RIVER STEAMER BURNED

Frightful Panic on City of Pittsburg When Fire Started.

22 PERSONS DEAD; 40 MISSING

Terror-Stricken Passengers Interfered With Work of Rescue, and Steamer Was Headed to the Shore, But People Were Forced to Jump Into River. Cairo, III., April 21.-The side-wheel steamer City of Pittsburg, from Cincinnati to Memphis, was burned to the water's edge at 4.05 o'clock yesterday morning at Ogden's Landing. near Olmstead, Ill., 11 miles from Mound City, Ill., and 24 miles from this city. It is stated that 22 lives were lost and that 40 persons are missing, but the list of casualties is not yet definitely determined. As the register of the steamer was burned, no list can be given, either of the victims or of the survivors.

Most of the passengers were still in bed when Second Clerk Oliver Phillips gave the alarm. The engineers at once started all the pumping engines, while the crew brought all the hose into play. Amid the streams of water on all sides the flames from the lower deck and dense clouds of smoke, the passengers rushed from their staterooms and a frightful panic ensued. The appeals of the officers and crew could not appease the panic-stricken crowds that interfered with those throwing water on the flames, as well as with those working with the life boats. Few could adjust life preservers or do anything for themselves.

The smoke was stifling. Great clouds floated through the blazing steamer, choking the passengers and adding to the terror. Children cried pitifully, begging that they be saved. Life boats were manned and every effort was made to save the passengers from the floating furnace of flames. From the river banks the sparks from the burning craft and the dense clouds of smoke, tinged with flames, made a most impressive and weird spectacle.

Boats were sent from shore to help in the work of rescue. Boats laden to their limit with passengers in the scant attire they were able to gather, were landed at the river banks. As fast as the boats could be emptied they returned to the ill-fated steamer. the rescuers losing no time from their

The burning steamer was quickly headed to the bank, but passengers were forced to jump from the stern. and in trying to swim ashore through the swift current, many were drowned. Many also perished in the flames. Only one yawl was saved, without oars, and the women were taken off. About 20 or 30 were taken off in the yawl. The rest were picked up out of the water.

Help, except from people living nearby, did not arrive until 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and passengers with only night clothes, and without food, suffered terribly,

Mrs. Sherman McCullom, with her three children, was going to Caruthersville, Mo., to join her husband. She jumped overboard and landed in the yawl, but her three children landed in the water and she saw them sink from sight. She is nearly frantic with grief. The body of the youngest of the little ones was recovered at Mount City, and its remains were identified by the mother.

Another terribly sad circumstance was the loss of one of the children of Pilot Al Pritchard. The little one was tossed from the burning steamer to arms waiting to catch it in the yawl, but its head struck against the side of the boat and it fell into the river and was lost.

A Passenger's Experience.

Mrs. Mulkey, wife of Judge Mulkey, of Metropolis, Ill., boarded the City of Pittsburg shortly before the disaster. She said: "I got on the boat at Metropolis to take passage to Cairo. All of the passengers were asleep when I went aboard, and I went at once to my stateroom and lay down with my clothes on. It must have been an hour or more before I noticed a bright light shining into my stateroom and saw that the front cabin was on fire. But few passengers were aroused at this time, and I, with others, climbed out over the guards and down the railing, hand over hand over the life boat, which was below me. By this time others crowded into the boat and filled it to overflowing, but, as if providentially, the flames reached the ropes that held the life boat, and we dropped into the river before others could push their way into the boat. We would all have been drowned if others had pushed into the boat. The life boat commenced to drift back toward the burning steamer, and we thought that we were to die after all. We had no oars, and the men used their hands for oars. There were people in the river all about us on every

"After we had managed to get to the shore, fires were lighted and the poor men and women and children, many of them in their night clothes, shivering with the cold and from their wet clothing, huddled about the fires. Many of them had lost those nearest and dearest to them, and their cries and moans were heartrending.

Bome were burned, but more were badly bruised and cut by coming in contact with the wreckage. Oh! it was a horrible experience, and one I shall never forget. People clung to shutters and anything they could find to float on to shore, and only a few succeeded. A physician who, with his wife, was among the passengers, managed to quiet the sufferings of some by administering morphine, of which of Warrior Run, a small own near he had a small quantity."

WILHELMINA'S ILLNESS

A London Dispatch Says Chances of Recovery Are Magnified.

The Hague, April 22.-The following bulletin was posted yesterday at Castle Loo: "The queen is taking nourishment. Her general condition is satisfactory." Prince Henry went for a ride yesterday for the first time since her majesty's illness. This was taken to be a favorable sign.

The following bulletin was issued last evening: "The course of the maiady now calls for no special remark." The physicians say it is impossible to predict the date of the crisis of her

The queen's mother burst into tears when she was first told that her daughter had typhoid fever. She seldom leaves the sick chamber.

London, April 22.-In a dispatch from Castle Loo the correspondent of the Daily Mail declares the information vouchsafed the public minimizes the gravity of Queen Wilhelmina's condition and magnifies her chances for recovery. The grief-stricken nation, which loves the queen to the point of idolatry, is in a state of terrible suspense, while the politicians are aghast at the possibilities of a fatal termination of her illness.

Woman's Horrible Suicide.

Chicago, April 22.-Saturating her garments with kerosene, Mrs. Abraham Antoranum, of Waukegan, Ill., set them on fire yesterday, while her husband slept in an adjoining room, and in a few minutes died in terrible agony. Her husband, awakened by her screams, started to her aid, only to find that he had been locked in his bedroom. He broke down the door, and in his efforts to extinguish the flames was so badly burned that he may die. The suicide was the result of a quarrel between Mr. and Mrs.
