

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

Distinguished National Leaders Arrive in California.

INTERESTING DAY IN ARIZONA.

A Slight Accident to the Engine Tender Delays the Arrival at Phoenix Two Hours—Arizona's Pantomimic Plea For Statehood.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 8.—The presidential party spent an interesting day yesterday in Arizona. The beautiful turquoise sky, bright sunshine and invigorating air afforded the party much relief after the hot and dusty ride of Monday. The two hours in the morning at the Congress gold mine, up in the clouds of the Blue Tank mountains, were replete with incidents and were thoroughly enjoyed. A large American flag was draped across the tunnel through which the president passed, and after he emerged he told the little group of miners who congregated about the train that he had seen old glory floating from tower and state house and warship in many different places, but that never before during his life had he seen the American flag 1,500 feet under ground.

Leaving the rich mining section in the mountains, 4,000 feet above sea level, the train dropped down into the green Salt River valley, with its waving alfalfa meadows and big herds of cattle. This valley is called the garden spot of Arizona, and was reclaimed by irrigation. On Monday, passing through New Mexico and yesterday in Arizona, the cow punchers at the stopping places along the route inquired vociferously where "Teddy" was. Many of the vice president's Rough Riders during the Spanish war were recruited in this section, and there was much disappointment that he was not in the party. On the way to Phoenix the tire of one of the wheels of the engine tender became loose, and for the first time since the long journey began the telegrapher with the train was compelled to climb a telegraph pole to tap the wire.

At Wickenburg, the scene of the recent gold mine strike, the train was halted long enough to permit the president to receive a visit from the school children. The children presented Mrs. McKinley with a cabinet of specimens. The president thanked the children in Mrs. McKinley's behalf and addressed them briefly.

About 20 miles outside of Phoenix the party saw from the car windows the government agricultural experimental station, to which Secretary Wilson a year ago sent 40 date palms, which had been brought out of the Tripoli desert on the backs of camels. The palms are doing well and much is expected of them in the future in the southwest.

The accident to the locomotive tender delayed the arrival at Phoenix two hours and somewhat disarranged the program here. Nevertheless, the party received a rousing welcome. Governor Murphy and the territorial officers had met the party at the Congress mine and accompanied them back to Phoenix. At the station the territorial militia, a company of cowboys on bronchos, and some of the friendly Pima and Maricopa Indians joined in a wildly enthusiastic reception. The party was driven to the Adams hotel for luncheon and afterwards escorted to the territorial capital, where the formal exercises took place. Governor Murphy delivered an address of welcome, to which the president responded.

A drive afterward gave the president an opportunity to see the interesting ruins of the ancient Aztec irrigation system. At the Indian industrial school, four miles from Phoenix, the party had a glimpse of what is being done in the way of education for the wards of the nation. A pretty little ceremony was enacted here for the benefit of the president. While an Indian band played "Hail Columbia" a beautiful Indian maiden in pantomime pleaded with a man dressed to represent Uncle Sam for statehood for the territory.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the presidential party resumed its journey. The departure was so timed that the Colorado desert and other basin of the Gulf of California below sea level and barren of all vegetation was traversed during the night. The Colorado river, which is the boundary of Arizona, was crossed at Yuma, and the party awoke this morning in California. Redlands, the first stop, was reached at 9 a. m.

Baltimore's Municipal Election.

Baltimore, May 8.—The municipal election in this city yesterday, the first one of importance held under the new ballot law, resulted in a sweeping victory for the Republicans. They carried 18 of the 24 wards, electing 18 members to the first branch of city council and all three candidates for the second branch. Only about 65 per cent of the entire registered vote was polled, and the colored vote was very light. Democrats attribute their downfall to factional differences. It is thought that little difficulty was experienced in marking ballots by the illiterates who voted.

Ballot Reform Conference.

Harrisburg, May 7.—A conference between the Republican and Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania on ballot reform legislation, headed by Senator Quay and Col. Guffey, was held last night at the executive mansion. The conference came to a close after midnight without reaching a definite agreement. Both parties agreed that the party circle should be dropped and that the party columns should remain as they are on the present ballot. The difference of opinion is over assistance to illiterate voters.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

Measures That Occupy the Attention of the Lawmakers.

THE REMOVAL OF THE CAPITAL.

Progress of the Voorhees Bill For a Popular Vote on the Question—Mr. Coray's Prohibition Measure—Appropriation Bill Carries $15,032,034

Harrisburg, May 8.—The Voorhees bill providing for a submission to a vote of the people at the next general election of the question of removing the capital from Harrisburg to Philadelphia was taken up for second reading in the house yesterday. Amendments were offered to the bill providing for the location of the capital at Pittsburg, Allentown, Lancaster, Clarion and Somerset, and were promptly rejected. Mr. Voorhees, of Philadelphia, said the question of removing the capital affects the entire people of the commonwealth, and under the constitution they have a right to say where it should be located. This bill has not been introduced either as a bluff nor a job, but was offered in all sincerity. After a lengthy debate the bill passed second reading by 110 to 47. It will be taken up today for third reading and final passage.

The bill increasing the appropriation for clerk hire for the supreme court from $1,000 to $2,500 annually was defeated.

The bill providing for the publication in separate pamphlet form of a certified list of all charters of incorporation was defeated. Under the present law the charters are published biennially in the same volume with the pamphlet laws.

The bill exempting farms and farm lands from assessment and collection of any taxes for the purpose of lighting or supplying the same with water was also defeated.

The senate met at 8 o'clock last night and held a brief session. The order of business was the consideration of bills on first and second reading. Among the bills reported favorably from committees was the Carbonale paving bill and the bills repealing the local option laws in the Fifteenth and Twenty-ninth wards of Philadelphia. The house renovated butter bill was re-committed to the committee on health and sanitation for the purpose of giving those interested a chance to be heard.

After several attempts during the past month the senate on Wednesday of last week passed finally the amended Fox bill providing for the construction and completion of the state capitol building. The vote was 28 to 16. The bill as passed appropriates $5,000,000 and provides that the commission be appointed by the governor, to be named four persons, at least one of whom shall be a Democrat, and that the governor also be a member of the commission. The bill abolishing Philadelphia's public building commission also passed finally.

In the house Wednesday of last week the senate bill authorizing James Russ, of Harrisburg, to sue the state to recover the amount of his claim against the state for catering for the legislature of 1897 on its visit to New York at the dedication of the Grant tomb, failed by a vote of 94 to 82.

The Fayette City local option repealer was beaten on final passage. Among bills passed finally by the house last Thursday was one permitting factory inspectors to seize clothing manufactured in unsanitary and unhealthy places.

In the senate last Thursday Mr. Grady, of Philadelphia, offered a resolution deploring the backward condition of legislation in the house.

Governor Stone signed a large number of bills last Thursday, among them: Maki, a misdemeanor to place free or trial samples of medicine, dye, ink coloring or polishing compounds in any form where children can secure the same; to prevent burgesses and councilmen of boroughs from soliciting or receiving bribes and to punish any person who may offer to bribe the same; prohibiting the adulteration of natural fruit juice; authorizing trust companies to become bondsmen for liquor dealers.

The general appropriation bill, carrying an appropriation of $15,032,034 for the next two years, was reported to the house on Friday of last week by Chairman Bliss. The bill has already passed first reading and will be taken up next week for second reading. It carries an appropriation of $11,000,000 to the public schools. Of this $400,000 is to be applied to the state normal schools and $50,000 for township high schools.

The order of business in the house Friday of last week was senate bills on second reading. The bill providing for extinguishment of any ground rent, annuity or other charge upon real estate after 21 years, and making the same applicable in cases where the commonwealth is a party claimant the same as in the cases of other parties was amended by Mr. Bedford, of Philadelphia, so that it shall not apply to lands or minerals beneath and co-extensive with rivers and public streams.

In the house last Monday night Mr. Coray, of Luzerne, introduced a bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale, importation or exportation or dispensing in any way of all intoxicating beverages in Pennsylvania, except for scientific, mechanical or medicinal purposes.

The order of business in the senate Monday night was bills on first reading. Mr. Scott, of Philadelphia, introduced a bill supplementing and amending section 49 of the building laws of 1899, so as to allow the construction of a new Philadelphia theater under the plans as originally drawn by the architects. The bill has the approval of the Philadelphia building inspectors.

of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life, and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children. When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden. When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health. When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food. But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it? Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach. If you have not tried it, send for a sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.
