The Harrisburg Patriot is authority for the statement that the Old Portage road, running from Hollidaysburg by planes to Summit, near Cresson Springs and thence by planes to Johnstown, is about to be taken advantage of for the first time since it was abandoned in 1851, directly on the opposite curve of the this and Rebersburg. broad mountain, between Bennington and Gallitzin, may be used by another line down the mountain, over which the freight traffic can be better hauled.

There were 29,700 freight and coal cars taken over the Horse Shoe during the month of March, the heaviest in the history of the road, and this about met the limit of the motive power, as it takes on an average a double-header and a crops tail ender to move a train on the Altoona end and the same obtains from Johnstown to Gallitzin tunnel, the height or summit line.

The Old Portage movement will require an expenditure of probably $1,500- in town on Tuesday. oso, but these figures may be much less, as much of the road is on the old grade, with many of the former stone sills crossing the bed. It will have to be widened to the 4 9 standard gauge, and there is considerable cutting to be done.

Frank Kern from the Bellefonte laundry, visited his mother over Sunday. The Brush mountain has been on fire since last Friday. The fire was started by William Lingle who wanted to burn over a place to put up a shanty and the high wind took it beyond his control and a number of people have been fighting the fire ever since. A great deal of timber has been destroyed, besides fences and fire wood. J. H. Reifsnyder sold two tracts of timber land last week, one to H. B. Hering in Gregg township, and the other to W. G. Wolf in Haines township.

SEVERE MOUNTAIN FIRES.

It appears that the entire mountain district of this state has suffered severely the past week from raging forest fires that have swept over vast areas and done great damage to growing timber, destroyed lumber operations, fences, made travel difficult over mountains, in some cases even endangered lives. In this mauner great loss has been entailed, and that it became almost dark and obscured this county has had its share. For the past week the atmosphere was hazy and at times the smoke so heavy the sun. The air contained the ashes of burnt leaves that were floating continually and it affected the eyes and throats of people who were delicate. We hardly think that any section of the county escaped the raging fires. The dry condition of the weather was the most favorable for their outbreak and in a short time a spark would develope inthe county would take too much space, but the severest fires seem to have prevailed in the Seven mountains where there are a number of large operations with much cut timber. The heat and smoke on the mountains between Potters tiquated, in cut. Mills and Milroy was so great that travel on the pike was impossible for the past farther.

Up in the Barrens there are some large paper wood operations and they had some trying experiences battling with the flames, and much lumber was destroyed despite their efforts. Hundreds of men and boys in all parts of the county have been engaged the past few days trying to controll the fierce forest fires, and in some cases have done much good. A good soaking rain is the only relief possible, and it is slow in coming.

Lung Worms.

J. E. Spindler, veterinary surgeon of Tyrone, representing the state live stock that most often is the scene of sanitary board, visited Captain Law's farm, near Martinsburg, last week, and made an official investigation as to the cause of the fatal disease prevalent affected with lung worms. The eggs are in length. deposited on short grass by a peculiar fly and are taken into the stomach of the sheep while grazing and they are hatched out. The insect feeds on the lungs and intestines and eventually causes death. The eggs are never found in high ground. but sheep kept in low meadow lands frequently become affected with them and the result is always fatal. There seems to be no known remedy but the out here nor boards to fall down and let disease is not contagious. The germ is

JAPAN'S POETESS LAUREATE.

Seisko, Seventy-Three Years Old, Holds the Race Against All Competitors,

The "erowned poet" to the court of the mikado is a woman. The post is equivalent to that of our poet laureate, but is a much more difficult one to fill, for the modern Japanese are the most merciless critics in all that concerns life erary matters, says the Chicago Trib une.

In spite of these disadvantages the accomplished poetess contrives to hold her own successfully against all rivals, and the annual poem which she has ready with commendable punctuality for the new year is always looked forward to by all those subjects of the mikado who make the smallest claim to culture, and is often far more eagerly discussed than a serious political crisis would be in any other country. "Selsko," for that is the poetess laureates's name, is no longer a young woman, having in fact reached the age to a sea of flame that traveled with great of 73. She is, however, in spite of the rapidity. To enumerate all the fires in fact of her being herself a little bit of a new woman, a friend to the newfangled ideas and fashions, especially in all that concerns dress, which have recently been imported into Japan from Europe, and her own costume is decidedly old-fashioned, not to say an-

STONE HOTELS.

They Are Said to Burn Oftener Than Those Built Entirely of Wood.

Considering how many huge hotels, constructed entirely of wood, and often in a more or less flimsy manner, are scattered about the country in places where security from fire depends almost wholly on the watchfulness of proprietors and guests, it is, indeed, remarkable that fatal conflagrations are not more numerous than they are. As a matter of fact, it is the old city hote great catastrophe, not the big frame

The puddle in the pathway of most lives is a defective circulation due to a blood supply that instead of growing clear and strong like a mountain brook, is stagnant and impure. Puddles may be purified, however, and become limpid streams. That is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does with human blood.

It clarifies, purifies and strengthens she blood, and when this is accomplished, the vital organs, liver, lungs, kidneys, bowels, are all braced and invigorated. It never disappoints.
