ENGLISH STEEL WORKS COMING.

Big Sheffeld Firm Contemplates Loeating Near Wheeling, W. Va .- Hon. John Wanamaker in the State Campaign-Murdered For Thirty Dollars

Pittsburg, Oct. 22.-The Commercial Gazette says: Seybold & Dickstod, of Sheffield, England, the largest manufacturers of crucible steel in Great Britain, contemplate moving their plant to the United States. A site providing excellent water and rail shipping facilities has been optioned near Wheeling, W. Va., and it is proposed to erect thereon a modern plant, costing upwards of $3,000,000, which, from the first, will employ about 3,500 men. The object of the move is to get into the American market. Constantly increasing cost of coal in England is a prominent factor acting as an impetus to the move. John Wanamaker in the Campaign,

Pottstown, Pa., Oct. 23.—Former Postmaster General John Wanamaker last night made his first appearance in two years as a political orator. His mission here was in the interest of the candidates of the Republican party for the legislature who are opposed to the Quay wing of the Republican party, Mr. Wanamaker's appearance on the stage was the signal for great applause and his address was punctuated with much enthusiasm and cheering. During the course of his speech Mr. Wanamaker took occasion to state that he was in no wise a candidate for the office of United States senator.

Murdered For Thirty Dollars. Bedford, Pa., Oct. 24.-Mac McKenzie, stable boss employed by the contractor on the new double track being built by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Hyndman, was killed at that place Monday night and the body robbed of $30. It is expected the murderers will be captured soon, as the police claim to know who they are. Yesterday in the same town a riot broke out between drunken Italians and negro laborers, and a number of shots were exchanged, two men being injured. Local officials seem powerless to control the situation.

Held Up by Highwaymen.

Pittsburg, Oct. 24.-D. O. Prisor, a stock dealer from Butler, was held up by highwaymen in the borough of Millvale last night and robbed of $2,700. The money represented the proceeds of five carloads of cattle. The holdup was accomplished by two men as Prisor was walking along Evergreen road. One man held a revolver to his head while the other went through his pockets. The highwaymen then leisurely walked away and Prisor hastened to notify the police.

Lovers End Woes by Snielde.

Corry, Pa., Oct. 23 .- Harry Bettis and Daisy Blydenburg, prominent young people, were found dead locked in each other's arms seated on a bench in Corry Park yesterday morning. They were lovers, and it is supd to have been a case of suicide. Another story is that they were secretly married, despite opposition. The girl was shot through the breast and the young man through the head. He still held the revolver in his hand, with two chambers empty.

Typical Wild Man of the Woods. Connellsville, Oct. 21 .- Today a number of young folks out in Dunbar township came across a typical wild man. He was hatless and part of his clothes were torn from his body by his racing through the briar fields. was haggard and half starved, and apparently a raving maniac. After an exciting chase the man was caught. He is supposed to be Frank Tishue, a young man who has been mysteriously missing from his home at Trotter plant of the H. C. Frick Coke company for several weeks.

Sam Adams' Shot Proves Fatal.

Pittston, Pa., Oct. 24.-Samuel Charazze, who, with his wife, was shot by Sam Adams in a dispute over a game of cards in an Italian boarding house a week ago, died last night of his wound. The murdered man's wife is still in a critical condition.

TRUSTED BANK TELLER

Disappears, and With Him $700,-000 of the Bank's Funds.

HE SPENT MONEY LAVISHLY.

Speculated Heavily, Lost Thousands on Horse Races and Frequented Saratoga Gambling House-A Model Citizen at His Home.

New York, Oct. 24 .- C. L. Alvord, note teller of the First National bank, has decamped, and the bank is a loser by $700,000. The missing man had been in the employ of the bank over 20 years.

Alvord was capable and experienced, and the discovery of his defalcations made after he was gone, was a complete surprise to everybody. The loss of money is hardly disturbing the bank, which is one of the strongest in the city. The bank issues a statement in which it says there is fair prospect of recovering a substantial sum.

Alvord is about 50 years of age, and has a wife and three children. His home was at Mount Vernon, and he was respected there as well as in the street. His habits were good. It is believed that he lost money in stock speculations, and that some of the money can be recovered. He disappeared a week or ten days ago.

The crime has been known long enough to the officers now to enable them to say with some assurance that Alvord did his work alone. No one else is under suspicion.

It has not been developed how the note teller was able to put his hands on so much money. But one of the di-rectors is reported to have said that Alvord was enabled to take such a large sum, because as note teller he was in charge of the mail. This he opened every morning, and he had ample opportunity to abstract notes, drafts and checks as well as money. Of course, he had to be especially skillful to make his accounts balance. This director admitted that he was at a loss to account for the failure of the bank examiners to discover Alvord's irregularities at their last examination.

What Alvord did with all the cash is also a mystery as yet, except that as usual in such cases it is said that a large amount of it went in stock speculation. One story is that he had lost $75,000 in one deal, but what deal it was is not stated. It has been discovered that during the summer Alvord visited Saratoga, where he cut a great figure, spending money like a prince. He rented a cottage, kept a fine stable of horses, and besides his playing the races was a frequenter of gambling houses. Said one bookkeeper: "He was the best loser I ever saw, and would come around chipper the next day and bet again. He could have all the credit he wanted. He had no hesitation in betting from $500 to $1,500 on a race, and his nod was as good as another man's money. He was the most regular loser that I ever knew. He always lost. In fact, I never knew him to cash a bet. He had a stable of horses, or at least he was credited with having them, but they were run in the name of a trainer. They never won during the Saratoga meeting."

If these stories are true Alvord displayed entire different characteristics than those he showed at home. In this city he was known as a man of very regular habits. Among his associates was looked up to, and on Wall street was known as "Happy Alvord," because of his cheery ways. His Mount Vernon home is a magnificent place, located on Chester Hill, one of the most aristocratic sections of the suburb. It is surrounded by luxurious grounds and there are extensive Alvord has long been considered one of the big men of the town. His family entertained lavishly and gave large sums to charity. He was prominent in church circles, and his wife is considered one of the most beautiful women in Mount Vernon.

Invitations had been sent out for a grand dinner at the Alvord home last Wednesday night. The day set for the dinner messengers scurried throughout Mount Vernon recalling the invitations. That night the house was in darkness. Friends of the family were told that Mr. Alvord was ill. darkened windows since then, and the fact that no callers were admitted, led the neighbors to believe that his illness was serious.

It was not until yesterday afternoon that the residents of Chester Hill heard of his big defalcation. There was a rumor that he left the town on the day that the dinner invitations were cancelled, and that he took a steamer for South America. This could not be corroborated.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Alvord, wife of the missing note teller, was seen at her Mount Vernon home She was weeping bitterly, and would not talk about the case. The family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Alvord and two girls and a boy. They kept four or five servants. Mrs. Alvord is said to have told friends that owing to his position in the bank Mr. Alvord was able to obtain tips which enabled him to make $40,000 to $50,000 a year over his salary by operating in Wall street. She is said to have boasted that her husband's tips were so straight that he never lost a cent in the street, and always made a gain.

Rescued Yachtsmen Landed. Kingston, Jam., Oct. 24 .- The British steamer Ethelred, Capt. Nickerson, arrived at Port Antonio Monday, having on board Messrs. Frederick and William Langston, Noah F. Mason, Jr., and Otto Segelke, of Brooklyn, N. Y. who were taken on board the steamer Oct. 17 from the sloop yacht Aliris, of New York, which was sighted in a disabled condition about 30 miles from Scotland lightship. The Aliris was struck by a northwest gale Oct. 16. Her headsails were carried away and her mainsail damaged, and the yacht drifted all night before the wind. At 10 o'clock the next morning the yachtsmen were picked up by Ethelred. Frederick B. Langston, the yacht's captain, says the party suffered greatly.
