented, as the emblems of loyalty, love and devotion. Its observance has a deeper significance than ever before. Let each perform his and her duty.

I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have used all kinds of medicines for it. At last I found one remedy that has been a success as a cure, and that is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.—P. E. GRISHAM, Gaars Mills, La. For sale by F. POTTS GREEN, Druggist, Bellefonte, Pa.

Port Matilda.

Mrs. Susan Stevens is quite ill at this writing, from bad cold and asthma.

A party from Ohio are at present looking up a situation for a creamery, in Port Matilda.

Curt Spotts, who was injured some time ago, was sent to Altoona hospital for treatment.

The dwelling house of William Lewis, Jr., took fire in an unknown way, burning a portion of the roof off.

Representatives from Sandy Ridge report both Retort and Sandy Ridge Brick Works running to their fullest capacity.

On Saturday next, Crain of the Willow Tree Store, will sell two pound of very large prunes for 15 cents, or three pound for 20 cents.

Henry Gates, aged 80 years, and a much respected citizen, had a paralytic stroke a few days ago and is at present in a critical condition.

The summer term of Sabbath School was organized on last Sabbath, at Shady Dell, with a fair attendance of scholars, with Harry Adams, as superintendent, and Misses Fannie Cowher, Eva Kelly, Lizzie Reese the lady teachers and Lester Bean the gents teacher.

Sandy Ridge was well represented in Reese Hollow, on last Sunday. Christ Cowher visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cowher, accompanied by his friend, Herb Pecht. Profs. Cassidy and Vail visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Reese. Greely Reese and Walter Berr visited Mr. and Mrs. John Reese, and Billy Reese could not get here on account of his best girl.

Boalsburg.

John From and the Cuban puppies does not seem to get along very good together.

Miss Stover, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Bricker, returned home on Tuesday.

Bruce Harrison took the teachers examination at Unionville last week, and pronounces it very tough.

There promises to be a very good crop of apples and cherries, but no peaches and plums through this section.

A party of students from State College were seen passing through our town last Saturday, on a botanical expedition.

John Wieland had his house repaired and a new veranda built to the front which adds very much to the appearance.

Our report for grain and fruit is as follows: Grass looks very good, the wheat, where well protected, looks well, but where it was bare during that very cold period, many fields are very spotted. Farmers are all through with their corn.

One of our young ladies, who has been known to occupy the hammock on the front porch from 6 a. m., till 9 p. m., with only intermission for dinner, had a bad fall one day recently. She claims the boys filed the hook nearly through for the purpose of having her fall. The boys claim the hook broke off because of excessive use. But it is all right now. Papa got her hammock fixed.

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house.—J. L. MOORE, South Burgetstown, Pa. For sale by F. POTTS GREEN, Druggist, Bellefonte, Pa.

Nittany.

Freddie Green is on the sick list. Irvin Robb spent Sunday at this place. The weather the past week has been wet and cold.

Chas. Emerick spent Sunday at home, with his parents.

Arthur Rossman, of Clintondale, spent Sunday at this place.

Orwig & Crider are shipping lumber from Nittany station.

Supervisor J. Emerick has had some men at work on the roads.

W. E. Shaffer has potatoes in his garden, with blossoms on already.

Mrs. Zerby and daughter Mamie were to Lock Haven on last Tuesday.

John Bartley and family spent Sunday at Hublersburg, with his parents.

Reynolds Mowery, of Iowa, was the guest of W. E. Shaeffer part of last week.

Mrs. R. R. Allison and Miss M. F. Winkelman went to Lock Haven on Friday.

Will Mauk and family, of Millheim, spent Sunday at their old home, at this place.

The N. C. Band is going to play for the Memorial services at St. Paul and Mt. Bethel.

Frank Robb and Perry Webner spent Sunday with their families. They are working on the telephone line.

Mrs. Bob Kreamer and two smallest children spent part of the week at Curtin and Milesburg visiting friends.

Mrs. H. Stover, of Hublersburg, spent several days with her mother and sister, Mrs. Tate and Ellie, the past week.

The funeral of Joe Markle, on last Thursday, was largely attended. Services and interment at Hublersburg.

Mrs. John Williams and Mrs. Charley Beck have both been quite ill the past two weeks. We hope they will soon be well again.

Pine Grove Mills.

Jonathan Hess is removing his dead from the old to the new cemetery.

We are all going to attend the great show, at the county seat, on the 29th.

D. W. Miller and wife were called to Bellville to attend the funeral of John Gilliland.

We have had several light frosts during the last week, but did not do any damage.

William Fry and wife attended the funeral of the late John Gilliland, on Tuesday, at Bellville.

The fishermen arrived home from their week's outing reporting a good time and trout to the number of 1131. Right good, boys; you may go again.

We are sorry to note the death of the infant son of John and Mrs. Gummo, who died on the 22nd and was buried on the 23rd, in the new cemetery at this place.

Stormstown.

Mrs. Alice Mong is visiting friends at Tyrone.

The Epworth League, of this place, will hold an ice cream and basket social on the evening of the thirtieth.

Quite a number of our young folks attended the Epworth League anniversary services at Grays church, on Sunday evening.

Boyd Musser, candidate for recorder, and Ellis Shaffer, candidate for sheriff, were in this vicinity looking up their political friends.

Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use, and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. For sale by F. POTTS GREEN, Druggist, Bellefonte, Pa.

The Circus and The Press.

Newspapers are sometimes deceived about the character of some amusement institution that intends visiting their place, and are led to commend it to their readers when the show is not worthy. But they never say anything erroneous of an entertainment when it has been witnessed; then the newspaper testimony may be depended on. With this in mind, one who reads papers from other places soon becomes convinced that the Great Wallace Show is really the "greatest on earth." Our exchanges where it has exhibited are unanimous in declaring it first-class in every detail. Columns are devoted to it, and the universal verdict is "honestly advertised and honorably conducted." It is said to come up entirely to its advertisements, which are considered as pledges and are faithfully fulfilled. Gives two grand performances here on Monday, May 29th.

Black Death.

An absolute annihilator of all insects, bugs or beetle that prey on vegetation. Positively kills potato bugs, squash bugs, pumpkin bugs, watermelon bugs, cucumber worms, cabbage worms, etc. It will kill all kinds of creeping things that eat the leaves of vegetables or plants. Black Death is perfectly harmless to persons handling it, and is the best and the cheapest insecticide, or Bug-Killer, on the market.

For sale by R. F. Vonada, Coburn; R. M. Wolf, Woodward; Henry Phillips, Aaronburg; G. W. Kreamer, Rebersburg; C. H. Morris, Millheim; G. H. Long, Spring Mills; Wolf & Crawford, Centre Hall; W. M. Noll, Jr., Pleasant Gap; E. A. Moore, Howard; J. S. Waite & Co., Bellefonte; Mrs. S. Neff & Son, Milesburg; R. F. Evey, Lemont; H. D. Meek, State College; Mrs. J. W. Keller, Linden Hall.

LOST.—A bunch of keys was lost last Saturday evening. Finder will be suitably rewarded if returned to this office.

TRANSPORT ANIMALS.

Quadrupeds Used in Different Parts of the World as Burden Bearers.

A school geography, recently published in England, gives the interesting information that camels are employed in the transport service on our great plains. The text book fails to mention the Illinois prairies as the present habitat of the American bison, and, in fact, it contains fewer errors on American geography than are usually found in a foreign school book. The palm for humorous treatment of American matters must be awarded to the Swiss atlas which awhile ago stamped the word "Yankee" in bright red letters across the New England states.

The British inaccuracy with regard to camels doubtless arose from the introduction, years ago, of a few of the animals in our southwestern semiarid region. It may be that some of them are there yet, but they have never cut any figure in our transport service, though they were brought to this country in the time when pack horses and mule trains were an everyday feature of the great plains. The climatic conditions did not suit them, and they failed in America, though in another land more distant still from their habitat the camel is thriving. In Australia the Bactrian (two-hump) camel has proved a great success. Horses clamor for oats, but the camel is content with almost any sort of food and little of it, and his modest Afghan driver asks a wage of only two dollars a week. The result is that at Burke, N. S. W., the headquarters of 1,500 camels, and at other points in Australian territory, where the grazing lands have not quite merged into the desert waste, teamsters complain that they cannot compete with the cheap camel service.

The effort to introduce the reindeer as a permanent feature of Alaska's transport service will probably meet with success. He is suited to Alaskan conditions and is more adaptable than the camel to geographic influences that are not exactly those of his native home, and he may yet do for the Eskimos of our arctic coast what he has done for thousands of the fur-clad people of north Asia. Many of these tribes have learned to like their pipe of tobacco, brick tea, an occasional bag of oatmeal, and other supplies which they think are worth traveling hundreds of miles to obtain. Their fleet reindeer carry them in the winter twilight to the Russian outposts, where they barter their furs for the commodities they need. There is one trading center in Asia that takes the reindeer far from his arctic home, and he meets there two other leading transport animals of Asia. This is at Urga, in northern Mongolia, on the tea caravan route, where the reindeer of the snow regions encounters the camel of Central Asia and the yak of the bleak Tibetan plateau.

The Anglo-Saxon does not follow the example of some European countries which seem to have a high opinion of the dog as a draft animal. Harnessing the dog was forbidden by law in Great Britain 57 years ago, but across the channel, in Belgium, fully 10,000 dogs in harness are seen daily in Brussels and the surrounding country, where the peasants bring their vegetables and flowers to market in dog carts, and the butcher and baker use the same sort of turnout to deliver their commodities. In Amsterdam, Hamburg and some other parts of Holland and Germany, and also to some extent in Switzerland, the dog team is a conspicuous industrial convenience, but the more fortunate canines of France and Italy are not reduced to this form of servitude. American dog drivers are limited chiefly to the Eskimos and the explorers who go among them. The latter very limited class is a great admirer of the Greenland dog that can pull a hundred pounds through the snow from ten to twenty miles a day and live on meat that most other canines would disdain.

LEARNING A TRADE.

It Brings Independence and Better Opportunity for Engaging in Business.

If some one should ask "What is to be gained by learning a trade?" the answer first suggesting itself would be to show that a skilled worker—an artisan or mechanic—earns two, three or even four times as much wages in the same number of hours or days as an unskilled laborer—one who does work that requires no special training. The services of a skilled worker are also in more constant demand, and, while he earns two or three times as much per hour, he has longer periods of work and less enforced idleness than has the unskilled laborer. The possession of a trade gives a comforting sense of security and independence, for one thus skilled is always sure of a comfortable livelihood, and, with economy, a competency for the declining years of his life, and, besides, he has various opportunities of engaging in profitable business for himself. These advantages are within the reach of every bright boy, and obtainable without a sacrifice. This will be understood when it is considered that the wages of an apprentice to a trade are about the same as the wages of a lad of the same age at unskilled forms of labor; consequently the apprentice is making about as much money as if employed at ordinary manual labor, besides gaining a trade. —Barton Cheyne, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Cigar Stubs Put to Good Use.

A Christmas entertainment is given to nearly 2,000 poor persons in Berlin with the proceeds from contributions of cigar stubs and tip-cuttings by charitable smokers who are considerate enough to save those seemingly worthless scraps. The annual call for the turning in of the accumulations of the past year has just been issued.—Chicago Chronicle.
