

THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

EXECUTION OF ANTONIO FERRARO AT SING SING.

Prisoner Had Been Expected to Offer Frantic Physical Resistance but Failed to Do So—Five Shocks Before Death.

Antonio Ferraro, whose defiance of the electric chair gave reason for the belief that he would make physical resistance at the last moment, surprised all, and walked from his cell to the electric chair, clinging to the arm of the Principal Keeper Connaughton, with out the least protest, and was shocked to death at Sing Sing, N. Y., Feb. 25, in the same chair in which thirty other convicted murderers have expired their crimes.

The witnesses had reached the electric chamber at eight o'clock. There was a look of anxiety on the faces of all. They had heard that an awful scene of forcing a man into the chair and strapping the electrodes by the main force of the trained guards was likely to occur.

As soon as the door leading from the electric chamber to the death house was opened the sound of the priest's voice raised in prayer reached the ears of those waiting in front of the chair.

After a delay that seemed many minutes the heavy shuffle of the feet of the guards was the signal that Ferraro was on his way. He patiently watched the guards as they fastened the heavy straps which bound him to the chair.

At a signal from the Warden the current was applied. The body became rigid at the first shock of 1,740 volts, and, as this was reduced to 250, the muscles contracted and finally, when after a minute and eight seconds, the current was turned off entirely, the body became limp.

Again the current was applied and turned off. The man was still alive. The third application was given and when it was turned off the doctors noticed that the artery in his neck was still fluttering. Two more distinct applications were given, and at the expiration of these five shocks the man was pronounced dead. Ferraro was a man of a brutish nature, and it has always been the experience that these men offer more resistance to the electric current than others of a more delicate nerve.

QUAY'S CASE.

Prospects of His Being Seated as Senator.

Present indications point to the failure of Mr. Quay's opponents to prevent consideration of his case, although they still have it in their power to delay a final vote for some time.

Senator Frye, president pro tem of the Senate, will, it is understood, hold that a motion involving the right of a Senator to his seat is a question of the highest privilege, and will, therefore, be entertained at any time. If Senators Penrose and Chandler carry out their purpose of pressing the case for consideration during the morning hour, it is probable that all the speeches which have been slated for and against Mr. Quay can be made during the next fortnight without interfering with the Hawaiian and Puerto Rican bills, which are to be the regular order until disposed of.

For the present it is not the intention of Mr. Penrose to antagonize the Hawaiian bill, but by insisting upon consideration of the Quay case each morning he hopes to induce Senator Aldrich to agree to an arrangement for voting on some day in the near future. There is little doubt now that such an arrangement will soon be effected and that Mr. Quay will be seated. Fifty Senators are pledged to vote for him.

Even Republicans who are leading in the movement to delay action in his case are known to have pledged themselves to vote for him. Mr. Penrose had intended to call up the Quay resolution Feb. 22, but yielded to the desire of the Senators to adjourn after the reading of Washington's farewell address.

A Cincinnati despatch says that Dr. Charles A. L. FRICK—CARNEGIE.

Both Sides Preparing to Fight to the End.

President C. M. Schwab, of the Carnegie Steel Company, has arrived in Pittsburgh from New York, and was at his office Feb. 23, receiving but few callers. He declined to express any views on the equity suit brought against the company by H. C. Frick to recover $10,000,000, and the result of his conference with Andrew Carnegie in New York remains a matter of conjecture.

It was expected that some important meetings will be held on both sides of the case, and developments are eagerly awaited. Mr. Carnegie has succinctly outlined all the details concerning the policy to be pursued in the suit, and the answer will probably be filed without further instructions from the steel magnate.

One of the most interesting features just at present is the contemplated suit involving the coke contract, and there is a well-grounded opinion among those more or less directly concerned that the papers will be filed at once. Frick will hold aloof from this action for a time.

Little credence is placed in the report that negotiations are pending to have the coke suit dropped. No overtures have been made in this direction, and it is thought the minority stockholders of the Frick Coke Company will be a unit in favor of prosecuting the case.

The expectations of those who anticipated Mr. Carnegie's early arrival in Pittsburgh received a severe setback when Mr. Schwab came along, and it is now considered probable that several weeks may elapse before Mr. Carnegie returns and takes personal charge of his forces.

SOCIALIST MAYORS.

They Visit New York City and Make A Good Impression.

Mayors Chase, of Haverhill, and Coulter, of Brockton, Mass., have just been the guests of the Social Democratic Club, at Manhattan Lyceum, in New York. They are the only Socialist Mayors in the United States, and Socialist Labor men are rejoicing greatly over their visit. They promise to make another visit next year, bringing with them more Mayors and other public officials of the same creed. They are both Americans by birth, young in years and intelligent.

Mayor Chase says that he remembers the time when people laughed at the pretensions of Socialists, and said they would never be able to win an election. Yet he has been elected twice and the second time was chosen over a combination of Republicans, Democrats and Prohibitionists.

"It used to be predicted," he said, "that our movement would be a thing of the past before we sent a single Socialist to the Legislature. Well, we have two members to our party in the State House of Massachusetts, and we have, besides, six men on the Municipal Board of Haverhill—a town with 40,000 population—and three in the Municipal Board of Brockton, which is a centre of the shoe-making industry like my town, and has a population of about the same size. I'm a cool headed Yankee, but I tell you it's growing like wild fire. Haverhill and Brockton and the surrounding towns are full of Socialism, and other places are catching on rapidly."

POLITICAL.

The Democratic National Committee in Washington has selected Kansas City as the place and July 4 as the date for the next National Convention of the party. Milwaukee, the other contestant for the honor, got 9 votes to 40 cast for the Missouri city.

H., owing to mental trouble, has been taken away by an attendant from the insane asylum in Concord, who had been summoned on account of a return of the mania from which Mr. Dennett had previously suffered. Mr. Dennett went to Concord to sell fire extinguishers, and his trouble developed at a revival meeting. He grew worse, until it became necessary to place him under restraint, and word was sent to his friends at Concord. His sister and the attendant came in response to the message.

'RONJE IS CAPTURED

LATEST MOVEMENTS IN THE CAMPAIGN.

A Full Summary of the Transvaal War News—Progress of the Conflict From Day to Day—The British Encouraged.

Cronje is caught! The "Lion of South Africa" has at last given up to Roberts. The 4,000 Boers who made up his army could no longer hold out against Roberts and 60,000 British troops.

The following is the official despatch received from Lord Roberts announcing Gen. Cronje's surrender.

"Gen. Cronje and all his forces capitulated unconditionally at daylight and are now prisoners in my camp. The strength of his force will be communicated later.

"I hope that Her Majesty's Government will consider this event satisfactory, occurring as it does, on the anniversary of Majuba. ROBERTS."

Gen. Cronje sent an officer to the British lines at dawn with a flag of truce, who informed Lord Kitchener that Gen. Cronje was willing to surrender, having found his position untenable, with only defeat and capture in prospect if he continued to fight.

A safe conduct was requested for women and children. Gen. Kitchener granted the request, but insisted that surrender in all respects be absolutely unconditional. To this Gen. Cronje agreed.

General Buller continues his advance through Natal Colony towards Ladysmith, the Boers fiercely contesting his movements. His casualties include many officers and men since February 20.

CAPE NOME.

Reports That Miners Are Reaping a Big Harvest.

Late reports from Cape Nome and Cape York districts disclose that these camps continue to yield large amounts of gold after the close of Bering Sea navigation, on Nov. 6.

J. B. Zimbar, of Seattle, writes to his partner, Captain F. N. Zeiberg, saying, "Price and I got in five days' work before it froze again, taking out at that time $312. The Alaska Commercial Company took out, with a gold separator or sluice rocker, $3,800 in five days. Price went to Cape York and got two lots and three claims. He got nuggets as large as the end of your finger.

"Our best deal was made with a Laplander. We traded with him for a fraction of Anvil Creek, only three claims from where a number of Laplanders took out $7,000. This fraction will give yourself, H. Y. Rydestrom, Price and all the Gold we want. Price prospected the claim and got 75 cents to $1.50 a pan."

Wilson Wakelin, a prominent farmer of Brock, Nebraska, murdered his wife, formerly President of the W. C. T. U. of Nebraska, the other night, and then committed suicide on the grave of his first wife.

Mrs. Caroline Wilson was bound and gagged in her home, in Inwood avenue, near Belmont street, New York, Feb. 22, and robbed of $227 by two men, who were arrested.

GRADE CROSSING FIGHT.

Five Hundred Railroad Employees Have a Pitched Battle.

Five hundred men employed by the General Electric Railway Company of Chicago fought the other day with employees of the West Indiana Railroad Company for possession of the Dearborn street crossing of the railroad company's tracks at Fifteenth street. A dozen men were severely injured while fighting, and two others were dangerously hurt as a result of the wrecking of fourteen cars of junk on the crossing by the railroad company, however, seized temporary possession of the crossing and succeeded in running cars across the tracks. A squad of policemen is now guarding the crossing to prevent further trouble. The police have been unable to learn the names of those injured, and the wounded men were spirited away by their employers.

The trouble was started when word was received during the day that the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois had reversed the decision of the Appellate Court and dissolved the injunction, which for more than a year has kept the General Electric from crossing the Western Indiana tracks at Fifteenth street. Immediately the management of the General Electric went ahead to secure possession of the crossing.

HER LONG SLEEP.

The Slumbering Montreal Girl at Last Awakes.

Miss Eva Roch, the French-Canadian sleeping girl of Montreal, is awake again, and the physicians are hopeful of her recovery. This is the second time she has gone through a long sleep.

This time, barring a momentary awakening about a month ago, her sleep was longer. Last year she slept only twenty-eight days. This time she went to sleep two days before Christmas, and awakened after fifty-five days. She is able to speak now in a clear voice, but no one is allowed to converse with her except the members of her family. She has told her mother that during the last part of her sleep she knew all that went on. She is very weak and very sore all over her body, but she is taking nourishment in the form of beef tea and brandy. Apparently there is nothing wrong in her organs, but the doctors fear that her long rest has partially paralyzed some of them.

SPORTING NEWS.

Jeffries will fight for the heavyweight championship of the world in the arena of the Seaside Athletic Club on May 14. William A. To Fight the Paper Trust. Editors of daily newspapers in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan attended the meeting of the Grand Daily Press Association Feb. 9 at Chicago, and agreed to fight the paper trust. No official action was taken, but the editors agreed among themselves to fight the movement to reduce Congress to remove the tariff on Canadian pulp wood, which, they say, is a scheme of the paper trust to get control of the Canadian supply.

"Paper manufacturers in the trust have complained of a serious shortage in the pulp wood supply and have accordingly raised prices on paper. This assertion of a shortage is denounced as false by the editors, who have collected figures to prove there are billions of feet of hemlock, poplar, spruce and other pulp wood yet to be used in this country.
