ALLEGED WILKESBARRE BRIBERY

To Investigate Charges That Cash Offers Were Made For a Trolley Franchise-Frightened to Death by Burglars-Items of State News.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 31.-The special committee appointed by city councils to make arrangements for investigating the charges of bribery made by certain councilmen in connection with the passage of an ordinance through councils giving a Scranton trolley company a franchise in Wilkesbarre met yesterday afternoon at the city hall. Formal charges were then made that one councilman was offered $5,000 if he would vote a certain way; another councilman was urged to take $200 as a present, and another was offered a valuable consideration if he would vote the right way. It was decided to recommend to councils that an investigaton be made at once.

Sailed In With Cargo Aflame.

Philadelphia, July 30 .- The Clyde line steamer Goldsboro arrived here yesterday from New York with a portion of her cargo in flames. The fire started in the fore hold and is supposed to have been the result of spontaneous combustion. When the Goldsboro arrived opposite her dock she was towed to the Camden side of the river and beached in the mud. The fire was extinguished late last night after the hold of the vessel had been filled with water. It is thought that the damage to the ship will be comparatively light, but the loss on the cargo will doubtless be considerable.

Sawmill Boiler Explodes, Three Hurt

Bloomsburg, Pa., July 28.—The explosion of the boiler at the sawmill of Everett & Ikler at Benton, Columbia county, yesterday afternoon completely demolished the plant and seriously, perhaps fatally, injured three of the employes. News Items of Interest From All Col. Daggett Forwards a Telegram From Our Minister in Pekin.

> DECLARES FIRING CEASED JULY 16 A Dispatch Sent by Lieut. Col. Cool> idge, However, Indicates That Firing Still Continues-Europe Now

> Believes the Legationers Safe. Washington, Aug. 1.-Doubt has given way to a feeling akin to certainty that the legationers at Pekin and the gallant marines who managed to reach the Chinese capital just in the nick of time were not only alive on July 22, but, in all probability, are still alive and likely to remain so until they are released from their state of The officials here feel certain that the attack by the Chinese on the legations will not be renewed.

Adjutant General Corbin yesterday received a dispatch from Lieut. Col. Coolidge, commanding the Ninth infantry at Tien Tsin. It came by way of Chefoo, and contained a copy of a letter written by Lieut. Col. Shibi, military attache at the legation of Pekin The letter is dated July 23, and urges the hurrying of reinforcements. It declares the legations have been attacked continuously since the 20th, and that the number of foreigners killed is

60 in all. Last evening the war department received two more telegrams from China. signed by Col. Daggett and dated Tien Tsin, July 27. According to these telegrams a "message just received from Minister Conger says that since the 16th, by agreement, there has been no firing. The legations have provisions for several weeks, but little ammunition." The allies are soon to advance. Practically no looting by Americans. No unnecessary killing. A rather startling proposition was advanced yesterday which, if adopted might put at once to the test the Chinese profession that the Boxers, and not the Chinese government, are responsible for what has happened in Pekin. This was to the effect that the international force was prepared to take that government at its word and to join forces with it in crushing out the insurrection. The kernel of just such a proposition is to be found in the last condition laid down by the president in his reply to the appeal of the Emperor Kwang Su and there may be a development in that direction

The official confirmation of the news that Minister Conger is safe and well, coupled with the statement that he has provisions for several weeks and that the firing on the legation has ceased was welcome intelligence though not unexpected in view of recent news. The information from Col Daggett was promptly telegraphed to President McKinley at Canton, who has been advised of the receipt of messages always as soon as they reach

A DANGEROUS PROBLEM

Confronting the Allies in the Proposed March to Pekin.

London, Aug. 1 .- A sensational Shanghai correspondent still hints blank. that the Chinese are juggling with dates, but in face of the constantly accumulating evidence that the ministers were safe on July 22, and depatches of anxiously desired information regarding the real situation, po litical and otherwise, at Pekin, there are very few in London who do not believe the dispatches genuine and re-

The allies now confront a most difficult and dangerous problem. Without doubt the ministers are held by the Chinese as hostages, and the outcome of the advance on Pekin, which, in all probability, has already begun, will be awaited with intense anxiety. Today's dispatches show that the allies notably the Japanese, have been pushing their preparations with feverish haste.

The Chinese are strongly entrenched at Wang Tsun, from which position, however, it is believed they can be ejected without great difficulty. The danger is that, if defeated there, the Chinese will retire on Pekin and put the remainder of the Europeans to

The governor of Shantung has telegraphed to United States Consul Fowler, at Chefoo, that the tsung-li-yamen directs him to notify the consuls that "as the military operations as each ekon and Tien Tsin are unsettled" messages in plain language, without cipher or reference to military affairs, will be delivered to the min-

REAL GAMENESS.

How Sentlemanly Jim Fielder Finteed Off Bad Man Marshal Clanton.

The Fielders always bore the reputation of being the nerviest set of men of Silver City. The old man had shot some dozen in his time, although to look at him you would never think him a desperado. The first son, Idus, had a record almost as good, while Jim, the most gentlemanly man in the district, could walk over any sober man in the west. He was a tall man, with mild brown eyes, and a quiet, refined face. It had never been known just how he came to be so feared. It could not be proved that he had ever shed blood. Perhaps it was the air, or the short way he talked. No sober man, the boys all said, would cross Jim for a moment, yet when Clanton came in to the bar that night he was not dead drunk. He was not sufficiently drunk to be denominated beastly. It was doubtless his fate egging him on. For he walked right up to Jim and started a quarrel.

"Jim," he said, "lend me ten dol-

"I've only got a couple of dollars in my pocket, old man," said Fielder, "but you are welcome to them."

"I don't want two dollars, I want ten dollars," returned Clanton angrily, and then he shut his mouth down hard and looked at Jim with that nasty gleam of the eye which people who knew Clanton recognized as a sure sign of trouble.

Fielder saw that the fellow was drunk and quarrelsome, but he liked the man when he was sober, and he tried to avoid trouble.

"I'm sorry I haven't got more," said he, "but it's all I've got. If you'll wait a minute I'll go and borrow some money and lend it to you."

"No. d-n you," Clanton came back, "I can borrow for myself. You have got plenty of money in your pocket, and if you weren't such ayou'd let me have what I want!"

Fielder's face flushed up a little at these words, but he controlled himself and made another effort to pacify the unreasonable fellow.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said he, "I'll take off my watch and pawn it, if that will satisfy you. I am telling you the truth. I haven't any money besides the two dollars here in my pocket, but if you'll be easy I'll get you all you want," and, so saying, he tried to walk away.

"You don't have to pawn nothing for me," said Clanton. "If you don't want to let me have the $10 you can go to -."

Fielder stood facing the bar, leaning with his shoulders against the wall. From his right hand he dangled a small cane, in the right side of his mouth he held a cigar. He did not say anything in answer to this last remark.

Clanton stood at the bar, about seven feet distant. After drinking a glass of whisky that sat before him he turned and faced Fielder, drew a revolver and, saying, "D-n you, I'll just kill you, anyhow," fired three shots at him point

Fielder never moved a muscle. By some strange chance none of the sh struck him. One ball went within a half inch of his cheek, another passed under his arm and near his breast, the third

After the third shot Clanton stopped, apparently surprised at his bad marksmanship.

Fielder, still leaning back and calmly eying his would-be murderer, now shifted his cigar from the right side of his mouth to the left, passed the cane over into his left hand, reached back to his hip, and, saying, "Well, are you all through, Clanton?" drew a revolver and fired one shot. Then he replaced the revolver in his pocket, took his cane into his right hand again and walked out.

What did Clanton do about it? Nothing. That ball from Fielder's gun went through his heart .- Cincinnati En-

FINED FOR WINNING.

Out West It's Not Considered the Proper Thing to Defend a Horse Thief.

"When I graduated from the law school," said the old lawyer, with a reminiscent smile, "I took Horace Greeley's advice and went west. I located in a little town that then was on the frontier and waited with the confidence of youth for clients.

"Before I had fairly opened my office I was retained to defend a man for stealing a horse. This elated me very much, for I was not aware at the time that the case had been refused by all the other lawyers in town, as defending a horse thief was not a thing to be sesired if a man valued his life.

"The case came to trial before an old judge and a jury composed of bewhiskered ranchers. There was no doubt that the man was guilty, but he had a number of friends who were willing to swear to anything, and I thought that it was my duty to make the best possible use of them. They were all willing to swear that the defendant was 40 miles away from the spot when the horse was stolen, and the prosecution was unable to break down their testimony. I saw that I was going to free my client, so it was with a satisfied air that I saw the jury leaving the room to prepare their verdict.

"They were back in five minutes, and the old judge asked them if they had succeeded in arriving at a verdict.

"'We hev,' answered the foreman, as he shifted the gun he carried on his hip. 'We find the defendant not guilty. Window Shades, Paints, Oils, an' recommend the defendant's lawyer, owin' to his youth an' innocence, to the mercy of the court.'

"While I was gasping for breath the judge fined me $500, and suspended sen-tence long enough for me to get out of town. It wasn't law, but I didn't stop to argue the matter."-N. Y. Sun.

DON'T DO IT.

DON'T dispute with a woman when she says our groceries are the only ones to buy, because she knows what she is talking about.

DON'T argue with her when she says our prices are money savers. She talks like a sensible woman who knows what's what.

DON'T try to excuse yourself for going to some other store instead of ours. You know you can offer no reason that can be sufficient for passing the store where the best and cheapest go together. DON'T expect your wife to meet you pleasantly if you've gone to some other store than ours when she expressly told you to go nowhere else. Don't do these things if you expect to have a bountiful table supplied with wholesome food, and a smiling wife to welcome you to your happy home.
