That is bothering many who want to send an appropriate gift this season to some member of the family, dear relative or dear friend at a distance. Probably it is a son, daughter, father, mother, sister, brother, or even a sweetheart. Think of it, you can keep them supplied the entire year, with all the news and important happenings in this county for the small sum of $1 by sending them this paper. It will be a welcome visitor every week in the year. Where can you get more value for the money or a more appropriate gift—one that will be appreciated the entire year. Did you ever think of it? Edward Bumgardner, of Lewisburg, was in our town on Monday.

himself within two rods of a monster black bear, which stood in the brush growling and snapping his teeth. Frank, believing that "Discretion is the better part of valor," did not make any hostile motion toward the bear, but began calling for Bodie as lustily as his lungs would allow. His voice, which is none of the sweetest in tone, gave the bear a shock which started him on an exceedingly fast run in an opposite direction from Frank. This was the time for Frank's courage to come to the front, and he unstrung his rifle and Bodie says he shot four shots at that bear in less time than he ever heard as many shots fired before. Frank then decided that he did not enjoy bear hunting and started out to the Scootac region to try his luck on deer. While his brother was driving him out, Frank espied a baby deer lying in the brush. He was sore about the teasing over his adventure with the bear, and had murder in his heart. He slipped into the brush and shot the poor creature and on examination found that it had lost two legs in a mouse trap, which loss permitted Frank to get within rifle shot. He hauled it out of the brush, emptied a tenpound bag of provisions, and put the deer in the bag, and sent it back home under the seat of the buggy. When his brother arrived home with it his father was heard to remark, "I never saw a rabbit of that color before."

LOOK!

Look at things carefully from all points. Don't be narrow in your mind. Look at the inside, the outside, the bottom and the top.

You are not obliged to believe everything you hear and read, but don't shut yourself up within the limits of your own experience, and imagine the world and shoes are the same as they were when you were a boy.

Shoes—and the world too, we believe—are better now than ever before. If you doubt this, you've probably been wearing a wrong kind of shoes and had your souls cramped.

This is intended for the few who have not been buying Mingle's Shoes.
