

CHAMP CLARK'S LETTER

Your Uncle Mark Hanna In a Tearful Mood.

WHY THE GOOD MAN GRIEVES

Slow Work Separating Repub- licans From Their Boodle.

VOTERS ARE FLOCKING TO BRYAN.

Many Old Time Members of the G. O. P. Disgusted with the Mellanra Administration—Maryland Safely Democratic—Democratic Standard Bearer Will Have Votes to Spare In the Electoral College—Notable Converts to Bryanism—Political Complexions of the Next House.

[Special Washington Letter.]

Since that sad day when Japheth went forth in search of his father nothing in human history is so pathetic as Mark Hanna's tearful and hair raising appeal to the mosquito eaten Republicans of New Jersey to shake off the apathy and lethargy which are now weighing them down, but Mark should know by this time of day that the average Republican is about as sleepy as was Thomas Sharkey when Professor Robert Fitzsimmons finished his surgical operation on him at the end of the second round. Nothing but a sight of the boodle will arouse the aforesaid sleepy one from his nap, and, awful to tell, they do say that Mark is having a hard time raking in the boodle. Surely the world is coming to an end soon! Four years ago Mark not only had all the boodle he needed, but he had, a thing unheard of till then, a surplus left over, a thumping big surplus at that. Now, it is said that the possessors of wealth are decidedly slow about shelling out, coming down with the dust and suchlike operations; hence Mark's tears. I have understood that the contributors are contributing only about one-tenth of what they did four years ago! Only think of that! Suffering Moses! How can Mark be expected to arouse the enthusiasm of his plebeian mercenaries by offering them only a tithe of what they received four short years ago? But I have implicit faith in Mark's capacity to fry the fat out of Republican pap suckers. He will get the boodle. Mark knows how.

"Tempora mutantur" (times change) is an old Latin motto which contains a great truth and which produces conflicting emotions, owing to the point of view. Four years ago you could not pick up a newspaper without reading how, when and where a host of Democrats were rattling to the enemy. It was a doleful reading. Now 'tis 'tother way. Such crowds of Republicans, disgusted with Mellanra and of goldbug Democrats, are flocking to Bryan's standard that even so renowned a prodigal as Bourke Cockran receives precious little notice. It's not only the leaders who are coming our way, but the rank and file also. In one little Missouri city of 2,000 inhabitants 37 lifelong Republicans have openly proclaimed their intention of voting for Bryan.

Republicans In Trouble.

It will be remembered by everybody that in his St. Paul pronouncement Colonel Teddy denounced all Democrats as dishonest, ignorant and vicious—all of which, to put it bluntly and without any beating about the bush, was a colossal lie. Nobody believes his jabber—he didn't even believe it himself—but nevertheless, just to show him that all Republicans are not virtuous and that all the outlaws and criminals are not to be found in the Republican party, I wish to call the doctory attention to two items on the first page of the Washington Post for Sunday, Aug. 19.

The first announces the arrest in Boston of that eminent Republican statesman, ex-Governor Franklin J. Moses of South Carolina. He is charged with embezzling $5. He is, of course, not to be compared to those other eminent Republican statesmen who demonstrated their courage, patriotism and virtue, Messrs. Neely and Rathbone. This is not the first larceny committed by Governor Moses. He is an old hand at the business and appears to be an incorrigible thief, as he has served one or two terms in the penitentiary for stealing. How are the mighty fallen! This man in the halcyon days of Republican misrule in South Carolina plundered that unhappy state of millions and rioted for years in his ill gotten gains. Now he stoops so low as to swindle a Boston merchant out of a pitiful $5. Evidently picking is not as good in Massachusetts as Moses' partner in iniquity, ex-Senator Patterson, declared it to be in the old Palmetto State.

The second item on the first page of the Washington Post, to which I wish to direct the eagle eye of Colonel Teddy, recites that Caleb Powers, ex-Republican secretary of state in Kentucky, has just been convicted of complicity in the Goebel assassination and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, the righteous verdict having been rendered by a jury composed of Democrats and Republicans. Every honest man between the two oceans will rejoice at the verdict and will hope that ex-Governor W. S. Taylor will be dragged back to Kentucky, tried, convicted and hanged as an accessory to the foulest assassination of this generation. Goebel's sins are no palliation or justification for these high flying scoundrels. For all I know, he may have been an angel in human form or a bend incarnate. That's not the question. He was murdered in cold blood as the result of a widespread Republican conspiracy because he was endeavoring in a lawful way to become governor of Kentucky. Colonel Roosevelt knows all these things, and yet he had the effrontery to utter a wholesale slander against one-half his countrymen, thereby disgracing the high position to which he aspires.

Of course I am not intimating that all Republicans are thieves, like ex-Governor Moses, or murderers, like Taylor and Powers. Far from it. Most of them, like most Democrats, are honest and patriotic men. I am simply demonstrating to Colonel Roosevelt that he might become strenuous in doing a little reform work in his own party and not consign all Democrats to the dunce at once.

Hanna Growing Profane.

Even at this early day in the canvass Mark Hanna is so wrought up that he runs counter to the command, "Thou shalt not swear." What Mark will do before the great event in November lands him and his protegee William the Wabblor outside the breastworks remains to be seen. So in these dog days, with the thermometer registering 100 degrees in the shade and with everybody reeking with perspiration, Mark makes it still hotter by cursing! What will the holy rethren who recently blessed me at Lakeside for taking his name in vain think of his profanity? I pause for a reply.

I have a valuable contribution to make to current history which may or may not explain several things, and that is that Governor Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa has 12 toes. In the rotunda of the capitol at Washington in the historical painting, "The Baptism of Pocahontas," there is a buck Indian with 11 toes. I have never known whether that was the license or the ignorance of the artist, but here we have a governor with 12 toes hesitating for six weeks about appointing a senator with ten toes—that is, I assume that Dolliver has ten toes. I never counted them, but I guess that Jonathan has the usual number. What made Shaw hesitate so long? Was he looking for a candidate with 12 toes? Maybe he was and maybe he was not. What he was really looking for was a plug candidate who would help Governor Shaw go to the senate himself. That he failed to carry out that idea is owing to public sentiment, and Dolliver went, who is an honor to the state.

Maryland Democratic.

"My Maryland! My Maryland!" She is going Democratic this time and no mistake. Senator George L. Wellington is stumping the state for Bryan. Arthur Pue Gorman is active in managing the Democratic campaign. John Walter Smith, governor of the ancient commonwealth, is hotfoot after the senatorial seat of Judge McComas. So all things work well together for those who love the Lord and keep his commandments, and there is weeping and gnashing of teeth among the Philistines. God grant that the grand old state of Maryland may be redeemed from Republicanism.

Quite recently I was up there lecturing at the Mountain Lake Park, Chautauqua, and, while the Chautauquas are not political meetings, a good deal of politics is talked nevertheless, and the universal belief appeared to be that nothing short of a miracle could keep Maryland from returning to the Democratic column. If Maryland comes, Delaware will come and West Virginia. So that instead of Bryan being elected by the skin of his teeth the chances are that he will have 50 votes to spare in the electoral college. You hear my horn!

Twelve months ago two of the most distinguished Republicans in the United States were named Henderson. Now the Republican party is minus one of the Hendersons—namely, John B., late of Missouri and now of Washington. General Henderson was a brigadier general in the Union army. He helped create the Republican party in Missouri, a very hazardous performance in that day. He was for eight years a Republican senator, presided over the convention that nominated Blaine and also over the Pan-American congress. For 30 years he has been recognized as one of the greatest living lawyers and the only man living or dead who ever refused a seat on the supreme bench of Missouri. With this splendid record behind him this illustrious patriot could not stomach McKinley imperialism and has come out squarely for Bryan.

No Longer a Republic.

Recently he wrote to Dr. W. A. Croft as follows:

Our government is rapidly changing its form. The United States is no longer a republic. Two wars are being waged by the president without any constitutional sanction. The Russian emperor claims no greater power than that which is exercised, almost without protest, by an American president. The war with the Philippines is senseless. The islands cannot be occupied by Americans, and American law, equally with American prejudice, already forbids American citizenship to their inhabitants, and this reduces them to slavery and servitude to forms of despotism. In the case of China, American troops, without pretense of law, are to be placed under the command of the German emperor. On the successful entry of the allies into Peking will begin the struggle of ravenous beasts over the prey, and if our people fail to protest at the polls in November next, we shall be one of these beasts.

The other Henderson, who is still prominent in Republican councils, is General David B. of Dubuque, Ia., speaker of the national house of representatives. Recently, in a speech which is evidently intended as a keynote speech, he said "the doctrines of Hamilton must be the text word of the hour."

The Hamiltonian Theory.

In his life of Hamilton Senator Henry Cabot Lodge states the Hamilton theory as follows:

The republic of Hamilton was to be an aristocracy as distinguished from a democratic republic, and the power of the separate states was to be effectually crippled. The first object was to be attained by committing the choice of the president and senators, who were to hold office during good behavior, to a class of the community qualified to vote by the possession of a certain amount of real property. The second was to be secured by giving to the president of the United States the appointment of the governors of the various states, who were to have a veto on all state legislation. These provisions, as may be seen at a glance, involved the essential character of the government, and, although purely republican, came much nearer to the British model than any other by their recognition of classes and of the political rights of property, while, by the treatment of the states, a highly centralized national government was to supersede entirely the confederate form.

A careful perusal of this excerpt will convince a great many Republicans that their proper place is not in the Republican party, but in the Democratic party, where the friends of freedom are battling for the republic. Some time ago Senator George Graham Vest said in an interview:

Our people must understand that this is the most important fight that has ever faced the party. There must be an awakening to the fact that the cry "Republic against empire" is not a mere campaign slogan. The phrase is all truthful. Plans at Washington, very definitely laid out, mean to override the constitution. The Republican leaders believe in the teachings of Alexander Hamilton, who said that the government of Great Britain was the nearest model of all the governments ever devised by the brain of man. The Hamilton idea lives at Washington today. McKinley and Hay believe in it. The secret plans of the Republican leaders are "a strong government, without constitutional limitations." This is the fight. The lines are drawn. There can be no quibbling. It is the constitution of our fathers against imperialism.

At the time these words were uttered many considered them radical and not justified by the facts of the situation, but I undertake to say that Henderson's speech at Chicago and Roosevelt's speech at St. Paul justify every syllable of Senator Vest's interview.

A Notable Convert.

The latest notable convert to Bryanism in the east is the venerable author, soldier and litterateur, Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson. He was a distinguished soldier during the civil war, he was a member of that famous literary coterie composed of Emerson, Longfellow, Lowell, Oliver Wendell Holmes and other worthies who shed imperishable luster on Boston and the human race. The disposition to rat from McKinley does not seem to be confined to any condition or class of people or any profession known among men. It seems to be universal, extending from the humblest citizen of the republic to the most influential in the land.

Dolliver and Landis.

This summer I have had joint discussions with the Hon. J. P. Dolliver, now senator from Iowa, and with Hon. C. B. Landis, representative from Indiana; with General Charles H. Grosvenor and with Colonel Davidson of Chicago, whom the national committee sent to Lancaster, O., as a substitute for Senator Dolliver. These lectures extended more or less over ten different states, from Boulder, Colo., on the west, to Mountain Lake Park, Md., on the east and from Springfield, Ark., in the south to Madison, Wis., in the north. I have made careful inquiries of all sorts of men to ascertain the real political status, and it is my well matured opinion, given for what it is worth, that if the election were held now Bryan would receive from 25 to 50 majority in the electoral college and that the next house of representatives would be Democratic by from 50 to 100. Whether the intervening two months will help the Democrats or Republicans is a matter about which no man can definitely prophesy. For the last six months things have been coming our way with great rapidity. Two months more of the same trend of affairs and our victory will take on the proportions of a landslide.

Everybody I saw in Maryland admits that the state will go from 10,000 to 15,000 Democratic. Senator Wellington gains the latter figure. This means a gain of three or four members in the house, which in a close contest would mean the election of a speaker and all the good results to follow. In Kansas there will be a gain of four from six congressmen. In all human probability they will also replace Senator Baker with a fusionist. We will likely have a solid delegation of Democrats in the house from North Carolina. The way the Evans and Brownlow factions are fighting in Tennessee, it looks like that state for the first time in many years will have a solid Democratic delegation. There can scarcely be a doubt that we will gain two or three representatives in Iowa and that Hawley of Texas, will be replaced by a Democrat and that Major Pearce of St. Louis will be succeeded by Butler, a Democrat. All signs indicate a gain of several members in Illinois, so that the prospects are decidedly in favor of the proposition that we will have a Democratic house.

Finally he exhibited to the American a reproduction of the instrument which was perfect except in one respect. Certain tables of figures stamped into the steel by the Yankee maker of the original were omitted from the copy, and in their place were several Chinese characters. The imitation had been made with the rudest of tools, but was a marvel of accuracy. Mr. Waj proposed an exchange to Mr. Janvier, and the latter agreed to the proposition.—New York Tribune.

The Correct Stroke In Swimming.

The correct stroke of the legs is exactly like that of a frog's hind legs. Watch one of these frogs and copy his style. You cannot do better. The legs are drawn up together slowly, not with a jerk, until they are gathered in close under the body. Then with a sudden, quick spring they are shot out behind, the ankles being turned so that the soles of the feet present as flat a surface as possible to the water and so offer more resistance from which to make progress. As the kick is made the legs should be spread out in the shape of a letter V, but not allowed to sink far down under the surface of the water. If they kick downward at an angle instead of out straight behind much of their energy is wasted in unnecessarily forcing the body out of the water instead of forward through it.—Harper's Bazar.

Absorbs All Knowledge.

Farming has this peculiarity, that it can absorb and supply all knowledge. Not one of the sciences but is related, or may be related, to agriculture. Botany, rightly understood, is the art of growing better potatoes, beans and corn. Entomology is that economic science that discusses what bugs are of use to man and what are injurious. Geology is an analysis of the soils and rocks that underlie the soils for the purpose of making them more available for human warfare.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Didn't Need Credit.

"You've sent your boy to college, I hear," remarked the neighbor. "Well, I hope he will acquit himself with credit." "He won't need to, begosh!" said Mr. Gaswell, somewhat irritated. "I'm able to supply him with the cash right straight along."—Chicago Tribune.

Regretted.

"I might have known better than to trust my money to that broker." "Why so? Are appearances against him?" "No, confound him! It's his disappearance."—Brooklyn Life.

TURN ON YOUR BACK.

When Exhausted Swimming, Face Upward and You Will Drift Ashore.

A guest at my summer place a few miles from Pablo while bathing was carried out to sea, and when almost out of sight and all hope had fled, to our surprise, he suddenly saw his body impelled forcibly toward us. Then we saw it recede a few feet, and then again, as it were, shoot 20 feet toward the shore. This continued until my son and myself, at last able to reach him, bore him insensible to the beach.

After recovery his story was that after losing all hope, guided by some mysterious impulse, he had turned upon his back, when he felt himself carried rapidly forward. He had then turned over upon his face to get his bearings, when he was carried out farther from the land, and on again placing himself upon his back the surface waves brought him rapidly to the shore, a rescued man.

It is an error that the drowning man is attacked by cramp except in very cold weather. He drowns from heart failure, induced by the violent exertion and the upward pressure of the water upon the abdomen diminishing the space and impeding the action of the heart. By turning over on the back this pressure is removed, the back being almost entirely a strong wall of bone and muscle; also when on the back the entire body is nearer the surface, and the surface waves tend toward the shore, the undercurrent out to sea, even the legs when upon the back being less exposed to the current that tends toward the sea. By floating gently upon the back the heart, relieved of its pressure, becomes calm and quiet, and the swimmer can regain his strength and float for hours. The bather whose heart is weak should always present, when standing erect, the right side of the body to the waves and thus avoid the Sullivan-like blows of the incoming waves upon a crippled heart. In every bathhouse should be posted the injunction, "In case of exhaustion or accident turn upon the back."—Jacksonville Metropolis.

CHINESE MECHANICAL SKILL

A Wonderful Example of Imitative Excellence.

Whatever may be his lack of moral perception and originality of idea, the heathen Chinese certainly excels in imitative power, and is often very much alive to the excellence of mechanical devices that he never saw before. In the American Machinist Oberlin Smith affords an illustration of this fact.

Some years ago Mr. Smith sent Henry A. Janvier to China to assist in the erection and operation of coining plants for brass and silver currency. One of the tools which Mr. Janvier took with him was a micrometer caliper, made by a well known firm in the United States, and capable of detecting differences of a thousandth of an inch in the thickness of a piece of metal. The superintendent of one of the shops which Mr. Janvier established was named Waj, and he proved a very intelligent fellow. During an interval of about six weeks he borrowed the caliper almost daily, and was rather tardy in returning it.
