BURNED AT THE STAKE. A WEEK'S NEWS CONDENSED

Riotous Mob Executed a Negro at Leavenworth, Kan.

DIED PROTESTING HIS INNOCENCE

The Mob of 8,000 Who Witnessed the Terrible Lynching Rushed For Relics When the Flames Had Done Their Awful Work. .

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 16.-Fred Alexander, the negro who on Saturday evening attempted to assault Miss Eva Roth, by whom he was identified, and who was supposed to have assaulted and killed Pearl Forbes in this city in November last, was taken from his cell in the county jail by a mob yesterday and burned at the stake at the scene of his alleged crime, half a dozen blocks from the center of the city. Probably 8,000 people witnessed the lynching.

The crowd first attempted to gain admission to the jail by peaceful means, but Sheriff Everhardy sternly refused to give up the negro. Then the jail doors were forced, and the mob soon dragged out the wretch. He had been struck over the head with a hammer, but was conscious. Men fought to get at him and struck savagely at him, hitting only his captors, who guarded him well.

Outside the stockade the crowd surged. Alexander and his captors were surrounded by a solid wall of human flesh. Across Third street and up the hill into the court house yard they dragged him. Then they stopped still "Confess before we harm you." said they. "I am innocent. I am dying for what another man did. I see lots of my friends here; they know I did not do If I had been guilty I would have said so at the penitentiary and would have stayed there for life. The warden told me so. The policeman told me so. Would not I have told them if I was guilty?"

When he talked his voice was steady. He spoke with the resignation of a man who sees before him only death.

The negro was taken in a wagon, followed by howling thousands, to the place where Miss Forbes was murdered. He constantly reiterated his innocence. Arriving at the place he was placed on a pile of wood, with hands still shackled, and there bound to an upright railroad iron. Chains and irons were wrapped about him, and with his hands still shackled he was made fast to the post. Coal oil was then poured over

Before the match was applied John Forbes, the father of the murdered girl, stepped up to Alexander and said: "Are you guilty of murdering my daughter?" "I don't know what you have me here for," said Alexander.

Forbes replied: "For killing my daughter on this very spot." "Mr. Forbes, if that's your name, you have the wrong man," said the negro.

"Burn him; burn him," cried the "Gentlemen, you've got lots of time," said Alexander. "You're burning an innocent man. You took advantage of me. You gave me no show. Can I see my mother?

A man in the crowd called for the mother, but she was not in the crowd. Alexander then said: "Will you let me shake hands with all my friends?"

"You have no friends in this crowd, you d-d beast," said one of the men in charge of the negro. "If you have anything to say, say it in a hurry.'

Another man then stepped up and said to Alexander: "Make your peace with your God, nigger, for you will Coal oil was then applied for the second time, and while it was being done Alexander called to acquaintances in the crowd and said goodbye to them. He talked rationally until John Forbes the father of the murdered girl, lighted the match. Again Alexander was asked to make a confession, but he replied that he had nothing to say.

As the flames leaped about him Alexander turned a ghastly hue, and clasping his hands together began to sway to and fro while the crowd yelled.

In five minutes the negro was hanging limp and lifeless by the chains that bound him. As soon as the crowd saw that life was extinct it began to slowly disperse. Hundreds, however, stayed to the last.

When the fire had died down sufficiently to allow the crowd to approach the remains of Alexander there was a wild scramble to obtain relics. Bits of charred flesh, pieces of chain, scraps of wood, everything that could possibly serve as a souvenir, was seized on with morbid eagerness.

Governor W. E. Stanley, says a Topeka dispatch, is indignant over the lynching at Leavenworth. He says it will result in the establishment of the death penalty in Kansas, as it should Governor Stanley condemns Sheriff Everhardy in unmeasured terms.

BOSSCHIETER MURDER.

Prosecution Ends Its Case Against Three of the Prisoners.

KERR'S EVIDENCE NOT NEEDED

The Fourth Man Under Indictment, Who Was Expected to Turn State's Evidence, Not Called Upon-One of the Prisoners Interrupts a Witness. Paterson, N. J., Jan. 15.-The trial of Walter L. McAlister, Andrew Campbell and William A. Death, three of the four men accused of the murder of Jennie Bosscheiter, a mill girl, under circumstances revolting in their utter lack of humane considerations, commenced yesterday before Judge Dixon, in the Passaic county court of over and terminer. George J. Kerr, the fourth man under indictment, was not in court, as he has been granted a separate trial on the ground that he was not present when the fatal dose was administered to the girl.

Before the trial was begun it was expected that at least two days would be necessary to complete the jury, but Judge Dixon carried the proceedings on with such vigor that within an hour after the court was called to order he had empanelled his 12 jurors dress of the prosecuting attorney.

The remainder of the day saw four of the principal witnesses in the case on the stand. Mrs. Nina Bosscheiter, the mother of the unfortunate girl, was one, her daughter Susie another, Christopher Saal, the proprietor of the saloon where it is alleged the drug was administered to the girl, was the third, and Gus Schulthorpe, the hack driver of the horrible midnight ride, was the last. Mother and daughter told of Jennie's life at home and at the mill. telling fully of the incidents just previous to the girl's disappearance. Of the four witnesses the testimony of Schulthorpe was the most important, as well as the most startling. In his crude, unvarnished way he told to the minutest detail the story of the sion of crime, and a sensational interruption of one of the witnesses by one of the prisoners, Prosecuting Attorney case of the state was complete. When Sergeant McInerney was testifying that Death confessed his complicity in the crime the prisoner jumped to his feet and shouted: "You lie, you lie." His counsel pulled him down, and after the evidence was given by several other detectives Death was summoned to the stand. He told of his arrest and of a number of questions put to him by the police, but he stepped down from the stand without stating what it was the property of Bond Fisher. he told the police. Judge Dixon then admitted the evidence of the policemen, in which they said Death had confessed. Policeman Perry testified that Death confessed that McAlister put the drug in the girl's wine glass two or three times.

THE DELAWARE DEADLOCK.

Addicks Twelve Votes Short of the Necessary Number.

Dover, Del., Jan. 16.-The initial ballots in the general assembly yesterday for two United States senators were ineffectual, as was expected. The respective houses voted first for the successor to Senator Richard R. Kenney (long term) and then to fill the existing vacancy. John Edward Addicks, the Union Republican leader, was voted for successively by his followers, but lacked 12 votes; the regular Republicans divided their vote between Col. Henry A. Dupont, of Wilmington, Charles F. Richards, of Georgetown, William S. Hilles, Judge William C. Spruance, Benjamin Nields, Levi C. Bird and former Senator Anthony Higgins, all of Wilmington. The Democrats supported their caucus nominees, Senator Kenney and State Chairman Willard Saulsbury. Senator Farlow, of Sussex county, who went over to Addicks on the final day of the session two years ago, and who is now ostracized by the 22 Democrats, voted for Kenney, and then cast a second ballot for John G. Gray, Democrat, of Wilmington.

Willard Saulsbury believes that Delaware will have two vacancies in the United States senate.
