Woodward.

Mr. Reber, of Millburg, was seen in town and vicinity buying up cattle and hogs. There seems to be a great demand for beef and pork, in some of the eastern markets, and they therefore bring good prices.

L. L. Weaver, one of our "crack" gunners, succeeded in bagging nineteen gray squirrels this season, shooting eight in one day.

It is rumored that there will be a wedding here in the near future. Get your sea shells ready.

Br. Ard and his son Joe, from New Columbia, former residents of this place, circulated among their friends.

The persons who were watching for, and expecting to see the meteoric display in the heavens, were sadly disappointed.

Mike thought of taking his new girl to protracted meeting, at Aaronsburg, last Saturday evening but changed his mind and came to town.

Protracted meeting still in progress with a great many converts and quite a number of seekers.

Quite an excitement in town Sunday forenoon. Some one saw (imagined) a deer in a cornfield near here. "Pooley" investigated the matter and reported it to be a stump.

The small child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Loder died on Saturday and was buried on Monday, in the M. E. cemetery.

Geo. Leathers, formerly employed in E. C. Dietz's bakery and later in Harrison's bakery at State College, has purchased the Lovelin bakery at Mill Hill.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Mary Mitchell and Walter Quick, to take place Wednesday morning, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. R. P. Long.

Port Matilda.

Miss Fannie Cowher is visiting friends in Sandy Ridge.

Abe Cowher spent Sunday last with his parents near this place.

Howard Miles has purchased a pair of ponies; that's all right, he knows what will please his new wife.

Parties desiring two fine young heaves and 25 turkeys for Thanksgiving can be accommodated by calling on Joseph Cowher.

Eli Cowher, who some time since was kicked in the face by a vicious horse, which he was shoeing, is able to be around again.

Mrs. Edith McKelvey has been busily engaged for some time at her trade, dressmaking. She is an expert and has no trouble in finding customers.

The butchering season has opened up lively in Reese Hollow. Some eight or ten have had their pig killing, among the number was Joseph Cowher, Levi Reese and C. Reese, the latter gent with his wife were absent, however, on that event attending the brilliant wedding of their niece Miss Williams of Philipsburg, but their place was ably filled by Samuel Cowher, the boss butcher of our valley, who displayed unusual activity on the occasion.

DIED:—Near Port Matilda, Sunday evening, Nov. 19th, of a complication of diseases incident to advanced age, Mrs. Mary Ann Thompson, wife of late Joseph Thompson aged 72 years. Our subject was a lady of many fine qualities a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, a loving wife, tender mother and a much esteemed neighbor. She leaves to deeply mourn their loss three sons, two daughters, one brother and two sisters. Interment was made in the friends' cemetery in Half Moon valley on Wednesday Nov. 22nd. Rev. Scott, Presbyterian pastor, of Bellefonte, officiated. Thus another true Christian lady has gone to her reward.

Wolfs Store.

Jeremiah Brungart has returned home from a week's visit to Philadelphia.

Hunters can almost daily be seen in our woods, but very little game has been shot.

Thomas R. Scholl has taken a contract to cut a lot of cord wood, for T. F. Brungart.

The timber land belonging to Dr. Hosterman, at Centre Hall, was sold to Mr. Finkle from Spring Mills.

Thomas Walker has sold some of his timber to Wm. Doughty. Gilbert & Minig have the contract to saw same into lumber.

John Stover has gone to Danville to assist his brother-in-law, B. F. Smith, at the carpenter trade. We wish him much success.

There will be preaching in the United Evangelical church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. N. J. Dubbs—Sunday School at 1 o'clock.

Since our last communication to the Centre Democrat, nothing of importance has happened which accounts for our silence of the past few weeks.

Our overseer of the poor, in the person of J. K. Hosterman, was the first in our village to lead in butchering this season. Our paupers well know that "Butch Bally" has plenty.

Moshannon.

Miss Alice Hoffer, of Clearfield, formerly of this place, spent a few days last week among friends here.

Jack Planigan has moved back to our town, after living in German Settlement for six months. We are glad to have you back, Jack.

Jacob Lucas and his son Brady, while out hunting, on Rock Run, one day last week killed a very large black bear weighing about 300 pounds.

Miss Maud Confer and Frank Holt drove to Bellefonte on last Saturday; the purpose is not known. Lookout Frank, there's where they grant licenses.

Protracted meeting is in progress in the Methodist church at this place. A great deal of good has been accomplished already, and hope it will accomplish more before it closes.

"I may not be a peacemaker," thought the umbrella, but I am used to cover things over when there's a falling out."

Beech Creek.

Charles, James and Torrence Hunter, brothers, left to-day for McKeesport, Pa., where they will construct the iron work for a bridge across the Monongahela river, removing the one now in use.

Prof. I. A. Harvey is prospecting for coal on the Potter lands, in the Scootac region. The work is under the immediate supervision of Quigley Clark. Prof. Harvey being engaged in work of a like nature at New Washington, Clearfield county.

Last Saturday, Nov. 18, 1899, a party of fifty gathered in Kanes' hall Blanchard, to help Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Kitchen celebrate their golden wedding. The two old people were given a complete surprise by their friends, the affair being unknown to them until they were driven there under the pretext that they were invited to the house of a friend for the day. It was a jolly crowd that assembled there to bestow their congratulations on two of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Beech Creek township. There were many presents and no end of good things to eat, and it is useless to add that a delightful day was spent. Mr. Kitchen, although seventy-five years of age, is a well preserved man, indeed, considering the fact that he is a veteran of two wars. He was a young man, strong and vigorous, when the war with Mexico broke out and he enlisted in the service of the United States, being in the command under General Scott, and was present at the siege and surrender of the City of Mexico, Sept. 14, 1848. He returned home from the war and the following year married. The outbreak of the civil war found him the father of a good sized family, but as the struggle for the preservation of the Union grew desperate and the North needed more men, Mr. Kitchen again entered the army, enlisting in the 47th Penn'a Volunteer regiment serving until the end of the war. The colonel of that regiment declared he was the best soldier he had in his command. He can be justly proud of his record.

Coburn.

Wintry days are coming.

Our grain fields are looking fine.

We have lots of blow, blow in our town. Blanche Whitmyer is reported on the sick list.

Adam Rote, of Colyer, made a business trip to this place the other day.

Our nimrods brought in good reports of game on Monday, but no venison.

Clayton Bower and wife, of Feidler, were visiting at this place on Monday.

Mrs. Kreamer, of Danville, has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Snavely.

R. J. Snavely and wife, of Montandon, arrived at this place on Monday evening to attend the funeral of his mother.

The funeral services of Annie Vonada, daughter of R. F. and Emma Vonada, will be held at Coburn on Sunday afternoon the 26th, at 2 o'clock.

DIED:—Mrs. Lewis Snavely died on Friday night aged 55 years. Funeral services were held at the house at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Rev. Beck, of Millheim, and Rev. Brown, of Aaronsburg, officiating. Interment in the cemetery at Paradise church.

ELECTROCUTED BIRDS.

Copper Conductors Make Attractive-Looking Perches, But Prove Deadly When Utilized.

If birds only knew better they wouldn't do their love-making on electric transmission wires. The imprudence of that procedure has been frequently proved, notably last year in the case of two owls and the two eagles which were cremated on the lines of a long-distance transmission circuit in California. It will be remembered that by a strange element of selectiveness in the action of the current the owls were unusually favored, being killed without the slightest disfigurement and falling to the ground with hardly a feather ruffled, while the greater part of the two eagles went up in blue smoke, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A similar fate has befallen a pair of fowls which sought the shelter of a power house in Canada for their evening roost. The power company which supplies the city of Three Rivers generates its current 16 miles away and transmits it to the city at a pressure of 12,000 volts. A few evenings ago the city lights suddenly went out. The lights soon started up again, and there was no further trouble. The following day the electrician went on a tour of inspection. Entering the substation at Three Rivers, he noticed in a pronounced form the smell of a badly conducted restaurant. Looking around, he found the cause of the previous night's interruption. A window had been broken in the station, and through this two chickens had slipped inside and roosted on the bare copper conductors. A Chanticleer kissed Birdie "good night" he completed the circuit, the lovers were electrocuted, and the lights were put out.

Sitting Bull's Grave.

A broken wooden headboard and a neglected mound of earth in the Fort Yates (N. D.) military cemetery mark the resting place of Sitting Bull, the great Sioux medicine man whose wily brain planned the deathtrap of the Little Big Horn into which Gen. Custer's command fell. On the broken headboard is written: "No. 54, Sitting Bull, Indian." Relic hunters have cut most of the headboard away.

An Interesting Decision.

In 1893 James Finn was arrested, charged with keeping a speak-easy in Philadelphia. The case was dragged on and the trial was postponed from time to time for various reasons. Yesterday it was on the list for trial before Judge Arnold in the criminal court. The officer who preferred the charge was being examined as to his recollection of the occurrence, which was very limited, when Judge Arnold, learning the date of the arrest, suggested that the bill be abandoned. He did not think anyone could remember a drink he had six years ago. Assistant District Attorney Scott agreed with the judge, saying he thought the effects would surely wear off in that time. A verdict of not guilty was accordingly rendered.
