EDITORIAL.

THERE is something wrong with the democrat who opposes fusion, he needs watching.

THE democrats and independents who nobly stood shoulder to shoulder in fighting for ballot reform, against unconstitutional rippers, against cutting the school appropriation, and against all the iniquities of the machine, should in all reason stand shoulder to shoulder for the election of a supreme judge and state treasurer.

WHEN any one talks about the administration advising reciprocity, just remember that is the term used for the democratic policy of lower tariff and free trade, which is beginning to strike the heretofore blind as being the correct policy; besides, the denial by protectionists of reciprocity by prohibitory tariffs, has fostered and built up the trusts that are now taking the masses by the throat and destroying all the individual industries in the country. Reciprocity is free trade, in homeopathic doses. That is all.

THE Donnelly-Ryan democratic organization in Philadelphia has been black-klisted by Pattison and Guffey for its treachery in persistently selling out to the Quay machine, and this week the Democratic State Convention's Commission of six, of which Senator Heinle is one, meets in Philadelphia to re-organize the party in Philadelphia and throw the Donnelly-Ryan traitors over board and into the Quay camp. There is a sprinkling of these democratic traitors to be found in several counties of the state; and with this purification the party will be in a healthy condition.

THE New York Sun having been maligning the New York Journal as a "yellow journal," the latter in last Sunday's issue not only puts a heavy squelcher upon the Sun but quotes from the columns of that luminary that the Sun was a persistent vilifier of McKinley in numberless instances. The Journal quotes from its own columns to prove that it always spoke highly of Mr. McKinley and clinches it by printing a message sent by the President to the Journal thanking it for its friendly course. The Sun must now take the floor or quit shining. The Journal, in thus crushingly showing up the Sun, failed to add that its editor for a number of years did not dare cross the borders of Pennsylvania, for fear of being arrested under a warrant issued for libeling a prominent citizen of Philadelphia.

THE machine organs say the great revolt in Philadelphia against corruption, is the work of John Wanamaker. Then all honor to John Wanamaker. It is the honest citizens who are in revolt and the great and honest merchant prince is among them, and they are with him as against the gang. Besides robbing the city and the state, there are 500 machine election officers under arrest for gross election frauds, besides over 150 that have already been convicted and sent to prison. Rascals have sat as machine election officers who were not elected and were not citizens, to carry out the frauds planned by the machine—they are fast being led to the bread-and-water coop. Donnelly and Ryan, who call themselves democrats, under that cover, work with the machine to betray the party from year to year—the revolt is directed against these also.

TEACHING DEMOCRACY.

Early in his political career President Roosevelt leaned strongly to the theories of free trade. He has since stood with his party for protection, but a sentence in his speech at Minneapolis on Sept. 2 shows him to be quite in sympathy with the declarations of President McKinley in his last great speech. Said Mr. McKinley:
The period of our exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times. We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing.

Said Mr. Roosevelt three days before:
We must remember, in dealing with other nations, that benefits must be given when benefits are sought.

And in an amplification of his idea of the McKinley policy, the President declared explicitly for reciprocity, freer trade and the abolition of unnecessary duties. This is coming to democratic doctrine at a 2:40 clip.

Money sometimes talks in whispers.

THOSE AMENDMENTS.

During the session of the legislature recently ended, two proposed amendments to the Constitution were passed which will come before the people at the polls in November. One of these amendments, if adopted, will open the way for the enactment of registration laws and the classification of the State for election law purposes; the other will open the way for the use of the voting machine.

Before the registration amendment can become effective however, it must be approved by the people. Its passage by the legislature was merely preliminary to the decision of a popular vote whether or not it shall be adopted. This will be decided at the November election.

Even though adopted the amendment will work no immediate change in the election laws of the State. There appears to be a popular misconception regarding this point. Its only effect will be to untie the hands of the legislature and give to the latter power which it does not have now. Until the adoption of the amendment the legislature is prevented from passing any adequate registration law by reason of the provision of the Constitution to the effect that no man shall be deprived of his vote if he is not registered. This is because he renders ineffective the provision which provides for personal registration. The adoption of the amendment will bring it within the scope of subsequent legislative enactments to such registration laws as may be deemed best.

Nor again is it mandatory that any such future registration shall be passed. The amendment simply makes such action permissive, not obligatory. The amendments are in no wise partisan in their effect upon the future of any of the political parties of the State. They are advocated by leaders of all the parties and antagonized by none. Personal registration laws are even now in operation in New York and Massachusetts. It is only a question of time when they will have to be accepted in Pennsylvania, and the registration amendment will open the way for them.

The voters of the State have an opportunity at the election in November of saying whether or not they will desire a reform in the election laws along the lines of providing an adequate personal registration system.

The frauds which have been committed in Philadelphia, Pittsburg and elsewhere, through the loose system of registration now in vogue, are notorious and form a powerful argument in behalf of the adoption of the amendment in question.

The amendment is important not only because it prepares the way for personal registration but because it takes notice of the effect of conditions in the large cities which differ radically from those prevailing in country districts.

BREEDERS OF ANARCHY.

The question of rooting out the breeders of anarchy and excluding them from this country is just now a subject of general debate. It is difficult also to get an accepted definition of anarchy, or an explanation of anarchical education, say such a one as the Buffalo outlaw received from Emma Goldman. Teaching anarchy does not amount to much until an attempt is made to convert the teaching into overt acts. The Philadelphia "North American" has set itself the task of defining breeders of anarchy, and reaches this classification:

The members of a Legislature that openly sold a United States Senatorship to a man who escaped conviction of the crime of misappropriating public money by pleading the statute of limitations—a Legislature whose general scorn for common honesty gave it a disgraceful eminence even in a State a custom to corrupt Legislatures.

A governor who became the accomplice of a band of politicians and speculators and conferred on them by his official signature the legal privilege of stealing the streets of the State's cities.

An attorney general who made one of a gang of marauders that tried, with the Legislature's help, to steal the coal lands of the State.

A justice of a supreme court, appointed by the governor whose former law partner he was, and who secretly revealed to that governor in advance how each justice would vote on a case in which the governor was politically interested.

The mayor of a great city who turned blackmailer in the effort to protect himself from newspaper criticism, who habitually jobs in contracts, gives away enormously valuable franchises to his confederates, connives at the existence of illegal and profitable dens of vice, and from being a bankrupt when he entered office is reputed to have become a millionaire.

This doesn't require much explanation. It can all be found within the limits of Pennsylvania. And there may be added as the greatest of anarchists the political machine that carries elections by fraudulent methods and educates the baser sort of the population in the science of repeating, personation, forgery, perjury and ballot-box stuffing. Who are anarchists if they are not?

The ripper bill passed by the machine legislature to take the control of Pittsburg from the independents and secure it for the Quay gang, is creating a fuss among the machine leaders and now they are having a bitter fight on hand which threatens a new split among the state plunderers. Iniquity often recoils upon the authors of it, and the Pittsburg ripper is a case in point.
