thraldom." The Holy Father was notified of his narrow escape last night, but refused to comment upon it in any way.

New York, Aug. 27.—According to a special cable dispatch to one of last night's papers, the man carried a revolver and a dirk. He lay hidden in a part of the gardens through which the Pope traverses daily. His Holiness was being carried from his private apartments in a chair to where his landau waited to convey him to the pavilion of Leo IV., when a Swiss guardsman heard a noise in the shrubbery some distance away. The soldier investigated and discovered the assassin, whom he placed under arrest. At the rooms of the Swiss guards, where the man was taken, the revolver and knife were found. The man said he had been hidden all morning in the Vatican gardens and expected to have no trouble in killing the Pope.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

British Admiral Will Resign His Post to Turn Critic of the Salisbury Government.

Lord Charles Beresford, who, it is said, is about to resign his post as commander of the Mediterranean station of the British navy in order that he may have a free hand to criticize the government's naval and military administration, is perhaps the ablest sailor in Great Britain without any exception. His record in that line is something remarkable for a born peer. Lord Charles, although the marquis of Waterford and the fourth possessor of that high title, has been in the navy since he was 13 and has worked his way up by sheer merit. He has received the gold medal of the Royal Humane society and the Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane society for having on three occasions jumped overboard to save lives at sea. On one of these his pockets were filled with cartridges. He distinguished himself at the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, July 11, when he was in command of the gunboat Copdor. He ran his vessel right under the guns of the fort and engaged them. He likewise assisted the ironclad Temeraire off the shore, where it had struck. Later he helped the khedive to get away and commanded the American and British marines who policed the town after the bombardment. In 1898 and 1899 Lord Charles Beresford made a tour of the east in the interest of the world-trade in China, and on his return passed through the United States, where he was given many flattering receptions in the principal cities en route. He belongs to the oldest and best Norman nobility of England.

James R. Kilbourne, of Columbus, O., democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, was born in Columbus in 1844, graduated at Kenyon before the civil war and at Harvard law school after the war, enlisted as a private and became a colonel. He is president of the Ohio centennial committee, the Columbus board of trade, public library, children's home, guild and associated charities, director of banks and railroads, vice president of the army of the Tennessee and a member of other military organizations. He has never held public office and was never a candidate till two years ago, when he was defeated for the gubernatorial nomination by John B. McLean. He has been especially popular among workmen and is an honorary member of the Columbus trades and labor assembly. For years he was the next door neighbor of the late Senator Allen G. Thurman and was his close counselor. His father formerly represented the Columbus district in congress and his grandfather was one of the earliest settlers of that city.
