ELECTROCUTED.

Samuel B. Quiggle, son of George B. Quiggle, formerly of Salona, died from injuries received at Braddock, Monday night. He had taken the carbons out of the lamp and was working the fixture when he received the shock. He had taken hold of it with both hands, when in some manner the current was grounded and he received 4,000 volts directly through his body. He was drawn from the ladder and hung suspended before the horror stricken gaze of fellow workmen for a few moments and then dropped with a sickening thud to the ground in an apparently lifeless condition.

Several persons quickly ran to his assistance and found that his heart was still feebly beating. Every effort was made to resuscitate the man, but he died in about two hours without having regain-

We read the other day a letter in The Outfook from a correspondent in the Philippines bearing strong testimony to the profound and universal hatred of Americans by the Filipinos. He asures us that "every Filipino is at heart an insurrecto." He is quite confident that this state of things is due to too much "clemency" on the part of the United States. The uncon scious satire of this is furnished in the estimate that we have killed over 20, 000 Filipinos since the war broke out and reported the killing of 500 the very week the correspondent wrote. We speak not in the interest of any party or any phase of politics, but in the name of our religion and of human brotherhood when we say that this is a sad and shameful chapter in the history of a great Christian people.-Universalist Leader.

Neither by the hazard of chance nor the conquest of battle can we take territory for part of our domain where, because of the peculiar conditions, the flag and constitution cannot have full play. It is all wrong for us to acquire territory where it is impossible for its people to have the same constitutional rights and liberties as our own citizens. Do not depart from the doctrine of taxation with representation. This nation must not enter on a career of conquest. Love of money and conquest must not be allowed to break down good government with its grand ideals. The nations of Europe may devour the weaker countries. Let us pursue a different mission in the world's history. It is not necessary for the United States to shoot, conquer and annex in the Orient in order to get its trade. Our greatest trade is with England. And was there ever talk of annexing that land? The best way to get the trade of Oriental countries is to send their people the best goods.—Senator Daniel.

Suppose water meters were put in, and the water committee find that persons were unjustly taxed, and that they really were wrong, what assurance is there that these councilmen's minds, when once made up, could be changed.? Chances are that the meters would be either busted or condemned. Buy the meters, anyhow.

It is a fact that never was there known to be so much dissatisfaction in regard to the water rates in our town as has been incurred by the present water committee.
