

The Racket

We Have Notions

Good ones, too. Our stock is the best in town. Everything up-to-date from sewing silks to dress shields. If there is anything new we have it. One person the other day told us she delighted in buying notions of us because we always waited on her promptly and courteously and our stock was new and complete.

Three of our good matrons chaperoned by Joseph Brugger went over the mountain to Henry Armagast's barn raising last Thursday. While the men raised the barn, the matrons assisted in the culinary work and ever since their return they have been trying to decide which of the trio "drawed" a pot of tea with second hand coffee "grouns" thrown in. There were not quite 12 baskets full left for the Fillmore correspondent of the Centre Democrat and Paul Shaffer, of Bellefonte were there. We were not there but by the aid of wireless telephony we thought we heard the Fillmore correspondent sing a "soto voce" as he wearily plodded homeward:

A few went there to raise the barn, Some went there to tell big yarns; The girls went there to see their beaux, But I went there to fill my clothes.

Spring Mills.

The thunder storm we had in this part of the valley on Friday last, was very severe, particularly over in Georges valley. The storm appeared to have been in sections, and in each it rained in torrents, accompanied with thunder and lightning of a startling character. The lightning was incessant and very vivid, while the peals of thunder were terrific. The residence of Hiram Cain was struck but with no special damage.

The republicans here are apparently not taking very kindly to the "Me and cousin Samuel" ticket, Eikin was decidedly the choice of the party in this neighborhood, as he evidently was most every place else. A dozen years ago, Boss Quay played the same trick and nominated Delamater against the wishes of the republican party, and the people elected Pattison—history is only repeating itself.

A day or two since, I visited the extensive carriage establishment of J. C. Condo, at Penn Hall, to ascertain what was new and novel in that line, and the condition of the business generally. Mr. Condo informed me that with him business was never better, and that his sales are greatly in advance of last year. He kindly escorted me through each department of the works. The stock room looks like a general store, next was the paint room and then the varnishing department, this room is air tight to exclude every particle of dust. In the sales room there were three buggies made to order, and ready for delivery. Mr. Condo's establishment is unquestionably one of the institutions of Penns valley.

Calvin King will take possession of the Spring Mills hotel this week, and then will be known as the village landlord. Mr. King is a very popular gentleman, very capable and the traveling public may rest assured that they will be properly entertained. Mrs. Maggie Ruhl retired from the hotel with the well wishes of the entire community. Her late husband Edwin Ruhl, by close attention to business, with his pleasant and agreeable manners had made the hotel a popular resort and headquarters for commercial agents. Everything was inviting and homelike, and under his able and skillful management was doing a large business. But alas, never again can we behold his smiling face, nor hear that merry laugh, all is hushed, all still, he has bid the good night, and now lies sleeping beneath the church yard sod.

On Saturday the "Young People" had their annual picnic and it was a success. Centre Hall, Linden Hall, Boalsburg, State College and other nearby places were represented. Only invited guests were present. Those from a distance were Annie Royer, Ohio; Mrs. Alf Wieland, Sullivan county, Squire Geo. Meyer kept the large crowd in excellent order. A number of the invited guests were kept away by the inclement weather, but all present had an excellent time. It seemed that all the young ladies had striven to bring the best things to eat. While all were seated Mrs. Jennie Wieland took two views with her camera. We think some of the fair sex shaded their faces and that, no doubt, saved the camera. These pictures can be purchased from Prof. Lomberger. We did have a time! The only wonder was that so much sport could be crowded into one day. But we see the editor shake his head for want of a acre so we must stop. The picnic will be held next June at Shingletown Gap, and all those who were invited back, except those who get married in the meantime; the latter announcement caused the hearts of some to turn into lead and sink. Dear departing friend, we sympathize with you. Come around to our office, just 2 miles west of the "jumping off place" and directly east of no place, and we will tell you more about it.

A LOST GOLD MINE DISCOVERED.

Pasadena, Cal., June 10, 1902.

Some time ago a Bellefonte gentleman wrote me to find for him a "lost gold mine," stating it was near two crests of mountains, as he had read in a Magazine article. Well, I have kept my eye peeled for that locality ever since. Last week I think it was discovered—that is the lost mine. About 7 miles from this place, in one of the mountain canyons, a vein of paying gold ore, some 40 feet in depth, was discovered which promises to make everybody connected with it rich, especially the discoverer who proceeded to at once issue five million in stock which he proposes to sell to an afflicted community—h-c-b already have more ducats than they know what to do with. I am sorry for my Bellefonte friend who did not get in on the 1st floor, but "such is life."

Was over in Los Angeles the other day and run into quite a colony of Bellefonters, one of whom was Walter W. Bayard, the eldest son of Col. Bayard, of your place. Mr. Homer C. Brown was another old Bellefonter. He is chief detective in South Pacific railway office and receives $3,500, yearly salary. He is the oldest son of William Brown whose mother was a sister to Gen. Brislin. William Phillips who learned his trade of tailor in Bellefonte is also doing a fine business. Linn Mullen, a son of James Mullen, is doing a fine business on 4th street below Spring street. The Rhone family are all well. Young Rhone is living in Arizona. William Brown who married James Noonan's sister, has gone east to get cured of a cancer, which is pronounced by Philadelphia physicians to be erysipelas. Upon receiving the news his wife and daughter packed up and went back to Bellefonte.

Last night we had an old fashion eastern thunder storm which frightened the people out of their wits. It is the first they have had here for years. The writer enjoyed it. I can't think of anything more that will interest your Bellefonte readers. D. S. DUNHAM.

Tread on a Snake's Tail. David Pursley and F. J. David were on the mountain above Beech Creek Thursday. While going through a thicket, Mr. Pursley stepped over a log and his foot alighted on something soft. Immediately an ominous rattle was heard. Mr. Pursley could not look down as the bushes were up to his neck, so he made a spring in the other direction. The snake sprang with him. Again his foot came down on the tail of the snake. The reptile darted in and out between the man's legs. Mr. Pursley got out of the reach of the snake as quickly as he could and then killed it. The snake was nearly four feet long and was a black rattler.
