FROM ILLINOIS.

Kaneville, Ill., May 1901. EDITOR CENTRE DEMOCRAT :- This is a fine county, good land and good buildings; nearly all! the houses are painted white while the barns are red, and wind pamps to nearly all buildings. On a hill from my brother's farm I counted 64 farm houses and barns. It put me to thinking of old Centre county from top of Nittany mountain, above Centre Hall, where you can see over that beautiful

The principal crops raised here are corn, oats, some barley and some rye. Don't sow wheat on account of gints bugs and low price. They can realize more out of cora to feed in hogs and cattle, and here is where you see them. We came here on the 10th of April; it was dry then and we had only one little shower since, it only lasted 15 minutes; could harrow right along again; just puts me in mind of last year in Centre county. There is always more air going here Eddie you must stay away from the tirls, or the old man will give you a chase.

cucumber patches. Recently we had misty days and everything seems to grow although it is dry.

One man here, with a good 4 horse by the West Susquehanna classis to the team, will put out as much as any three Eastern sypod of the Reformed church men can in the East. Every farmer has in the United States, which will convene a telephone in his house. At 10 o'clock the first week I was here, a farmer neighbor telephoned to Chicago to inquire about the hog market. The return was "prices good, ship to-day." He just called up ten neighbors on his phone and by 3 o'clock that afternoon he had the hogs loaded (6 mi es to station) and jumped the train, and got $6.171/2 per 100 re-weight. At 5 o'clock he had over $1,000 in money in his pocket. Rye is good; oats, that was just sowed on the corn stocks and pulverize in, is 6 inches high and good, grass is good, cattle were this synod. turned in the fields the first of May. Dry as it is, things grow; the fog and heavy dews moisten the ground. I think this is a good place for young, industrious people to make money, but there is no room for idlers. These are fine, intelligent and industrious people who work hard and have much to do. When in the fields they ride for all their work, except harrow, have no stones to contend with and plow mostly with gang plows using four horses along side of each other and plow from five to six acres in one day. Jasper Gramley, formerly of Coburn,

Pa., beat the record for plowing 40 acres in 61/2 days with a 4 horse team. I saw a man planting 25 acres of corn, 160 rods long, in 914 hours, changing teams at noon. Horses walk faster here than in the East. One man farms 160 acres but here about three years ago and gave doesn't milk cows, only raises hogs and fattens steers.

The rural free mail delivery is a grand thing and the government is making big money out of it. You can't come to a farm house now after 8 o'clock but each farmer has his daily paper and reading Heretofore some had four or five miles to the postoffice; they could not get their mail but once or twice a week The houses are all built along the road. I came out here to visit my daughter and friends, but have worked all the time except one day I went to Chicago and a half day to a funeral. I am still waiting on rainy days to visit, but it doesn't rain. I am well, my wife's health is about the same, and we like it, but are too old to locate here.

Land sells at from $75 to $90 per acre. They have good schools, good school houses and good churches. In some places the gophers are very plenty they look like squirrels, only a little longer, and pull the corn out. I was at a place last Sunday where the boy was after his father all week for a gun, Saturday night his father brought him a gun and he slipped out after he had his chores done and came in with 11 gophers; he said to his father, "She is all right, she brings one every time." His father had to mile and told him now to get ready and go to Sunday School; so he started. He is a great reader of your paper and is saving up his money to come east to Centre county to hunt deer this fall, and he asked me if you would go with him. told him the dear you hunt you would only catch on lawns or hammocks. But I must come to a close.

Yours respectfully, JAMES J. GRAMLEY.
